PLACE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS ON THE OUTSIDE OF LETTERS AND PRACELS.

Over 2,000,000 undelivered articles go to the Dead Letter Office every year. Many of these articles would never reach the Dead Letter Office if reasonable care was taken in the addressing of them.

Moreover, in the majority of the cases the senders fail ti put their names and addresses on the outside of the letters and parcels, which means that the articles have to be opened for examination, and in many instances there is no indication of the senders' names and addresses, so that the articles have to be sold.

Therefore, see that your name and address are on the outside of any article that you send in order that if it is undeliverable it may be returned to you promptly and unopened.

GOOD NEWS FOR AILING WOMEN

Much has been said for and against proprietary medicines by the medical profession. It will interest every woman to know that in a rcent country wide canvass of over 121,000 purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as to the results received from its use, the replies received showed that ninety-eight out of every one hundred women had been benefited by its use. Therefore every sick and ailing woman owes it to herself to give this remarkably successful remedy a fair trial.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7. — The members of the Northumberland Regiment Band enjoyed a pleasant social evening last night at the residence of Mrs. C. W. Turner, who was assisted in entertaining her visitors by Mrs. R. T. Cowell. After the regular weekly practice the bandsmen proceeded to Mrs. Turner's home, wheer they spent a most enjoyable evening, their hostesses leaving nothing undone in their arrangements for the entertainment of their guests. The time was spent in social intercourse, games and music, Miss Cherrie Turner rendering several selections on the piano. Excellent records on the gramaphone also formed part of the programme.

Dainty refreshments were served about midnight. Before the gathering broke up Charles H. Davidson and R. C. Cowell, leader of the band, moved a vote of thanks to Mesdames Turner and Cowell for their hospitality and this was enthusiastically carried. Mrs. Turner expressed the pleasure she had experienced in entertaining the band and hoped that upon some future occasion she would welcome them as her guests.

THE DEPOSITORS GET A NEW SHOCK

TORONTO, March 7.—(Canadian Press).—Home Bank Liquidators G. T. Clarkson and I. E. Weldon have thrown a bombshell among the depositors who made large withdrawals of money from various branches on the day before the failure, the day of suspension and even the day after the bank closed its doors.

Every branch of the bank has received definite orders to send information respecting such withdrawals to headquarters as a basis of future action. On the day of the failure telegrams were sent out to all branches, giving instructions to close the doors at the regular time and not re-open until further orders.

Despite these instructions, it is now claimed that in some cases moneys were paid out at more than one branch even on the day after the bank suspended.

One or two managers have stated that they did not receive the messages directed to them, and had no way of knowing of the failure. Telegraph companies are being asked respecting the delivery of all these telegrams and any receipts given for same.

At a number of points there was very little currency on hand when the curator for the Canadian Bankers' Association took charge, and this is regarded as indicating unusual business in the last hours of the Home Bank of Canada.

Action is certain to follow for the recovery of many payments, it is said. In some cases explanations have already been demanded.

CLEAN OFF THE WALKS.

In most sections of Peterborough at the present time the sidewalks of the city are in a deplorable condition, mainly due to the laziness or indifference of householders who have neglected to take advantage of the thaw to clean the winter's accumulation from the pavements.

Here and there there is a dry section in front of the homes of individuals who have some little thought for the comfort of others, but in the main the conditions are intolerable.

Women with baby carriages and pedestrians generally have to take their choice of wading through the slush or of walking out on the roadway and being bespattered by the dirty water thrown up by passing motor cars.

A general effort to deal with the situation would speedily end the nuisance.

If each householder would spend a few minutes in using the shovel and the scraper the pavements would be quickly cleared and pedestrian traffic would be able to move in comfort.

There is no reason why the present conditions should have to be tolerated when the remedy is so available and so simple.

SOLDIER FARMERS.

Of all the efforts made by Canada to ensure the successful re-establishment of returned soldiers none has been marked by such splendid results as the farm scheme carried on by the Soldiers' Settlement Board, which from its launching has shown itself capable of the responsible duties with which it was entrusted.

The annual report just tabled in the House of Commons is such as to give keen satisfaction to the people of this country, inasmuch as it reveals the fact that the number of ex-service men at present on farms under the land settlement scheme is the largest since the work began.

Nearly as many soldiers are engaged in farming as crossed the Atlantic in Canada's first expeditionary force, the total at the end of the last fiscal year being 28,984.

The number increased by 3,541 in the two years ending March 31, 1923.

The report indicates the extent of the work, showing that in one year the value of the crops produced by 18,216 soldiers, only on whose farms it was possible to collect data, was $15,966,202.67, and the value of the live stock held by them was $13,398,397.40.

While the soldier farmers have naturally suffered from the conditions which have created such a problem for farmers generally, it is gratifing to know that they are holding their own, for the report shows that the number who have been forced to give up their efforts has been steadily diminishing.

The Examiner feels that in this department of re-establishment Canada is far in advance of any of the nations engaged in the World War.

WINTER BUILDING.

Canadians should be interested in the fact that the campaign carried on in the United States during the summer of 1923 with the object of encouraging building operations during the winter months has been in a large measure successful.

According to the monthly publication of the National Bank of New York, the present winter has witnessed record-breaking activity in the construction industry.

The value of contracts let since October has been considerably larger than during the same period of any previous year.

Moreover, it has been found that while the need of protecting concrete and masonry, etc., and providing for the comfort of the workers added something to the cost, this increase was more than compensated for by the saving made possible through the greater ease in securing labour and the consequent reduction in the expenditure for overtime and bonuses.

Interest was also saved on capital already invested in the projects by expediting their completion, and materials were often secured at lower prices, not to speak of the advantage of better and speedier deliveries.

These points are worthy of the attention of Canadian builders and of the general public.

As a rule there is a complete surrender to winter on this side of the line, and there is little attempt to carry on building operations.

The United States experiment, coupled with the experience of the firm which carried on the erection of the Mount Royal Hotel in Montreal during the winter months, goes to show that the possibilities of greater constructional activity in the cold weather might profitably be investigated.

GOLF, BASEBALL, AND WORK.

Mr. John McGraw, whom many Americans rank among the ten greatest of their countrymen, fathers the disturbing new doctrine that golf shouldn't be allowed to interfere with work, says the Ottawa Journal. The particular kind of work that Mr. McGraw has in mind is baseball, but his theory is equally applicable to all sorts of drudgery, and we can see that it's going to cause a devil of a rumpus. In the first place it absolutely reverses one of the most fundamental beliefs of the golfer, to wit: "If golf interferes with work, then thumbs down for work." McGraw says that the physical contortions necessary to hit a screaming midiron shot may leave one hopelessly impotent before Mr. Babe Ruth, and that he doesn't want his hired men sitting around where their real work is eternally mouthing golf. That, to our mind, is a serious statement. For what on earth will happen to most of us if other employers of labor become infected with the notions of McGraw? What if it becomes universally accepted that proficiency with a niblick is no credential for efficiency with a ledger, and that an expanding girth is a certain hall-mark of an expanding business? We almost shudder at the thought; and it behoves golfers to be up and stirring in defence of their creeds.

Meanwhile, we predict that Mr. McGraw will vastly enlarge his popularity. Heretofore the small boy, the sporting editors, the peanut vendors, and the baseball enthusiasts have hailed him as ranking with Buffalo Bill and Babe Ruth. Now we can see a million American golf widows falling upon his neck and vowing he's more adorable than Mr. Rudolph Valentino.

"ECONOMY WEEK"—AND WEAKNESS.

In the primitive Christian church days festivals were set aside for the saints and patriarchs, bishops and confessors until every date in the calendar had its quota of the elect. The custom has continued until it is almost as difficult for an honored life to find place on the scroll of days as it is for the great dead of Britain to find resting room in Westminster Abbey.

In these times of business efficiency the pious lives of the beatified are not always remembered, but the underlying idea of these days of observance is harnessed for utilitarian ends. The Western Provinces, where moves for uplift and mutual improvement for lyceums and chatauquas flourish so amazingly, days and weeks of civic observance make a special appeal. The latest campign to be trumpeted in the West is "National Economy Week" and for some time past the newspapers, ably seconded by the orators, have been advertising the necessity for economy in national, Provincial, municipal and personal expenditures. With a worthy self-denial these westerners have deprived themselves of sugar and marmalade, eaten the hard crusts and turned out the lights at an earlier bed-time. Nimble wits have thought up new schemes for paring dimes from the family budget, and it was even suggested that the paving of Main street should not be extended any further into the prairies.

Then somebody said "Hudson Bay" and the bubble burst. Somebody else followed this up with some cryptic words about extension of the Goose Lake line and finally the bottom dropped out of the Economy Week when someone whispered a word about letting the contract for the bridge over Mud Creek. It is a different thing to save your own bawbees from cheeseparing in expenditure when "the Goernment" pays the piper. For the money in one's purse is money saved or money earned, while if you can only dip down into the public treasury, you can get the other fellow to do the paying.

So the despised East, which looked with approbation on the wave of economy that passed over Saskatchewan, turns its smile of benevolence to bitterness as Western Canada again talks of renovating the streak of rust to the Hudson Bay and criss-crossing the Province with branch lines of railway to aid the settler and incidentally the voter. The East has been the milch cow so long for the flashy schemes of the speculator and the promoter that it is growing tired of the process. Of the debt of Canada today no less than $600,000,000 represents investments for which no return is received and for which there is no expectation that interest will ever be paid. These are the bad debts of past Governments, the guarantees for railway bonds that the Dominion would of course "never be called upon to pay," but which she has had to meet.

Today these champion economists, these boosters of National Economy Week are urging the Government to spend many millions more to milk the old Eastern cow before she kicks up her heels and overturns the pail.

The West is quite willing to economize if it can get the Government to give it a few hundred millions to economize with. Not even the Egyptians could make bricks without straw, and who can conduct a national economy week without plunging their hands into the national exchequer?—Montreal Star.

THE RETIRED FARMER.

Two men were coming down the London, Huron and Bruce, getting on at Lucan Crossing. They had evidently come from some point west of that. "There are too many retired farmers in the place, and all they think about is keeping down the taxes, and that stops us from getting ahead in the way other places are doing. They wouldn't stand for a loan to a new factory or anything like that." And so on it went.

Take the case of the retired farmer, then, and consider it. He has worked hard for years, saving a little each year, looking forward to the day when he would not be able to carry on as he had during his best working years. He finally arrived at the stage where he was through with his hard work, and he moved to town. There was nothing else for him to do. He has probably got a place with a good-sized back yard, and it may be that if his son has taken possession of the farm he can get some of his produce there.

All went well for a few years; he had his money on first mortgages or in some other place where it brought in a steady but conservative income. If he had $10,000 when he retired he probably had an income of $500 or $600 per year, and with careful living in pre-war days he was able to get along on that and enjoy the rest he had worked for so many years.

But with the increase in values that has been so marked in recent years his lot has changed. He finds that the income he had is not nearly as potent as it was; his dollar will not do the work it did, and his income is not sufficient to keep him without cutting into his principal, and if he does that he lowers his income. He can do nothing to help himself; his earning days are over, and he finds that in town there are very few places where an old man can get a chance to work.

He has, by trying to make provision for his old age, made it certain that he will not become a charge on the state, and for that he must be given credit; he does not come in for relief from the unemployment funds or work. He has no alternative but to cut down as much as he can in order to make his means spin out for the rest of his years.

The fact that farmers were able to retire at one time was one of the best things that could be said for Canadian agriculture; there are very few of them, under present conditions and present returns from their line of business, who will be able to retire in their old age; they will have to keep on going. It would be better for the whole country if conditions were such that the farmer of today could once more look forward to the time when his earnings would be sufficient to allow him to retire. It is a short-sighted view that seeks to label the retired farmer a burden on the community because he finds himself caught between a fixed income and a soaring expenditure.—London Advertiser.

Canada ships a large number of animals to United Kingdom and must protect that trade.

Mrs. David Thompson, West River St., Paris, Ont., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For myself and children I use nothing else.

My little girl, five years old, has had bronchial trouble ever since she had the "flu" a few years ago, and, now, whenever she gets a slight cold she develops a very nasty cough, but all I have to do is to give her a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Also for myself, and the other children, I can find nothing to equal it, in fact, it was only a short time ago that I gave it to my ten months old baby, and could immediately see the difference it made in her. Now, I always keep Norway Pine Syrup in the house, as I feel there is nothing to equal it."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 6.—Commission men say that it is difficult to compare prices with last week. In cases 25 to 35 cents a cwt. more has been paid, while in others it is said that there have been reductions in some loads of butchers. The best judgment seems to be steady to firm prices at the quoted figures. There was a load of rough Western feeders on sale this morning. These were priced at about 4½ cents a pound. A number of good heavy bulls were taken for export from 4¼ to 4¾ cents a pound.

Contrary opinions are given of the state of the calf market. Packers' buyers call the market at $2 a cwt. below the best of last week, but one astute buyer cites a sale at 12 cents on Wednesday and says the right kind of calf will bring 12 cents. Two good calves, but not choice, sold at 11 cents this morning and others at 10½ cents. Medium calves are 9 cents and common around 7 cents.

There was no market in sheep and lambs and sellers are not expecting much if any change here.

Hog receipts were only half of that of last week and the week closes steady at $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b. Any change from this will be governed by the deliveries from now on.

The Assets of the Mutual Life Have Grown to $59,727,388

THE fifty-fourth annual report of the Mutual Life of Canada, just issued, shows an increase of $6,121,757 in assets for the year 1923.

In 1901 the total assets of the Company, founded in 1869, amounted to $3,749,156.

Thus we see that in this last one year alone the strength of the Company, as shown by its assets, has greatly increased, and that it is enlarging very rapidly year by year its "sphere of influence".

The longer the Mutual Life continues to serve, the greater becomes its ability to serve.

Let our agent explain the strength of Mutual Life insurance. Write to us for literature.

DUMMER TOWNSHIP COUNCIL MEETING

Cattle By-Law Was Not Passed By the Council.

Minutes of the third meeting of the municipal council of he Township of Dummer, held at Warsaw on Friday, 29th day of February, 1924.

Members present: Reeve James R. Hawthorne, Coun. Drain, Hamblin, Kelly and Baptie.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and signed.

On motion of Coun. Drain and Kelly, the council granted Charles Calder leave to install a gas tank on the street in front of his store.

On motion of Coun. Hamblin and Baptie the following accounts were paid. Alex. Rose, registration of birth, marriages and deaths, $18.25; John Payne, 21 days as road overseer, $78.75; Municipal World supplies, 89c; Mrs. Lewis Drain, supplies, $13.64.

Mr. James Robertson presented a petition asking the council not to pass the bylaw prohibiting cattle from running at large.

Owing to this petition being signed by a much larger number of ratepayers than the petition asking that such a bylaw be passed, the council did not pass the bylaw.

The clerk read two applications received from persons tendering their services with engine to operate the road machinery. It was decided by the council to receive applications for the same to be considered at the next council meeting.

The telephone commissioners met with the council to make some arrangements for the settlement of the loan, advance by bank through the council to the commissioner.

After consideration as to whether it would be better to issue debentures for the period of ten years on the subscribers or for the loan to be carried by the council, it was agreed that the council will carry the loan, on the guarantee of the commissioners to retire at least one third of the loan this year.

UTILITIES COMMISSION DISCUSS COUNCIL ORDER

Declares Facts About Power Consumption of One Firm Should Not Be Given a Competitor -Order Emanated from Manufacturers' Committee.

ASK INVESTIGATION

The Manufacturers' committee of the City Council resolved: "That this committee recommend that Mr. W. R. Morris be requested to procure for the council a copy of the power accounts of the Peterborough Cereal Company, the Campbell Flour Mills Company and the Maple Leaf Milling Company, rendered by the Peterborough Utilities Commission from October 1, 1918 to January 31, 1924, inclusive, and that that commission be notified that Mr. Morris has been appointed by this council to examine their books of revenue accounts and to procure this information."

The Peterborough Utilities Commission resolved: "That the City Council be advised that this commission does think that the information to be derived by the City Council resolution can serve no good purpose, but will give access to the Campbell Milling Company's private business to all members of the City Council, one of whom is chairman of the committee from which the resolution emanated and also manager of the Peterborough Cereal Company, a competitive business, and that this commission in the face of the above facts recommend that the Campbell Milling Company be given a copy of the information obtained by the City Council, and further, that since Mr. Meyers is alleged to have suggested a discrimination in the rates charged, this and the amount of power used be also investigated and that this information be not withheld from the newspapers." .. ..

The first resolution, which was passed by the Manufacturers' committee and adopted by the City Council on Monday, was presented at a meeting of the Utilities Commission called specially yesterday morning to deal with the matter. In opening the discussion Robt. Hicks, chairman of the commission, said it has no power in the matter, the City Council having authority to demand all the information they require. "While we may not agree on the principle—and our stand is purely on principle—we must submit," he continued. "We will afford every facility to Mr. Morris to get all information in this matter and he will be given full access to every account and all information to which the City Council is entitled."

E. F. Mason: "We don't protest against this investigation, because it is a public affair, but I can't see why privileged information of one firm should be given another."

Mr. Hicks: "It is most glaring in this instance, in my opinion, giving information of a firm's private business to its competitor."

Was Discussed in 1922.

The commission was informed from its diary and correspondence files of previous discussion of this subject ,Mr. Meyers, president of the Peterborough Cereal Company and now chairman of the Manufacturers' committee, the records showed, applied to the commission two years ago and was furnished all information the commission had available in an effort to show him the charges made to the several milling companies were equitable.

Mr. Hicks remarked that in his opinion the city council was not aware of the general effect of the resolution which they adopted on Monday.

Mr. Mason: "It is apparent that some member of the Manufacturers' committee has made some statement that led the other members to think the Peterborough Cereal Co. had been charged a much higher rate than its competitors."

Mr. Hicks: "I did hear that Mr. Meyers had made the statement that he believed the Campbell Flour Mills was paying $6 a horse power while he was paying $18."

Mr. Mason: "If such conditions exist it is the duty of the city council to have a thorough investigation, and the other companies should have the information as well. They should be all treated alike."

Mr. Hicks: "If they break down our policy and set up a new one it should be made equitable and the Peterborough Cereal Company should be asked to give the same information to the Campbell Flour Mills."

H. O. Fisk: "Mr. Meyers complained he was not fairly treated in his power account and we did all we could to prove everything correct, even suggesting we would test his meters if he would pay the cost if they were found correct. He declined. He has his own checking instruments and they agreed with ours essentially. He seemed very desirous of obtaining the exact monthly account of the other milling company, so much so that it became patent to us that was what he wanted. He applied through a law firm in Toronto to get the information from the Hydro, when we refused to give him the figures .L. G. Ireland wrote to us saying Mr. Meyers' legal advisers expressed the opinion that the Maple Leaf Milling Company paid $250 a month and he thinks they should pay $600. The assertion was also made on behalf of Mr. Meyers that either discrimination is being made in favor of the Maple Leaf Company or the meters are not recording equally."

Mr. Fisk said the Hydro officials in Toronto assured him they did not intend giving any information to Mr. Meyers' solicitors and would not be a party to disclosing the private business of any form to a competitor. As a result of the information given by Mr. Fisk, the Hydro chief engineer wrote Messrs. Vondervoort, O'Connel, Gallivan and Vandervoort, Mr. Meyers' Toronto solicitors, the following letter: 'Subsequent to your call of a few days ago we have obtained considerable information from the Peterboro Utilities Commission regarding the suggestion of discrimination between the Peterborough Cereal Company and the Maple Leaf Milling Company. We can now state to you positively that the rate which these two customers are billed at is exactly the same, and that the meters at the Maple Leaf Milling Company have been checked and found to be correct."

No Discrimination.

We can also inform you that there is a wide diversity between the operating conditions in the two mills and in conclusion we can assure you that this commission is perfectly satisfied that there is no discrimination whatever and that both of these customers are being billed strictly in accordance with the standard rates and conditions and neither is being favored in any particular."

Mr. Mason: "That is very definite."

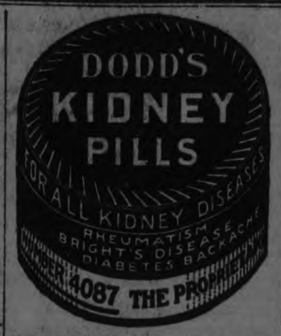
Mr. Fisk: "To give that information is a breach of business etiquette."

Mr. Hicks: "It is bad ethics. A private company would protect its accounts and the public should have the same privilege under public ownership. It's simply one member of the city council using his position to get information about his competitor."

Mr. Hicks remarked that he had been talking the matter over with Mr. Bradburn who considered the principle important. He had expressed the opinion that it should be drawn to the attention of the City Council.

"We have nothing here we are not willing to have investigated by the City Council," Mr Hicks continued, "but we do object to one company having access to the private business details of any other. This commission invites the fullest investigation of its accounts, but if we let them get away with this—and I know that there are a number on the City Council charged with the idea that there are discrimination—it would have a very adverse effect.. We are not holding back publicity in any way in any public business. Our resolution simply means that we are not willing to give private business information to a firm's competitor. We have done everything in our power to please Mr Meyers but he won't be satisfied with anything but the Campbell Flour Mills account. We have to give the information, and we are glad to give it, but we are sorry to see it used for that purpose."

Mr. Mason: "If this is done every competing firm might come in and demand full information of its competitors' business. If Mr. Meyers had wanted to check up he could have gone to the Campbell Flour Mills and they would have told him what they were paying per horse power."



P. C. I. Stunt

Something new and entirely different in the way of form staunts was staged by III B, a boys' form, for the programme of the P. C. I. Literary Society held on Tuesday afternoon.

This stunt, as did the previous stunts, took the form of a charade in three acts. The word was "Dumbell" and the syllable "dumb" was featured in the first act, "bell" was acted in the second, while the whole word was nicely worked out in the final scene.

The boys put a great deal of "pep" in their acting and the whole play was run off without a dull moment. The actors seized the opportunity and got of many "wisecracks" at the expense of some of the celebrities of the school. The chorus was good and their were some clever parodies sung, the best being to the one to the tune of "Gallagher and Shean" that finished the show.

The acting was well done. Harold Coulthard formed a really "vampy" duchess. Gliddon Nichels, Stanley Hunter, W. Sutton and H. Cole's efforts stood out. Alden Bookhout caused a stir as "Jimmy—The Dancer."

The whole show was a real treat and will certainly add to the difficulties of the judges division.

"The Tanlac Treatment Made Me Look and Feel a Different Man" Says Petro.

"The Tanlac treatment has made me look and feel like a different man," is the positive statement of H. G. Petro, well known citizen of Okotoks, Alberta, Canada.

"Before taking Tanlac I was sorely troubled with indigestion, gas bloating and a tightness in my chest that made me short of breath. My appetite was gone, my circulation poor, and headaches and dizzy spells would strike me most every day. I also had a bad swelling in my leg. "Three bottles of Tanlac put me in A-1 condition in every way. I have a rousing appetite, sleep like a log and am rid of all my troubles, even the swelling in my leg. Incidentally I have gained so much weight that I am too big for the clothes I wore before taking Tanlac, and am feeling fine. You can't beat Tanlac."

THE ART AND STUDY CLUB

A meeting of the Art and Literature Study Club of the Women's Association was held on Tuesevening at the home of Mrs. J. McCulloch, Charlotte Street, with an attendance of twenty of the members. The subject under discussion was the German school of art. Mrs. D. Carmichael gave a paper on Albrecht Durer, Miss Marion Adams spoke on Hans Holbein, Miss Beatty's paper was concerned with the wood-carving of the period when these two masters flourished, and Mrs. J. M. McCulloch took up in an interesting fashion the various forms of pictorial art.

A review of the life of both painters was given. Albrecht Durer was described as being a man of very fine character and strong personality, discernible in his work, which was typical of the lighter coloring of the more northern climes. As the art of painting progressed towards colder temperatures, it was found that the vivid hues of the South diminished, the scarlets of the sunnier regions giving place to lighter pinks. Durer was an engraver on copper and wood, and was instrumental in promoting learning among the masses, by the fact of circulating amongst the poorer people of his day excellent carvings, principally of religious subjects. Although he was not by any means a man of business, he had a wife who was a very good business woman.

Hans Holbein was the last of the great portrait painters of his time, his vogue preceding that of Turner and Gainsborough in the following century. He excelled in portrait work and in the reproduction of textures on canvas. He was also a master of the wood-cut art. Going to live in England, he became the court painter of Henry the Eighth. Among his masterpieces are included "The Dance of Death," "The Ambassadors," and portraits of Jane Seymour and Anne of Cleves.

Miss Beatty's paper dealt with the wood-carving of the period, and Mrs. J. M. McCulloch defined the different styles of art, which are really a language of expression of various times, and portray the qualities of heart and imagination of their creators. Art finds its outlet in music, poetry and painting. The various forms of the latter, including painting in oil and water color mediums, work in pen and ink, monochromes, pastels and sepias, etchings, engravings and wood carvings, were considered. The worker in oil used the medium which expressed the deepest sentiments, the water-color artist's work was of a lighter and more graceful nature, incapable of expressing profound emotion, while etchers and engravers alike could express themselves in their work.

Stink Bomb Starts Wild Scramble In Czecho's Teapot Dome Scandal

BERLIN March 7. United Press. —An indignant member of the Czecho-Slovakia Parliament has voiced his opinion of Czecho-Slovakias' only little Teapot Dome scandal by hurling a stink bomb at the premier, according to despatches from Prague.

Charges that high officials of the Ministry of Defence are involved in a plot to buy gasoline from a Roumanian Company at 50 per cent. above the market price, have caused a storm of excitement. Fourteen persons are under arrest, including three officials.

The Premier tried to explain the situation to Parliament on Thursday. "Post-war developments everywhere have shaken the peoples' morale," he said. The Communists interrupted with shouts of "corruption." The chamber rang with demands that the Premier resign.

Amid the tumult a deputy threw the stink bomb. The Premier caught it deftly, studied it for a moment, and realizing its sinister significance, angrily threw it back. Deputies scrambled for possession of weapon. An agrarian secured it and started to throw it into the Communist benches. It burst in his hands.

With the chamber flooded with gases that were none too pleasant, the session was held up until the atmosphere leared.

SIX HUNDRED SPANISH TROOPS ARE PRISONERS

LONDON, March 7. United Press. —Six hundred Spanish troops have been captured by the Riffian rebels in Morocco. The men were captured at Tizzissia, where the rebels have broken the Spanish lines. Four airplanes were also taken.

Kaid Ali Benamor, who recently arrived in North Africa from the United States, is commanding the Riffians, according to the despatches to the Daily Mail.

PROCLAMATION OF A REPUBLIC IN PERSIA

MOSCOW, March 7. United Press —The demand for the proclamation of a republic in Persia is increasing according to Teheran despatches to the Rosta agency.

The advocates of a republic favor the use of legal methods. Almost the entire Persian press supports the Republican move. Rumors are current in Teheran that the Parliament intends to discuss the question.

HON. PETER SMITH DEFENDS HIMSELF

TORONTO, March 7. — Canadian Press. — Hon. Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, declares that he has "nothing to hide" and is prepared to come before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature and defend himself against the charge of his successor, that the Province of Ontario was "milked" by a blind bond company during the Drury regime.

"The charges of Mr. Price are very vague," declared Mr. Smith. "The Hearst government issued all bonds that were succession duty free. We decided to buy them in, and set the maximum price that we said we would pay for these bonds. Our way of figuring was this—and I have backing for this statement—the bonds were worth more to us than they were to anybody else.

"I would not say that we paid as much as anybody else, as we paid to the Provincial Securities Company, but we bought from dozens and dozens of people. Other people had agents in London buying up these bonds. That is what caused the increase in price.

"What was the total issue of these bonds?"

"Off-hand, I think it was $25,000,000."

Former Premier Drury, Hon. Manning Doherty and other former members of the Drury Cabinet now in the House, declared that they had never heard of the Provincial Securities Company, the concern which Provincial Treasurer Price characterized as a blind bond house, which milked the Drury Government."

In an interview last night Mr. Drury said: "The question of how the bonds were purchased never became a Cabinet matter. It was all worked out solely as a departmental matter. The bonds were bought wherever they could be bought. They were not listed on the open market. I know nothing of the Provincial Securities Company."

LUDENDORFF TRIAL IS DRAGGING ALONG

MUNICH, March 7. — (United Press).—The trial of General Ludendorff, Adolf Hitler and others for treason was resumed to-day, after Defence Attorney Kohl had apologized for the utterances which caused the prosecutor dramatically to break off the hearing Thursday.

The Judge warned that a repetition of the offence might endanger the defence's case, and said he desired the case continued without unpleasantness. A minor witness was examined. The former Bavarian dictator, Von Kahr, was ready to go on the stand.

CHAPTER XII

Miss Dale, To Her Mirror

"You are cruel, Jinny! As cruel as you are beautiful!"

Young Traymore's voice had the low, vibrant note that seldom in the past had failed to touch her.

'Crocodile pathos', she called it now, with a certain charity of vision that recent events had brought about.

"I'm not cruel. 'Whereas I was blind, now I see,'" she quoted.

"See what?"

"More than you think, my friend." An enigmatic little smile flickered at the corners of her lips. "I use my eyes—"

"To deadly purposes. They're the loveliest eyes in the world, Jinny. I'll never forget the first time you turned 'em on me . . . clean bowled me over.."

"Oh you made a pretty good recovery," she retorted, unperturbed. "You've looked into lots of other eyes since then, and found a heap of charm in them. But what I mean to say is that I see more than you give me credit for, and I know what's going on, sub rosa. You can't run with the hare and hunt with the hounds."

He had to smile at that. There was something like a frightened little hare about Miss Prudence, and Virginia had hounded her . . . or at least attempted to . . . on the day of the memorable garden-party when he'd found the shy country maiden almost on the verge of tears!

Aloud he said:

"I'm sure I don't know what you mean."

"Oh, no, you wouldn't. The Bert Traymors of this world make a point of never seeing anything that's unpleasant."

At that, he leant towards her, one hand laid on hers.

"Buck up, Jinny girl! Haven't you always been first with me? And don't you flirt to beat the band, yourself, whenever the spirit moves you? Then why be down on a chap because he's had a . . . a sort of spring interlude . . ."

"Spring madness, eh?"

He laughed uncomfortably.

"Oh, not as bad as that. She's only a kid, Jinny. She's years younger than either you or me."

Oh, fatal blunder! Years younger? Had he really guessed, then? She'd have a long, long look in the glass to-night and woe betide Annette, her maid, if she hadn't got lots of the new cream ready, and the ice ordered from the village, and the things from town!

"I'm still in my early twenties, and can't pose as a Methusaleh," she said, with an angry simper, "though, personally, I fail to see or understand this flapper fascination that's come over you."

"Come, don't be foolish, Jinny." Young Traymore slipped a cajoling arm about her waist. "You're so bright and amusing that you beat all the flappers in the world—"

Insult to injury! Had she reached such an age, then, that her sole charm was flippancy of mind and agile wits?' Good heavens!

'"It's ill becomes an old lady like myself to be coquetting in the moonlight with a Don Juan!" She released the clutch, and the car started forward. "No—stop philandering, Bert—I'm tired, and want to get my beauty sleep."

To his protestations she was deaf and dumb. A good thing to tantalize him! The fish one almost caught, but hadn't, was the one a man would rave about for weeks! It was time Bert was brought to his senses, and understood her value.

"You've changed to me, ever since that Peter Armstrong fellow started fussing over you," said Traymore sulkily. He was in a mood for dalliance, and women didn't generally refuse his overtures.

Virginia's eyes widened.

"Peter Armstrong? Fussing over me?" (How too ridiculous! The boot had been upon the other foot!)

"Well, wouldn't any chap fuss over you, who had a chance? And, if what a little bird tells me is true, you've given him several chances lately."

The girl laughed, and tossed her head. "You mean when I took tea with him in his cottage, and another time we did an experiment together?"

Traymore nodded grimly.

"If you experiment too far, you'll bring the whole show down about your ears. Remember, Delilah, young lady, and go easy!"

"He's a very brawny Samson, anyhow."

She felt brighter now, though her quondam sweetheart still looked sulky.

"He'd be all the better of a hair-cut, though I don't want to see you in the role of lady-barber."

"Oh, I admire him awfully." She stepped upon the brake as the front door appeared in view, and the little car drew up with a grinding sound. "Run the machine around to the garage for me, Bert. I'm going in."

She ran lightly up the steps, across the spacious hall, and was thankful that no one was about. Once in the haven of her own room, she wanted adequate time for meditation.

The looking-glass had been her friend for years. It surely wasn't going back on her now, when most particularly she wanted reassurance!

Virginia found the push-button, and switched on the light. It flooded her pretty bedroom with a rosy radiance. She crossed the floor to the long cheval-glass which had an electric lamp on either side of it, and turned them on.

What did she see?

A slender figure in 'correct' country clothes that had cost a pretty penny. A classically 'correct' face, with regular features, and complexion that—especially in this kindly light—looked perfect.

But . . . only herself would Miss Virginia ever have harbored such a thought! . . . hadn't a certain 'deviliness' departed? Wasn't there a calculating hardness in the eyes and in the set of the perfectly-modelled mouth? When she was tired or despondent ,too, it 'sagged', marring its beauty, so that Annette's clever fingers had to coax the lines away with the new kind of cream that was so excellent for face massage, and worked wonders . . .

Oh, no trouble was too great if the queer, restless feeling in her bosom was a true one . . . and at last, after all her years of fickleness . . . at last . . . she loved a real man . . . worthy of a woman's passionate devotion . . .

"If Peter Armstrong will but let me win him, I'll know happiness I've never known before." said Miss Virginia to the lovely image in the looking-glass.

THE ANNUAL MEETING CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, which will be represented by the Director, Dr. H. L. Brittain, of Toronto, on Tuesday evening next, has been established during the past few years for the specific purpose of investigating the taxation problem confronting the Canadian public. From time to time circulars have been issued to the members of the Institute, including the Peterboro Chamber of Commerce, analyzing the various modes of taxation by municipalities, provinces and the Dominion.

One of the circulars contains a synopsis of what the turnover tax is, which in a great number of business circles is advocated to replace the stamp receipt and sales tax.

Dr. H. L. Brittain, in addressing the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday evening at the Empress Hotel, will bring home all the facts necessary to show through economy and business management taxes can be reduced.

Sap Is Running In Maple Trees

WOODSTOCK, March 7.—(Canadian Press)—The tapping of Maple trees with good run of sap is reported from the vicinitiy of Gobles, just east of Woodstock. Sap running during the first week of March is decidedly unusual and is considered a sure indication of an early Spring.

GASOLINE SAVING AS IT IS REPORTED

An automobile owner who was a "bug" on fuel saving put a new-fangled carburetor on his car. It was guaranteed to save 20 per cent. on gasoline. Next he added special spark plug that were good for another 20 per cent. To save another 20 per cent. an intake super-heater was put on. Then the crankcase was filled with an oil that would add 20 per cent. more. Next he installed a patented rear axle good for 20 per cent. and finally equipped the old bus with high-pressure "cores" that would bring another economy of 20 per cent. Now that he has a fuel economy of 120 per cent. it is necessary for him to stop every 100 miles and drain the gasoline tank to stop it from overflowing.—Detroit Motor News.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, March 6—Northumberland and Durham Counties' Apple Growers' Association assembled at Trenton last week for their annual convention. The meeting was held in affiliation with that of the annual convention of the Ontario Fruit Growers, and the result was a fine array of speakers and an excellent and profitable gathering. Last year's officers were re-elected as follows: President, A. A. Colwell, Newcastle; Vice-President, J. G. Waite, Wicklow; Sec.-Treas., H. Sirrett, Brighton; Board of Directors, W. H. Gibson, Newcastle; W. I. Bregg, M.P.P., Bowmanville; G. A. Stephens, Bowmanville; E. H. Wertin, Port Hope; A. D. Maybee, D. MacDonald and P. C. Dempsey, Trenton.

The President, Vice-President and Secretary were appointed representatives to attend the meeting of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association in Toronto.

Newcastle was decided upon as the next place of meeting.

Buy Hardier Stock.

Mr. M. B. Doris, chief assistant Division of Horticulture, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, spoke on 'The Selection of Suitable Nursery Stock and the Pruning and Care of Young Apple Trees." Mr. Doris advised buying hardier stock and suggested Russian varieites. In pruning he advised orchardists to centralize the growth of their trees, in order to prevent them growing to too great a height. This may be accomplished by pruning trees at the tops and forcing right-angled shoots. He made his address practical by the use of slides, which showed the trees at different periods of growth and methods of pruning.

Experimental Farm Wanted.

At the opening of the afternoon session Mayor Fraser extended his official welcome on behalf of the Corporation of Trenton. The president, Mr. A. A. Colwell told of endeavors made by the association to have an experimental farm established by the government in this district. The committee who had interviewed the Provincial government, had received encouragement and promises from the Prime Minister that he would try to do what was in his power to have a farm established in this district.

May Exhibit at Royal Winter Fair.

Mr. F. B. Loockin, Newcastle, a former president of the association, suggested that the Northumberland and Durham Fruit Growers be represented by exhibits at the Royal Winter Fair. President Colwill thought the suggestion a good one and hoped the Exhibit committee might do something along that line.

Practical Points in Apple Growing.

Mr. P. A. Fisher, of Burlington, said farmers were fast coming to depend upon their orchards than the farm for the sustenance of life. He advised planting the Spy, Snow and MacIntosh varieties almost entirely. These, he said, have the largest demand and command the best prices. He also emphasized the necessity of growing high grade apples. Government statistics show the district had a large majority of No. 3 grade apples. The only way to keep your apples of a high grade is by spraying and by cultivation.. Mr. Fisher gave much useful advice. He said that where the most of orchardists fall down in their spraying operations is by using the old-fashioned hand-barrel. The only way to obtain results is by the use of a high-pressured machine, by which the trees will receive a thorough spraying.

Use of Fertilizer.

Professor F. C. Bradford, of the Michigan Agricultural College, spoke on the proper and improper use of fertilizer. He spoke of it as a substitute for cultivation. It assists the length of growth, the size of the fruit, aids a tree to bear every year, increases the number of spurs and thus of fruit buds. Asked as to the quantity of nitrate that should be used for trees, Prof. Bradford replied: "Five pounds of the fertilizer to a tree applied about two weeks previous to blossoming time," he found, gave the best results. Mr. Fisher gave this caution, however: "Never use fertilizer when a tree is already full grown and is giving its full productivity."

Shipping and Marketing.

Mr. James E. Johnson, of Simcoe, gave the grower many suggestions in regard to the shipping and marketing of apples in Great Britain. The speaker was in charge of the Dominion's Imperial Export Exhibit last year and gave much good advice. He advised the shipping of Golden Russets, Greenings, New Tom Pippen, Baldwin, King, Crenbury, Pippin as being among the best apples for the British market. He impresed the necessity of sending high grade apples, 80 to 90 per cent number ones, and never anything lower than number 2 grade. Quality counts in England as well as Canada and we must educate to get quanity.

Keeping Down Scab.

Mr. W. A. Ross of the Entomological Laboratory at Vineland, spoke on the big problem of keeping down apple scab, which he said was due to insufficient spraying. He emphasized the need of thorough spraying. In this district the first spray should be applied around fly time, which is the early part of July, and the second application should follow not later than two weeks.

Quality First and Always

So many syrups are being offered in the market today, that great care should be taken in selecting one that is pure and wholesome. Remember, therefore, to specify one of the

Edwardsburg Brands

Ask for CROWN BRAND CORN SYRUP—the first Corn Syrup manufactured in Canada and still the first in quality today.

(Packed in 2 lbs., 5 lbs. and 10 lbs. tins)

if you prefer a heavier Syrup, more closely resembling a Cane Syrup in character and flavour, ask your grocer for our latest product,—BENSON'S GOLDEN SYRUP, in 3 lb. glass jars.

There are no more wholesome or digestible Sweets than these Syrups and children thrive on them; for they both contain a large proportion of the essential food element "dextrose", which, food experts admit, supplies fuel to the body and puts energy into the blood and tissue cells.

WEDDING BELLS

SISSON—BANNAN.

A very pretty but quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bannan of Emily township, on March 5th, when their second daughter, Clarinda Edna was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to James Henry Sisson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sisson of Ida.

The bride entered the room on the arm of her father, looking charming in a gown of radio blue Duchess satin trimmed with silver, and wearing the groom's gift, a handsome rope of pearls.

After the ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Weir, Miss Pearl Bannan and Mr. Mervyn Best signed the registrar. The bridal party and the guests then adjourned to the dining room where a sumptuous dinner was served. The evening was spent in music and other enjoyment.

WHAT THE PACKAGE DOES

Tea growers have found from experience that it is necessary immediately to pack tea in air-tight metal-lined chests, to preserve the flavor and goodness of the leaf. Equally so is an air-tight package necessary for the small lots of tea for individual consumption. Bulk tea is always inferior tea because it is exposed to air. The "SALADA" air-tight aluminum package is the most efficeint way of preserving tea known.

EUCHRE PARTY AT BAILIEBORO

U. F. O. Club Held Social Evening—Roads in South Monaghan Loose and Heavy With Deep Snow.

BAILIEBORO, March 6.— The U.F.O. Club of Cavan and South Monaghan held a successful progressive party in their hall on Monday evening.

There was a splendid crowd present, and it took about twenty tables to accommodate them, while some of the ladies, who did not care to play cards, sat around and chatted.

Misses Sylvina Rutherford, Margaret Wood and Mrs. Andrew Huggins tied for the first prize, and the former won the draw, receiving a book written by Jean Stratton Porter. While Messrs. Dawson Rutherford and Cliff. Hall tied for the gentlemen's prize, the latter winning the draw, which was a lovely pack of cards. The consolation prizes were won by Miss M. Atchison and Mr. F. Andrews.

Lunch was served at midnight, and afterwards Messrs. Evan Stewart and Harold Moncrief provided music for dancing.

The party broke up about 3 o'clock a.m.

A Presentation at Bensfort.

On Friday evening last the young people of Bensfort met together in the hall there, for the purpose of presenting Mr. and Mrs. Norman Watkins with a purse of money.

A very pleasant and sociable evening was spent, Mr. George Morrison read a suitable address, while the purse was presented by Mr. Wilbur Wood, and Mr. Watkins made an appropriate reply. The evening was spent in dancing and refreshments were served during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins have for the past two years been residing on Cow Island, and are moving to the lower end of the township on to the farm recently owned by Mr. Sidney Smith.

Roads Are Heavy.

The majority of the roads are now in a bad condition for travelling on. The soft weather has melted the snow on the tracks where they have been made through the fields, and it leaves the road in a bad condition for hauling heavy loads on. For the past few days there have been some extremely bad pitch holes in the highway. While going to Peterborough last Saturday, one South Monaghan man stated that he counted twenty-nine pitch holes within one mile.

The roads are up so high that for the past two weeks it has been very difficult to turn off the track in order to pass another cutter or sleigh. Good roads are not looked for again this spring as there is such an abundance of snow that there will be so much bare ground in some places, while other places where the snow was deep it will take it a long time to disappear.

Blue Jays Back.

With the warm weather that we have had, there have been no reports of the robin having returned from the south as yet, although the blue jays are back in abundance, and on Wednesday crows were seen flying near the lake shore.

LAJOIE GRILLED BY LAWYERS IN DELORME TRIAL

Detectives Denied Having Ever Heard of Delorme Family Prior to Murder —Court Anxious About Length of Trial.

ACCUSED INTENT.

MONTREAL, March 7.—(Canadian Press).— Detectives Georges Farah Lajoie was bombarded with questions during most of the afternoon session here Thursday of the trial of Rev. Adelard Delorme. The rapid fire cross-examination was conducted by joint counsel for the defence and every phase of Lajoie's research work in connection with the murder was thoroughly investigated, first by R. L. Calder, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, in the morning and early afternoon and afterwards by the defence.

Lajoie became very emphatic when asked several times if he had known any members of the Delorme family before the murder.

"I swear a thousand times," he declared, "that I never knew them; never knew they existed."

Just before the court adjourned, Mr. Justice Martineau expressed anxiety as to the length of the trial. The main evidence of the three detectivs has now been completed, but it took the whole two days.

"This trial will be long," said His Lordship. "We hoped at the start that it would be short, but now we are beginning to be anxious."

Father Delorme took copious notes during the evidence of Detectice Lajoie. He listened intently and several times smiled disdainfully when an answer came from the witness.

MOSLEM WORLD GIVEN INSULT

Abolition of Caliphate Stirs Mohammedans of Berlin to Urge Boycott of Angora Government By True Followers of Prophet.

BERLIN, March 7.—(Canadian Press). — Resolutions denouncing the Turkish Nationalists for abolishing the Caliphate and calling upon the entire Moslem world to establish a commercial and social boycott against the Kemalist Government, were adopted Thursday at a gathering of the entire Islamic community in Berlin, comprising Mohammedans from 41 lands. The meeting was under the chairmanship of Prof. Mohmmed Jabbar Khairs, formerly a member of the faculty of Constantinople University.

The Berlin Mohammedans declare the Kemalist Government is Pan-Turanian and has offered "a direct insult to the whole Moslem world and the beloved messenger of God," in its efforts to build up a Pan-Turanian State. They add that a Pan-Turanian State "is a phantom created by foreign propagandists, especially the Bolshevists, who persuaded the Kemalists to abolish the Caliphate." This is an action the Mohammedans maintain, which could only be taken by the entire Moslem world, and not by twelve million Turanians in Turkestan, Bokhara and Afghanistan, and will create intense indignation, especially in India and Egypt.

EXHAUSTED WOMEN WIN NEW STRENGTH AND NERVE POWER

Quickly Relieve Body Vitality by a Home Treatment Costing Few Cents a Day

Rich, red blood is the driving force of life. If the blood is weak, watery, impure we know nothing of the joys of success and accomplishment that come with abundant strength and nerve power. Red blood feeds the body tissues, nourishes the nerves, makes our systems tingle with the pulsing of life.

Those women, and men as well, who are quickly exhausted, nervous, sleep fitfully and awake unrefreshed, who have not the vital nerve force to succeed and who must have new energy, should think first of their blood.

Nourish the blood. Enrich it. Get from your druggist today a generous size bottle of Wincarnis, the blood builder. Start the Wincarnis home treatment at once. It costs less than ten cents a day. No need to be pale, weak, haggard. Wincarnis will quickly give you new strength, vitality, nerve force.

WOULD ASSIST SCOTCH.

LONDON, March 7. — William Adamson, Secretary for Scotland, has introduced a bill in the House of Commons providing that any parish council in Scotland may make grants to assist in defraying the expenses of any destitute, able-bodied, unemployed person who desires to emigrate. The bill also provides for financial assistance for the dependents of such persons to emigrate.

TABLE LINEN.

TWO CARDINALS FROM AMERICA

ROME, March 7. — Two United States prelates are to be elevated to the cardinalate at a secret consistory to be held on March 24th. They are Archbishop Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago.

This announcement was made at the Vatican yesterday. Pope Pius in giving two additional red hats to the United States was moved by the generous response of the United States people to the appeals for the suffering states of Europe.

The Pontiff for a long time has admired the work of Archbishop Hayes and Archbishop Mundelein.

The Vatican expresses the view that the addition of two new cardinals t othe Sacred College will add strength to the highest church councils, as well as give the United States more even representation both geographically and numerically. It was said that for a long time the Vatican was on the point of deciding to nominate a cardinal from west of the Alleghanies, but that the present move finally fulfilled a proposal that had been held in suspense for many months.

Archbishop Hayes and Archbishop Mundelein are expected to reach Rome on March 17. They will be received by Pope Pius before entering he consistory.

Infection In Small Hollow In Skull Is Similar to Mastoid—London, Ont., Gets Credit.

LONDON, Ont, March 7. — A London doctor has achieved distinction in locating a disease which has baffled X-Ray specialists all over the country. Announcemnt of this comes simultaneously with the appearance of Dr. Harold Wismer and Dr. John Hunt, local specialists as lecturers before the Wayne County Medical Association of Detroit on a disease of the head which Dr. Wismer has after prolonged efforts succeeded in analyzing. It has been given the scientific name of "Sthenbidal sinusitis" and Dr. Wisner has diagonestic method of recovery. The nature of the disease is that of a small hollow place in the skull where an infection sets in similar to that of a mastoid.

Dr. Hunt has been treating a case of this, according to the treatment by Dr. Wismer.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

PADDYFOOT PURR, THE CAT

"If you wish to ride!" he offered.

It was great fun playing king and queen of Beanstalk Land, and Nancy and Nick enjoyed every minute of it.

The real king and queen had gone on a journey to help the people they had been mean to, among other the widow of the dreadful giant Jack had killed. She was left without a cent—not even the golden harp or the hen that laid golden eggs—when Jack ran off with them to the earth. And the king and queen had never bothered their heads about her since.

So Nancy and Nick had sent them to her with all sorts of good things and some money for her old age. They never forgot that she had been so kind to Jack and had warned him that her husband was a bad man, and tried to hide him. It was no fault of hers when the giant smelled him and said "Fe-fi-fo-fum! I smell the blood of an Englishman!"

Besides there were the children of all the giants that Jack-the-Giant-Killer had killed.

The king and queen of Beanstalk Land promised to look after all of them, too, and not return to the palace until it was done.

And in the meantime, as I said before, Nancy and Nick had a gorgeous time.

Paddyfoot Purr, the queen's cat, was very kind to them. Of course, he was quite small, to the giants, but to the Twins he was as big as a camel would be to you or me.

"If you wish to ride!" he offered, "I shall be most happy to take you both on my back any place you wish to go."

"That will be fine!" cried both the Twins together. And so Paddyfoot Purr lay down while they scrambled on, and then rose and walked majestically through the palace and down the steps, while all the court people and the twenty stiff servants in the hall (for they had all come back) bowed nearly to the ground.

"Where to now?" asked Paddyfoot Purr. "Would you like to see the royal goldfish, or the royal mousetraps, or the royal catnip field?"

As he spoke his mouth watered so that he had to lick his whiskers over and over again.

"We're not cats!" laughed Nancy, pulling his ear. "Suppose you take us to the royal sugar-plum store or the royal toy-shop or the movies."

"Ma'am," said Paddyfoot Purr with dignity, "we have no such places in Beanstalk Land. But I shall be glad to show you the flower gardens and fountains and the fine views. But first, If you will pardon me, I shall go 'round to the kitchen door and see if Cook has saved me a herring."

"That's all right," said Nick. "Go any place you want to, Mister Paddyfoot. We'll go right along."

So around to the kitchen door strode Paddyfoot, licking his whiskers at every other step at the thought o the treat he was going to have.

But suddenly, just as he was about to jump up on his favorite garbage can where every day Cook laid a nice dried herring for his dinner, a large mouse ran across their path and into a hole.

Quick as a flash Paddyfoot went after him, forgetting all about his herring and the little passengers on his back.

"Oh!" cried Nancy. "Where are we going?"

"I don't know," shouted Nick. "But hold on tight."

The drain was as dark as a tunnel, except for the gleam of Paddyfoot's eyes.

Your Health

BOTULINUS POISON.

Botulinus poisoning is one of the forms of food poison which often end fatally. It is formed by the action of bacteria on nitrogenous matter. It is found or formed in canned meat, fish and vegetables.

Heat will destroy the bacillus but sometimes the poison will remain and cannot be detected except by expert chemical analysis. This is the real danger from this form of poisoning.

However, no general alarm against the use of canned vegetables is to be sounded. If the housewife is sanitary in her home canning work and will take the time and trouble to boil canned vegetables, such as beans, peas, corn, asparagus and beets for half an hour before serving, the poisoning will be avoided.

In the acid fruits such as peaches, plums, cherries and raspberries, this botulinus poison has practically no danger.

In the commercial products put out by large canning companies there is rarely any danger owing to the extreme care and sanitary conditions under which these products are produced.

There are cases recorded of this food poisoning, where there was no evidence of toxic influence, and others where the food was spoiled and yet had no poisonous effect. One reason for the high death rate from this poisoning is that many physicians are unable to cope with botulism, even after the symptoms have been diagnosed.

The condition brought about by the poisoning is a true intoxication, being formed in the food and absorbed by the gastric-intestinal tract. The toxic condition causes marked thrombus. (———) formations in both arteries and veins with hyperaemia and severe hemorrhages in the meninges (membrances of brain and spinal cord) and central nervous system. Death usually results in from eight to 36 hours.

Every housewife should take the precaution to boil home canned vegetables before eating. It is better to be safe than sorry.

The Tragedy of the Home-made Outfit

DEATH OF WALTER J. FRANCIS

MONTREAL, March 7. — The death occurred suddenly here yesterday afternoon of Walter Joseph Frances, C.E., President of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Mr. Frances had been apparently in his usual good health and was at his office Wednesday. He was in telephonic communication with his office up to 4.45 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at which time he was joking with his assistants, and closed by saying that he was going out for a walk. A call came about an hour later to say that he was dead.

He was born at Toronto on Jan. 28, 1872, and graduated from the University of Toronto in civil engineering. He was engaged on various engineering construction works, including the Toronto Union Station in 1893-96, the hydraulic lift locks on the Trent Canal, and also the canal construction, and was awarded the Gzowski Medal for 1906 by the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers for paper describing two hydraulic lift locks. He carried out considerable hydro-electric construction work on dams, both in the Western provinces and in Quebec.

Mr. Francis was born in Toronto, in 1872, the son of Joseph and Elizabeth Francis, and was educated in Ontario Public Schools, and the Toronto Collegiate Institute. He is an honor graduate, with the degree of C.E., of the University of Toronto, 1893.

After graduation he became assistant to the chief engineer in charge of design and construction, Toronto Union Station. In 1896 he was appointed chief draughtsman on bridge construction with the Central Bridge Engineering Company, where he remained for one year. Subsequently he was engaged with the Department of Railways and Canals, and in that period he designed and was in charge of construction of two hydraulic lift locks on the Trent Canal, one at Peterborough and the other at Kirkfield, for a paper on which he was awarded the Gzowski Medal in 1906. During this year he was in charge of the 32,000 h.p. hydro-electric plant, Bonnington Falls, In 1907, Mr. Francis was assistant manager and chief engineer of the Dominion Engineering and Construction Company, Montreal, as well as engineer to the Royal Commission on the Quebec Bridge disaster. In 1908 he was appointed exclusive writer for "The Engineer," London. In 1909 he reported on various hydro-electric power propositions, including thos, of Campbell ford, Ontario, and North Saskatchewan River, Edmonton. In1910 he reported on public utilities of the city of Edmonton, the Herald building disaster, Montreal, Boxer Building collapse, Montreal, construction of the Don syphon for main sewers city of Toronto hydro-electric and steam plants, city of Quebec, and represented the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers on the committee appointed to revise the bylaws of the city of Montreal.

At the annual meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada, held in Ottawa in January of this year, he was elected president of the society.

EMPLOYMENT OF YOUNG WORKERS.

Southern Cotton Owners Have No Work For Children Under 14.

By ROY J. GIBBONS.

Southern cotton mill owners have found that out.

They say they were taught their lesson during the time the federal child labor law, now defunct, was in force.

Yet they are opposed to a constitutional amendment which would empower Congress to enact new child labor legislation.

Typical of this attitude is the statement by P. E. Glenn, President of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' Association, who says:

"There might once have been a time when the southern textile operator could have been criticized for his employment of very young children.

"But today this operator realizes that children under 14 working in his mill are not profitable investments.

"Under the federal law, which was declared unconstitutional, child workers between 14 and 16 were prohibited from working more than eight hours a day.

"But in the south our children mature much more rapidly.

"Prohibiting them from working until 14 we consider is ample protection."

You'll find plenty of 14-year-old boys and girls in typical southern mill towns whose only glimpse at the sun is through the window of a cotton mill.

In North Carolina armies of sallow-faced little mites are granted legal permission to work 11 hours in a single day and 60 hours a week.

They constitute the proverbial dull Jacks and listless Jills given too much work and too little play.

From cradle to grave their lot has been fixed both by precedent and environment.

Sixty hours of work a week leaves an easily recognizable pallor on the mill child's cheek.

Schooling has ended for the average mill child below the fifth grade.

Georgia mill owners, however, have introduced a bill in the Legislature prohibiting employment of 12-year-old boys in textile industries.

This is a signficant move. But Georgia, by reason of her weak labor laws, still attracts great numbers of child workers from the adjoining State of Alabama.

Weak State Laws Tempt Interstate Traffic in Child Mill Workers.

These interstate employes, protected by Alabama laws, which prohibit more than eight hours of work for children between 14 and 16, flow across the boundary line daily into Georgia.

Morning and night sees the bridge across the Chattahoochee River at Columbus, Ga., crowded with boy and girl cotton mill workers coming into Georgia from Alabama. All of them are between 14 and 16. But Alabama, in which they live, can do nothing to prevent such self-imposed exploitation.

In Georgia, where boys of 12 may go to work providing they are orphans or the support of widowed mothers, a 60-hour week is also legally permissible, and most of the cotton mills there are running on a 55 to 58-hour basis.

And at Rome, Ga., where the writer was arrested on the protests of a mill owner who objected to having pictures of his property taken, an instance was found where a 12-year-old boy was given employment at $5 a week, while his older brother, a lad of 18, complained of walking the streets in search of a job.

This same 12-year-old boy, by virtue of his earning power, was the sole support of his widowed mother, his 18-year-old brother and a still younger member of the family.

As yet, there is no State aid through a mother's pension for youngsters of this type in Georgia, so all the commonwealth can do to assist them is grant permission to quit school and go to work.

Generally speaking, in the principal southern cotton mill States, long hours for child workers prevail.

This condition, in addition to industrial privation, saddles further domestic hardship upon the mill boy and girl.

In the town of Rocky Mount, N. C., the writer found mill children who had never been to town, just a mile away.

Mill employes there refer to themselves as the "hereuns," and to residents of the city as "the offuns."

In North Carolina, fathers and children, working in the same mill on the day shift, saw their wives and mothers, working on the night shift, but once a week, when the mill closed on Saturday afternoon.

The writer was present at one of these family reunions, when husband and wife met for the first time in six days.

She came up the street swinging her lunch basket at noon. He had returned home a few hours before after the night gang "knocked off."

"Hello, John!" she greeted him. "How were you last week?"

"Pretty good, Nell," came his reply. "Made $14.50. What do we eat tomorrow?"

Conditions such as these find disfavor in the eyes of Frank E. Wood, commissioner of labor and industrial statistics for Louisiana.

Wood, as Past President of the Association of Governmental Labor Officials of the United States and Canada, and a member of the Executive Committee of the same organization, favors the passage of a federal child labor law.

"It is the only thing which can do away with existing evils," he says.

"And southern manufacturers can attribute their present realization that child labor is unprofitable, to operation of the now defunct federal child labor laws.

"These laws were a blessing to the manufacturer and to the child, and should be revived."

NEWS FROM WARSAW AND THE DISTRICT.

Farewell Parties to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Miller —Personal Mention.

WARSAW, March 5.—On Thursday evening last immediate neighbors and near relatives numbering about sixty-five five gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Miller to say good-bye to their son, Stephen Miller, and his wife (nee Miss Clara Dewart). Mr. and Mrs. Miller were completely surprised. Music, progressive euchre and games passed a very pleasant two hours. Fred Crowe read an address, and Mrs. J. A. Crowe presented a purse containing a handsome amount.

Mr. Miller made a short and very suitable reply, thanking the people for their good wishes and kindness, and inviting all to come and see them in their new home.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Miller:

As the time of your departure draws near, we, your friends and neighbors, could not allow the occasion to pass without expressing our sincere regret that you have decided to leave our community.

You have always been kind and loving neighbors, ever ready to lend the helping hand when the occasion required. Your cheerfulness and stirling qualities have made you very dear to us, and it is with much sorrow that we look forward to your departure.

We are glad that your place of residence will not be so very distant, and though we may not be so closely associated as in the past, we shall always hold pleasant memories of the days you spent in our midst.

As a slight token of our appreciation of you we would ask you to accept this purse, and now we join in wishing you happiness and prosperity in your future home.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors,

MRS. J. A. CROWE,
MRS. T. H. CROWE.

Supper was served. There were some contests, step dancing and songs, and the party broke up long past midnight.

Another One

On Monday a social evening was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Miller in the Methodist basement. Games, social converse and music occupied the earlier part of the evening, and later Mrs. George Taylor read an address, and Mrs. James Hawthorne presented a bright-lit lamp.

Warsaw, Mar. 3, 1924.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Miller:

We, the members of the choir, members of the church and friends, have gathered here in this manner, first, to enjoy with you a social hour; secondly, to express our appreciation of your fellowship and services; and, thirdly, to wish you Godspeed in your new venture, and health, wealth, long life and happiness in your new home. To say that we shall miss you may seem a mere formality, but in this case, we assure you it is no formality, but is what we feel. Your influence among us has been for good. Your services have been ungrudgingly given. As a token of appreciation, the members of the choir desire you to accept this lamp. This is not in any sense meant as a reward, but only as a token, something that may serve as a remembrance. To reward must remain with Him, who is our Heavenly Father, whose servants we are, in whom we are all one. Though absent in body, we shall yet remain one in spirit.

We are pleased to know that you are not going so far away, but that you will be able to visit your old friends now and again. We assure you that at such times you will find a hearty welcome.

Signed on behalf of the choir,

MRS. GEO. TAYLOR.
MRS. JAS. HAWTHORNE.

Mr. Miller replied, thanking the choir for the gift, and hoped the friendships formed here would last. There would be a warm welcome for old friends. The ladies served refreshments, and a happy evening ended.

The U. F. O. gave a very enjoyable dance on Friday evening in aid of the hockey club, of which we are justly proud, even though at the end they were beaten. They went to Peterboro Sunday evening and took the early morning train to Barrie, returning Tuesday evening. No invitations were sent out for the dance.

Mr. P. G. Towns gave the last of the fortnightly entertainments before Lent on Monday evening.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid held their regular meeting last Thursday afternoon.

The U. F. W. A. are practicing a play which they hope to put on before long.

Next Sunday will be the union services in Presbyterian Church in the morning. Methodist in evening.

Mrs. Wm. Wasson, Peterboro, was in Warsaw Monday evening.

Miss Edna Grant, North Dummer, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. George Brown

Wallace Anderson was in Norwood Thursday.

Mrs. Wm. Carveth has returned to her home.

Word has come that Mrs. Luther Payne is slowly recovering.

KIWANIS CLUB HELD MEETING

Session Was Devoted to Discussion of Internal Affairs.

Business was the order of the day at to-day's Kiwanis Club luncheon. President John R. Marshall who was in the chair called on the committee chairman to give an account of their stewardship. Some of the members wanted the financial budget submtted to the meeting but so much time was taken up with the reports of the Committee chairmen that it was decided to leave the bud get question over for another week.

The club turned down a proposal to donate fifty dollars through the medium of one of the local I.O.D.E. chapters, towards the care and maintenance of an Armenian orphan and also voted down a second proposal to send one hundred dlairs direct to the Armenian orphanage at Georgetown. Kiwanian Wearing and others were of the opinion that the money could be expended at home to advantage. It was announced that one of the I.O.D.E. chapters had donated one thousand dollars for the education and maintenance of an Armenian boy following Dr. Vinning's visit here a few weeks ago. Kiwanian Hugh Niven contributed a solo that was much appreciated.

COULD LEARN FROM THE UNITED STATES

Frank Speech by Sir Auckland Geddes Last Evening.

LONDON, March 7.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Auckland Geddes, whom pilgrims entertained last night in honor of his return from Washington, more than kept his word, which he gave upon departing from New York, that he would continue as unofficial Ambassador of the people of the United States on this side of the Atlantic, by a remarkable speech, which for candor and frankness has rarely been surpassed at a meeting of the Anglo-American Society.

He succeeded in rousing the gathering of King George's subjects by saying:

"I don't think the people of England recognize, amid the mass of stories of the violation of the prohibition laws of the United States, how strong the feeling of the best minds of the best people of America is on the subject of prohibition. Given the American problem, given the American climate, I think that, if I were an American, I would be a prohibitionist."

As is always the case at banquets in London, the tables were abundantly supplied with wines and liquors, and Sir Auckland's pronouncement, which seemed heresy to the banqueters, was made more acceptable by the remark that followed.

"Fortunately I am not given the American climate."

The former Ambassador resumed in a serious vein, however, saying that seldom had there been a more humiliating position for any British Ambassador than to go week after week to see the Secretary of State for the purpose of requesting "the release of this, that or the other disreputable British, or alleged British, schooner engaged in handling stuff which anybody should have been ashamed of."

Sir Auckland upheld the funding of war debts as a great work that would yield future fruit.

Sir Auckland said that although the United States may have things to learn from Great Britain, Britain certainly had many things to learn from the United States.

He asked Mr. Clynes to listen closely while he described the conditions under which the United States wage-earners worked and lived. According to his account, British working people might well envy the United States wage earners for their housing facilities and for the comforts and luxuries they enjoyed. Undoubtedly they were better housed, fed and clothed than their kindred here. He would urge the Labor Government, whose special care, after thinking of good of the entire nation was directed to the wage-earner, to consider whether anything could be learned from the protectionist methods of the United States.

Today's Quotations and Opinion and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, March 7.—(United Press.)— Prices were stimulated in the early dealings in the stock market by the further improvement in the ratio of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York which advanced to 87.7 per cent. against 86 a week ago and 83.2 a year ago. Industrial stocks continued the spirited recovery which characterized the greater part of the previous session. New highs on the current rebound were reached by several representative issues and the whole market had an atmosphere of confidence, which was heightened by the move in both the house and the senate to hasten action before March 15 on a 25 per cent reduction in 1923 taxes.

French francs started the day with a new record low at $.0382 and later sank down to $.0377½, off $.0018 from the previous close.

Trading was relatively quiet at the end of the first hour, and no further progress was made on the up side of the main body of stocks. But the speculative leaders held within fractional distance of their best prices on the movement, absorbing profit taking and short selling in handy style.

Despite thae confusion aroused by a maze of conflicting rumors, there is no doubt that leading professional operators have switched to the bull side of the market, if only in a negative fashion. Too much difficulty was experienced in forcing price recessions to warrant aggressive bear operations. With the market giving every appearance of having been sold to a standstill, one of the now "famous confidential" messages was sent out, calling on the short following to give up the battle until the technical and business considerations should be more propitious from a bearish standpoint.

GOVT. CALLS REDUCTION IN THE CIVIL SERVICE

OTTAWA, March 7.—(Canadian Press). — While the government plans a call for the reduction in the civil service, they will be effected gradually and with such consideration as will involve the minimum of hardship, Premier King told the board of control and city members who waited upon him yesterday afternoon. However no reductions would be made until April 1st. Hon James Murdock remarked that any of these laid off would get two months pay which would carry them over till June 1st.

The newspaper adds that Pope Pius is much impressed by this new proof of the state of affairs, which already was well known.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of EXAMINER:

As a traveller through this section during the past few weeks I would like to make public my observations re the condition of country roads of this section of country, which have seemed to me surprisingly bad in whatever direction I have travelled.

Quite true the depth of snow has been above the average for many years but what has impressed me most is the laxness of the farmers in stirring out after a storm to break roads for the weary travellers whose business takes them over these roads. I have met mail carriers who on their daily journeys would be forced after a six or seven mile drive to retrace their steps back to the starting point, covering less than half this trip because some crossroad would not be opened up, and when asking why or to whom the responsibility lay, no one could say. Some had opened roads the previous winter and the councils would not pay them, a neighbor say such bills as they would present for their work. I would say that surely North Monaghan, Smith, Otonabee and any other township in the county has one man to every, say two miles, who can present to any council a just bill for his services in keeping certain roads supposed to be opened for daily traffic without impairing a mail service This system of road inspectors for a township is only intended for summer as it would be impossible for a road inspector to get in touch with roads at any distance from his place of residence. Whereas, a worthy man on a mile or two crossroad, who is not afraid to put his team of horses a couple of times through a heavy road in a stormy time would be of more service to the traveling public, than to half a half dozen men go out with shovels as a sort of visit and take off a few shovelsful where they think it's most needed and leave the butcher or baker to do the rest, or if they fail to come some other poor wayfarer may be forced to bear the brunt. In one section I am told one person went to a school to meet a lady teacher and before they were rightly started on the homeward journey the cutter was overturned and but for the steady nerve and alertness of the driver a runaway might have occurred.

Now, Mr. Editor, I think I have expressed not only my own observations of what I regard as a need in the administration of municipal affairs, but what will be regarded as a need by any traveller over these roads other than main roads in every direction. One traveller told me he had advertised for buying milch cows and that the roads were such that he could not get around and after spending a week went home without. He said mails could not be distributed over the roads and during my travels I declare there are mail boxes which have not been shovelled out for three weeks. One day I saw a wooden box on a level with the snow and thinking some one had lost something I wended my horse to it and found it nailed to a stick and full of snow—a mail box, evidently.

Thanking you for the space, etc.
A TRAVELLER.

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—One would think, judging by the many things said in praise of the "flowing bowl," that it was a drink of the gods, and that it contained the very elixir of life. As a matter of fact, alcohol is death in nature. It is sometimes spoken of as the creation of God, one of His good gifts, which must not be maligned. Instead of it being the gift of God it must be regarded as in some sense connected with the Evil One, and as related to the curse which rests upon all nature since the fall. Alcohol is the waste product of a germ. It is found in plant life when the process of decay and death sets in. When this process begins, for example, in the saccharine of grapes, alcohol is formed. Alcohol is the excresence thrown off by the breaking down of carbo-hydrates.

Those who think such excresence one of Gods' good gifts, to be used as a beverage, must, surely, be ignorant of the facts. Why anyone should regard it as a gift of the Almighty to be used as a drink is hard to understand .It has its uses. Modern science has taugth us to turn to profitable uses many forms of waste product as well as alcohol. So well is this done, for example, in the pork factory that the only part of the pig which cannot be used is the squeal. The waste product of the pig makes good fertilizer.

I prefer to think of the destructive germ, the working of which, results in alochol as I think of the typhoid germ or anything else that is hurtful in nature as the result of the curse which rests upon nature, and, therefore ,as the work of the devil rather than the creation of God.

Yours for the health of the race,
"Valetudo Bona."

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir,— Those Presbyterians who heard the fine address of Rev. Dr. Pidgeon in St. Pau's and propose to follow him into a new church and a new doctrinal field are fonder of novelty than religion. There can be no excuse for leaving Presbyterianism in what he said unless one wants to return to prelacy which seems to be the destiny of a wrecked Protestantism. Those who want to leave can leave but why make such a fuss about it What's behind all this pother. One of the fine points in the new scheme is that if you don't want to go you may stay. Then why go.

DEPUTATION TO GO TO TORONTO

Second Deputation From City Council to See C. G. E. Directorate.

To-day the press wires carried a report of a proposed extension to the C.G.E. plant here. While certain plans are in the air a special despatch from Toronto this afternoon denied that anything definite had been decided upon. A deputation representing the City Council was in Toronto this week and conferred with the C.G.E. directorate. Another deputation will go to Toronto on Tuesday.

"As the change in control was only effected on Feb. 15th last it will be seen that the American company are losing no time in putting into reality the plans for the expansion of the Canadian company, which the street were led to believe would follow the change in control President Dyment at the time of the announcement of the deal said:

"The company will have the benefit of the immense resources of the General Electric Company as it has never had up to the present time. Community of ownership will bring about a much more effective co-operation and this arrangement will no doubt lead up to the Canadian company doing some export business, which they are not permitted to do to-day by their old agreement. Being connected with one of the largest and strongest companies in the world will facilitate the financing of plant and other extensions for the expansion of the business."

TRIPLE SCHEDULE IS PROPOSAL OF OSHAWA

ecommend to Central ntario League Saturday mes For Peterboro and shawa and Midweek mes For Belleville and ingston — Agenda For Meeting In Cobourg.

OSHAWA, March 7.—With the announcement of the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association being set for just a month from now, on Saturday, April 5th at the Carls Rite Hotel, Toronto, the morning session to begin at 10.30 and the trouble of a year's standing with the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association being smoothed over, the baseball season should open with one of the largest meetings in the history of the Association. The Secretary of Ontario Association, Mark B. Dulmage of Guelph, while on a flying visit in Oshawa on Saturday last, gave out that he would this year retire from the position, as he was considering entering the newspaper field around Eastern Ontario.

Cobourg Meeting.

Just after the announcement of the annual meeting of the Ontario Association, an executive meeting of the Central Ontario Baseball League was called for Cobourg, on Wednesday, March the 12th, with the morning session to begin at 10.30, when the schedule for the coming season will be adopted; list of umpires who have sent in their willingness to officiate will be handed in; nomination of J. J. Solomon for the office of first vice-president of the O.B.A.A. will be ratified and sent forward; requests for better press accomodation at different towns in the league will be brought up. After the general routine of business has been dealt with, a discussion on the outlook for the season 1924 will be opened.

The Central Ontario league looks like an inter-city affair this year with Peterbro, Kingston, Belleville and Oshawa which will be announced as the baby city of the circuit on the eighth day of March and when the motor town as it is known today send representatives to the meeting on the 12th, they will represent the fourth city of the circuit.

Replies From Umpires.

Umpires who have replied to the letter sent out by Secretary Nott with whisps from their letters are as follows: R. Butler, Lindsay, "personally I like umpiring for the sport more than the money connected with it." C. Boundy, Cobourg, "would like to go out this year very much and here is hoping the league has its best season." K. J. Collings, Belleville, "would like to be appointed as relief umpire as I am not able to act steady in the league, at least not in the first half." Charles "Chuck" Allen, Toronto, "terms re umpiring in C.O.B.L. for coming summer are O.K. with me, also wish to state I will be able to act in all games." Frank J. Hallinan, Toronto, "I am ready to work in the league, but my partner, Mr. Thorne has not yet been able to make arrangements for Wednesdays, but he will know for sure by Friday of this week."

Triple Schedule.

At a meeting of the Oshawa Baseball Association held Wednesday night, it was decided to ask the executive of the Central Ontario executive at the meeting in Cobourg on Wednesday next, to adopt a triple schedule, which will allow for no mid week games in Peterboro and Oshawa and no Saturday fixtures for Kingston or Belleville. Oshawa has appointed a new Club Secretary for the season, Frank G. Chester and a new representative on league executive, William L. Mitchell.

The Port Hope-Cobourg amalgamation to put a team in the Central Ontario League the coming season which was talked of early in the season is not likely to go further than talk, as the Port Hopers' application and acceptance into the Durham and Ontario Intermediate League was a reality on Saturday last at the annual meeting of the league held in Oshawa.

With the refusal of the O.B.A.A. executive to allow Charlie "Chuck" Allen, of Toronto, who summers in Port Hope to qualify as a playing member of that town's team, the services of a good left hander is lost the intermediates of that town.

Old Boys' Week.

With the annoucement that Oshawa's Old Boys' and Girls' re-union week will commence on Sunday, August 3rd, following Monday, August 4th will be known as baseball day in the week of celebration; in the morning the two intermediate teams, Oshawa Red Sox and Oshawa Motors, of the Durham and Ontario league will clash in the second section of the schedule; while in the afternoon, arrangements will be undertaken to bring Peterboro and Oshawa Central Ontario League teams together in a league game.

Pennock Has Signed Contract With Yanks.

NEW YORK, March 7 (Canadian Press). — Herb. Pennock southpaw star of the New York Yankees' pitching staff, who has been a holdout, yesterday signed his 1924 contract following a conference with Colonel Jacob Ruppert.

Pennock's salary was not made public, but it is understood a compromise was effected on the pitcher's reported demand of $12,000 and the club's salary offer of $8,000.

Pennock will leave for New Orleans to-day in company with "Whitey" Witt and Joe Dugan.

Colonel Ruppert announced that all members of the world's champions now are signed to 1924 contracts except Bob Meusel, Aaron Ward, and Bob Shawkey. These three have been given permission to go to New Orleans to talk terms with Manager Huggins.

DENNENAY'S GOAL AVERAGE BEST

Ottawa Marksman Had 22 Goals and Was Credited With Another—Boucher and Dye Second.

MONTREAL, March 7 Canadian Press. — "Cy" Dennenay, of the champion Ottawa Senators, is the sharpshooter of the league this year, according to the official goal averages issued by President Frank Calder yesterday afternoon.

Dennenay bagged 22 goals during the season, and was credited with one. He led Billy Boucher of the Canadiens, and Babe Dye, of the St. Patrick's, by 6 goals, these two being tied with 16 each. However, when assists are taken into account, Boucher stands much better by comparison with Dennenay, as he has 6 to his credit, while Dye has but 2.

Dye's average is especially high when it is considered that he did not sign up until after several games had been played, and then did not hit his stride until about the middle of the season.

REFEREE N.H.A. FINALS.

MONTREAL, March 7 Canadian Press. — Michael J. Rodden and Dr. Jerry Laflamme, both of Toronto, have been named by President Frank Calder of the N.H.L., to handle the Canadien-Ottawa play-off game at the Mount Royal Arena on Saturday evening.

Both arbiters have been on the regular league staff this season.

CITY TEN PIN LEAGUE

Last night at Solomon's Alleys in the City Ten Pin League, the Canadian Packing by virtue of their taking two out of three from the Crescents won the championship of the City Ten Pin League. Although the league is not yet ended last night's two victories by the C.P.C. places them in a commanding position and they cannot be headed off.

There was a large crowd on hand to witness the battle between these two teams and they were rewarded by some beautiful rolling. Three nice games were turned in and some good scores were set up.

Three men on the Canadian Packing went over 500, they being: Heckman with 529, Firth with 522 and Dedman with 514. Two of the Crescents went over the 500 mark, Pidgeon with 525 and Sharpe with 513.

The Canadian Packing team has practically been the same since the start of the league. With the exception of Eddie Firth, who started with the C.P.C. about half way through the team has been the same. Firth was a great addition to the Canadian Packing team. His consistent rolling has helped them win many games and he has had a great deal to do with their winning the championship. The other members of the team, and everyone of whom contributed greatly to the team's success are: Bill Smithson, Jack Robinson, Eddie Firth, "Ded" Dedman, Al. Heckman (Capt.).

The league was a great success from every angle and some hard fought battles were witnessed. The C.P.C. were hard pressed and just managed to win the championship by a couple of games. The Crescents, the runners up, gave the Canadian Packing a great run for the high honors, and, in fact, were leading the league till just a couple of weeks ago when the C.P.C. headed them off. It has been a great season of bowling and next week when the league ends, most of the bowlers will be unanimous that it was the best winter's sport they ever had.

REFEREES APPOINTED AND SEATS SOLD OUT

MONTREAL, March 7. Canadian Press. — M. J. Rodden and Dr. Jerry LaFlamme, both of Toronto, have been named by President Frank Calder of the N.H.L. to handle the Canadien-Ottawa play off at the Mount Royal Arena on Saturday night. Both arbiters have been on the regular league staff this season.

Despite the mild weather yesterday there was a rush for tickets which brought back memories of the olden days. There was a long line up at 8 o'clock in the morning, and it took just one hour from the time the wicket opened at 9 o'clock to dispose of the entire reserved sections.

Fruit Protection.

Mr. MacKelvie urged that the clause relating to the dumping of fruit should be amended to afford greater degree of protection to Okanagan fruit growers. He paid tribute to the present Minister of Customs for the conscientious manner in which that Minister was administering the Act for the benefit, whenever possible, for the fruit growers. But, said Mr. MacKelvie, a future Minister of Customs might have different views and the result of his administration might be disastrous to the growers.

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Hangman's noose is piquant little plaything for pink-cheeked children. Electric chair is nobby piece of bric-a-brac fro breakfast room. Bichloride of mercury, served pipping hot, makes most appetizing dish. T.N.T. is something to stuff nursery pillows with. But Paul Berlenbach is something to keep away from.

Bruiser Berlenbach is middleweight fighter with 26 straight knockouts to his savage credit. Bump-'em-off Berlenbach is newest boxing plague and is depopulating ranks of glass-jaw citizens faster than swno melts on shimmy dancer's shoulders. Battering Berlenbach engraves enemy chine with granite knuckles while you wait, and you don't have to wait long.

Exprts claim Mr. Berlenbach is just caveman fighter with no style. Mountain bears are like that. Awkward as chimneysweep doing toe dance, and stylish like soup stains on tuxedo vest. But that doesn't keep 'em from being more ferocious than starved boll weevils in succulnt cotton patch.

Paul the Paralyser is first middleweight we ever had who could be compared to Ketchel without causing blase customers in last five rows to walk out on the act. Paul the Pickler can hit in any language and is fluent talker. Paul the Pounder stresses his points with ungrammatical left hooks and concludes all controversies with eloquent right crosses.

What Berlenbach will do when they turn him loose among the newmown championship contenders remains to be seen. These days it doesn't take much more than pair of half-soled trunks and faint look of annoyance to make middleweight champion. Berlenbach seems to reek with ability, and ought to get through rest of field without batting an aristocratic eyelash.

Berlenbach is only wrestler in captivity that ever lived dow nhis shame. Berlenbach took up wrestling as exercise and quit when he found out it was a major crime, punishable by life imprisonment in German gymnasiums.

Other unusual things about reformed wrestler is that he never posed in evening clothes as "Gentleman Fighter," and never told sob sister that "My best pal is my gray-haired mother up yonder in the hills."

GOLF NOT BANNED BY TRIS SPEAKER

Whirls a Mean Mashie Himself and Doesn't Notice Any Ill Effects.

CLEVELAND, O., March 7 (Canadian Press). — Managers Tris Speaker, of the Cleveland Indians, and Stanley Harris, of the Washington team are not contemplating placing a ban on their players playing golf, according to advices received here from Hot Springs.

Speaker, himself a devotee of the Scottish game, declared he has not discovered that the game detracts the attention of his players from baseball or that it interferes in any way with their baseball activities.

HE'S A REAL SCHOLAR

"Young" Samson, University of Michigan swimmer, recently earned an "A" mark in every one of his school subjects; a most unique record for a collegiate athlete. Samson, by the way, shows much promise as a natator. He is built on the order of Johnny Weismuller. He'll be eligible for Big Ten competition next season.

SOX WON'T MISS BURNS

Cleveland bought First Baseman George Burns to get more batting strength, yet Manager Lee Fohl of the Boston Red Sox is positive the passing of Burns will not lessen the offensive of his club. "Harris, who will play first, is just as good a hitter and Veach, secured from Detroit, will supply as much batting power as did Burns," says Fohl.

IRISH REPUBLICANS WANT OATH REMOVED

DUBLIN, March 7. — (United Press).—The Irish Republicans have appealed to the British Labor Government to eliminate from the Anglo-Irish Treaty the provision under which all office holders in the Free State must take an oath of allegiance to the King.

If this is done the Republicans will bury the hatchet and participate in Irish politics.

Mary MacWhiney, one of the last ditch Republican leaders, has written a letter to Premier Ramsay MacDonald, urging the exclusion of the oath from the Treaty.

Upon Mr. MacDonald's decision depends the candidacy of the Republicans for the Irish Dail and the Senate. The Republicans have always refused to take the oath of allegiance.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

A big double picture programme commenced its three-day showing at the Grand opera house last night, with Matt Moore and Madge Bellamy, in "No More Women," and George Arliss, in the stellar role of "The Man who Played God." There is also a good comedy and the music of the Grand's fine eight-piece orchestra, led by G. Howarth.

"No More Women" is an entertaining feature that portrays the woes of a disinctly modern pair of damsels, both intent on capturing the same man. Madge Bellamy is the lovely Peggy Van Dyke, who essays experiments in social service, and tries the job of waitress in a restaurant for a change from her gilded life as a social butterfly. Peter Maddox enchains her wandering fancy, and she proceeds to make up to him with a will. Peter has just renounced all women, on account of a heartless jilting at the hands of his lady love, and he repairs to a solitary fishing camp at Lake Arrowhead to soothe his wounded heart. With her dog, Don, one of the chief actors in the piece, Peggy follows him in a fast car, which is arrested at an opportune moment. The two desperadoes who have designs on her roll of money, follow and mix things up considerably for the gallant young lady. Peter's former sweetheart appears on the scene also and decided that she wants him back again. The unfortunate young man has quite a busy session between the two rivals for his hand but everything finally clears itself up satisfactorily.

A very different type of production is the second half of the programme, with George Arliss in "The Man who Played God," and Ann Forrest as Marjorie Blaine, the girl whom she marries. Arliss is not quite as convincing as usual in the role of a lover, but his artistic acting carries him triumphantly through a somewhat draggy picture. His part is that of an internationally famous musician who is deafened accidentally and becomes embittered to the world and his beautiful young wife. Learning to read lips, he plays the part of a benefactor to numerous impoverished people and finally regains his hearing, after a mental struggle which terminates in his renunciation of his young wife to another man. Refusing to be renounced, however, the lady rejoins him at the moment he has recovered his hearing, and, incidentally, his good humour.

Sandwiched between the two features is the Christie comedy, "Stay Single," with Dorothy Devore as the heroine of a farcial mix-up that involves a fictitious wife and a pet poodle. The lady as a favor, impersonates the wife of a young man who essays to get an increase in salary by declaring that he is married, and does some quick change work in her efforts to be in two places at one and the same time.

TOM MIX and PAULENE STARK, in "Eyes of the Forest," at the Capitol to-day and Saturday. Popular prices will prevail.

AT THE CAPITOL

TOM MIX GIVES HIS FANS STUNT TREAT.

"Eyes of the Forest," with Tom Mix, opens at the Capitol to-day, and the intrepid, athletic Fox star gives his fans something to talk about. Tom kept his audience almost breathless in a series of thrilling episodes that, while they savoured of Mixian entertainment dishes, yet were unlike anything he has attempted.

For instance, after an encounter with a band of lumber thieves, Tom rides over a mined road on Tony and is virtually caught in the midst of a blast when the highway is blown up. He escaped and, riding at a break-neck clip, he leaps from Tony to an airplane which swoops down from overhead. Daredevil film actors have grasped rope ladders of airplanes before, but Mix leaps into the air, clutching the axle of the landing wheels of the plane, which is travelling, we should judge, eighty miles an hour, and is lifted a thousand feet as if on a trapeze.

The story of "Eyes of the Forest," written by Shannon Fife, is a vivid one, dealing with the Forest Air Rangers of California. Pauline Stark plays the girl in the case and does an A-No. 1 job of it. She will be remembered for her work in "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court."

Others in the cast are Sid Jordan, the redoubtable villain, who gives Mix the battle of his life; Ed. Wallock, Tom Lingham, J. P. Lockney, and Buster Gardner. Lambert Hillyer directed the picture and did a good job of it. "Eyes of the Forest" will be at the Capitol to-day and on Saturday.

Hockey results will be announced at the Capitol to-night.

AT THE ROYAL

FIRST AMATEUR NIGHT VERY SUCCESSFUL

The first of a series of novelty nights at the Royal took place last night, and to say that it was a success would be putting it mildly. A large number of local arists appeared and the management gave cash prizes to all, instead of the usual manner of letting the audience choose the winners. Every act was enthusiastically encored and if we had our way as judges we would have given the main prizes to Mary and Emily Hemphill for their Irish dancing, to Kathleen and Dorothy Cooney for their ballet and sailor hornpipe and to Jack Hickey for his singing of "That Old Gang of Mine." The programme in the order of appearance was:

Mickey Hellinger, songs.
Katherine Cooney, ballet dancing.
Dorothy Cooney, sailor hornpipe.
David Kerr, old Scotch songs.
Mary and Emily Hemphill, Irish dances.
Scotty Eagleton, mouth organ and bones.
Harold Armstrong's orchestra in several jazz selections. We prophesy that these boys will make a name for themselves in the music line. Their present line-up includes Harold Armstrong leader, Jerry Collins, violinist, Paul Koster, banjo, Harold Whaley, trap drummer. The soloists connected with the orchestra are Jack Roach and Emmett Hickey. Mr. Stephens, of Stephens and King, acted as announcer in an expert manner and the clever clowning of Van Gordon between each act helped materially in rounding out as successful a programme of local talent as it has been our good fortune to see in some time.

MacLEAN FARCE COMEDY.

Thomas H. Ince's mystery-comedy, "A Man of Action," with Douglas MacLean in the role of a youth with more money than ambition who is blackjacked into a twenty-four hour career of crime is the best comedy in which Douglas MacLean has appeared since "The Hottentot."

There is plenty of comedy throughout the picture which has three unique screen "creations" in Hoppy," the shell-shocked veteran of a Central American revolution; "Frisko Rose," who wears second-hand clothes, and "The Deacon," who is an expert on panels, trick doors, traps, collapsible staircases and miscellaneous exits and this-way-outs.

LOIS BOOTH — PRINCE ERIC WEDDING TO-NIGHT AND SATURDAY.

Much local interest has been aroused since the announcement has been made the the Royal Theatre has secured the motion picture of Miss Lois Booth and Prince Eric wedding It will be shown tonight and Saturday only. Owing to demand for this feature it is impossible to hold it over.

CLEAN, CLEVER VAUDEVILLE

We have with us at the Royal Theatre for three days Van Gorden an English artist, born in Liverpool, nearly fifty years ago. Who has played in pantomimes with Little Tich and Kate Howard and at one time one of the most versatile artist of the both continents and who for years did a magic novelty act, in America. He is at the Royal presenting a very clever comedy knockout acrobatic act. Reminiscenses of Frank McNish in Silence and Fun Which is very clever and amusing. One trick that he does is the best ever seen in Peterboro and that is the trick he does with a bentwood chair which is a seemingly impossible trick. He was well received at both performances. He sails for Australia next fall where he is a favirite comic, to produce a pantomime "The Haunted Yard" which he wrote and built and is to play the leading part of Sir Tweeny Nut.

The other novelty offered is Stephens and King in "The Surveyor" a cleverly written sketch with songs introduced. This team has personality and judging from laughs and applause their reception last night was an enthusiastic as any act could wish for. These two acts alone is worth a visit to the Royal.

AT THE REGENT

When a man's heart grows stronger and a coward's beats more weakly the fate of three people hang in the balance Buried in a small cabin beneath an avalanche of rock and dirt with flickering candle indicating the amount of oxygen in the heavy air, are two men and one girl. When that candle goes out, so do the lives of those three The man's heart never weakens. The coward cringes, perspiration face as he stares at the weakening candle flame.

This is the tense "Hell's Hole" scene which is the climax of the William Fox feature of that name coming to the Regent Theatre for a three days run with Charles Jones as the star. Incidently, it is only one of the many tense scenes that make of "Hell's Hole" a thriller of the first magnitude, with romance softening the clash of men and the dash of action.

Ruth Clifford plays the feminine lead opposite Jones. Maurice B. Flynn handles the heavy role, and others in the cast include Kathleen Key, Hardy Kirkland and Eugene Pallette.

Emmett J. Flynn wielded the megaphone for this special. He not only "stepped on the gas" and scored a winner for speed, but he kept one eye on beautiful scenic and photographic effects. The story is an original by George Scarborough, adapted by Bernard McConville.

PUMBING CLEANERS.

When strong acids or very caustic alkalis are used to disinfect the plumbing they should be followed, after a short interval, with a thorough flushing of the pipes.

FLAKY PIECRUST

If you want your piecrust to be very flaky avoid rubbing, the shortening too thoroughly in the flour. It should be left in small flakes.

BLACK SATIN COAT.

A smart black satin coat for spring is very straight as to line, a large monogram in black satin on the left front, and with ermine collars and cuffs.

Clark, for the affirmative, and Thomas Hendry, for the negative, it was decided that the three party system was likely to remain for some time.

WEDDING BELLS

WEDLOCK—PETERS.
A pretty wedding took place at half past four o'clock yesterday afternoon in the George Street Methodist church, when Gwenyth Jean, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peters, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Irwin Wedlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wedlock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. Harold Young.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, was becomingly attired in a suit of navy tricotine, with a black fox fur, and a satin hat, trimmed with silver. She carried ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Lottie Wedlock, wore black satin, and a brown hat, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Mr. William Fletcher supported the bridegroom.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding repast was served at the home of the bride's parents, at 681 Reid street. Mr. and Mrs. Wedlock will reside for a time in Toronto.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of useful and handsome gifts from a wide circle of friends.

WILL SELL CO-OPERATIVELY.
The patrons of another Peterborough County factory decided yesterday to sell their cheese co-operatively this season through United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, when at the spring meeting of the Trent Bridge factory, near Havelock, a resolution to that effect was carried unanimously. This factory, which has been closed for two years, will be operated again this season, and will have a large output of cheese. It is situated in a section where it is surrounded by a number of factories that have been selling co-operatively for from one to four years. The returns these factories have secured have been so satisfactory, compared with the prices obtained by other adjoining factories that sold on the cheese boards, that at the meeting yesterday no one even suggested that the cheese should be sold on the cheese board. This makes the twelfth factory in Peterborough County that has arranged to sell co-operatively this year, and it is expected that several more will do so at their spring meetings.

PUBLIC INQUIRY INTO BOND SALE BY DRURY GOVERNMENT REFUSED

Leader of U.F.O. Group In Legislature Asked For Commission to Investigate Allegations Made By Provincial Treasurer --Premier Replied House Committee on Public Accounts Would Carry On Probe.

MANY BILLS READ.

TORONTO, March 8— The Legislature made rapid progress in getting bills through committee Friday and a few items of estimates were passed.

Hon. Manning Doherty asked the Government to appoint a commission under the public inquiries act to investigate allegations made by Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, against the late government in its financial administration. Premier Ferguson refused to grant the request stating that the public account committee of the House would carry out the investigation. If the committee was not finished when the session was over the House could quite easily extend the time of its meeting into the recess. If there were some things beyond its scope which required investigation.

Hon. Mr. Doherty said that the U. F. O. members in the House and members of the late Government including former Premier Drury and Hon. Peter Smith, former treasurer, were anxious to have everything brought to light and they wanted an impartial inquiryy.

A bill proposed by W. Finlayson (East Sincoe), to incorporate the Y. M. C. A. at Midland brought opposition from the Premier because of one of its clauses which would allow it to establish a form of technical education without supervision from the department of education. The House allowed second reading on the understanding that the point be considered with the department of Education.

An act allowing a municipal clerk in cities of over 200,000 to appoint a deputy city clerk with all the privileges of his chief was withdrawn by the mover, F. C. McBrien, (Southwest Toronto).

Mr Bradburn's Bill

W. H. Bradburn, (West Peterboro), also ran into difficulty with his bill giving municipal councils the right by a three-fourths vote and approval of the Ontario Railway Board to spend money for the construction of electrical transmission work without a vote of the people The Premier said it was simply adding to the numerous occasions upon which money was spent without the voted approval of the ratepayers. The bill however passed second reading and went to the municipal committee.

A bill providing that a member of a school board nominated for a higher municipal office need not resign from the school board until after his nomination to higher office also was sent to committee although there was objection. He must resign according to the present law ten days before accepting nomination for another office. Several members thought ten days too long a period but wanted some length of time between resignation and nomination.

Agricultural Society Meetings

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agricultural, secured second reading for his action whereby the annual meetings of agricultural societies must be between January 1 and January 21 each year instead of between January 15 and 21| His bill giving power to declare quarantine on bee colonies to protect against foul brood also passed second reading. The Minister explained that bees imported this spring would not be subject to the bill.

In the estimates, the item for $15,000 for advertising Ontario to tourists brought the announcement that the Government intends to ask tenders not only on cost of booklets but for the best ideas. One man will also handle Government advertising. M. M. McBride, (Brantford) said $25,000 could be saved a year if the Government would cut out all unnecessary printing.

New Game Inspector

During the consideration of $27,500 for enforcement of fish and game acts, Hon. Chas. McCrea said there would be five new appointments to the force of inspectors. One of them goes to be sent to the Patricia district. J. A. Picard, (East Ottawa), objected to a grant of $10,000 to the Safety League. Hon. W. H. Price explained that the amount was promised by the previous government.

Mother's Allowances

During the discussion on an additional amount for Mother's Allowances, Russel Nesbitt, (North West Toronto), said he hoped that the Province would soon pay more in allowances to mothers. M. M. McBride thought the administration cost too high and suggested that widows who had families be appointed inspectors as they knew conditions better than other women. This suggestion received approval from the Premier who warned that it must not be forgotten that this allowance was not a pension for widows but merely an assistance for widows to raise their children.

Swiss May Object To Caliph's Wives

GENEVA, March 8.— Abdul Medjid, the deposed Caliph of Turkey, accompanied by his family, arrived at Territet, on the north shore of Lake Geneva, last night.

BERNE, Switzerland, March 8.—The Swiss Government has not been officially informed about the coming of Prince Abdul Medjid, the deposed Caliph. It is pointed out here that if he really does come difficulties may be anticipated, particularly over his wives, as Swiss law prohibits polygamy.

SPANISH LIFT REBEL'S SEIGE

Beleaguered Garrison In Morocco Relieved By Convoy and Reinforcements That Pierced the Moorish Lines.

MADRID, March 8. — (Canadian Press). — A Spanish convoy has fought its way through the rebel lines under cover of a fog and entered the besieged Spanish position at Tizziazza, and provisioned the garrison there, says an official report from the Commander-in-Chief in Morocco.

The statement describes in detail how native troops and members of the Foreign Legion, notwithstanding the heavy fog, dislodged the tribesmen blocking the way to Tizziazza and stormed the intervening height known as Del Senorito. Light artillery paved the way for the advance. Owing to the denseness of the fog the heavy artillery and the aviators were unable to cooperate in the forward movement, but engineers managed to get through and repair the road so that the convoy could reach its objective.

In addition to taking food, water and arms and ammunition into the besieged fortress, 300 soldiers who will act as reinforcements entered Tizziazza with the convoy.

The communication from the Commander-in-Chief says the Spanish losses cannot yet be estimated. It adds, however, that rebels have been severely whipped.

THINKS COMMISSION IS UNDULY ALARMED

Says Every Ratepayer is Entitled to Information for Which Council is Asking.

To the Editor of The Examiner.
Dear Sir,

Referring to the proceedings of a recent meeting of the Utilities Commission, which were published in yesterday's Examiner:

It seems to me some of the members of the Utilities Commission and their manager have become unduly and unnecessarily alarmed. They should have nothing to fear.

I think the Council should see that the facts and figures, as Mr. Morris finds them, are not only given to the Campbell Milling Co., the Maple Leaf Milling Co., and the Peterborough Cereal Co., but also to the press and to the ratepayers.

I claim every ratepayer has a right to all such information.

Thanking you for your valuable space,

Yours truly,
J. W. MEYERS.

MOSLEMS OF EGYPT ISSUE A MANIFESTO

CAIRO, March 8 (United News). —The Moslems of Egypt have issued a manifesto to the Moslem world declaring that the continued existence of the Caliphate is absolutely essential, and urging believers to meet in a general conference to settle the question in accord with Moslem law.

WANTS MORE WIVES.

LONDON, March 8 (United News). — Ex-Caliph Abdul Medjid naturally picked his favourite wives as travelling companions when he left Constantinople after being deposed, but apparently he is not satisfied with so small a harem.

According to Constantinople advices, he desires to bring on some more wives, who will settle down with him in whatever country he eventually decided upon as a place of refuge.

FRENCH DEPUTY CHALLENGED TO FIGHT PREMIER

Remark of Gaston Le Provost de Launay Resented By Poincare But Seconds Decided His Honor Was Not Compromised and Duel Not Justified.

REFERS TO RUHR.

PARIS, March 8. — Premier Poincare yesterday challenged Deputy De Launry to a duel because of remarks made by the deputy in the Chamber of Deputies. The seconds of the two met met later and decided that the remarks did not reflect on the honor of the premier, and that therefore a duel was not justified. The belief was expressed by the seconds that the principals would accept their conclusions.

PRAISED EXPERTS.

PARIS, March 8. — Premier Poincare in the Chamber of Deputies on Thursday, said that there was every prospect that a settlement of reparations will be reached before the French elections in May. He praised the methods of the experts, declaring that they had faithfully executed the mission given to them, which was to inquire into Germany's present financial capacity, and how the budget might be balanced rather than to consider a reduction of Germany's debt.

WITTY SPEECH TWITTED LABOR

Sir Guy Gaunt Supporting Merchant Trade Mark Bill Alluded to Dock Strike — Compulsory Marking of Produce.

LONDON, March 8. — Canadian Press Cable. — The merchant trade marks bill passed its second reading in the House of Commons on Friday by a vote of 184 to 158 with Liberals and members of the government opposing it. The combination against the Conservative supporters of the bill failed to defeat it.

Rear-Admiral Sir Guy Gaunt, Conservative member for Buckrose, Yorkshire, moved the second reading of the trade marks bill, providing for the compulsory marking of frozen or chilled meat, bacon, ham, eggs, poultry, dairy produce, honey and oatmeal, with the name of the country of origin.

Sir Guy, in an amusingspeech, denied that the bill was a protectionist one. He declared that objections advanced to the effect that the working of the trades marks act would cause delay at the ports were not serious, and he was confident that it would greatly benefit thousands of ex-service men engaged in poultry farming. Sir Guy said that he wanted to ensure that an inferior Danish egg would not be sold as an "A1" British egg. Sir Guy recalled a speech made by Premier W. F. Massey of New Zealand, in London last October in which Mr. Massey had said that such marking of overseas produce was urgently required.

With regard to cheese, a Labor member suggested that cheese spoke for itself.

Sir Guy agreed with this. Some foreign cheese was dangerous, he added.

As to oatmeal, he said that he had never used it, except once, when he used it for sticking photographs, but it was too lumpy to suit him.

Reverting to the egg question Sir Guy appealed to the House to have regard for the poor little Yorkshire hen laying eggs daily, trying to keep the household together in competition with a Chinese 'lizard' a thousand miles away.

Frequent laughter was heard during the discussion of the bill.

FORMED NEW CABINET.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 8. — United Press.—Ismet Pasha, who resigned as Turkish premier, has succeeded in forming a new cabinet.

The portfolios of religious affairs and chief of staff have been abolished, due to President Kemal's desire to divorce both the church and the army from politics.

CABINET RESIGNED.

ATHENS, March 8. United Press. —The Cabinet headed by Premier Cafantaris resigned to-day as a result of pressure brought to bear by the army.

The collapse of the franc has started a buying wave in Paris. People are hurrying into shops to trade paper money for merchandise.

Two Rival Caliphs May Claim Prophet's Mantle Turks Retain His Beard

King Hussein of the Hedjaz Regarded By British As Likely to Find Favor With Islam — While Controversy Seems Swelling and Moslem Split Is Threatened Turkey Holds Title Deeds of the Mohammedan Primacy.

LOSDON, March 8. — Because of the direct descent of King Hussein of the Hedjaz from the prophet Mohammed, and other factors, his appointment as Caliph of Mesopotamia and Transjordania, ruled by his two sons, is regarded by British authorities as likely to find support in a large part of the Islamic world.

Not all of Islam is considered well disposed toward the Arabian monarch, however, and a bitter contest between the Arabian Moslems, and some other sections of the faithful over the mantle of the prophet, is looked for in many quarters, which forsee an unbridgeable schism in the church and the probability that two rival caliphs may be found contesting for supremacy, as two popes did far back in the history of the Christain church.

The first sign of a split in the Oriental world was seen here in the order of the Angora government warning the Turks against pilgrimages to Mecca and Medina, in Hussein's dominions, because it was declared that they might be in great danger there. Then since the expulsion of Abdul Medjid from Constantinople claims to spiritual primacy have come from India, Egypt, Afghanistan, Morocco, and other Oriental countries.

Hussein's Claims.

As to the eligibility of Hussein, in addition to his line of descent, the fact of his jurisdiction over the two Holy Cities, Mecca and Medina, respectively the birth and burial place of Mohammed, is pointed to as increasing his chances of being widely acepted as the successor of his great forebear, who thirteen centuries ago gave the world his message in the form of the Koran.

As far back as 1915, the British government informed Hussein that it would not view his elevation to the Caliphate with displeasure: that it believed he would be acceptable to 70,000,000 Moslems under British tutelage in India, and would maintain the highest traditions and dignity of the Caliphate, which is regarded as the cornerstone of the Mohammedan religion.

Fuad's Aspirations.

What repercussions the designation of Hussein as titular head of a religion which embraces 300,000,000 adherents, will have outside the Arab countries of Asia, is doubtful. Egypt which still recalls the days of the spiritual and temporal power of its own Sultan, Mohmet Ali, is not likely to recognize him. Moreover King Fuad himself is known to cherish aspirations for the Caliphate, and his difficulties with Hussein over possession of the Holy Carpet are recent history.

France's 60,000,000 Moslem subjects will also have to be reckoned with. There is a movement on foot in France to give the deposed Abdul Medjid asylum in Tunis, with the prospect of making him commander of the faithful, with spiritual sovereignty over all Mohammedans. It is not explained how this would harmonize with the views of the Sultan of Morocco, who himself entertains caliphal ambitions.

Interest of Powers.

In any event, if a caliph sponsored by the French is appointed, it is contended that it would offset any attempt by the British to dominate the Islamic world through Hussein, who is regarded as a protege of the British government. Then, Italy, which possesses a small number of Mohammedan subjects and considers herself the gateway between the east and the west, is anxious to win favor in the Moslem countries by offering hospitality and protection to Abdul Medjid, who like the ex-Sultan, Mohammed VI., now is a man without a country.

In the meantime, while the race for the coveted position goes on, the question arises how any candidate can wrest the title deeds of the Mohammedan primacy from Turkey.

These consist of Mohammed's green turban, his beard, staff, and other symbols of power, all of which are jealously guarded in the Imperial Museum at Constantinople.

FRANC SLUMPED UNDER SELLING

NEW YORK, March 8.—Continuation of the record-breaking decline of the French franc yesterday carried the quotation 17 points lower to a new low for all time at 3.76 3-4 cents. The overnight effect of the currency's break through the four cent level brought a fresh flood of selling orders from foreign centres which virtually demoralized the market in the early dealings.

Buying support was encountered when the rate touched 3.77 1-2 cents and temporary recovery took place. The resistance, however, failed to hold and the closing quotations established a new low record.

While a foreign offensive against the franc was blamed for its collapse by Paris, the admission that the poor showing made in the Bank of France statement formed a good basis for the attack, confirmed the views of local bankers who attributed selling to the billion franc increase in note circulation.

Belgian francs declined in sympathy with French currency to a new low at 3.27 1-2 cents, while demand Sterling yielded 1 1-2 cents to $4.28 1-4, on the unsettlement in London caused by the drop in francs.

Still Going Down.

LONDON, March 8. — (United Press.)—The French franc continued its record slump here to-day, reaching 117 francs, 60 centimes to the pound sterling at 12.30 p.m.

Francs opened at 116.20, but declined rapidly under heavy selling.

The Belgian franc also slumped in sympathy, opening 132 to the pound.

(By Webb Miller, United Press.)

PARIS, March 8.— Despite the utmost efforts of the Government to uphold it, the franc crashed to new lows as the money market opened here to-day.

At 10.20 a.m. dollars quoted at 26 franc 80 centimes each, and the pound sterling at 115 francs, both new low records for French paper money.

There was wild excitement as buyers and sellers scrambled in the market. Quotations fluctuated rapidly.

WOMAN CLEARED BY GRAND JURY

Acquitted of Murdering Man Who Tried to Break Into Her Home — Killed Him in Self-Defence.

HULL, Que., March 8. — Mrs. Melina Robillard, accused of murdering Albert Turcotte, who had attempted to enter her home in the absence of her husband, has been liberated. The Grand Jury after considering all the evidence offered by the Crown Friday came to the conclusion that there was not sufficient evidence to send her to trial before a judge and petty jury and accordingly returned a "no bill."

It is understood that the decision to set Mrs. Robillard free was reached by all the members of the Grand Jury. They entertained the conviction, it is said, that Mrs. Robillards' act in firing a shot which resulted in Turcotte's death was in self-defence. Her acquittal at a trial before Judge and jury seemed to be assured, it was stated, and the Grand Jury decided that to save money to the province and to avoid a tedious trial they were within their jurisdiction in throwing out the indictment.

FAVOR DEFENDING PACIFIC GATEWAY

LONDON, March 8 (Canadian Press).— Addressing a distinguished company at the annual dinner of His Majesty's Civil Service last night, including the Duke of York, Premier MacDonald, Viscount Chelmsford, First Lord of the Admiralty, J. R. Clynes, Lord Privy Seal, and J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Colonies, Admiral Sir Doveton Sturdee declared that Singapore was the gateway to the Pacific, and he thought they ought to defend it, and that Australia and New Zealand and everyone interested in trade with China should help them.

Premier MacDonald subsequently, when toasting the Civil Service, remarked that he could not say he quite agreed with everything Admiral Sturdee had said.

Referring to the press reports about the Admiralty pressure in regard to the Singapore naval base scheme, the Premier remarked that when he saw the Admiralty officers, in whom the country had the greatest confidence, used as pawns in the political game, he thought it was his duty as head of the Government to protest. (Cheers.)

The Civil Service was responsible for the advice, and the Government was responsible for its policy, and any newspaper attacks must, therefore, be directed against the Government.

CANADA'S WHEAT AND FLOUR HIT NEW U.S. TARIFF

Rate on Flour Increased Fifty Per Cent and Wheat Tariff Raised 12 Cents a Bushel to 42 Cents — Effective in a Month When Navigation Starts Grain Movement.

SOP TO FARMERS.

WASHINGTON, March 8.— An increase of 12 cents a bushel in the tariff rate on wheat was ordered yesterday by President Coolidge.

Acting under the flexible provision of the Tariff Act and on the basis of the Tariff Commission's recent inquiry, the President at the same time ordered an increase of 26 cents a hundred pounds on the duty on wheat, flour and a decrease of 50 per cent. in the ad valorem rate on mill feeds.

The new rate on wheat will be 42 cents per bushel as compared with the present rate of 30 cents; the new rate on flour will be 1.04 per hundred pounds, as compared with 78 cents, and the rate on mill feeds will be 7 1-2 per cent. ad valorem as against 5 per cent.

Effective In Month

The new rates as ordered by the President and set forth in a formal proclamation, will become effective in 30 days.

The increases will become effective in time to be applied to the glood of Canadian wheat which descends on the United States about the middle of April each year with the open navigation on the Great Lakes.

The advance in rates was sought to aid particularly the hard wheat growers of the North-West, but the resultant increase in the price of the Spring Wheat is expected to be reflected in the market quotations on Winter Wheat raised in the middle western and other States.

Aimed at Canada

The proclamation setting forth the new rate was accompanied by a White House stating that on the basis of the record of the Tariff Commission's investigation, the President had found:

"That the principal country in the case of wheat, wheat flour and mill feeds is the Dominion of Canada.

"That in the case of wheat the difference in costs of production between the United States and the Dominion of Canada is 42 cents per bushel of 60 pounds.

"That in the case of flour, the difference in costs of production between the United States and the Dominion of Canada is $1.04 per 100 pounds. This consists of two elements, the one an amount designed to compensate the millers for the duty which they must pay on wheat imported into the United States, and the other, to cover the difference in conversion costs in the two countries.

"The difference in conversion of mill feeds between the United States and the Dominion of Canada is $0.003 per 100 pounds.

The increase in the rate on flour also applies to Semolina, crushed or cracked wheat, and similar wheat products. The mill feeds classification includes bran, shorts and other by-product feeds obtained in the milling of wheat.

Amends Fordney Act

The new rates represent the first change in the duties of the Fordney McCumber Act since it was passed by Congress in September, 1922, and the proclamation issued to-day was the first exercise of the powers conferred on the President to increase or decrease rates within a maximum of fifty per cent after investigation by the Tariff Commission. Several other inquiries designed to ascertain whether existing rates are fair are under way, including an investigation of the duty on sugar.

The first step toward a change in the wheat tariff was taken last November by the Wheat Council of the United States, Incorporated, of which Representatives Anderson, of Minnesota, is president.

The Cost of Production

The Wheat Council filed an application for investigation on the grounds that the existing rate of 30 cents a bushel on wheat did not adequately represent the difference in Canadian and American costs of production. President Coolidge, impressed by the Council's plea, and with the results of a preliminary inquiry by the Tariff Commission, ordered an investigation.

Much of the investigation was conducted in the field under the direction of William S. Culbertson, vice-chairman of the Commission, who made a survey of production costs in the Canadian wheat growing Provinces. The Canadian Government assisted the Commission's agents in the inquiry to a considerable extent although such had not been expected by the Commission.

The sale of champagne in France increased 100 per cent. in 1923, as compared with 1922. It is reported the exportation of wines had also increased.

More than $1,000,000 was expended annual in the United States on scholarships and fellowships for advanced and graduate education in science and technology.

Deserted Groom Held Reception

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 8. — Notwithstanding the fact that he had, figuratively speaking, been left at the church by his fiancee, who had eloped and married another man in Cumberland, Md., Joseph Richards, a citizen of Uniontown, held his wedding as per schedule, and his guests voted they had a great time.

Richards was to have married Rose T. Simon. He had presented her with a diamond engagement ring and a circlet of gold. When he found she had eloped Richards refused to mourn. Wedding invitations had gone out to relatives and friends in all sections of South-western Pennsylvania and he went on with his arrangements.

Handsome and valuable presents by the score were brought by the guests for the bride and groom. August Burnett of Charleroi, the best man, expressed disappointment. He had decked himself out in new raiment..

AMENDMENT TO KING'S PROGRAM

OTTAWA, March 8.—(Canadiain Press).— Flagging interest in the debate on the address was revived in the House of Commons yesterday with the introduction of an amendment from the Conservative opposition. It came at the close of a speech by Donald Sutherland, Conservative member for South Oxford, in the course of which he advocated a drive for lower freight rates, demanded a definite decaration on Government tariff policy, and declared himself in favour of the construction of the St. Lawrence canal system.

The amendment, which was seconded by S. Charters, Conservative member of Peel expressed regret at the "depression existing in agriculture and, as well, the all too serious exodus from the country generally." The speech from the Throne, it declared "while embodying a distinct threat to an important section of industry, contains no promise of legislation which will tend to retain and enlarge the home market for our own Canadian producers; such legislation being manifestly necessary in view of the increased tariff burdens of other countries."

In a brief reference to the Civil Service reforms, Mr. Sutherland criticized the 6 1-2 hour day of the Civil Service while other people had to work 8, 0 or 12 hours a day. What was needed, he said, was an honest day's work for a day's pay.

J. J. Hughes (Liberal, King's P. I. referred to a campaign of misrepresentation which he said was being carried on by Conservative publications in regard to Government expenditure. He quoted from one newspaper a statement that R. P. Gough, director of the C. N. R. received a salary of $10,000 a year as director. Every man in Canada knew that the salary of a director of the C. N. R. was $2,000 per annum, said Mr Hughes. This exaggeration was typical of statements which were being made in some of the Conservative papers of the day.

Mr. Hughes quoted from the public accounts to show that expenditure were lower under the present administration than those of the former Government. During the war there was no effort whatever to control expenditures he insisted. In fact, it seemed as if premediated efforts were made to waste money. He referred to evidence taken before the public accounts committee during the war period to show that excessive prices had been paid by the Government of the day for war materials.

Ordered a Special Train

Mr. Hughes mentioned specifically Con. J. Wesley Allison, who he said ordered a special train at four o'clock in the afternoon to take himself and his friends down to Morrisburg for a game of golf, and charged the cost to the country. He recalled several allegations made against public officials of the war period, and said that they were protected by the Government.

"I mention these things," he said, "to emphasize the importance of keeping these same people out of power in the future."

THE WEATHER.

Lowest temperature last night, 10 degrees above zero. The bright sunshiny days with cold nights have started the sap running, and this morning frozen icicles of sap could be seen on some of the maples, where the branches had been damaged. The ground is but little frozen, and some who have desired crisp parsnips for their noon-day meal claim to have dug them without difficulty. —W. P.

DELORME PISTOL MARKS PECULIAR EXPERT SHOWED

Scratches on Bullets Fired Into Cotton Wadding For Comparison Purposes Exhibited—Jurors Handled Jawbone of Murdered Youth — Furnace Man Forgot Dates.

EXPERT TESTIMONY.

MONTREAL, March 8.—Streaks or scratches, such as the prosecution claim have only been found on bullets fired from Rev. Adelard Delorme's automatic pistol, were again found when shooting tests were made last Wednesday with the Abbe's pistol, according to the evidence of Dr. Wilfrid Derome, medico-legal expert whose examination by Crown Prosecutor Calder took up the better part of Friday's hearing of the charge against the priest of having murdered his half brother Raoul in January 1922.

Dr. Derome described tests carried out in the laboratory on Ash Wednesday, the accused's pistol and a number of other 25 calibre automatics being used for purposes of comparison. The target was a thick layer of cotton wadding in which the bullets embedded themselves and so were free from any other marks or scratches than those caused while revolving through the pistol barrel.

The peculiar scratch running parallel with the grooves of the bullets fired from Father Delorme's pistol is plainly visible through a microscope, said Dr. Derome. A number of bullets fired with other Bayard pistols, one of them bearing the aerial number 34678 while the Abbe's pistol bears the number 34672 did not show such a scratch.

Mould of Barrel.

Minute and technical description of an imprint taken of the interior of Father Delormes' pistol barrel, by means of soft sulphur, later hardened and produced in court as a cylindrical object, was made by witness. The new exhibits were filed and will be carefully examined by judge and jury.

In order that the jury may be perfectly clear as to the position of the bullets that struck Raoul Delorme's head and neck, a bust of Mozart was brought into court this morning and the exact spots where the bullets hit, marked with pieces of red paper.

Mr. Justice Martineau drew the attention of the jury to the importance of the exhibits and advised them to examine quilts, cushions and pistol bullets in particular at their leisure so as to exclude any doubts that might be in their minds.

Jawbone Exhibited.

The splintered jawbone of Raoul Delorme was brought into court in an envelope and handed to the jurors by Dr. Derome for inspection. The jurymen handled this exhibit very gingerly, looking with apparent awe at the yellowish bones through which a round hole had been pierced by a bullet.

Dr. Derome gave expert evidence as to the quilts found tied around Raoul's head and as to those found later by detectives at the priest's house. He declared that the blood-stained quilts were of exactly the same pattern, color and texture as those found in the possession of Lily Delorme and in the so-called "trunk room" in the Abbes' house. Comparing the exhibits, the witness said that the stitching thread on one side of each quilt was white and on the other black, a peculiarity common to both of the blood-stained quilts, and those found later. He added that by means of microscopic examination he had ascertained that the number of stitches on all the quilts produced are exactly the same. They are made in three layers, he said an outer and an inner cover and a wadding of thick cotton.

The automobile seat and two cushions were then shown and Dr. Derome stated that after laboratory tests the spots on each exhibit were found to be human blood and soap stains. One of the cushions, said Dr. Derome bore traces of someone having attempted to rub the blood away.

Furnace Man Heard.

Evidence of Ernest Leclaire, furnace man for Father Delorme at the time of the murder, was heard Friday morning. He declared that he could not remember any dates, the lapse of time being too great. He was not subjected to cross-examination by the defence.

WHY RETURNS WERE NOT AT THE REGENT

Theatre Management Promises a Complete Report Monday Night

The management of the Regent Theatre regrets being unable to supply hockey returns as hoped for last evening, but it was not the fault of the theatre. The management guarantees a running report of every play on Monday evening. The explanation of last night's failure follows:

The Canadian National Telegraphs regrets very much its inability to supply you as promised with a running story of Peterboro-Niagara Falls game last night at Niagara Falls, Ont., on account of failure at the last moment of the Niagara Falls loop between the up-town office and the rink, which the lineman was unable to locate. Every possible precaution is being taken to ensure a complete and prompt report of the game in Toronto on Monday evening.

WARKWORTH CONTEMPLATES DIVORCE FROM PERCY TOWNSHIP

AFFAIRS OF VILLAGE HANDLED BY COUNCIL COMPOSED OF FARMERS

Warkworth People in Minority and Unable to Elect Representative to Percy Council — Feel That Village Is Controlled By Outsiders — Statutory Steps For Incorporaion.

NOW POLICE VILLAGE

(By a Staff Reporter.)

WARKWORTH, March 8. — There are ambitious residents of this thriving place who are anxious to see Warkworth divorced entirely from the township and raised to the status of an incorporated village with its own Reeve and councillors.

At present it is a police village, but only the central portion of the place is included in this arrangement, the suburbs on at least two sides being still connected with the township.

There is always a certain amount of friction between township and village, and this never fails to become intense at every municipal election. The villagers being in the minority are not able to elect a representative to the Township Council. Some of the residents feel that the affairs of Warkworth are really managed by outsiders.

The Steps Required.

This agitation has been revived since the dispute that has arisen over the sale of the lighting debentures by the Township Council of last year to a financial firm in Toronto. There is some difference of opinion as to the steps required to incorporate a village, but a reference to the statute makes this plain.

The required population is 750 or over, not 1,000 as some people here claim. If incorporation is required, a petition to that effect must be submitted to the County Council, this petition to be signed by two-thirds of the residents of the district. Tenants who have lived in the district four months or longer may sign the petition, but at least half of those whose names are attached must be freeholders.

To settle the question of population, the County Council has power to order a special census of the district desiring incorporation, the expense to be borne by the prospective village.

To Improve Cemetery.

The shareholders of the Warkworth Cemetery have appointed a special committee, consisting of C. H. Curtis, H. L. Walker, and C. J. Bayes to look after the beautifying of the grounds. This committee will begin a canvass for funds in a short time, and the improvements made will depend upon the liberality of the plot owners and others who may be asked for donations.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Hockey Fans Witness Second Overtime Game of the Season--News of Interest.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8. — The hockey fans of this town witnessed their second overtime game of the season last night when the local youngsters nosed home in front of Lakefield intermediate O.H.A. team by a score of 4 to 3 after ten minutes' extra play. Lakefield presented their regular team, with the exception of Simpson, and they gave all they had to win, but the close back-checking of the locals and the clever exhibition of Stuart in the nets was too much for the northerners.

There wasn't much to enthuse over in the first two periods, the checking being so close that neither team got very far before losing possession of the rubber. The first period ended 1 to 1, and Lakefield were leading 2 to 1 at the end of the second.

The third period was a little more open and both goaltenders were tested frequently. Hill evened the count for the locals when he went through alone from centre, and Ayrhart put them one up when he camped in front of the Lakefield net for Labrash's pass after the latter carried it down the right boards. With but one minute to go J. Ridpath sailed down the left boards and beat Stuart from close in.

Although only an exihbition game the teams agreed to battle to a finish, much to the joy of the fans, and when Hill got hold of the puck at centre and shot when he hit the defence, Webster was caught unawares and the disc landed in the net behind him. His team mates tried desperately to even the score again, but when they rest of the kids beaten Tommy Stuart was in the way and he made two wonderful saves in the last few minutes.

Hill was the most effective of the locals, socring three of the goals, and checking like a fiend. Labrash and Hankinson were also prominent, and worked hard.

L. Sabatino was the pick of the Lakefield team, but he didn't have much on the others. The game was very clean. The penalties being mostly for minor infractions of the rules.

The line-up:

Lakefield—Goal, C. F. Webster; r. defence, J. Sabatino; l. defence, W. Webster; centre, L. Sabatino; r. wing, Blewett; l. wing, J. Ridpath; sub., C. Ridpath.

Campbellford—Goal, Stewart; r. defence, Hill; l. defence, Hankinson; centre, Archer; r. wing, Ayrhart; l. wing, White; subs., Brown and Labrash.

Earl Williams, who for the past five years has driven the stage and carried the mail between Campbellford and Brighton, has disposed of his residence on Sebastapol and his stage route to Archie Hatfield, of town. Mr. Hatfield will take possession of his new home on March 15th, and on April 1st will begin operating the stage. The sale includes two horses, the large motor 'bus and a touring car new last year.

Mr. Williams has made no plans for the future. He is known from one end of the stage route to the other, and was popular with the patrons of his line and with everyone with whom he did business. As a mail carrier no roads were too bad, no storm too severe, to keep him from his duty, and during the February blizzards he was seen making his trip along the Brighton road when the people of the neighborhood regarded it is a hardship even to walk through the snow-drifts as far as their gates for their letters and newspapers.

A Severe Attack Of Heart Trouble Wa Relieved By MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills

Mr. S. E. Barnes, Athens, Ont., writes:—"Four years ago I had a very severe attack of heart trouble. I consulted my doctor; he treated me for some time, but I only seemed to be getting worse. I finally went to our druggist and purchased three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and derived immediate relief from their use, and I can truthfully say they are a wonderful medicine. I always keep a box on hand, and if I feel out of sorts I take a few pills and feel all right again."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FARMERS PETITION FOR CAMPBELLFORD POWER

Extension of Transmission Lines Along Hastings Road Request Town's Power Commission to Supply Electric Service In Township—Cost Will Be Estimated.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8. —Leading farmers in this district ask that the municipal lighting system be extended beyond the town limits, and this raises an interesting question as to whether the Water and Light Commission has the power to do so.

W. J. Duncan, Robert Innis, Deputy Reeve Nelson of Seymour, and John Locke, president of the Agricultural Society, appeared before the commission at the regular meeting and that that the Hastings Road be lighted from the town boundary as far as Beattie's grove.

After considerable discussion it was decided on motion of Commissioners Caddy and Abernethy to have Engineer Scott confer with Mr. Duncan on the question of costs and to bring in a report at the next meeting.

The road referred to is one of the main highways leading to Campbellford and the lighting asked for would prove a valuable service to a large number of district residents who do business here.

Deputy Reeve Nelson on his own behalf requested that his farm residence and outbuildings be supplied with light and power from the municipal plant. Engineer Scott was instructed to look into this matter, and to report at the next meeting.

HASTINGS APPOINTED WM. SCRIVER CHIEF OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

(By a Staff Reporter).

HASTINGS, March 8.—Hastings fire brigade is to be reorganized, and in the future will be conducted on a different working basis. Reeve W. M. Fowlds was, by resolution of the Village Council, last night appointed honorary head of the brigade, with the same authority over the members as that held by the acting chief. The number of men carried on the roll is reduced from 22 to 16. William Scriver is the new Chief appointed last night by the Council, and his salary was fixed at $15 a year. In the past the Fire Chief has been the appointee of the brigade.

The Reeve's Statement.

When the Council took up the matter of the fire brigade, Reeve Fowlds made a long statement making it clear at the outset that his duty to the municipality should be placed above any personal feeling which he had on the subject. He had no fault to find with the brigade or any individual connected with it, but for some time it had been apparent that affairs were being conducted loosely. The brigade was practically independent of the Council, and was running the town.

The Reeve believed that he, by virtue of his office, should have equal authority conferred upon him by the Council with that of the active chief. The latter should be appointed by the Council, not by the brigade, and in order to make him responsible to the former body, should be paid a nominal salary. He could then be required to look after the equipment as well as to attend fires. The assistant chief could be appointed by the brigade, subject to the approval of the Chief.

The Council, the Reeve added, could furnish the brigade with a club-room, rent, fuel and light to be free, provided the men were willing to accept the new terms. For some time the Council has made the brigade a yearly grant of $85 for the upkeep of the club-room.

One Cause of Dispute.

There has been friction between the brigade and the Council for some time, and the action of last night was the culmination of the trouble. By having booths on public holidays and in other ways, the firemen had accumulated a bank account of about $150. Claiming that the furniture in the club-room belonged to them and not to the town, they disposed of some of the fixtures. The fund so raised was finally divided among the members. The brigade recently returned $35.50 to the Council, the amount that was in the treasury in 1921, before the annual grant of $85 was given.

Ignore Brigade's Appointee

When the brigade selcted a chief the appointment was for one year and the office was passed around. A. S. Server.s term as chief expired recently and assistant chief Nelson Scriver, the well-known athlete who last year was the clever catcher for the Hastings baseball team was chosen to succeed him. When it was thought by the firemen that their choice would be ratified.

The council, however, made William Scriver, chief, and the supporter of Nelson Scriverin the brigade left the council chamber declaring that they were through.

Pay of Firemen

The firemen are paid $1 an hour for the first hour worked at a fire and 50c each an hour for all time put in over an hour. Fires so rare in Hastings that the job is not a revenue producer. It is now proposed to further cut the expenditure by devising some way to prevent the calling out of the entire brigade to chimney fires where the men's services are not required but for which they receive the usual allowance. For each practice which they attend the members of the brigade are allowed $1 each.

When the council last night offered to give the men a club room free of rent, to light and heat it on condition that they would turn out to practice without charge they demurred on the ground that under such arrangement the mapority would not show up. It may be decided to abandon the club room altogether and to pay for the practice as usual.

The Fowld's Fire

The fire in the Fowld's warehouse was an expensive one for the town as well as for the firm. The pay of the firemen who worked at it totaled $350. The men are being praised by the citizens for their efficient service and Reeve Fowld's has presented them with acheque for $5, the money to be applied to the good of the brigade, and is not to be divided among the members. The council was in session up to midnight and at that hour the new chief got his first call to duty, the fire in the ruins of the Fowld's warehouse breaking out again. The fire bell was rung but none of the old brigade responded as it was known that the danger was not serious. Chief Scriver attended to the outbreak with the chemical apparatus.

The New Chief

The resolution appointing William Scriver, chief and Reeve Fowld's the honorary chief was sponsored by Councillors Kelly and Hatherley. On motion of Councillor Coughlan the yeary grant of $85 was discontinued.

The new chief is one of the oldest members in point of service in the brigade. He formerly held the same position for three years, and his supporters declare he was one of the best men for the position that the village ever had. Even if some of the old members resign no difficulty is anticipated in filling their places.

Grant to Horticultural Society.

Rev. Father Bretherton and Chas. Plant appeared before the council to ask for the yearly grant of $50, and this was voted. Father Bretherton made the claim that the society is doing more for its patrons in the way of premiums than any similar organization in the district.

Speaking for himself and the society, of which he is the head, Father Bretherton gracefully expressed sympathy with Reeve Fowlds in the loss which his firm had sustained by fire, a loss too which was a serious matter to the village. Mr. Plant seconded everything that was said by the revered speaker, and Reeve Fowlds in return thanks for their kind wishes expressed the hope that the destroyed property would soon be restored.

The pool room licenses were renewed with no change in the tariff of charges.

EARTHQUAKE SHOOK PARTS OF ENGLAND

LONDON, March 8.—(Canadian Press).—An earthquake shook large sections of Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire early yesterday without, however, any appreciable damage being done.

The tremors shook the whole Alfreton district of Derbyshire. House furnishings were rocked by the shocks, and alarmed inhabitants rushed into the streets. The shocks were also felt in northern Nottinghamshire. At Sutton in Ashfield chimneys were toppled over by the tremors. A policeman at Mansfield declared his house shook so much he was nearly thrown from his chair.

What the I.B.S.A. Is:

It is an association of Christian men and women, world-wide in scope, consisting of thousands of church groups known as "Ecclesias." The meetings noted herein are held under the auspices of the Peterborough Ecclesia.

It keeps no church membership. It exacts no dues. It never takes collections, or charges admission fees to its lectures. It is supported entirely by voluntary contributions.

It maintains constantly in the field a large staff of missionaries at no expense to the general public. It pays no salaries, does not believe in a paid ministry, is uncomprisingly against the commercialization of religion in any sense, and does not tie up large sums of money in church properties.

You cannot join the I.B.S.A. There is nothing to join. Your consecration to the Lord, the fact that you are a Christian, your attendance at its meetings, your interest in its work—any or all of these constitute you a member.

Come and see us often. Attend the Bible Study and Devotional meetings. Ask us about our work. Familiarize yourself with our teachings and decide for yourself as to whether or not we are doing the Lord's work.

Sunday evening at 7 p.m.—Subject, "The Trinity." Not Scriptural.

Wednesday evening at 8 p.m.—Devotional Meeting.
Friday evening at 8 p.m.—Revelation 7:14.

SATURDAY, MARCH 8, 1924.

THE BABY CITY.

At noon today, by order of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, Oshawa became a city, the twenty-fifth in the Province.

Peterborough, the nearest Eastern Ontario city to the baby city, welcomes Oshawa into major league ranks.

Sometimes the feeling will not down that calling a place a city does not add a whit to the happiness or the prosperity of a single inhabitant.

Peterborough people were just as contented and perhaps more full of the milk of human kindness when this progressive community was merely a town.

And yet the other name sounds big, and just as the average boy welcomes a chance to wear long trousers and swagger around before envious smaller youngsters, so does the average community as it grows in population and material wealth delight to be known as a city.

So Oshawa's ambition, gratified today, is not difficult to understand.

Oshawa's progress has been rapid.

Naturally so, for she has ridden into city ranks on the modern system of transportation, the motor car.

Her advance has been simultaneous with the rapid growth of the automobile industry, which has carried the centre along until today Oshawa is a full-fledged city.

BETTER SERVICE.

The announcement of improved service by the Canadian National Railway in conjunction with the Stoney Lake Navigation Company for the coming Stoney Lake season is of much importance.

The new arrangement by which a boat will leave Stoney Lake early enough in the morning to connect with a Canadian National train arriving in Peterborough at 8.10 a.m., thus ensuring a Toronto connection that will enable Queen City visitors to reach Toronto at 11.15, will greatly assist in booming Stoney Lake among Toronto people and increasing the popularity of the summer resort for week-end trips.

The service given by the C.P.R. last year with a motor bus in operation between Stoney Lake and Peterborough helped to enhance the advantages of Stoney Lake, and the action of the Canadian National in adding to its accommodation may also be expected to have a very marked effect upon the number of visitors.

Improvements in service that bring more tourists into this district should be welcomed by Peterborough, for the people of this city directly or indirectly benefit by the impetus given to business by a large number of visitors with money to spend.

Stoney Lake should have one of the busiest years of its history as a result of the re-arrangement of the train and boat service, and it is a welcome sign that both railways are recognizing the fact that this beautiful summer resort has many advantages to offer its visitors.

LESSONS FROM BARNUM.

Barnum, the circus man who "discovered" America, at one time in his career toured England delivering a lecture on "The Art of Money Getting." After many years, the high spot of this lecture is Barnum's belief that there is no such thing as luck.

Said Barnum: "There never was a man who could go out in the morning and find a purse full of gold in the street today, and another tomorrow, and so on, day after day. He may do so once in his life; but so far as mere luck is concerned, he is as liable to lose it as to find it."

There is, however, more reason for believing in good luck than in bad luck, even though so-called good luck usually is a combination of intelligence, influence and hard work.

Barnum was a genius, a combination of highly developed imagination and a decided sense of the practicable. Warning against being too visionary, Barnum told of a "philosophic pauper who was kicked out of a cheap boarding-house because he could not pay his bill, but he had a roll of papers sticking out of his coat pocket which, upon examination, proved to be his plan for paying off the national debt of England without the aid of a penny."

This gentleman, had he lived today in America, would most certainly be in politics.

Barnum warned of debt as a consuming monster. He preached thrift—economy—but believed in moderation, cautioning against saving extravagantly as well as spending too lavishly.

M. R. Werner, in his biography of Barnum, records that Barnum considered sound health and abstention from intoxicating drinks and tobacco indispensable for success.

Barnum had two excellent mottoes:

"Unless a man enters upon the vocation intended for him by nature, and best suited to his peculiar genius, he cannot succeed." . . . Parents should ponder this bit of wisdom. Many a man is a failure because his parents stupidly talked him into following a line of work other than what he naturally craved.

Above all, we believe, Barnum would have urged common honesty to young men anxious to get ahead today. He was known as the Prince of Humbugs. But his swindles were innocent and in the nature of jests, and he always gave his dupes their money's worth—entertainment. You can bet, he wouldn't have touched Teapot Dome with a pole a mile long.

EXPERT'S VIEW OF CRIME.

Inspector William Wallace, assistant chief of detectives at Toronto, says "Red" Ryan was only a "plaster hero." Writing in the Canadian Police Bulletin, he takes all the glamor—if there ever had been any—from the career of Ryan, and paints him as a common coward who was not man enough to fight a policeman hand to hand, or even to take a decent chance at escaping, says the London Advertiser.

The case of Ryan had been so fully covered from every angle that there is little more to be added, but the view of Inspector Wallace is interesting because it is from the pen of an expert in dealing with the methods and motives of criminals.

"When thousands of other boys were employed as messengers, office assistants, etc., or attending school, Ryan was filching the money that others were earning honestly," says the inspector.

"Ryan failed because he found no pleasure in honest labor, ignored the rights of others, and cultivated expensive, selfish, vicious habits without developing the desire or ability to support them. Ryan, although still in the prime of manhood, is a dejected wretch, paying the price of his indolence and uncurbed evil desire. No young man can follow Ryan's example without sooner or later meeting with a similar fate.

"Ryan, as a criminal, was never possessed of either the courage or resourcefulness to become more than a common thief, with vicious inclinations."

The Toronto officer, judging from the tone of his article, would have had more consideration for Ryan if he had displayed the courage that would have stood up to fight an officer. Never at any time did he even display this questionable virtue.

Inspector Wallace has no place for soft sentiment that seeks to paint a criminal of the Ryan type as anything but a criminal. He will believe in his manliness when Ryan shows himself to be manly. The view comes with added force because it is that of a man whose business is tracking criminals and sorting over crime from all angles. There will be no dispute with his conclusion that Ryan should never be given his freedom "while he shows the slightest symptoms of the lazy, disgusting characteristics that placed him in his present ignoble position."

THE TURNOVER TAX.

In another interesting bulletin just received by the Examiner the Citizens' Research Institute discusses some of the features of the turnover tax which is being advocated by many people as a substitute for the present sales tax.

The possibility of a 1 per cent. turnover tax, producing as much revenue for the Government as a 6 per cent. limited sales tax, is one of the points dealt with.

This, according to the Institute, depends upon two factors.

(1) Its interfering less with business and therefore favouring larger gross sale and reduced costs to the ultimate consumer.

(2) Its application to all sales of commodities and possibly to all sales of services.

If the turnover tax can succeed better than the sales tax in keeping well within the bounds beyond which business begins to decline and tax returns to the Government begin to diminish, and if its administration is shown to be practically possible in spite of the larger number making returns under it, the conclusions drawn are that it will prove to be sounder from the standpoint of the Government, from that of the practical business economist and from that of the ultimate consumer.

Here is an example of how the two taxes work out, based on the supposition that the business man is able to fix his prices by adding a percentage to the cost of commodities to him.

Under competitive conditions he is not always able to do ths, but in the long run he must be able to add a sufficient percentage to cover his costs or else go out of business.

At all events the example illustrates the relative economy of the two methods.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 7.—With receipts less than 6,00 head, there was not more than enough cattle to go round at the Union Stock Yards this week. There was a good free market each of the four days, and prices were seadily firm. There was some advance in the price of butchers from last week, and in the extreme this would be 25 cents a cwt. For export, eevrything was bought that was available, but in this section only steady prices with the previous week was paid. For heavy choice steers the top was $8.50 a cwt. and this was for a load from Alberta. The best of the domestic supply sold at $8.10 a cwt. and for less choice, down to $7.50 Many of the Ontario loads carry a through billing and this adds 20 cents a cwt. to the price.

For export heifers $7 to $7.25 was paid, and for cows the price went as high as $5.50 a cwt. Heavy bulls for overseas were unchanged with a range of $4.25 to $5.25 a cwt. For domestic butchering, prices were firmer in all grades. One extra choice medium weight steer made 9 cents a pound this week and a couple at 8 cents. For the bulk of choice medium weight butchers the average price was not better than 7½ cents a pound. Choice handyweights sold from 7 to 7¼ cents.

For good mixed butchers $6.50 to $6.75 was obtained, and medium butchers went from $5.75 to $6.25. The opening up of a market for stockers and feeders for grassing later on, has made a stronger feeling in what was previously selling as common butchers, and few were available this week below 5 cents a pound. Butchers' cows were firm, and an odd cow for the Jewish trade brought 5 cents a pound. Other choice cows sold at 5 to 5½ cents, and good cows at 4¼ to 4¾ cents. For medium cows the price was 3¾ to 4¼ cents and common cows sold from 3 to 3¼ cents. Bulls were steady to firm and bolgona bulls sold as high as 3½ cents.

Feeders for the Old Country were bought up to 7¼ cents, and this demand is governing the price for those to go back to Ontario farms. More stockers are beginning to come in, and fair to good stockers around 900 lbs. each are selling at 5¼ cents. Light 500 to 600-lb. stockers are bringing around 4 cents. For the Quebec trade, good springers brought well over $100 each. The immediate prospect for the cattle market is regarded as favorable, although the Lenten season will make a less demand for beef. On the other hand shippers say the country roads are going to intrefere with shipments, and that the yards will not be overburdened with offerings. The current quotations below give, as good a size-up of prices as is possible at the close of the present week.

Calves turned easier this week, and prices declined fully a dollar a cwt. No reason has assigned for this, otherwise than the cheapness of other meats in comparisqn, especially pork. Choice calves at the week and wre not considered good for more than 11 cents, medium, 9 cents, and common calves, 7 cents.

A short supply of sheep and lambs has held ethese prices firm. Choice ewe and wether lambs are saleable at about 15 cents a pound, and good handy weight sheep 8 to 8½ cents. Spring lambs are beginning to arrive, and in one instance sold at $21. Others only brought $17 each.

The lighter run of hogs and competition from Provincial packers sent the price up 50 cents a cwt. to $7.75 f.o.b., $8.25 fed and watered, and $8.75 off cars, and these were the quotations at the week-end.

TORONTO, March 8. — In the annual report of the Ontario Agricultural Development Board tabled yesterday in the Legislature, the chairman A. G. Farrow states there is an increase in the business of the board, an absence of any losses on long term loans, and a reduction of the deficit of earnings as against maintenance from $10,255 in 1922 to $908 in 1923.

The applications for loans numbered 1537, asking for a total of $6,000,000, of these 1234 came before the Board and 953 were granted for loans totalling $3,729,350. Against these loans there was security of $8,658,166. The amount passed in loans was less than 50 per cent. of the value of the property. The applications not granted numbered 281 for a sum of a little over a million.

"What Is The Meaning Of Neuralgic Pains?"

PERSISTENT attacks of Neuralgic or Sciatic pains point to an impoverished nervous system and a weak, watery condition of the blood.

Darting, stabbing pains with intervals of pain or aching are common to neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago.

The pain follows the nerve trunks or spreads to other nerves and there are tender spots.

In the head—neuralgia. In the back—lumbago. In the hip—sciatica.

Temporary relief is not sufficient for the attacks become frequent and more severe as age advances and it is more and more difficult to obtain relief.

Sleep, relaxation, nutrition are necessary to restore the nervous force exhausted by the activities and worries of life.

And in this connection Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most satisfactory treatment available as a means of enriching the blood, strengthening the nerves and building up the system, so that it is able to throw off ailments of this nature.

Why suffer these repeated attacks of pain and torture when by a few weeks' patient treatment with this well-known and proven restorative you can bring your system up to a condition that throws off such ailments.

With vitality running low you are an easy prey to colds and all sorts of dangerous diseases.

Neuralgic and sciatic pains are a warning to you to fortify the system by the use of such reconstructive and invigorating treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Margaret Conolly, Brantford, Ontario, writes:—"For three or four years my health had not been very good, and especially in the Spring I used to become quite run down. For some months before I started using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I had a tired feeling continually, with pains up the back of my neck and head, and at times felt I would have to give up work. I could not think clearly and often had neuralgia, followed by dizzy spells. I was nearly 'all in' when I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but after I had completed a treatment of six boxes, I felt better than I had ever felt before."

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been increased to 60c. the box now contains 60 pills instead of 50 as formerly.

GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. AWARDS 48 EMPLOYEES FOR GOOD WORK

First to Be Made Under Coffin Foundation and Given to Shop Workers of One of Biggest Industries

NEW YORK, March 7.—An entirely new plan of giving recognition to outstanding accomplishments of factory workers was disclosed Wednesday by the General Electric Company in the announcement of forty-eight awards, the first to be made under the Charles A. Coffin Foundation.

These awards, comparable to honors conferred upon engineers by electrical and other engineering societies, are believed to be the first ever given to shop workers in a large industry. Engineers and research men have gained public distinction by their achievements, but the man in the factory, as a rule, has seldom become known to other than his immediate associates, even though his work may have had a revolutionary effect in that particular branch of the industry in which he is employed.

Selected with the greatest care and after months of analysis and study from the company's 80,000 employees, these forty-eight workers are rewarded for some unusual service. For instance, the tipless Mazda incandescent lamp, just coming into general use. The problem of how to remove the tip, which is the seal to the bulb after the vacuum pump has exhausted as much air as possible, has puzzled engineers for years, and it was not until two foremen in one of the shops of the National Lamp Works in Cleveland, both in their early thirties, turned their attention to it that a solution was found.

The most prominent among the engineering staff to win recognition is William Le Roy Emmet, a consulting engineer, who received an award for his mercury vapor boiler, which permits an increased volume of energy from the same amount of fuel.

Probably the most notable work by any of the commercial men given awards was that done by W. J. Delehanty, a salesman attached to the San Francisco office, who worked for four days and four nights untangling a power plant belonging to one of the company's customers in California which had been badly damaged by short-circuiting. Somewhat sharing with this achievement was the work done by John B. Cox, field engineer of the Railway Engineering Department, who spent considerable time in Mexico in connection with the electrification of the Mexican Railway, and that of Oliver J. Nicklaw, an armature winder of the Schnectady works, who did exceptional work for the Tata Hydro-Electric Power Company in India.

One woman, a stenographer, is among those honored. She is Isabelle Douglas Barron, employed at the Pittsfield works, who thought out a better way to keep a record of relations with customers.

The awards mark the completion of the first year's work of the Coffin Foundation, established by the General Electric in 1922, as a tribute to Charles A. Coffin, founder of the company, and for many years its president.

The foundation makes four awards each year from the income of a fund of $400,000. A gold medal is given to the electrical public utility making a distinguished contribution to the industry during the year, won in 1923 by the Southern California Company; a gold medal to the electric street railway which has made a distinguished contribution during the year to improve electric transportation, won in 1923 by the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railway; fellowships amounting to $5000 to college graduates doing research work, seven such fellowships being awarded in 1923; and prizes amounting to $11,000 eo employees of the General Electric who have contributed during the year to the company's efficiency or advancement.

MEETING THURSDAY.

A meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute will be held on Thursday evening next, March 13, and will be addressed by Mr. E. L. Miles, M.G.I.C., F.R.S.A., Engineer and Road Superintendent for Victoria County. The subject of the address will be "Good Roads." The meeting will be under the chairmanship of Mr. Roy H. Parsons, City Engineer. Members are requested to be present at 7.30 for the election of the Nominating Committee. RHEUMATIC PEOPLE CAN FIND RELIEF

Rheumatism attacks people when the blood is clogged with impurities, thus setting up an inflamamtion of the muscles and joints. Cold or wet weather may start the tortures of rheumatism, but it is not the cause, as was once supposed. The cause is thin or impure blood. Rubbing with liniments or applying hot applications may give relief, but that is all; the pains are soon back again. You must treat the trouble through the blood to get rid of it. The value of Dr. Williams 'Pink Pills in cases of this kind is proved by the following statement. Miss Margaret M. Cullen, writing oi behalf of her grandmother, Mrs. A. McEwen, Ormstown, Que., says: "My grandmother, now 85 years of age, was, some years ago, a great sufferer from rheumatism. She tried many remedies, but found none that did her any good until she began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These she used for some months until every trace of rheumatism disappeared. Since then she has taken the pills at intervals, and they have kept her in the best of health. It is marvellous how well and active my grandmother is. She cooked the dinner for the threshers last fall, and she gives credit for her good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She is anxious that her expereience with this spleindid medicine be given for the benefit of others."

If you are suffering from any trouble due to poor or watery blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will help you. Sold by medicine dealers everywhere ,or send by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EVENTS ROSENEATH AND THE DISTRICT

William Leach Died Suddenly While at Work on His Farm.

ROSENEATH, March 7.—The whole community was shocked on Monday to hear of the sudden death of one of its esteemed farmers, William Leach, who resided about four miles south of here in Haldimand Township. He was evidently in his usual health that morning and while going about his accustomed duties was suddenly taken ill. His brother and nephew were with him at the time and before they could summon medical aid he passed away. He was fifty-one years of age and spent all his life on the place where he died. He was a man of sterling character and genial disposition, and will be missed by a large circle of friends.

Miss Millie Sherwin has returned home after spending a few months at Port Credit.

Several of the farmers of the U. F. O. were in Hastings on Tuesday shipping their hogs.

During the meeting Mrs. Fred Harper, who is soon to leave for her home in the west, was presented with two pieces of silverware as a remembrance from the society, of which she was always a willing worker, holding the office of treasurer.

The young people of the vicinity held a very successful dance in the Orange Hall on Friday last. The music was supplied by Stevenson's three-piece orchestra. All report a good time.

CAVAN, March 6.—On March 5 the class in machine gun drill came to a successful close in the Millbrook armouries. There were thirteen drill nights, averaging three hours a night. The squads were under Capt. A. V. Thorne, Millbrook. Drill instructors also came weekly to help instruct the boys.

Every Monday, Captain Horwood came up from Port Hope, and every Wednesday, Sergt.-Major Gilbert came from Kingston. The course, as well as being instructive, was interesting. Instructor Gilbert was in action in France along with Captain Thorne, and the boys enjoyed many good war stories. Captain Snyder came out from Port Hope with Capt. Touroudon for inspection. The inspecting officers complimented the corps on their general efficiency and knowledge of the gun.

Captain Snyder announced that a machine gun camp would be held in Port Hope the first two weeks in June.

WORLD EDUCATION IS WHAT'S NEEDED.

World Peace Can Be Brought About Only By International Education

NEW YORK, March 8.—World peace can be brought about only by international education, Mrs. Albert M. Connett Jr., vice president of the American Women's Club in Paris, believes.

She has just arrived here, bringing a motion picture showing America and France in the World War, which also gives the first complete picture of the rapid restoration of France after the war.

"I have talked to women in all parts of the world," Mrs. Connett declares, "and they all agree there must be no more war and that international education is the only permanent basis for world peace."

Many American women who have traveled in France have cause to remember the hospitality of this American Women's Club in Paris, where they may find thei rown countrywomen and be helped over the difficulties and confront travelers in a strange land.

Sleep Comes At Last

Home Made Cough Mixture Best of All.

The cough that hangs on and hangs on—the cough you've taken everything for with no results, is just the cough that your own home made cough mixture will end speedily.

Make a supply yourself in a few minutes and keep it on hand this Winter—a half pint doesn't cost much; it's better than any you can buy, and the kiddies love it.

With speed almost beyond belief this home made cough mixture stops the toughest hang-on cough, and all because in it there is a substance (too costly for ordinary cough syrups) that immediately cover the membrane like a soothing, healing poultice and blessed relief comes at once.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 8.—Mothers may make of their children geniuses, or they may let the youngsters degrade into dumbbells.

The child's future depends on its mother.

This warning doctrine comes from Mrs. Grace Verne Silver, a mother who developed her own daughter into a genius.

It is repeated in the acts and sayings of Queen Silver, the 13-year-old daughter who, at this age, is a magazine publisher and editor, lecturer, scientist and iconoclast.

"The child gets its chief mental bias from the mother who is with it most during the formative period," comments Mrs. Silver. "It must get brains from her or go without, for by the time school is reached fundamental tendencies have already been formed and aren't likely to be molded there for the better.

How Girl Learned.

"Queen never attended any public or private school. She was home taught and self taught.

"Whenever I read books, I read them aloud—works on science, history philosophy, to which she listened intently even before she could sit up.

"I never sang lullabies to her. I never told her fairy tales nor talked baby talk."

But the girl watched her mother at everything, and soon was able to copy her. Thus her education grew quickly until now she is equal to much older folk in lecture, debate and repartee. She reiterates her mother's thoughts in her magazine.

"Only Humans Lie."

"Do you know," she writes, "that the human mother is the only mother in the whole animal kingdom who tells her young ones what she knows to be falsehoods? It seems to me there is no greater offense against children who have a right to unlimited knowledge as a sound basis for living.

"A child's brain cannot be overtaxed when used along the right lines, but a child's mind may be forever ruined by depriving it of the right to unlimited development.

"The child who doesn't know what it wants to be at 8 doesn't know much."

LEARN COURSE AT HOME BY A RADIO SYSTEM.

It Is a Sort of Compromise Between the Correspondence School and Direct Education.

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

Having succeeded in winning over the American public to the idea of education by radio, colleges and other educational institutions are going a step farther.

They are inaugurating a series of courses on various subjects, by which radio students listening in on them will be eligible for examinations entitling them to "points" toward college entrance, teaching or a degree.

It is a sort of compromise between the correspondence school and direct education.

Almost at the beginning of the popular adoption of radio, the New York Board of Education took up this form of teaching. At first it was just experimental. Lectures were broadcasted from headquarters to a schoolroom that had a receiving set, while observers watched the effect this had on the children.

Parent Talks.

That has broadened out until now the Board of Education in New York is broadcasting daily lectures not only to its children but to their parents. Thus, it is hoped, closer co-operation will be maintained between the school and the home.

According to William L. Ettinger, New York superintendent of schools the programs broadcast through station WJZ between 2 and 2.30 each afternoon will include talks on special phases of education, music lessons, songs, glee clubs, music appreciation, orchestras, recitations in reading English, history, civics, geography, arithmetic, nature study, science, spelling lessons and exercises for special holidays.

But this is only for the development of elementary education. From various colleges throughout the country come lectures for the benefit of those intending to enter such institutions and needing only a few more points to qualify.

To help these especially, such institutions as Columbia University, New York University and others are offering courses by radio, after which examination may be taken to qualify for entrance.

Courses Paid For.

New York University broadcasts a regular daily program through station WJZ, including such courses as municipal affairs, history, philosophy, social economy and systematic psychology. Weekly, on the same day, each topic is continued through a "semester," after which the radio students may take examinations entitling them to certain number of points towarsd entrance or a degree.

Revenue for the broadcasting of this educational series is obtained from those taking the examination, at a certain sum a point. When a course on Browning was broadcast from Columbia University, anyone could benefit by it without charge.

But to get full profit from the course, a student would have to by a syllabus. That would bring in some revenue and more would come in from those desiring to take the examinations at the end of the series of lectures.

WORLD MISSIONS CONFERENCES

For Inspiring, Informing and Challenging All the Departments of the Congregation With the Present Missionary Situation Facing Churches

FOR CHURCH PAGE SATURDAY

The Need.

The present situation on all our Mission fields at home and abroad, and the inadequate response of our Churches to maintain efficiently existing activities, let alone to make possible the undertaking of any advance work, renders it imperative, in the judgment of our Church leaders, both at the Mission Board offices and throughout the country, that in the largest and most effective way possible our people should be frankly faced with the situation, and the various departments of our congregations challenged with its appeal.

The Origin of the Plan.

The plan of the World Missions Conference is the outcome of a conference of representatives of the Mission Boards of the United States and Canada, held last year, at which there was a strong conviction, shared in by all, that one of the very best methods of metinge the need above referred to would be that of a simultaneous presentation of missions, in selected centers, that would be at the same time informative and inspiring, and participated in by all the communions. Accordingly, after careful consultation with representative ministers in various sections of the country, and under the direction of a committee of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, ten or twelve such gatherings, under the name "World Missions Conferences," were held in selected centers in the United States with remarkable success.

So enthusiastic are the secretaries of the American Boards who have participated in these conferences, that the secretaries of our Canadian Boards are extremely desirous that similar conferences, covering both Home and Foreign Missions and adapted to our Canadian situation, be held in a number of Canadian cities.

The Plan Itself.

The programme for these Conferences is built around the simultaneous presentation of the world message in all the churches of the city on a given Sunday, the various Mission Boards arranging to make possible, as far as they can, the placing of a speaker in every church of their respective communions in the city for at least one service. The plan moreover provides, through a series of carefully arranged meetings, for the strongest possible appeal to all the departments of the congregations, including the ministers, the laymen, the women, the young people and the children. It seeks also, through addresses at luncheon clubs, arranging for speakers in schools and colleges and the large newspaper publicity that such a campaign makes possible, to get the missionary idea into the consciousness of the community. Furthermore, it seeks to harness the interest aroused to the programme of the respective churches.

The Programme.

The programme itself will perhaps best illustrate the plan. The copy submitted is based upon much thought given to the question by the various denominational secretaries, conference with other leaders and experience gained in similar gatherings. While following in the main the general outline, the programme will, of course, have to be adapted to meet local conditions in each center where such conferences are held.

Outstanding Features.

(1) The infusion of the missionary idea into the community.

(2) The simultaneous presentation of missions to all the congregations of the community.

(3) The simultaneous appeal, not to one but to all the main congregations of the community.

(4) The ministerial sessions, which at all conferences thus far held have proved to be one of the most fruitful features.

(5) The denominational group meetings at which the interest aroused is linked to the respective denominational programmes.

The Important Factor.

While the central committee, composed of secretaries of the various denominational Mission Boards, may be counted on to co-operate in the largest measure possible, the success and effectiveness of the conference depends in large measure upon the enthusiastic co-operation of the ministers and congregations, and particularly of the committee of arrangements in the confencence center.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Parton

LONGTAIL, THE MOUSE

"Oh, thank you for saving us," said Nick.

Into the drain chased Paddyfoot Purr with the Twins on his back.

Paddyfoot Purr was the big cat belonging to the king and queen of Beanstalk Land. He had suddenly spied a mouse when he was giving Nancy and Nick a ride.

"Oh!" cried Nancy. "It's as dark as pitch! Where are we going?"

But Paddyfoot was too busy running to answer. On they flew, on and on and on, and all they could hear was the squealing of the poor mouse just a jump or two ahead.

But suddenly come water came rushing through the drain and Paddyfoot had to swim hard to keep himself from drowning.

"Ugh! I hate water," he said, paddling for dear life. "I wish I'd never seen that mouse. I shall go back at once. Drains were never made for aristocrats like me. I'll go back and get the herring the cook left for."

So saying, he turned and was swimming back to dry land daylight, when another rush of water came swishing by and washed Nancy and Nick off his back.

I dont know what would have happened had they not had the magic green shoes which had helped them climb to Beanstalk Land. But as it was, they swam around and around and around in the dark, shouting for somebody to save them.

Presently they heard a splashing nearby, and a strange voice asking, "Who are you? And where are you going?"

"We're Nancy and Nick, the Twins," called Nick. "Please save us."

"You are not cats are you?" came the voice again.

"No, no! We're a girl and boy. Do please come and get us and take us out of here," begged Nancy.

"People!" exclaimed the voice again. "They are worse than cats. No, no, I can't save you. I am Longtail, the mouse. People step on us. I don't dare to let you out."

"But we're so little, we couldn't hurt you," said Nick. "We aren't half as big as one of Paddyfoot's paws. You are a hundred times bigger than we are."

"Well, I declare!" said Longtail in surprise. "Then I'll save you. It's very dark and I can't see you, but when I swish my tail around, catch hold of it and climb up on my back and I'll take you out of the drain and show you where there is some lovely cheese."

So he swished his long tail around and the Twins caught hold of it and climbed up on the mouse's back.

It all happened in a second.

"Now, then, out we go!" cried the mouse, starting to swim hard. "Do you know where Paddyfoot went?"

"Good! Then I'll swim the other way. The drain ends under the gardener's cottage. Yesterday he put a queer looking object down in his cellar with the loveliest piece of cheese in it. I'm not selfish, so I'll divide."

All the time the mouse was talking and swimming and swimming, and pretty soon they came to the end of the drain and crawled out of a whole to a dry place.

The Twins jumped off Longtail's back.

"Oh, thank you for saving us," said Nick gratefully. "Maybe we can do the same for you some time."

CONSERVATORY HALL RECITAL

(By Jeannette).

The School of Dramatic Art of the Peterboro Conservatory of Music, under the direction of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, assisted by Miss Mathilde Masson, soprano, and Miss Edna Conner, director of dancing, gave a very enjoyable recital of poetry and a one-act play, "The Masque of the Two Strangers," in the Conservatory Hall last evening, with an appreciative audience of about three hundred people present. The young girls taking part gave a very attractive recital. In the solo readings, their work was marked by an intelligent appreciation of the demands of a varied and delightful programme, and by an unself-conscious bearing that added immensely to the pleasing numbers, given against the undrawn green curtains of the stage. Another attribute noticeable in every instance were the charming voices of the performers and their excellent enunciation. Mrs. Bingham is to be congratulated on her success in training her pupils in the modulations of musical speech.

The first portion of the programme was a series of individual recitations, in a very pleasing selection. A junior pupil, Catherine Millard, opened the entertainment with a dainty rendition of "Peter-kin Spray," by Isabella Ecclestone Mackay; and Doris Parker followed with a fine recital of Pauline Johnson's "The Pilot of the Plains." Irene Breckenridge, with an accompaniment of music, and an interior stage setting, gave James Whitcomb Riley's well-known "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," with dramatic and effective interpretation. There was comedy, well brought out, in "Sunday School in the Cabbage Patch," from Alice Hegan's "Mrs. Wiggs," given by Winnifred Fuller, and Ruby Babcock, in good style, recited "He Fell Among the Thieves," by Henry Newbolt. Much applause followed the pretty dramatization of a midsummer legend, by Mary Howitt, "The Fairies of Caldon-Low," with music accompanying its pretty stanzas. On the stage, the mother (Doris Parker) sits knitting, in her white dress and cap, while her little girl, the dainty Catherine Millard, in white frock with green pannier and crimson cape, tells her of a fantastic fairy vision.

The stirring tale of "Madeline Vercheres," by Dr. Drummond, was given in splendid style by Alma Stinchcombe, a Peterboro poetess, Isabella Valancy Crawford, had representation on the programme in the pretty "Rose of a Nation's Thanks," recited by Etta Smith, and a selection from Nellie McClung's "Sowing Deeds in Danny," was "The Thanksgiving," one of the most pleasing numbers on the programme, and handled by Helen Ross in a manner that brought her much applause. The final solo number was "The Choristers," by Bliss Carman, one of his lovely nature studies that had an appropriate accompaniment in the music of "In a Monastery Garden." Elsie Warrell gave this number in good style.

In the delightful little one-act play, "The Masque of the Two Strangers," the cast of thirteen youthful players, with the assistance of Miss Mathilde Masson, proved themselves equal to the histrionic demands of a pretty tale with an allegorical atmosphere. The "Masque" has to do with the woes of a beautiful young princess who has fallen under the spell of "the grey woman" and has resigned herself to sorrow. She banishes from her sight her companions: Joy, Laughter, Song and Dance, and makes Sorrow her companion. Hope, sent by Poetry and Service, departs on a mission to bring joy to the suffering maiden, and returns finally with Love, the Lord of all, who touches her heart and brings her back to happiness. In the meantime, Fame, Riches and Power try to secure her allegiance.

The role of the Princess Douce-Coeur is played in excellent fashion by Irene Breckenridge, who wears a lovely mediaeval costume of sky blue and white, with pointed silver headdress and pendant flowing veil. Her attendants are Joy (Catherine Millard), in orange frock with green hair wreath; Laughter (Josephine Lynch), in pointed petals of yellow and black; Dance (Jane MacDuffee) in emerald green with black sash, and Song (Miss Mathilde Masson), a lovely figure in flowing white and pale pink draperies. Miss Masson sings, in beautiful voice, several pretty numbers, including "Sweet Bird of Spring," and Jane MacDuffee has several graceful dances, in their efforts to woo the princess from her sorrowful state.

Fame, Riches and Power are a magnificent trio, enacted by Elsie Warrell, Edith Killaly and Doris Cain. Fame wears white, with an odd headdress; Riches is garbed in red hose and green satin doublet, with an enormous white neck ruff and gold helmet, and Power is a striking figure in cloth of gold, with gold Viking helmet and long trident, and a flowing cape of black and blue satin.

Love, the victor, is played by Helen Ross, who has a difficult role, splendidly enacted. The rich form of Love appears in ruby and golden velvet, with white ruff and golden vizor and long mantle of purple velvet.

The little play, with its eager young actors, its pretty stage setting and appropriate costuming, makes an attractive finish to a pretty programme. Its brief prologue and epilogue are given by the bright young Jester (Alma Stinchcombe), who wears the traditional jester's costume of black and yellow, with pointed cap and shoes and bells.

Accompanists for the evening were Madame Masson and Miss Olga Fowler.

Lower House Asked To Get to Business When Senate Turns

Senator Dandurand yesterday proposed they suggest to the Commons to reduce the wordage and do some work.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dirt and dust and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

LABOR COUNCIL WANTS CHANGES

Thinks Government Should Conduct House Cleaning on Parliament Hill.

OTTAWA, March 8.—(Canadian Press.) — The Trades and Labor Council last night unanimously decided that the government should direct its energies towards house cleaning on Parliament Hill by reducing the number of Cabinet Ministers, thereby saving the country large sums of money which would also tend to have a more efficient administration. The Council deplored the action of the government in using the axe on unlucky, low-salaried civil servants and the executive's report in opposing patronage stated:

"That this Council wonders if the government is only making room for its political friends in the near future."

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page, a charming country girl, falls in love with

Janet Mercer, Prudence's dearest friend, an older woman, plain but clever, is masseuse to the delicate child of

Mrs. Vansittart, a pleasure-loving woman-of-the-world, owner of Winston Towers, a beautiful summer home, which she fills with visitors.

Virginian Dale, Mrs. Vansittart's ward, is a blase beauty who counts Traymore among her many swains. She is deeply interested in

Peter Armstrong, a brilliant young inventor, clever, ambitious and reliable. He is already fond of little Prudence whom he has met once.

Traymore fails to keep an engagement with Prudence, and later the same evening, she hears him making love to Virginia. She cries herself to sleep. Virginia, in the meantime has come to realize that she really loves Peter, and she is resolved to capture his heart.

CHAPTER XIII

Virginia Takes Stock

Indolent and self-indulgent in all other ways, Virginia was a stoic when it came to suffering for beauty's sake! For instance—now—she would have given anything to have tumbled into bed, and slumbered.

But there were many little rites that she must go through, first.

Little did Virginia know that at the present moment, that same 'chit' was weeping her heart out for the very man Virginia had snubbed!

The latter, then, arrayed in fascinating pink silk pajamas, stood before the long pier-glass, and proceeded with the tiresome bending backwards, sideways, &c., that was calculated to foster lissom grace.

And there was the strenuous 'windmill' exercise, and a whole host of others to be gone through . . .

Virginia was encouraged in the good work by acquaintance with a certain celebrated moving-picture star, famous for her beauty and svelte figure. They had met on board ship on the Atlantic, and a certain vanity in both had drawn them, temporarily, to each other . . .

The cinema queen, known the world over, had been the amazing product of self-discipline. Virginia had marveled at the physical rigors she endured.

There was the meagre breakfast of hot water, varied occasionally by a glass of orange juice, and a scrap of dry, unbuttered toast. Eggs and bacon were anathema.

Following on that, there was the four-mile walk around the deck, another glass of hot water, and an hour's vigorous session with the trainer in the ship's gymnasium. Seated on that uncomfortable contrivance, the 'electric horse' (which was a cross-section of the real animal, fashioned of wood and leather, and complete with saddle the film-star would press the button marked 'trot', and career for many figurative miles to the improvement of her physique. 'Canter' and 'gallop' buttons were in use, too. Indeed, one day Virginia, fired by the girlish one's example, had mounted the electric steed! and mistakenly had pressed all three together, so that the uncanny animal had actually thrown her off!

After a luncheon that would have been an insult to a robin, the film-star had reclined for a couple of hours in the ship's torture-chamber, known as the Electric Baths. Here she lost pounds of weight under the violent purple lights.

And not content with that alone, she would totter into the Russian and the Turkish lethal chambers, a dim shape in the steam that swirled about her, and endure further woes, not least of which was the pummelling of the masseuse, who concluded matters by playing a high-powered hose upon her at long distance, just as a fireman seeks to overcome a conflagration.

But the flaming urge for Youth and Beauty couldn't be extinguished in the film-star's breast. She was well past forty . . . (nearer fifty, if the Regal Suite five thousand dollars for the six days' trip, that suite had cost her! but don't forget she was a queen in the 'movie' world, and queens always hire the Regal Suite, as any shipping clerk will tell you!) Miss Goldilocks wasn't a day over twenty-nine, unless tea were served in the Sun Parlor, and the light struck her at the wrong angle.

But oh! at night! That was her triumph! Complete with adoring husband trailing possessively behind her, and with the admiring eyes of all the millionaires and millionairesses upon her, she would sweep into the dining saloon a half hour late for dinner, clad in a wondrous Paris gown . . . and at her entry, the clatter of knives and forks would cease, corks and glasses would be suspended in mid-air, and down to the humblest steward every eye would gleam, and every mouth would gape.

For the long, strenuous day was closing, and the film-queen was a radiant, lovely, laughing Twenty . . .

"A mere girl!"

"So beautiful!"

"My dear, did you ever see such shoulders?"

"Such hair! Such eyes!"

"A figure like a boy's—a Greek boy's!"

So it would go.

Virginia Dale was saying to herself: "She's years and years older than me, if they only knew it. But they all adore her! Every man Jack of them! And every woman envies her! Then why not I?"

After that voyage she had hired Annette. Annette had been the film-star's maid. She was proving quite a treasure, in her way.

Virginia rang for her now.

"Turn on my bath, Annette, and put in the reducing salts—about three pounds of them. While the water's running, give me a face-massage. Did you get the new astringent? And did the cook send up the ice?"

The paragon inclined her head.

"Yes, madam. Everything is ready."

Virginia reclined in a low chair and closed her eyes, the while Annette's clever fingers 'manipulated' the muscles of her face. Soothing it felt. This was one part of the beauty regime that she liked.

Her thoughts drifted off to pleasant pastures. Tomorrow she would seek out Peter Armstrong. Tomorrow she would further matters in that quarter. He already liked her. She had every confidence in her own powers.

Unless — unless — that Page child should set her cap at him . . .? Hadn't he looked at the Page child with a curious expression in his handsome eyes?

But that was nonsense? She—Virginia Dale—was a thousand times prettier, and more subtle. She could capture any man she fancied!

BEER CELLAR PLOT BEING UNTANGLED

MUNICH, March 8. — (United Press).—The Government adopted a strong protective measure to prevent possible disorders as the trial of General Ludendorff, Adolf Hitler and others implicated in the beer cellar plot last November was resumed here to-day.

The sittings were secret, but it was announced that Colonel Etzel would be the principal witness at to-day's session.

Ludendorff issued a defiant statement, replying to an attack by General Von Kress, who accused the General of plotting against the Reichwehr.

"Neither I nor the other members of the German folk organizations are fighting the Reishwehr," Ludendorff said, "But we do reserve the right to attack individulas therein."

"Price Class"

The mysterious stranger in the motor industry

Does a difference in price indicate a difference in quality? Why is one car priced 25% to 50% higher than another of the same quality? The 4 questions that a buyer should ask when considering any car

HERE are facts based on world's engineering authority. If you have any intention of buying an automobile, you are urged to read them.

No "Price Class"

There are only two kinds of automobiles today. Economically produced cars which give you more for your money. And cars which are not, and give you less.

Hence two cars may show a price difference of $400 to $1,200 and more. And be of the same quality.

Where the difference comes in Studebaker, producing 150,000 cars yearly, has reduced engineering cost to $3.33 per car.

Other fixed overheads have been reduced proportionately. And these influence Studebaker prices.

* * *

A set of body dies costs $100,000. It will produce many thousand sets of body stampings, each one as perfect as though there were only a dozen made.

By building 50,000 bodies from a single set of dies, Studebaker reduces the die cost per body to only $2.00.

The average small manufacturer has to charge each body $20 for die cost. The difference of $18 is in the price but not in the body.

Thus a car priced at $1,700 to $1,950 can be sold as low as $1,465 when produced economically in quantity. Such a car is the Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car, priced at $1,465. A clear difference of between $235 to $485.

Equalled only by costliest foreign and American makes

Every Studebaker car is Timken-equipped. The Light-Six more than any competitive car within $1,500 of its price.

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men.

For 72 years Studebaker has been a builder of quality vehicles.

In the modern $10,000,000 Studebaker body plants, there are sons and fathers and grandfathers working side by side. Their religion is fine coach building. And this is reflected in their work.

As fine body builders, Studebaker stands supreme.

See a Studebaker—then decide

Buy no car until you've seen a Studebaker. Go over it, point for point. And you will own a Studebaker.

Get an answer to these 4 questions before buying any car

1—Is this an assembled car? Or "partly" assembled. Insist on this answer. Assembled cars pay a profit to from 75 to 100 parts makers alone.

2—What sort of bearings? Studebakers are Timken-equipped. Everlasting smoothness and quiet performance result.

3—How many cars a year does this maker produce? Small productions mean either a higher price or cheaper car.

4—What sort of upholstery? Studebaker closed models are done in Chase Mohair, the finest material for this purpose known. Open models are upholstered in genuine leather.

TORONTO, March 8.—(Canadian Press).—To lay before the capitalists of Britain opportunities for investment in Northern Ontaro, the Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario's Minister of Mines, will visit London shortly after completion of the present sesion of the legislature.

"Capital is one of the outstanding needs of this Province and this country," declared Hon. Mr. McCrea speaking last night at the Annual Dinner of Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy." LAKEFIELD PRE-LENTEN CONCERTS AND SOCIALS

LAKEFIELD, March 6.—A very successful concert was held on Shrove Tuesday night in the Memorial Hall under the auspices of St. John's Church. Notwithstanding the inclement weather and bad roads, there was a large audience, who showed themselves very appreciative of the good entertainment. Rev. Walter Cox, rector of the parish, occupied the chair, and in his irresistible manner thanked the people for braving the elements to attend the entertainment, regretting the absence of Rev. and Mrs. J. Lancaster Hughes, of Young's Point, who were to have assisted on the programme. The conditions of the roads made it impossible for them to make the trip.

The first number on the programme was a humorous sketch given by members of the A.Y.P.A., entitled "The Dressing Gown," which was very amusing and won hearty applause. The caste was as follows:

Peter Peabody, who had become unbearably disagreeable because the dressing gown sent home by the tailor was too long.—R. L. Mason.

Mrs. Peabody, the gentle, patient wife, who cut off half-a-yard of the dressing gown in order to pacify her husband.—Miss Lilian Summers.

Miriam Peabody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peabody, who was broken-hearted because her lover was forbidden the house, and who, to conciliate her irascible father, cut off half-a-yard from the dressing gown. —Miss Ida Webster.

Angus Kirk, the lover of Miriam, who braves the wrath of Mr. Peabody to see the girl of his heart.—Robert Summers.

Sarah, the pert parlor maid, who also cut half-a-yard off the dressing gown to propriate her angry master. —Miss Verna Payne.

Cumber, the butler, who, in order to bring peace to the disturbed household, also cuts a section off the dressing gown.—E. J. Roberts Low.

The parts were all very well taken, with Miss Summers carrying off the honors in her delineation of the meek, timid wife, who was the victim of her husband's nagging, and who, when her new bonnet had been ruined by her husband's temper and a poker, turned, like the proverbial worm, and settled all the differences, bringing the play to a happy conclusion.

Mrs. Osborne contributed a solo, "I bring you a gift of roses," which was rendered extremely well. She was accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Tate on the piano and Mrs. Strickland on the violin.

Mrs. C. S. Tanner gave a piano solo in her usual finished manner, which was much appreciated.

Misses Ethel and Bessie Wilson sang "Rose in Repose," accompanied by W. C. Harvey. In order to fill the gap on the programme caused by the absence of Rev. J. L. Hughes, Rev. Walter Cox gave a reading which dealt with the likes of "Eb. 'Opkins," a philosopher of fiction. Eb. likes fishin', because it's the most interesting and artistic way of doing nothing, and follows this by telling of the many things he enjoys, and to conclude, he tells what he does not like, "People who are always talking about what they don't like."

Mrs. S. W. Sutton sang a solo, accompanied by Miss Lolva Waldon. Mrs. Sutton is one of the favorites among Lakefield's soloists, and did not disappoint.

Mr. Cox gave another reading, "Romance," substituting for Mrs. Hughes. Mr. Cox, who was to have sung a solo, was prevented by sore throat. The pleasure of hearing Mr. Cox is only postponed till a later date.

Mrs. McMillan sang in her usual pleasing fashion, accompanied by Miss Eva M'Ilmoyl.

Master Griffiths sang a topical song which brought down the house, Eric Fawcett officiating at the piano. The local hits were numerous and really funny without any touch of offensiveness. One verse dealt with the new bridge, which was secured for the village by the perseverance of the reeve; another took up the matter of the paving of streets; and a third, the worthy and popular chief of police, with his magnificent uniform and the multiplicity of his duties. Master Griffiths was compelled to respond to several encores.

Messrs. L. Massie and G. Rainnie gave a new and original version of "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Sheen," touching up the train service, the pitch holes in the village streets, the Ladies' Curling Club, and the Warsaw hockey team. They were applauded to the echo, being recalled over and over.

While the stage was being made ready for the last number on the programme—a humorous sketch entitled "The Little Red School-house" —several popular choruses were sung, led by Messrs. Fawcett, Griffiths, Massie and Rainnie.

"The Little Red School-house" was produced by the dramatic club of the Canada Cement Co., who made a hit with their first production, "Harmony Junction." The new sketch was in dialect, the part of the schoolmaster being capably taken by R. Summers, while the pupils were R. L. Mason, E. Robertshaw and R. Green. The Schoolmaster had a very hard time with his unruly pupils, who sometimes were so unruly that bits of dialogue were lost to the audience. The singing was good, the accompaniment being provided by W. C. Harvey. R. L. Mason's impersonation of the Jewish boy was clever, also the part of the "Mother's Pet," which was taken by Roy Green. Ernest Robertshaw's impersonation of the noisy big boy was also clever. Taking it on the whole, their first sketch, "Harmony Junction," gave the talents of the performers greater scope.

After thanks to the various performers, tendered by Mr. Cox, and the singing of the National Anthem, the floor was cleared, and dancing was indulged in till nearly midnight, when the gathering dispersed.

The financial returns were gratifying, and those who labored to make the affair a success were rewarded by the appreciation shown their efforts.

Choir At Home.

The members of St. Paul's choir and a number of their friends held a social evening on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lawless, about fifty being present. The earlier portion of the evening was spent in progressive euchre, at which the prizes were won by Miss Loretto Garvey and Mr. Pattrick. Rev. Father Garvey winning the consolation prize. After the prizes had been awarded, the following address was read by Miss Gladys Charlton, Rev. J. J. Garvey presenting Miss E. Kennedy with a very handsome lamp on behalf of St. Paul's parish.

Miss E. Kennedy,
Lakefield.

Dear Miss Kennedy,

The congregation of St. Paul's, Lakefield, has long desired to express its appreciation of the many and faithful services rendered by you in behalf of the parish. To-night we are assembled here to discharge this pleasant duty. You have always been identified with every parochial activity and have proven a zealous and untiring worker in all that pertains to the spiritual and temporal advancement of the parish. You have given unsparingly of your time and talents, and the good you have wrought will be known only in Eternity. What a debt of gratitude we owe you for your devoted efforts in behalf of the choir, the Sunday School Class, the League, and the other charitable organizations of the parish. To recompense such devotedness we shall never be able, but, as an earnest of our genuine appreciation, we ask you to accept this lamp, whose bright rays, we hope, will be but the faint symbol of that Eternal Light which shall be your portion forever.

Signed on behalf of the Parish.

Miss Kennedy, who was taken completely by surprise, thanked the assembly for their gift in a graceful and modest little speech. Father Garvey gave a short address in his agreeable manner, after which dainty refreshments were served. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and social intercourse. The very pleasant gathering broke up at midnight. The choir rendered several selections, which were much appreciated.

Both men were committed for voluntary statement.

NO DITORCES FOR THEM

Here are Miss Thelma Jenkins of Seattle and her wedded pair of love birds. This species is said to be so strictly monogamous, that if one of a mated couple dies, the other bird invariably pines away of a broken heart. Love birds call Australia and West Africa home. Once, when one of a valuable pair died, the owner placed a mirror in the cage, hoping the bird would mistake its own reflection for the real departed mate. But there was no warmth in what the glass held, and the bereaved songster followed its destiny, and died for love.

Rub Baby's Co'd Away With Vicks

"Is a Wonderful Remedy," Says New Brunswick Mother.

Treat one cold with Vicks VapoRub and, as in the case reported below, you will adopt this external method for all the cold troubles of the family.

When the little ones come in wet and sniffling, just appy Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a flannel cloth. Repeat at bedtime.

Vicks acts like a liniment or plaster. In addition, its ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

The child is usually better next morning and the bad after-effects of internal dosing are avoided. Just as good, of course, for adults.

Mrs. Emanuel Albert, of Ramsay Street, Campbellton, New Brunswick, writes: "Vicks VapoRub is a wonderful remedy. My children were all sick with colds and I rubbed their chests with Vicks, always obtaining the best results. My twr months old baby was very ill with a cold in his chest and I was afraid he would have inflammation of the lungs for he coughed so much. I applied Vicks and it relieved him. I can't speak too highly of Vicks."

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

DENY IMPROPERLY USING POSITIONS TO GET CASH

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(Canadian Press.)—Representatives Langley, of Kentucky and Zihlman of Maryland, both Republicans, denied to-day that they ever had improperly exercised their official influence and received money for doing so. The rumor had named them as the two House members charged before the Chicago Grand Jury with having improperly accepted money.

They were emphatic in asserting they could prove their innocence beyond a doubt if the charges were preferred against them.

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical, because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist the world over or from the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a box which is a decidely economical price, considering the number of tablets each box contains. They are harmless.

Prussia realizes, the letter adds, what warm thanks it owes the Holy See for its efforts for the peace and welfare of the Prussian people during and since the war.

PETERBOROUGH CITIZENS DECLARE THEMSELVES OVERWHELMINGLY FOR IMPORTATION OF ALBERTA'S COAL

Examiner's Test Brought in Only One Adverse Report That Was Swamped in General Chorus of Approval--Verdict is Decisive and Indicates to All Concerned That People Want Alberta Coal --Better Than Hard Coal.

COMMON TRIBUTE IS : "I WANT SOME MORE"

With surprising unanimity the citizens of Peterborough who last fall took Alberta coal for test purposes have declared their complete satisfaction with the Western fuel, and in responding to the Examiner invitation to report their opinions for the benefit of the community, the plea of the great majority is "Give us more."

In all the replies received by the Examiner there is only one making a serious objection to the Alberta coal, and it is completely swamped on every point by a multitude of perfectly satisfied users. The people of Peterborough who have tried the coal and know its values are wholly in favor of its immediate importation as the standard fuel for Ontario homes. Just how wholly the Western coal has satisfied the citizens of this city will be seen in the extracts from their reports incorporated in this article.

The verdict of the people on this test is: "Alberta coal is the best we ever used for stoves, ranges and furnaces, and is the ideal coal for the housewife's cooking fire."

When the first shipment of Alberta coal reached Peterborough it was thought by the Examiner that the public should be made aware of the success or otherwise of the new fuel in order that further expansion in its use might be intelligently directed. To this end cards containing several queries were distributed with each load of coal, calling for pertinent information. Many who received these cards mislaid them before testing the coal, but wrote individual letters telling their experiences, and as a result of these and of the return of the cards, the Examiner is able to inform the citizens of Peterborough of the results of the tests, not otherwise available to the coal-using public.

Some of the questions asked regarding the Alberta coal and the answers were: "Is there as much ash as from United States anthracite?" One user, living on Dalhousie street, said he had one-third more ash, but without other exception the reports are "much less."

"Were there any clinkers?" In no single case did a report mention the presence of clinkers in the Alberta coal.

"Was it smoky?" One user answered "a little," while the remainder answer "no."

"Was it sooty?" The replies are unanimous in declaring the coal not sooty.

"Was it dirty?" There are only two exceptions to the general chorus of "no" in answer to this question. One says "a little," while another reports the coal "dusty."

"Did it give as much heat as anthracite?" Half of the replies to this question were "yes" and half went a step further by saying "more."

"Did it heat as quickly, or quicker?" Here the replies showed enthusiasm for the Alberta coal, with only one person answering 'as quickly," and the remainder declaring it "much quicker, very much quicker, far quicker and quicker." Some correspondents remark on the ease of starting the fire in preparation for cooking, compared with the hard to start, slow firing anthracite.

"Are you satisfied with it?" Only one person who received Alberta coal in Peterborough is dissatisfied with it—or in any event he is the only one who complained to the Examiner. All others express satisfaction, some say "entirely, thoroughly, perfectly, absolutely," and one says "more than satisfied."

What the Users Say.

The favorable reports are overwhelmingly in the majority, and cannot be given in full. The adverse reports are much smaller, and will be dealt with first.

An Aylmer street man says: 'This coal should be sold at a cheaper rate because it burns away faster than anthracite." He takes the sting from his reply by adding, "It gives a far better heat."

Another man who used a half ton, burning it only on top of an anthracite fire, reports the Alberta coal a little smoky. He says: "Used only on top of anthracite when a quick, hot fire was required. Ideal for this purpose."

A Dalhousie street man, in spite of getting one-third more ash from the Alberta coal than from anthracite, declares: "I liked it better than any coal we ever used."

The biggest objection is taken by a prominent contractor who seems to have made a methodical and scientific test of the coal, and so painstakingly has he gone into the matter that his report is worth reproducing in full.

"I have used a ton in my furnace and reserved the test until zero weather arrived," this man writes. 'I have carefully weighed both kinds of coal, and made comparisons when the thermometer showed temperature conditions as nearly alike as possible for both tests, and thermometers in the house showed the same degree of heat in both cases. If I had any bias at all it was in favor of the Alberta product for economic and patriotic reasons. I was surprised and disappointed to find that it required 75 pounds of Alberta coal to equal 50 pounds of anthracite. In cost that means Alberta coal at $10 per ton would be equal to anthracite coal at $15 per ton, or compared as to duration one ton of Alberta coal lasts 27 days, while one ton of anthracite lasts 40 days under the same weather conditions.

"Each kind has its respective advantages and disadvantages. Alberta coal being quick firing and has about half the quantity of ashes that anthracite produces. It is better adapted for the kitchen range where quick and variable heats are required. Alberta coal is not nearly so steady for furnace use as anthracite. It requires more care and more frequent firing to avoid gas and waste of heat. The live coal bed must not be covered by fresh coal, and drafts require closer attention than with anthracite. It can be used to best advantage in fall and spring when a strong steady heat is not required.

"While there is only about half the ashes to handle with the Alberta coal, this is offset by its uneven size, making it more difficult to handle, and it contains more dust and broken particles than the screened anthracite.

"Our various Government committees have not made comparative cost tests plain to the people, and before any extended campaign for Alberta coal is launched the consumer is entitled to know the ultimate cost."

Knock is a Boost.

A Sherbrooke street resident in the course of a letter praising Alberta coal, which will be quoted under the proper section, mentions that "one needs a metal ash bin, as the ashes retain the heat for a long time." While this may appear a disadvantage from the viewpoint of the user of wooden boxes for depositing ashes, it is an added example of the heat-retaining value of Alberta coal.

A Pearl avenue resident says the coal burns away quicker than anthracite, "but is clean, nice coal, very suitable for fall and spring."

A Chamberlain street lady found the Alberta coal very satisfactory except that it was in such huge pieces she had to break it before using.

The Other Side.

This ends the list of faults found with Alberta coal. Not another complaint was made in any of the reports received by the Examiner, and while every objection has been enumerated, it is impossible to quote even a fraction of the letters of appreciation and approbation received.

From Armour road: "I am entirely satisfied and only wish I could get all I require as I am positively sure it is the best coal I ever used, and I consider it would be cheaper than any anthracite even supposing both cost the same price a ton."

From Sherbrooke street: "I have used two tons and regret that I did not procure more. It is all I want for a Quebec heater. It burns well in a stove; gives a good lasting heat and is extremely economical at this year's price."

From Murray street: "It was the cleanest coal we ever had, and never went out until every particle was burned. Would have had more but could not get it."

From Stewart street: "I have found it satisfactory in every way and another good feature is there is no sifting ashes. If I can obtain the same class of coal this year at a reasonable price I shall certainly purchase it instead of hard coal."

From George street: "I never had any coal equal to it. There was not a pound of slate or waste. It all burned to a fine ash. There was no smoke or gas, and it held the fire over night. It fires up very quickly and gives a good heat, and when dampered off holds the fire equal to the best Pennsylvania nut. It is amazing to think of the years we have been importing coal while we have just as good at home."

From Perry street: 'I have given this coal an excellent trial, having had five tons, and can say there isn't any objection to it as far as I can see, being better in nearly every way than hard coal. It burns to an ash, is easily managed in the furnace, and gives a large volume of heat for the amount of coal used. It is better than hard coal in mild weather as it can be run lower and is better in cold weather as it gives more and a quicker heat, and I think burns equally as long as hard coal."

Keep Money at Home.

From Sherbrooke street: "I was fortunate enough to purchase two tons of Alberta coal. I did not have to carry out a lot of clinkers, and the ash from it I use for fertilizer in my garden. While using it I know my money is doing some good in Canada. I don't think our coal dealers are at all patriotic in their preference for U. S. coal."

From Smith street: "This coal is the best we ever had from any point of view. There is very little ash, it is easy to start and easily controlled, and gives a steady heat when desired."

From Claraday Post Office: "If I could only get it right along I would not buy any more American anthracite. We have never yet banked the fire up to last over night, but all the same it has never been out since I started it. There are no ash sifters to buy, as they are not required. I firmly believe if it cost the same as anthracite we should be as well off with the Alberta coal."

From Patterson street: "Can't keep a fire on in the range all night with ordinary hard coal, which goes out, but Alberta coal covers itself with ashes and burns underneath until morning, ready for cooking breakfast. Would stock up for the winter next year if obtainable."

From Simcoe street: 'Will burn no other coal if only I can get Alberta coal."

From Charlotte street: "The very best coal we ever used."

From Parnell street: 'I started to use Alberta coal about the beginning of October, 1923, and my fire never went out until January 15. It is the best coal I ever used. I would have paid $20 a ton for some more if I could have had it. Just fancy a fire burning all night and day for one week and only having one scuttle of ashes. I could put all the ashes out of my ton in a wheelbarrow, where the nut coal that has been sold in Peterborough at a high price would take one man to feed the fire and two men to carry away the slate and clinkers."

Express Appreciation.

Many of those who took part in the test express appreciation in their letters of the Examiner's work in making known the facts about Alberta coal. "The Examiner is rendering good service in making data of this nature available," says one well-known citizen. Another points out that some citizens who became discouraged because of their ignorance of the methods of using Alberta coal scientifically may be induced to attempt a second trial through the splendid character given the fuel in these appreciative letters given to the public by the Examiner.

On an impartial survey of the reports received from all parts of the city, from all classes of the population and from all sizes of houses, covering tests made in stoves, heaters, ranges, and furnaces, and in all kinds of weather and under the exacting needs of different kitchens, the verdict of the people of Peterborough seems to be summed up in the pithy remark of an Edinborough street resident, "I want some more."

Disease Germs Doomed

Many have lost terrors for the Scientist

The progress of recent years in medical research is little short of marvellous. Daily, science kills germs by the million. Daily, new ones are being discovered, isolated and exterminated by the march of medicine.

Science is winning. What were once regarded as serious diseases are now laughed out of countenance by the doctors. Fearlessly they plunge naked hands into swarms of them, their only precaution being to rinse their hands afterwards with a reliable germicidal preparation. We are witnessing the birth of an era when the world will have little to fear from microbes.

Lavoie Company May Locate In Lindsay.

LINDSAY, March 8.—At Friday night's session of the Board of Trade Mr. Lavoie, of the Lavoie Knitting Company, Peterboro, appeared relative to the removal of his plant from that city. He appeared to be favorably impressed with the old Ford garage on William Street as quarters suitable for his factory, and would locate here if $10,000 worth of stock was subscribed by the citizens. Mr. Lavoie placed the assets of the company at $20,000, and if the additional capital were subscribed, it would enable the company to do greatly increased business. He had received an encouraging offer from another centre, but he did not like the town or the location of the site.

A number of the members of the Board of Trade looked with favor on the proposition, and further negotiations will be conducted next week.

BOARD REMOVE TWO MEN FROM POLICE FORCE

Unwillingly Cut the Police Force to Thirteen Men to Keep Within Appropriation Sanctioned by City Council --Express Regret.

WOMEN COMPLAIN

If the City Council had not cut the Police estimates to $25,000 yesterday evening's meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners would have been a much happier gathering. But the estimates were cut.

Faced with the necessity for retrenchement in order to keep within the limit set by the City Council, the Police Commisson could find only one way to cut down expenses, and two constables were named whose service to the city will terminate at the end of March. The absolute impossibility of retaining the present force alone forced the commission to turn adrift two men with whose services no fault had been found, and every member of the commission expressed his deep regret that the necessity should have arisen His Honour Judge Huycke, as usual, made a strong bid for the retention of the returned soldiers on the force.

The resolution introduced by His Worship Mayor Turner was: That as it is necessary to reduce the police force by at least two men by reason of there not being sufficient funds tomaintain the police force at its present strength, these two men be given notice that their services will not be required after March 31 next. This notice will be given the men concerned on Monday and no publication of the names will be made until then.

Doubt was expressed whether this reduction would be sufficient, and the opinion was advanced that two more men may be discharged during the summer. Chief Newhall said his system is crippled by the present reduction to thirteen officers and men, three less than he had last year.

His Honor Judge Huycke remarked that if the city does not want the service and will not pay for it the Police Commission cannot give it.

"Positively Shocking"

Mrs. Arthur Stevenson and Mrs. W. R. Morris, of the local Council of Women, complained to the Police commission through Mayor Turner of vaudeville in a local theatre which they said is some weeks "positively shocking."

Chief Newhall said he had received no other complaints, but he would investigate those made by the Local Council of Women.

Several accounts were challenged by the commissioners, but as these were later taken from last year's surplus no action was taken by the board. There was an account for $200 for legal fees from G. N. Gordon, K. C., one for expenses from J. Wearing, city solicitor, and another for $3.60 from the court stenographer for transcript of evidence.

Mr. Gordon's account is for services rendered in conducting the city's appeal against the judgment given for Chief Newhall in Division court, and the city solicitor's account is for his expenses in the same matter. The $3.60 is for a copy of the evidence given by Chief Newhall in Division court, obtained by Alderman Crowe, and used by him in bringing charges against Chief Newhall in a city council meeting.

Neurities, that painful inflammation of the nerves, will yield to Internal Bathing. Warm water, circulated through the large intestine, rids the body of harmful waste matter that poisons the system. By thus keeping the large intestine, or colon, clean the body functions normally and the purity of blood is maintained.

Mr. J. H. Edmonton, writes: "I suffered from neuritis very badly and tried everything possible as I thought, but I got worse. A friend who had been the same as myself used your Cascade, which he declared cured him.

"I immediately sent for one and I used it for a short time, when I found the pains had entirely left me—before I used the Cascade I was unable to dress myself. I am nearly 58 years and I can throw my arms and legs about as well as some of the youngsters."

As well as neuritis, Internal Bathing relieves constipation, insomnia, biliousness and other complaints that are the direct result of a congested, unhealthy and blood-contaminating colon.

The J.B.L. Cascade is the perfected invention of Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York for Internal Bathing. It is now being shown and explained at at the Warne Drug Company.

Phone or ask them for free booklet about it, or write Tyrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto.

TO-DAY'S OFFERING ON MARKET SQUARE

Butter Was 43 to 45 cents and Eggs Down to 30 cents.

There was a fairly large crowd of buyers in the basket section of the farmers' market this morning. Dairy supplies were plentiful. Butter was selling from 45 to 43 cents a pound, and eggs in some cases were down to 30 cents a dozen, with a general price of 33 and 35 cents. Chickens ranged in price and condition from 25 to 38 cents a pound, a couple of geese were 25 cents, ducks 33, and a turkey was going for about 34 cents a pound. There were little cap onions for seed at 10 cents a pint. Home-made cookies were 20 cents per dozen, and good-looking pickles in three-quart jars were selling for one dollar.

In the open section, the clarion call of a spring that looked far away in this morning's sharp air was heard from the crated boxes, where barnyard cluckers protested against their condition. Pure-bred White Wyandottes were $2.50 and $3 apiece, Barred Rocks were $2 or $3 for a pair, and the auctioneer disposed of a whole family of Plymouths at 96 cents each.

Root vegetables and meat carcasses were selling at the usual prices. A small quantity of mutton was 13 and 15 cents a pound. Potatoes were more plentiful than usual, and moderately cheap, considering prevailing store prices. From $1.75 to $1.85 were prices asked per bag.

OSHAWA IS CITY OF A FEW HOURS

Emerged From the Swaddling Clothes of Its Town Years at Noon Today.

OSHAWA, Ont., March 8 (Canadian Press). — At noon to-day Oshawa became Ontario's twenty-fifth city by an order of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

The occasion was marked by the ringing of bells and the blowing of whistles.

In front of the Armouries a few minutes before the order of the Railway Board took effect, City Solicitor J. F. Grierson formally presented Mayor W. J. Trick with the charter transforming the town into a city.

Rev. C. R. Depencier, rector of St. George's Anglican Church, and the oldest resident minister, asked for a Divine blessing.

To-night a torchlight procession will be held on the principal streets, followed by addresses from prominent citizens and representatives of various organisations.

This will be followed by community dancing in the Armouries and Hall.

PRIVY COUNCIL WILL HEAR NICKLE APPEAL

Judicial Committee To-day Heard tho Attorney General--Appeal in June

LONDON, March 8.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The Attorney General of Ontario to-day was granted by the Judicial committee of the Privy Council leave to appeal in the matter of the prosecution of the Home Bank directors.

Petition for leave to appeal to the Privy Council was in connection with the question of whether ten accused directors and officials of the defunct Home Bank were entitled to a speedy trial before a county judge without a jury on charges brought against them under the Bank Act, making false returns.

The appeal may not be heard before the middle of June, the regular sitting of the Privy Council beginning on June 15th.

TAXATION

Taxation, a subject of vital interest to all citizens, will be the main topic of discussion by Dr. H. L. Brittain of Toronto, Director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, at the Chamber of Commerce annual meeting at the Empress Hotel on Tuesday next, March 11th.

Mr. Brittain is devoting his untiring energy to this subject, and the investigations already carried out by the Institute have suggested the duplication of taxation in the various provinces. One of the recommendations by the Institute is that a Dominion conference on taxation should be held at which representatives from all the provinces should be present and secure action in the reduction of taxation created by economy in expenditures and a definte uniform policy of taxation.

Dr. Brittain's presence in the city on Tuesday should be greeted with a large attendance of citizens.

HON. J. S. MARTIN HERE MARCH 19

Provincial Minister of Agriculture Will Be the Guest of the Exhibition Board and Address Meeting of Farmers.

Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Government, has accepted the invitation of the Peterboro Exhibition Board to visit this city on Wednesday, March 19th in the afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, the minister will address a public meeting in the G. W. V. A. hall especially for farmers, and in the evening he will be the guest of the Exhibition directors at a banquet in the Empress Hotel at 7 o'clock.

This announcement was made by President Denne at last night's meeting of the Exhibition Board at which all the committees submitted their reports on the prize list for this year. The revision of the list was completed and is ready for printing.

It was especially urged that the members should put forth every effort to make the visit of Hon. Mr. Martin a notable event in the Boards and also in the city's annuals. As Minister of Agriculture, he will have a special message for farmers who are generally invited to attend the afternoon meeting in the G. W. V. A. auditorium.

Approve Dates

The original dates for this year's Exhibition were ratified and Peterboro's big agricultural show is booked for September 17-18-19-20. The Board is convinced that their long labors will reach full flowering this fall, that Peterboro will get its long delayed and full share of fine weather, and that the people of the city and district will co-operate even more generously and heartily than ever.

A dog show will be a new departure. A committee composed of W. S. Merrell, Herb Routey, W. J. Welch and A. C. Wolff are already at work on the details. They believe that this show will attract all the dog fanicers of the district and they have the support of the Board in this undertaking.

HAD FATHER AND SON BANQUET LAST NIGHT

A very successful Father and Son banquet was held last evening in Trinity Sunday School Hall, Reid Street. The long tables were decorated in attractive fashion in green and white, illuminated by candles, which contributed to the quaint and festive appearance of the room. Rev. A. J. Langford acted as toastmaster, and with the various speakers of the evening, occupied the head table, which was centred with a large bouquet of roses. Mr. F. McNeeley made one of the best speeches of the evening, and an attractive programme of addresses and community singing was enjoyed, with Messrs. George Munro and George Noftall at the piano. Community singing was led by Mr. C. S. Cummer. The C.G.I.T. Girls proved to be charming and attentive waitresses, and the Ladies' Aid Society of the church catered in excellent fashion for the banquet. Cheese Balls from Denmark

(A Danish Domestic Science Expert and Cooking Teacher, now in America, gave us the recipe for this delightful luncheon dish)

¼ lb. Crisco
2 cupfuls milk
6 eggs
¼ lb. Parmesan or Swiss cheese
Salt and sugar to taste
Deep Crisco
Parsley

Put the Crisco in a saucepan and melt over the fire. Mix flour and grated cheese together, add to Crisco and mix thoroughly. Then add milk, salt, and sugar. Stir over the fire until perfectly smooth; then turn into a mixing bowl and beat in thoroughly the six eggs, one at a time. Drop by spoonfuls in hot Crisco and cook to a light brown.

Have ready stemmed parsley leaves. Dip in and out of the hot fat two or three times until crisp, but not enough to lose the fresh green color. Sprinkle over the cheese balls and serve.

How Mrs. Andrews gives — and takes — back door cooking lessons

PROBABLY no other woman has a job quite like Mrs. Andrews' job. Mrs. Andrews is an experienced home cook. For months now she has been going from house to house talking to women about their cooking successes, their cooking failures, their cooking discoveries. And a very pleasant part of her work is to give hints which often lead to better results.

In the course of her daily chats with housekeepers, Mrs. Andrews is often able to point out advantages in Crisco which certain housekeepers have not appreciated.

For example, she finds that quite a few women still attach to Crisco a certain mystery. When she explains that Crisco is simply a vegetable shortening made from the pure sweet oils of growing plants, housekeepers really begin to appreciate why Crisco foods are more than just delicious — why they are delicious in a healthful, wholesome way.

Surprisingly enough, Mrs. Andrews often talks to women who are delighted with Crisco but who are using it for but a single purpose. For example, one housekeeper with thirteen children (ranging in age from a few weeks to 19 years) seemed especially glad to know that Crisco alone serves every shortening purpose—for cake making —for pie baking and for frying.

Naturally a woman with 13 children needs to know every convenient cooking method. And she needs to know, too, the economy Crisco offers in frying because it can be used again and again if strained after each frying operation. You know you can fry fish, then onions, then potatoes in Crisco and the potatoes will not even hint of the fish or onions.

Delicious— and wholesome results

In talking to friends of Crisco, Mrs. Andrews finds a very real enthusiasm for Crisco's perfectly delicious results. Light, tender cakes that stay fresh longer. Flaky, tender pie crusts. Fried foods that are crisp, brown, and delightfully free from soaked-up fat.

But she finds, too, a growing interest in the healthfulness of home cookery and a growing appreciation of the wholesomeness of foods made from this pure vegetable shortening. And when Mrs. Andrews runs across a woman who entertains a great deal she finds her especially grateful for Crisco because it avoids the smoke and unpleasant odors which would mar the grace and charm of hospitality.

Made in Canada Sold throughout the Dominion

In most of the homes she visits, Mrs. Andrews notices that the wife is constantly thinking about new foods and new ways to prepare foods that will please her husband.

That husbands like Crisco foods so well is probably one reason why Crisco is today the favorite shortening in over 2,000,000 homes. Practically every grocer sells Crisco so we suggest that you buy a can today and begin to give your husband and children delicious Crisco treats. Try Crisco in the recipe printed here or use it in many of your own precious recipes. In effecting the welcome economy of using Crisco in place of butter you will, of course, add one teaspoonful of salt to each cup of Crisco.

Remember, too, that there is no need to refrigerate Crisco for it keeps sweet and fresh indefinitely without ice box help.

For digestible and flaky pastry.

For crisp, digestible fried foods.

For easy digestion, say doctors, a fat should have a melting point near body temperature of 98¾ degrees. This pure vegetable shortening melts at 97 degrees—even below body temperature. Yes, it is very digestible.

PETE'S RALLY IN LAST PERIOD WAS TOO LATE TO OVERCOME LEAD

Ten Minutes From End of Game Peterboro Seemed to Have Chance to Win — Showed Results of Two Weeks' Idleness.

NIAGARA WON 3 TO 1

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 8.—(Canadian Press.)—Showing the effects of two weeks' idleness, Peterborough went down by 3 to 1 before Niagara Falls in the first game of the intermediate O.H.A. finals here last night. A crowd of 4,700 enthusiastic fans witnessed the mighty struggle. The Falls showed superiority over their opponents in the first period and to within ten minutes of the finish of the game, when the Petes came very strong and right to the end appeared to have a wonderful chance to notch the game.

This year is the first in eighteen that Peterborough has reached the finals, while it is the second in all time that the city has reached the last round.

Joe Dwyer in the visitors' net, gave a wonderful exhibition. He "robbed" the Power city of earned goals at all stages and long shots, including Murray's fast one, which were "pie" for him. Parker on the defence, was one of the outstanding men for the "Pets." His rushes were always dangerous, while his defence work was likewise faultless. Collins, Burgess and Ranger were clever on the attack. The visitors are a well-balanced outfit.

Every man on the Falls' team gave a great account of himself. Steve Rice, who has been playing under form of late, turned in a great game. His hook check was working perfectly, while he was dangerous on the attack. Murray and Fraser on the defence, starred. They also got in many rushes, particularly the latter, who netted two of his team's counterse on hard plugging attempts Harrington and Bawtenheimer were always effective, and along with Rice, showed that the forward line is not the weak link in the chain.

Rennie and McAter were not used often enough to show themselves. Mayo in goal, was not called upon as often as Dwyer, but saved on at least three occasions when the "Petes" were close in.

So keen was the interest in the game that there was a near riot at the Arena yesterday when tickets were being sold. One woman broke into the line and the crowd became a mob, and several people were slightly hurt. Cordons were formed around the women in the line to protect them from injury. Several men were in line from Thursday night waiting outside to make sure of tickets. To prevent any repetition of any such scenes last night, a large staff of special police were sworn in.

The Falls had an advantage in the first period, which was fairly closely contested. Fraser scored the first goal after seven minutes of play when he rushed with Bawtenheimer. Dwyer stopped the latters' shot, but Fraser netted the rebound. The home players were in close several times but Dwyer was always equal to their attempts. Murray and Fraser staged several getaways, while Parker did the rushing for Peterborough. Ranger was dangerously close to tying the score when he intercepted a pass which Pennie sent back to his own defence. Pennie and Murray reached him in the nick of time, and the latter was given a rest for his part in stopping.

The visitors were never inside the local defence for a clean opening. In this period the Falls' defence seemed impregnable.

The second period was a hair-raiser, with the home team causing about 85 per cent of the screaming. In the first four minutes of play Dwyer proved himself a wonder. Rice pulled the prettiest piece of work in this section when he secured by a neat hook check, passed to Bawtenheimer, took the return pass and picked a nice opening on Dwyer. The goal was disallowed, Referee Hewitson claiming it offside by an odd inch.

Dwyer saved some eight times in the first ten minutes when goals seemed certain. On the other hand the visitors were not inside the Falls' defence once and Mayo was only called upon to stop two shots from outside. In the last half the visitors were more aggressive, though the Falls had the better of the play. Mayo cleared a dangerous shot from Burgess and was again equal to it when Rose batted a rebound. This was the first time the "Petes" looked real dangerous.

Toward the end of the period the visitors had the puck in at Mayo's feet but could not score. Play travelled back and forth fast at this stage, and both goalers were called upon at close range. Fraser scored the second goal of the game when he worked around for an opening after rushing with Murray.

Peterborough showed their best stuff in the final period, and had it on the local team in condition, the locals showing signs of fatigue as a result of recent games. Mayo made a clever save. Rice scored the Falls' third goal when he took a pass from Harrington for a perfect opening. Dwyer cleared another from Harrington and beat him to the rebound.

EPPA RIXEY.

You can end this baseball argument right away. Eppa Rixey, the left-handed pitcher of the Reds, is absolutely the tallest ball player in the majors. Rixey stands six feet five inches in his stocking feet, if we must get personal. You see him here in drum major uniform, standing considerably higher, seven feet six inches to be exact. Rixey wore the uniform in a Shrine parade in Cincinnati.

FIGURES IN BOXING'S TEAPOT DOME SCANDAL

The tin ear industry of New York is in the grip of another scandal. Charges have been made by Tom O'Rourke, a reformed boxing promoter, that Tex Rickard, world's leading boxing impresario, works hand in hand with the ticket scalpers, thereby creating an unnatural shortage and inflating prices to excessive heights.

O'Rourke charges this condition resulted in many unsold seats for the Dempsey-Firpo fight, while thousands of disappointed fans were turned away from the box office. Rickard's answer is that O'Rourke, having failed miserably as a promoter himself, is trying to make trouble for others. "O'Rourke has a grouch," says Rickard. "I don't work with the scalpers, and I welcome an investigation."

Billy Evans Says

Then came the Giants with three straight titular years, 1911-12-13. In 1914, however, the Boston Braves, by virtue of a remarkable late season spurt erased whatever chances the McGraw boys may have had to set up a new record. The Athletics in 1910-11-13-14 led the American League pack to the final wire. But they slipped up in 1912, thus spoiling a chance to make what probably would have stood for all time.

Whether or not the Giants and the Yankees can put something across which Detroit, the Cubs and the Giants of old failed to do, remains to be seen. They may. And then again, they may not.

Pitching wins pennants. Figured from that angle, the Yankees have a better chance to repeat than the Giants. Unless some of McGraw's minor league stars come through, the Giants may be hard pressed for pitching. The pitching staff of the Yankees looks good enough for at least two years more in high speed. The Giants on what they showed last season and in the world series must be strengthened. There are many who look to the Cincinnati Reds to trip New York. However, the strategy of Manager McGraw cannot be overlooked. Somehow he seems to be able to get results out of most any kind of a pitching staff.

At any rate, each New York entry is face to face with an opportunity that doesn't very often arise in the national pastime.

NEW YORK, March 8 (Canadian Press). — Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion, is considering a number of offers from promoters in New York and elsewhere for matches next summer with Tom Gibbons, Harry Wills, and Luis Firpo, but has not signed any contracts yet, Jack Kearns, the title-holder's manager, said yesterday.

It is understood, however, that Kearns practically has agreed to return matches with Gibbons and Firpo under the auspices of Tex Rickard, both contests to take place in New Jersey.

Kingston gave the Greys considerable opposition in the first period and also in the second, but they gradually weakened and in the last period the winners ran in six counters, four of them in the last seven minutes, when the Easterners had every man up on the attack in a futile attempt to break the goose egg.

GOLF'S BIG AID: CONCENTRATION

BY JOE WILLIAMS.

OUIMET

A great deal of unmitigated bunk is written in the guise of helpful golf advice.

One expert will tell you that the full tee shot with the graceful follow through is the proper and authentic technique.

Another, that the half swing with the sudden wrist snap at the moment of impact is by all means the approved operation.

As a matter of fact, either is correct. Whether you take a full swing with a follow through or a half swing with a "punch" is a matter of choice. The main idea is to time the shot with precision.

A perfectly timed shot will bring gratifying results no matter how it is hit.

However, one phase of golf on which even divergent analysis of experts cannot lead you astray is CONCENTRATION. This is an unromantic word with a professorial tone, but it is as important to golf success as clams are to chowder. You cannot aspire to reasonably good golf until you have mastered concentration.

"I think that was the first thing I learned about the game," says Ouimet. "I wasn't long in finding out that the more thought I put into a shot the more success I got out of it.

"An experience with Jerry Travers, the old Metropolitan player, in one of my early championship matches proved an illuminating lesson. I was still somewhat of a kid at the time. The lottery threw me against the great Travers. This in itself was a wonderful thrill, and I decided to show him how happy I was.

"I went about it by chatting in neighborly fashion between shots during the early stages of the match, applauding Jerry's fine game and asking, I fear, many silly questions.

"All I got out of Jerry was a heavy and prolonged silence. As I recall it now, he didn't speak one word all during the match. He had come out to play in a championship, not to enter a conversational marathon.

"And I'll say he played great golf. I was snowed under completely by a 6 to 5 score or some such margin. Unlike Jerry, I had my mind set on making him realize how glad I was to play with him, and as a consequence I played few good shots.

"I do remember, though, that I finally shut up and played the last holes a bit more decently. Travers gave me an unforgettable lesson that day, and ever since I have placed my chief dependence on concentration."

GROVE SCHOOL WON AND LOST

After the game, which was fast and cleanly contested, Rev. A. W. Mackenzie presented his trophy to the winners, congratulating the boys and their manager upon their success and sporting spirit.

Eric Morin received the cup with thanks to the donor, Rev. Mr. Mackenzie, who, with "Dad" Morin have taken a fatherly interest in the junior teams and have helped in promoting junior hockey in the village.

Grove 7, Kennedy's 3.

The Grove team in the District League won their game from Kennedy's Colts by 7 to 3 before even a larger crowd than that which turned out for the opener. The personnel was:

Grove — Goal, Griffith; defence, Massie and Christmas; centre, Rainnie; right wing, James; left wing, Fawcett; subs., Little I. and Little II.

Massie opened the scoring for the Grove, D. Hill tied it, and Wannamaker put the Colts ahead. Little I. evened the score and Rainnie ended the period with the score 3 to 2 for the students.

Massie got the only goal in the second, and in the final session James, Northey, Fawcett, and Massie were the successful marksmen.

Massie was injured, but returned to the ice after repairs.

HAMILTON 3, KITCHENER 1.

HAMILTON, March 8.—(Canadian Press.)—Tiger juniors outplayed Kitchener at the Arena last night in the first of home and home games in the semi-finals of the Junior O.H.A., but the best the locals could do was to finish with a 3-3 tie and Klem, Kitchener's goalkeeper, was the man responsible for the count. Klem stopped hard shots from all angles and gave a wonderful exhibition. It appeared almost impossible for the Tigers to work their shots past him. Hamilton was off form in the first half and part of the second period, but even then they were an equal match for Kitchener.

Petes Two Goals Down in The Big Series With Falls

Blue Shirts Finish Strong and Have Chance to Sew Up Game in the Last Ten Minutes After a Slow Start.

PLAY ON MONDAY

By Special Staff Reporter

The task before the Petes to win the O. H. A. intermediate championship is to overcome a two goal deficit in the second game at the final series with Niagara Falls which will be played at the Toronto Arena on Monday night.

Last night, in the splendid new Arena at the Falls before 5000 wildly excited fans the blue shirts were beaten three goals to one., after a hard fought and at times spectacular game.

By periods it was 1-0, 2-0 and 3-1 and although the barber pole outfit carrying the hopes of the Niagara district were always in front of the Petes came within an ace of pulling the game out of the fire in the last ten minutes when tiring winners were hard put to it to hold their splendid lead.

Only the toughest kind of luck, counted with some sensational goal keeping by Mayo kept the Petes from bagging a couple of goals and the final bell had a welcome sound for the Falls players and fans which earned the blue shirts one goal and with any horseshoes at all might have meant several more grounds for looking forward to a great battle on the part of the Petes in the final argument on Manday night.

In the early stages the ice seemed to bother Peterboro crew and for the most of the first period they failed to show their usual speed either carrying the puck or checking back. The result was that the Falls aggregation had a big margin on the play in that session. Dwyer's magnificent work in the nets alone saving the blue and white team from a heavy defeat.

Honors were more even in the second period and although the Falls got the only counter the Petes were hitting their stride and looming up as dangerous contenders, missing counter by an eye lash on half a dozen plays.

The improvement continued in the last twenty minutes and in spite of a goal for the Niagara gang early in the period the envaders skating faster and combining better carried the play to the Falls repeatedly and when with five minutes to go Collins scored the Petes only counter and the blue shirts came back with rush after rush, the big crowd grew decidedly uneasy. There was a royal chance to pull up on even terms but luck and Mayo combined to hold the lead until the final bell.

Petes two TWO

The Falls team are the best outfit the Petes have encountered this season. Heavy and seasoned, with plenty of speed and always quick to take advantage of an opening they are a formidable aggregation. Mays is a fine goaler, and the Veterans Fraser and Murray are a tough pair of birds on the defence, and both are dangerous on their jaunts down the ice. Fraser getting two of the goals. Up in front Bawtheuheimer was probably the most effective offensive ly, although Harrington's speed made him stand out, while Steve Rice, the former Aura Lee player was a tower of strength defensively, his checking breaking up rush after rush.

Dwyer has played few better games for the Petes than he did last night. He had a pile of work to do, and the clean cut way in which he performed steadied the rest of the team, holding the Falls at bay in the early stages until the Petes pulled themselves together. Dwyer beat the attack time after time when it looked as if a goal were certain and even the Falls fans cheered his work.

Grover Halpin also turned in one of his best games of the season. Early in the battle he was the most effective puck carrier the Petes had, and his dashes frequently relieved the pressure. Parker did not hit his stride early in the game but in the last period came on with the fine rushing and stick handling that have distinguished his work all season and was decidedly dangerous.

The advance guards improved as the game went on with Burgess and Collins particularly effective. The Petes' right wing seemed to be the first to find his sea legs, and was going strong all the way. Ranger spoiled his effectiveness by drawing three altogether unnecessary penalties, and Niagara Falls scored when he was on the penitent bench.

The teams:

Peterboro: Goal, Dwyer; defence, Parker, Halpin; centre, Collins, rig'tt wing, Burgess; left wing, Rose; subs., Ranger, McPherson.

Referee: R. W. Hewitson, Toronto

First Period

The Petes had no speed on the go-in. The Falls team were outfooting them, and Dwyer was early called upon to save dangerous shots, clearing easily. The first promising Peterboro rush was made by Parker who was sandwiched by Murray and Fraser before he could shoot. Then the Falls came on again and had a big edge. Halpin drew the first penalty but almost immediately afterward Murray was also benched for tripping, and the sides were even. It was at this stage that the Falls gang broke into the scoring summary Fraser came down with Bawtenheimer and gave the left wing a neat pass. His accurate shot was blocked by Dwyer but Fraser went in fast for the rebound and batted the rubber through.

Murray drew a second penalty but his team mates held their own until he came back, and then Parker was chased, and the Petes were hard pressed, Dwyer holding the fort. Rice scored once on a pass from Bawtenheimer but the play was called back for offsides, and the end of the period found the score 1-0 in favor of the Falls.

The Second Period.

The Petes had been considerably outplayed in the first period, but they began to find themselves in the next twenty. Early in the session a nice rush by Burgess was dangerous, but Mayo saved and also smothered the rebound, when Collins closed in. It was the closest the Petes had been to a goal up to that stage. Penalties to McPherson and Ranger did not help the blue shirts any, but they kept on coming. Ranger almost evened the score when he recovered a loose puck behind the Falls' net and brought it in front to be beaten by Mayo. Collins got the rebound but again Mayo saved and a moment later when Collins went in alone the little net guardian was once more in the road. The Falls were dangerous half a dozen times, too, and Dwyer made some hair-raising stops. The period was almost over before the ultimate winners got their second goal. It followed one of Fraser's rushes. Dwyer stopped the first shot, but loose checking enabled Fraser to recover the rubber and work out in front again for a successful drive at close range. Ranger was off for cross-checking at the time.

A Good Finish.

Parker opened the third period with a rush that carried him in on top of Mayo, only to be foiled by the goalie. It looked like a sure counter and was a tough break to lose, especially as a Harrington to Rice play immediately afterward gave the former Toronto boy a close range chance to beat Dwyer.

Ranger was penalized again for cross-checking Bawtenheimer, but even with a man short the Petes more than held their own, breaking away nicely and beginning to work in close. Parker stick-handled inside and tried to pull Mayo out, but the veteran goalie saved a marker by throwing his stick and knocking the rubber away from the Petes' defence man. It was another piece of bad luck.

The Petes were not be denied, however ,and finally Burgess got away nicely and centered to Collins, who raced in on top of Mayor, giving him no chance to save.

That left it 3 to 1, with five minutes to go, and the Petes made a big effort to even the count. Thirty seconds after Collins was inside again, but Mayo saved the day by diving at him, the puck hitting him on the shoulder. Several more chances were missed by the same narrow margin before the bell brought an exciting game to a finish.

Notes of the Game.

Five thousand fans, filling to capacity Niagara's fine Arena, saw last night's game. Hundreds of fans from the American side were there, and the "Star-Spangled Banner" was played in honour of the visitors.

Peterborough had twenty-five or thirty supporters, old boys turning up to cheer for the home town.

Among them was Bob Parker, brother of the Petes' defence man, who journeyed over from Hamilton, and Pete Thornton, formerly a Peterborough player, who dropped in from Buffalo.

Mr. W. A. Fry, of Dunnville, president of the O.H.A., was among the celebrities at the game.

Niagara has a real arena, artificial ice, big time clock, boxes, lots of light, ushers, programmes, band 'n everything.

At the CAPITOL—Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Major Francis Yeats-Brown, who is appearing at the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, telling the vivid story of the recent British expedition's attempt to scale Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain—almost seven miles high—has had a thrilling life, aside from his mountaineering experiences. Major Brown served 19 years in the Indian army, being attached to the 17th Bengal Lancers. During the war he served with the Air Force, winning the Distinguished Flying Cross for gallantry in cutting enemy telegraph wires near Bagdad. For some time he acted as a British secret agent in Constantinople, the heart of Turkish-German intrigue in the Near-East coming under his notice. Later he was captured by the Turks and succeeded in escaping disguised as a German governess. His adventures while escaping are told in his book, "Caught by the Turks," soon to be published in this country. This volume attracted the attention of the distinguished American author, Owen Wister, who wrote a preface for the American edition. Major Brown's lecture and the exhibition of the Mount Everest films makes one of the most unique entertainments yet offered by a local theatre, and will be certain to attract great attention. On the same programme at the Capitol next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, will be Wesley Barry in his latest comedy success, "The Country Kid." The above photos show Major Brown in dress uniform of his regiment in India, and in the disguise of a governess which he wore while escapting from the Germans and Turks in Constantinople.

LOCAL PLAYERS GOOD CONDITION

May Give Niagara Falls a Surprise in Toronto

TORONTO, March 8 (Canadian Press). — In past home-and-home games this year two-goal leads, secured at home, have proved enough to give Niagara Falls Intermediates the decision on the round, and for this reason they are favoured to hold the fast Peterborough team in check here in the O.H.A. final on Monday night, but the Petes have sampled the wares of their smart opponents, are confident that they will carry off the honours.

The Peterborough players are in perfect condition, and the large ice surface here will not handicap them any, as they have plenty of speed.

It is said that the Lift Lock City fans will get down here in a body and let the Falls know that not all the noise is made in the Power City. In Joe Dwyer they have one of the best net guardians in the O.H.A., while the defence is strong and the front line shifty and dangerous on the attack.

Niagara Falls have established an impressive record. Never winning by very many goals at the Falls, they have managed to put their opponents out of the running in the games away from home.

The winners will play against the Canadian So_ here next Wednesday.

SPECIAL TRAIN

On Monday evening at 5 o'clock a special train will leave the C.P.R. station for Toronto. The train will make the trip in two hours and will arrive in Toronto at 7 o'clock, giving the fans plenty of time to have their supper and go to the game which will not get started till 8.15. After the game the special will leave at 12 o'clock and arrive here about 2 o'clock. Three hundred fans will go from Peterboro, and a space to hold this number has been reserved in the Arena.

LUIS FIRPO WINS IN 14 ROUND BOUT

Thirty Thousand Persons Gathered to See Fight

BUENOS AIRES, March 8.—Canadian Press. — Luis Firpo last night knocked out Erminio Spalla, Italian heavyweight champion, in the fourteenth round of what was to have been a 15 round bout. It is estimated 30,000 persons gathered for the bout as compared with 35,000 who witnessed the Firpo-Lodge contest.

The weights as announced were: Firpo, 216½ lbs.; Spalla, 184 1-2 lbs.

The European champion's hopes to meet Jack Dempsey were dashed when Firpo put over one of his famous right to the jaw an laid him flat upon the canvas. During the latter rounds, when Firpo was rushing, he successfully blocked many of his counters.

hard rights, anyone of which would have sent him down for the count.

At close range Spalla punished Firpo severely. The Argentine often was wild, so intent was he on giving his adversary a coup de grace.

During the earlly part of the bout Firpo used his left, but with little success. After the fifth round when Spalla took the offensive and boxed his best of the contest, Firpo used his right almost exclusively.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"DUMBELLS" HAVE GREAT ORCHESTRA.

Syncopated music and jazz bands playing the latest dance hits as soon as they are off the press, have become a feature of all the big musical revues this season. Paul Whiteman and his band do a half-hour turn in the Ziegfold Follies, while nearly every other girl and music show has its own stage orchestra. Scouting for orchestras has become a popular game with the producers. They send out scouts, usually song writers, who visit all the theatres and cabarets in search of talent. Several offers have been made to the Dumbells Company, Limited, for Captain Plunkett's Overseas Orchestra, now one of the headliners in "Cheerio."

Captain Plunkett assembled his ten-piece band in much the same way. Last season he had an orchestra with "Carry On," which proved so popular with the public that he decided to make a feature of the jazz band this year. In every city where the "Dumbells" played last season, the Captain made a point of hearing all the local orchestras where returned men were employed. Whenever he found a particularly good musician he arranged to have him come to Toronto in June for a tryout, paying his expenses there and back in case he would not fit in. As a result he had some forty musicians to pick from, and his Overseas Orchestra, as it now stands, will bear comparison with any similar organization on the American stage.

AT THE CAPITOL

Tom Mix in "Eyes of the Forest," opened for two days at the Capitol Theatre last evening. The popular Tom is as wonderful as ever in a thrilling and adventuresome story that suits his vivid style to perfection. As one of the Forest Air Rangers of California, he goes through some weird stunts, including that of leaping from a horse's back to an overhead plane. With him his wonder horse, Tony, the anical who aids so much to the attraction of his pictures. Tony and Tom altogether come through some hairbreadth escapades and provide their audiences with the thrills always associated with the work of this actor. The intrepid star has plenty of scope in the rol_ of a Forest Ranger, involved with a band of timber thieves and also falls under the handicap of being accused of crime.

A comedy and the usual run if Capitol short reels round out a good programme.

PONJOLA COMING TO CAPITOL ON THURSDAY

Cynthia Stockley's famous romance of South Africa, "Ponjola," which was widely read as a novel, will be the attraction at the Capitol Theatre the last three days of next week. Anna Q. Nillson and James Kirk wood havethe leading roles.

WESLEY BARRY IN GREAT COMEDY, CAPITOL THEATRE

"The "

"The Country Kid," which is scheduled for a run at the Capitol Theatre for three days beginning Monday differs from the usual kind of Barryian vehicles in that it was specially written around the freckle-faced lad. His past pictures have been adaptations of stage successes; but the Warner Brothers, who are producing his pictures, looked about for something different, and hit on the idea of making a special story. To this end, they procured the services of Julien Josephson, noted scenario writer, who has a reputation for knowing all the kinks and idiosyncracies of boys.

Two other youngsters, recently hoisted to stardom and long contracts, support Wesley in this rollicking picture of the trials and tribulations of a young lad. They are, "Spec" O'Donnell, rival of Wesley in freckles and fun, and Baby Bruce Guerin, the four-year toddling bit of humanity whose clever work in "Brass" won him his spurs.

These three are the principal characters in this happy picture which deals with the grim fight put up by young Ben Applegate to keep intact the old home and farm sheltering his orphan brothers, Joe and Andy. As the older brother, Ben is at once mother, father and brother to the younger kids, and does his bit and his best to make ends meet.

A miserly guardian of an uncle makes trouble by packing the two younger kids off to an orphanage, forcing Ben to work for him, and then trying to buy off the farm for a song. This gives Wesley chance after chance to oppose his boyish honesty to the crafty wiles of the old man. In the picture are laugh-creating situations of the three kids, left to shift for themselves among molasses, candy and apples, and an exciting escape and chase from the orphanage, with Wesley, the hero. Interwoven in the story is a beautiful love romance.

AT THE ROYAL

COMING VAUDEVILLE FOR ROYAL

Commencing Monday two new vaudeville acts have been contracted for: Jones and Johnston in a Potpourri of Comedy; Irving Jones, one member of this team, is a prominent writer of popular songs; his name may be found on many of today's hits. Leonard and Willson offer a singing and dancing novelty. The picture programme features a return of the famous London comedy success, "The Better 'Ole," and a Baby _ _y comedy.

RETURN OF "THE BETTER 'OLE'

Sensational Screen Success Returns to Royal Theatre Monday—Bill, Bert and Alf—Warriors of International Fame Seen First Hand.

"The Better O'le," a film version of the successful play, has proved to be a sensational success, as its authors ventured it would be. Taken all round it is the finest British picture ever produced. No foreign picture has ever surpassed it in its power, humor, pathos, production and acting. The film goes much further than the play, is a fuller story, with connected scenes, and it introduces some new characters.

The secret of this play's wonderful fascination is its close and true analysis of the spirit which animated the men in the trenches, that spirit that kept them cheerful under conditions almost indescribable. The army was full of Old Bills, Alfs and Berts, and their sorrows and pleasures—pleasures under circumstances that would seem to make the very thought of the word a mockery—were true reflections of what the daily life of the boys was "over there." But "The Better 'Ole" will do more than raise a laugh and dim the eyes with tears at pathos so piquantly drawn. It will serve to make the people at home understand as perhaps they never have understood, why this war was being fought out to a bitter end, and how much was due to the Berts and Alfs and Old Bills, who stood, a living wall of protection for England against the horrors that overtook Belgium and the places where the German's foot has been set.

The play, centering round the three principal characters, is full of vivid flashes. Old Bill, scorning everything to carry through the piece of work single-handed that saves the French from the treachery of a spy, is a scene of intense and thrilling force, and the return to Blighty is a mixture of humor and true pathos that has seldom been equaled on the screen.

NEWEST STYLES SHOWN IN COMING PHOTOPLAY

You do not have to buy a fashion magazine or consult a modiste to learn what next season's styles in women's wear are going to be. All you have t do is to pay a visit to the Royal Theatr next week and see "Potash and Perlmutter," a First National picture produced by Samuel Goldwyn. The engagement will end on Saturday next.

As every one knows, the story si centered in the New York garment trade, where the styles for the country are originated. Montague Glass' story called for the appearance in the picture of more than twenty living models, and Director Badger obtained them from the establishments of the New York modistes who cater to the wealthy residence of that city. In the production the models wear suits, coats, wraps and dresses of such an advanced style that they will not be seen on the street for another season. The picture will therefore make an especial appeal to the women of Peterborough.

Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr have the leading roles of Abe Potash and Morris Perlmutter in the production, with Vera Gordon as co-star.

TRUTH VS. ERROR.
Mankind are so bewildered by the teachings of the various sects and creeds of Christendom, that they are blind to the glorious revelations of the Bible. Surely it is in line these days to pray as David did. "O, send out thy light and thy truth."—Psalms 43:3.

"Truth is the gem for which we seek;
Oh, tell us where can it be found?
For this we search, and pray and weep,
That truth may in our hearts abound.

"We want the truth on every point,
We want it, too, to practice by;
Divine in nature, 'tis the best,
For truth will ever stand the test.

"Seize, friends the truth, where'er 'tis found,
On heathen or on Christian ground,
Among your friends, among your foes,
The plant's divine, where'er it grows."

SMALL INCREASE PETERBORO RATE

Finance Committee Last Night Struck Tax Rate of 34.6 Mills on the Dollar.

The Finance Committee of the City Council last night struck the rate for the current year at 34.6 mills on the dollar, an increase over last year of six-tenths of a mill. Two of the Aldermen voted against the increase, favoring the abandoning of a storm drain project for this year, and other economies at the expense of the special grants.

The Board of Education was mildly censured for its failure to attempt a reduction of its estimates, while the Council admitted it had no authority to force a reduction. It was pointed out that the Board of Education last year had a surplus of $15,000 and this year reduced its estimates by $10,050, leaving it with $4,950 more to expend than it had last year.

Alderman Crowe said Brantford Board of Education was making an effort tot economize through reducing all salaries over $1500. 'It is not impossible for our Board to do as Brantford is doing,' he said.

Chairman Nagle Phelan pointed out that the Peterborough Board is given its monthly allowance by the city council at the first of each month, nd the board does not pay its salaries until the end of the month. The interests accrued on this lying money last year amounted to over $800. "If they get $800 at 4 per cent we can get $1000 at 6 per cent," Mayor Turner said.

A resolution was passed instructing that the appropriations of the Board of Education and the Separate School Board be paid in monthly installments on the last day of each month which it is expected will prove a gain to the city.

Struck The Rate

The finance committee last night, started with a sum of $10,040 over what the 34 mill rate of last year would yield. Alderman Phelan spoke strongly in favor of cutting the figures down to the 34 mill tax rate, suggesting that $9,000 in the Board of Works appropiations for a start on storm drainage in the city be eliminated and the remainder of the sum made up out of special grants.

Alderman McIntyre: "The storm drains are more essential than some of the things the Board of Education have in their estimates."

Alderman McIntyre: "Why can't they? I know two items alone where they could have saved $2 000."

Alderman Phelan: "They are an elective body. It doesn't seem fair that we should have to prune to the bone on everything while their demands go through. We have only about 2½ cents on the dollar of the appropriation to come and go on."

The demand of the Board of Education this year represents 9.81 mills on the dollar, and all other city work is carried on with the remaining 24.79.

Mayor Turn reproposed the 34.6 mill rate and was opposed by Alderman Maher and Phelan.

Alderman Phelan's amendment that the rate be 34 mills, seconded by Alderman Maher, met with no support.

Band Grants.

After considerable discussion following a visit from John Crane on behalf of the Symphony Orchestra and the reading of a communication from the Caledonian Pipe Band, the 1,000 appropriated for band purposes was divided as follows:

To the Rangers' Band, $400.00; to the Caledonian Pipe Band $300.00; and to the Symphony Orchestra, $300.00.

Mayor Turner proposed the 34.6 for $3,327 against the Police Department for last year, which he submitted should be deducted from the Council's surplus of 1923 and not from the $25,000 appropriation of the Police Commission this year.

His resolution passed without opposition.

Financing.

Mention of a $25,000 block of debentures maturing this year arose out of a discussion of the debentures which come due next year, and revealed the fact that the city has paid more interest than the amount of the principal. The debentures were issued under a special permit thirty years ago with a sinking fund, and the city has paid 5 per cent. interest, amounting to over $30,000 on the $25,000 principal, and has the principal still to pay.

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 8 (United Press). — Nothing new developed in the speculative situation in the brief session of the stock market which closed the week. But the selling pressure that had been in evidence earlier in the week had completely dried up and all the important price changes were on the side of the advance.

In the main body of stocks, the dominant note was in quiet confidence while pronounced strength appeared in a number of individual issues, including Norfolk and Western, Lackawanna, Colorado Fuel and Iron, Associated Dry Goods, and American Locomotive. Stocks developed some semblance of life at the start of the second hour, price movements being almost uniformly on the side of the advance. Rising tendencies were evidenced by Studebaker, Westinghouse Electric, Stewart Warner, Maxwell "A," Cosden California Petroleum, and American Locomotive, all of which were in favourable trade positions.

United States Rubber reached a new high ground on the recovery at 35 1-4 on the expectation of a favourable earnings showing for 1923.

Although emphasising the fact that conservatism still prevailed in business, the weekly tradt reviews were not pessimistic by any means. As an example, one agency points out that while current business lacks the feverish activity that prevailed a year ago, it also lacks the unwholesome tendencies that marked the earlier movement and which led to a setback in many quarters.

Special strength characterised the various sections of the list in the closing doings. All stocks were actively bought on the increase in mid-continent crude oil prices, Sinclair reaching new high ground on the recovery at 23 1-2, Marland at 38, and Phillips Petroleum at 40 1-2.

Among the rails, Norfolk and the Westerns new high for the year at 119 1-2, was the outstanding feature, while Associated Dry Goods enlivened the industrial specialties by spurting to a record high to 100 1-4.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported encouraging stability in prices and freedom from unwholesome tendencies in general business a year ago.

Activity in most commercial lines was described as fairly satisfactory, with a big volume in some fields.

This cheerfulness in conjunction with the February ingot produced figures setting forth the highest output since last May, furnished the back ground for a display of further strength in the early dealings

A new low record of 3.61 1-2 cents for French francs was quoted to-day in the local foreign exchange market. Yesterday's record low was 3.76 3-4.

IRISH OFFICERS RAISE MUTINY OBJECTING TO THEIR DEMOBILIZATION

Dublin Excited Over the Challenge to Government By Officers of Republican Army, Who Seized Machine Guns and Ammunition and Took to the Hills.

MEETING DISTURBED.

DUBLIN, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—Excitement is growing in Dublin in connection with the mutiny in the ranks of the Nationalist Army as disclosed in an official communicaton issued Saturlay night saying that orders for the arrest of Major General Liam Tobin and General Charles Dawson had been issued. Minister of Defence Mulcahy issued the following order to the army:

"Two army officers have attempted to involve the army in a challenge to the authority of the Government. This is an outrageous departure from the spirit of the army which will not be tolerated by the officers and men of the army who cherish its honor.

"They will stand over their posts and do their duty today, in this new threat of danger, in the same watchful and determined spirit that always has been the spirit of the army."

Officers Demobilized.

Major General Tobin, who has evaded arrest, managed to see representatives of the press on Saturday, to whom he declared he spoke for and acted on behalf of old comrades in the Anglo-Irish war. He confessed the mutiny was a consequence of the compulsory demobilization of more than 900 officers last week. Tobin himself was among those demobilized. He complained that there were too many officers who participated in the Anglo-Irish struggle included in the list.

General Tobin was one of the lieutenants of the late Michael Collins.

Guards Doubled.

Precautions have been taken for any eventuality. The guards have been doubled at all the Dublin barracks, leaves of absence have been cancelled and there is generally unusual military activity.

In addition to the trouble at Templemore, where the commandant and other officers vacated the barracks and retired to the hills with machine guns, rifles and ammunition, there are reports of difficulties with the demobilized officers at Gormanstown, Clare Morris and other places.

What is supposed to have been an indirect effect of the mutiny was experienced Sunday at a political meeting here in connection with the bye-election for a Dail seat, to be held Tuesday. President Cosgrave and other members of the Government attended. It was expected Mr. Cosgrave would refer to the mutiny, but he refrained from doing so.

Meeting Disorderly.

About ten thousand persons attended the meeting, which was characterized throughout by extreme disorder. The speakers were frequently interrupted and the speeches were almost inaudible amid the din of cheering and counter-cheering. A nearby shop was set on fire, which nearly caused a serious panic. Attempts to eject the disturbers only aggravated matters. There were frequent shouts of "Up, De Valera," and girls with tin cans moving through the crowd collecting funds for the Republicans added to the din.

irplane Fleet Carried Liquor

WINNIPEG, Man., March 10.— A big airplane seized by the Customs officials at Waugh, Manitoba, was released Saturday to its owner, C. R. Rhodes, of Minneapolis, president of an aviation school there, after Mr. Rhodes had proved ownership and paid duty on the plane, which had not been reported after it had been brought over the border.

The police on Friday completed the seizure of the plane, its ownership then unknown, with the seizure of fifteen cases of whiskey ordered by temporary residents of Waugh, and they suspected a plot to transport the liquor into the United States.

The plane was equipped with runners to land on ice.

Another plane, which the police think is a liquor runner, was forced to land forty miles from Waugh not long after the first had been seeized, while a third is believed to have succeeded in reaching the United States.

The authorities believe that a syndicate in Minneapolis and St. Paul was directing the smuggling. Six men operating the plane found at Waugh escaped, but later the police consigned two of these men at the St. Boniface station.

175 ENTOMBED BY EXPLOSION

Fire Blocked Emergency Exit, Checking Rescue Work in Utah Mine — Believe All Were Killed.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—Fire broke out Sunday afternoon in an emergency exit of the Utah Fuel Company mine at Castlegate, Utah, where 175 men are entombed, and rescue work has been held up, according to word received here.

A glimmer of hope for some of the miners was expressed when a pile of tools was found by searchers and no bodies in the vicinity. It is thought some may have barricaded themselves from the gases.

Additional rescue workers were gassed this morning, but none was fatally injured.

Approximately twenty bodies are on one of the slopes in the Utah Fuel Company mine, but it is impossible to reach them because of obstructions, according to two men who came out of the workings.

The explosion Saturday morning is believed to have been caused by dust. Smoke and dust are poured from the mouth of the mine here, but it has not been determined whether the interior of the mine is on fire.

It was the general opinion that all the entombed men have been killed.

Rescue Work Proceeds

Real headway in rescue work started about midnight. Poison gas, arch enemy of the rescue crews, was dissipated in many portions in mine.

The first explosion occurred from an unknown cause on Saturday morning. The terrific blast hurled timber piping and rails several thousand feet across the gulch. The eight hundred pound steel door of the escapeway was hurled a half mile.

But, despite the alleged confession of guilt he is said to have made to police and his offer to release her, th blind wife persists in saying she will "remain true to the end."

"I have never looked in George's face," Mrs. Prudom says. "But in stinctively I know he is a good and fine man.

She says she will go to the penitential town to be near him if he is given a prison sentence.

DELORME TRIAL WEARY SESSION

Microscopic Examination of Bullets Occupied the Greater Part of Jury's Time Saturday Morning — Crown to Pay For Defence Witness.

MONTREAL, March 10. — While Mr. Joseph Martineau and the jurymen spent the better part of two hours looking through a microscope to examine bullets fired from automatic pistols, Rev. Father Delorme, whose trial on the charge of murdering his half brother Raoul, was proceeding, carefully studied a number of booklets Saturday morning, sometimes underlining here and there with a red pencil and marking pages.

One of the books was "The Second Congress of Medico-Legal Study" over which he nodded his head approvingly from time to time, while another was "The Art of Shooting." Titles of the other books were covered in white paper.

Examined Bullets.

Saturday's session was devoted to the description and the examination of pistol bullets, Dr. Derome, the Medico-Legal expert demonstrating the flight, construction and material of .25 calibre bullets such as used for a Bayard pistol. The examination was most thorough, R. L. Calder K.C., Crown Prosecutor, producing enormously enlarged fac-similes of .25 calibre pistol bullets and pistol muzzle, the latter to illustrate the revolving movement of a bullet in flight. While the jurymen stepped down one by one to look through the microscope, Dr. Derome explained asking them to compare with a plan drawn for that purpose. The comparison was to show scratches on a bullet extracted from Raoul Delorme's neck, and running parallel with the grooves on the bullet, with other bullets which the Crown claims do not show this peculiarity.

Condition Changed.

Alban Germain, K.C., for the defence, protested during this examination that the Crown had not by any means established that the Bayard pistol owned by Father Delorme is in exactly the same condition now as it was two years ago. Mr. Calder retorted that time would not emphasize marks or defects in a pistol barrel, on the contrary, he said, these marks would slowly deteriorate and disappear.

The anticipated apearance of ex-Inspector Jones of New York, as a witness for the defence, was mentioned. Mr. Germain pointed out that very possibly the defence would not be able to afford such an expensive witness.

"I undertake," said Mr. Calder "to have Mr. Jones here as a defence witness at the cost of the Crown."

The examination of the bullets proved a long and wearisome process. Finally the last Juryman had examined the last bullet at 1:15 in the afternoon and the court adjourned.

Duke of York Accompanied Premier to Football Game

Travelled to Cardiff With J. H. Thomas, Colonial Secretary—Civic Welcome to Duke and Minister at Newport, Birthplace of Mr. Thomas — Prince of Wales Given Great Reception By Cardiff.

LONDON, March 10.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Duke of York, Premier Ramsay MacDonald and J. H. Thomas, secretary for the colonies shared a saloon in a train from Paddington station to Cardiff Saturday to attend the football match between teams representing Ireland and Wales. All three wore buttonholes of daffodils presented to them by a Welsh lady dressed in Welsh national costume.

The Duke of York wore a bowler hat, Mr. Thomas a velour trilby while the Premier wore a cap. The Duke accompanied by Thomas left the train at Newport which is the birthplace of Mr. Thomas. Both were given a civic welcome and ovation by a large crowd. The Duke laid a wreath on the cenotaph and inspected the gathering of ex-service men. Speaking at a luncheon subsequently the Duke said he regarded his visit to the birthplace of one of Wales' foremost sons, as a most pleasant duty. Mr. Thomas in a short speech recalled his youth as an errand boy and said it was the British constitution that had enabled a humble boy to return to his old home as a secretary of state and accompanied by a member of the Royal family. Such a constitution was worth preserving.

OBREGON CUTS OFF GENERALS

Those Who Participated In Revolt Dropped From the Government Roll — Five Killed In Action Or Executed—Property Will Be Confiscated.

MEXICO CITY, March 10. — Seventy five generals have been dropped from the government roll by orders of President Obregon, charged with rebellion against the Federal Government. In the list figure nine Generals of Divisions.

Five generals on the list have been killed in action or executed and the others are believed to have been killed or have left the country.

General Cavazos has offered to surrender to government delegates en route to the State of Hidalgo, to treat with him. General Manuel Pelaez, who is held in a military prison, has been released. Pelaez is well known in California where he owns a large ranch.

General Arnulfo Gomez in a statement to the press declared the present revolution would be the last in Mexico, as it had shown the legal institutions were strong and could not be overthrown by disloyal military officials. He added that the War Department is instituting reforms in the army. All elements of which there is the slightest suspicion will be discharged and only officers of undoubted honesty and loyalty will be retained.

Accept Surrender.

The government will accept the surrender of all rebels, respecting their lives, but cannot permit them again to join the army.

President Obregon believes the republic will be completely pacified within twenty days, according to the leaders of the National Pro-Peace Committee, who conferred with him.

The pacifists sought General Obregon's approval of plans to bring about the surrender of the rebel leaders, but admitted that the president would not approve any scheme giving Estrada, Dieguez and the others an opportunity to leave the country on their promise not to resume revolutionary activities.

He agreed that the rebels surrendering under the committee's white flag would have a guarantee that their lives would be spared. The government, however would not recognize the committee's efforts officially, the president was quoted as saying, since such action would be construed by its opponents as a sign of weakness.

Confiscate Property.

Eduardo Delhumeau, the Attorney General, announces that the government will confiscate the properties of military as well as civilian participants in the rebellion under the recently issued Presidential decree. He has asked the War Department for statistics regarding the properties owned by the former Federal officers who joined the rebellion, and will take the necessary steps to carry out the confiscation.

RADIO RESCUED STEAMER'S CREW

Wooden Vessel Sank In Atlantic 200 Miles East of Halifax — Swedish Ship Picked Up Call For Help.

NEW YORK, March 10. — Seventeen members of the crew of the wooden steamship Obernai, which is believed to have sunk on Saturday, have been rescued by the Swedish-American liner Kungeholm, a radio message received at the line's office on Sunday said. It was not known whether the men rescued comprised the entire crew of the vessel.

Calls for help from the Obernai were received on Saturday giving her position as about 200 miles east of Halifax. Soon after, Captain Guhde of the Kungsholm replied that he was steaming to her assistance. The Obernai, an old wooden steamer of about 900 tons, had last been reported off the Long Island coast on Feb. 21, after leaving Halifax on February 14th.

According to the message from the Kungsholm, the ship which was bound out from Gothenburg, expected to reach Halifax last night and New York on Wednesburg morning.

WHEAT EXPORT MAY NOT BE AFFECTED

American Tariff Already Too High In Ottawa's Opinion — Certain Amount Will Be Forwarded.

OTTAWA, March 10.— (Canadian Press.)—While no official comment was made here on the announcement from Washington that the tariff on grain entering the United States will be increased, it appears to be the general impression in Government circles that the increase will not materially affect the Canadian exportations. The thirty cent. import is already too high, several Cabinet Ministers remarked, and an extra twelve cents will not affect exportation from Canada very much. They appear to think that a certain amount of Canadian grain will continue to find its way to the United States, even under the increased tariff.

FRENCH SENATE MENACING LIFE OF GOVERNMENT

Premier Poincare Faces Critical Week and Will Stake Political Existence of Cabinet on Fiscal Bill — Radicals Oppose the Dictatorial Feature.

BUT MAY NOT VOTE.

PARIS, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—The Poincare Government faces another crisis in the Senate this week, when the fiscal measures and increased taxation come up in the Upper House for discussion and a vote. The fight will come on the first article, granting the Government power to enact certain measures by decree. The Senate Committee strongly opposes giving the Government such authority, and Premier Poincare will insist upon it and stake the question of confidence in the Government on the vote.

The Premier and M. DeLasteyrie and high officials of the Bank of France met at Elysee Palace, Sunday under the presidency of M. Millerand, president of the republic, for the purpose of studying the exchange situation, and a cabinet council was held this morning, to decide upon the Government's final attitude before the Senate which, according to the official utterances of M. Poincare, will be one of uncompromising insistence that the Senate vote the bill as passed by the Chamber without change.

Political Duel

The entire radical Socialist Party and 140 Senators are solidly lined up against the Government, and it appears that the Premier is in for his political life, which overshadows that in the Chamber last week.

The exchange situation is weighing heavily upon the Senate deliberations; the Finance Committee sat throughout the day with the avowed intention of meeting Premier Poincare's request for all haste in submitting their report. But the radical party is equally earnest, refusing to grant authority for the decrees, which they deem dictatorial and an encroachment upon the republican constitution. They have drawn up a clause demanding that the decrees be issued by the President of the Republic, instead of the Premier. This however, is not likely to be accepted by M. Poincare.

Delivered Ultimatum

On Saturday the Premier had definitely decided to place before President Millerand the resignation of his entire cabinet, had not the Senate yielded to his ultimatum that the bill must come up for discussion Tuesday. But he accepted Thursday as the ultimate concession of the Senate. He will not accept further postponement, however, placing the Senate squarely before the alternative of voting the fiscal measures or overthrowing the Government.

It is expected that the radical party will abstain and that the bill will be voted by from 140 to 145 senators, with about the same number of opponents abstaining, as was the case in the electoral reform bill.

PREMIER MAY HAVE PERSONAL ADVISER

Sir Campbell Stuart Named As Possible Confidential Adviser and Under-Secretary.

TORONTO, March 10.— (Canadian Press.) — A special despatch from Ottawa says: "It is reported here that Premier King has found his 'Colonel House' in the person of Sir Campbell Stuart, and shortly Sir Campbell will return from England to become Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs and confidential adviser of the Prime Minister on social, economic and foreign issues. This means the retirement of Sir Joseph Pope."

L. C. Christie, who was the best informed man in North America on foreign affairs, left the department in disgust, and is now adviser in foreign affairs to one of the largest London financial houses. When in London Premier King, in addition to Professor O. B. Skelton, had Sir Campbell to advise him. He appointed the Canadian Knight as Canada's representative on the Pacific Cable Board, and also on the Board of the Imperial Institute of Technology. It is believed Sir Campbell would like to return to Canada, and it is reported that he has expressed a desire to become the "Colonel House" of the Canadian Premier. It will be remembered that Colonel House and the late President Wilson severed confidential relations after an experiment of less than two years.

Kenora Smallpox From Lumber Camps

SUDBURY, March 10. — Smallpox regulations are to be enforced in Sudbury schools by order of the Board of Health in order to prevent a possibile epidemic here. So far no cases have been reported in Sudbury. The majority of other Northern Ontario towns are ordering vaccination although infection has so far only made its appearance in Kenora, Chapleau and Cochrane. Smallpox was first reported from a lumber camp near Kenora almost a month ago and shortly afterwards reported from Chapleau, where two deaths occurred. The situation in the latter place has been practically cleaned up by now.

SETS COUNTRY BEFORE PARTY

Winston Churchill Says Doctrines of the Socialist Party Destructive of Britain's Welfare—Offers Support to Conservatives

LONDON, March 10.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Winston Churchill, independent candidate in the Abbey, Westminster by-election, has issued an election address in which he says: "Although I do not grudge the experienced trade unionists their spell of office, and although I recognize the patriotism of some of the leading Ministers and of many Labor men, I am sure the whole spirit of the socialist party and the doctrines they proclaim will be destructive of the welfare of Great Britain and the greatness of the Empire. I am sure the socialist party will not allow their representatives to govern on moderate line very long."

The address refers to the government being in a position to go to the country at any time with a program of bribes and doles which would ruin the credit of the state.

Mr. Churchill declares that he supports Baldwin, the Conservative leader, in his policy of setting the country before party. He adds that he is a Liberal who, if returned, will give every possible aid to the Conservative party on the broad progressive platform now established and he believes his action will be sustained by large numbers of Liberals in all parts of the country.

BIG INCREASE IN INSURANCE

Canadian Business Last Year Largely Surpassed That of 1922 — Total In Force Exceeds Two Billions.

OTTAWA, March 10.—(By Canadian Press).—Figures now available in the Department of Insurance compiled from the annual statements of the companies for the year 1923, show a marked increase in the amount of life insurance issued as compared with the previous year. The gross amount of issued was $631,057,726, made up of $59,712,489 ordinary $95,237,022 industrial and $18,088,215 group. The total compares with $577,531,503 for 1922; $577,207,829 for 1921, and $682,875,950 for 1920. In the latter year the group business then transacted for the first time in Canada amounted to $68,796,355, so that excluding group business the production of business in 1923 comes within three per cent of that record year, 1920.

The total business is divided into that of Canadian companies $414,883,602; British $20,255,156, and foreign $195,918,968. The total business in force at December 31 1923, is placed to the extent of $2,187,404,947 in Canadian companies, $197,879,001 in British companies and $1,148,071,506 in foreign companies the total being $4,433,355,454, which shows an increase.

Some idea of the increase in life insurance in recent years is shown by the statement that the amount now in force in Canada, is approximately the same as that in force in the United States in 1820, when the population of that country was 65,000,000.

Lapses and surrendered policies continued high during the year, the amounts being $73,562,536, and $218,429,860 respectively, as compared with $57,153,385 and $231,685,935 respectively in 1922.

Fire insurance again proved a losing venture although the loss rates of 64.23 is lower than in 1922, during which year it reached the high figure, 68.92. The premiums written, less licensed re-insurance amounted to $52,968,542 and the losses incurred on the same basis to $34,020,065, the figures for 1922 being $51,036,206 premiums and $35,174,938 losses.

NEW BUILDING DECIDED UPON BY UTILITIES

Necessity of New Office and Workshop for Waterworks Department Recognized -- Only Difficulty is in Method of Financing.

ON AYLMER STREET

The members of the Utilities Commission, at their meeting this morning, decided to go ahead with the erection of a new office building for the use of the Water Department. The property on Hunter Street in which the department offices are situated have been sold and must be vacated. It is a question of securing another rented building or putting up a new home for the department.

The Commission owns a lot near the new sub-station, which will be the location for the new building. Debentures for the payment of this property have not been issued, the Commission carrying the price, $5,000, in the bank.

At present the Commission is paying a yearly rental of $300 for the Hunter Street building, and the taxes amount to $150 a year. The estimated cost of a new office and workshop is $10,000, which, with the cost of the lot, amounts to $15,000. Reckoning the interest on this, it is shown that by putting up a building of their own, the Commission would be out about $440 a year additional, but the new quarters would be more suitable in every way, so much so, the Commissioners feel, as to justify the extra outlay.

How to Raise the Money.

There are two ways in which the money required for a new building can be raised, by a vote of the people or by the Council, with a two-third majority, authorizing the expenditure. The Act says the latter course can be taken in the matter of extension or improvements, and the question is raised as to whether a new office building meets these conditions.

Commissioner Bradburn, who is in Toronto attending to his Legislature duties, was called on the long distance telephone and asked as to which of the above methods of financing the proposition he favored. He replied that his idea was to apply to the Council, if that could be legally done.

Mr. Bradburn was instructed to see Chairman McIntyre, of the Railway and Municipal Board and to get his opinion on this point, the answer to be wired to the other members of the Board. The members are now unanimous as to the best plan of raising the money, and if the message from Mr. Bradburn is satisfactory, application will be made to the Council at Wednesday night's meeting for the preparing of the necessary by-law.

Funds on Hand.

The Commission have, by careful management, a balance left over from the amount voted them by the people for a new sub-station. This, however, may not be sufficient for a new office building even if applied to that purpose.

HOLD SMALL HOPE FOR FROZEN GIRL

Gladys O'Connor, 22, Found in Toronto Sewer, Will Lose Both Limbs.

TORONTO, March 10. — Little hope is held out for the recovery of Gladys O'Connor, aged 22, of Rebecca street, Hamilton, who was found on Saturday morning unconscious from exposure, with her clothing frozen to a 20 inch sewer pipe, into which it is believed she had crawled, in the ravine on Danforth Avenue.

Both of the young woman's feet were so badly frozen, doctors stated, it would be necessary to amputate the limbs. She had been unconscious since her admittance to the hospital.

Last week she came to Toronto, and was visiting an uncle, Dr. M. Brown, Carlaw avenue. Four days ago she disappeared from her home. The police and friends at once started a search for her, as she was said to have been suffering from mental trouble.

The girl was found through the barking of a dog which attracted the attention of two boys, to the sewer pipe. They then notified the police.

Loss of memory or mental aberration brought on by worry over family affairs, is the only reason which can apparently be assigned for the disappearance of Miss O'Cononr from the home of her relative, Dr. Michael Brown, last Tuesday, and for her subsequent wanderings, which culminated on Saturday afternoon.

CHILDREN'S HOUR AT THE LIBRARY

Four Score Tiny Tots Crowd the Library Hall to Listen to Stories.

Saturday morning at the Public Library holds a Story Hour for the children, from half past ten o'clock to eleven. Little boys and girls, to the number of nearly eighty, assemble weekly in the big hall at the Library for an interested half hour spent in listening to stories. Then they all crowd into the Juvenile section upstairs, and swarm over the low tables and book-cases that are placed at convenient heights for the little things. Stories about Knights and Fairies, Wild Animals Stories, Natural Science, Geography and History, a big work entitled "Megnetism," that explains in simple words the magnetic properties of many things, all claim their attention along with the big picture books on the tables and wall racks. Many of them have particular wants and others browse among the books, choosing whatever suits an errant fancy. Here a a tiny baby swings small heels on a bench while waiting for her elder sister to make a painstaking choice, and there a red-headed junior peruses through thick glasses the pages of a heavy tome. On Saturdays, the children have much consultation of reference works for school tasks. Last Saturday, "Rice" was much in demand.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

All the gymnasium classes at the Y.W.C.A. are working hard for the coming big exhibition. The Sewing Committee are cutting up webs of varied colored materials and creating many costumes. All mothers of the children and friends who are willing to help with an afternoon's sewing are asked to come in and help the Sewing Committee on Monday, Wednesday or Friday afternoons from 2 to 5.

Now that basketball is pretty well over and outside games have not yet started, this is a good time to come in and learn and enjoy badminton on Saturday evenings.

The campaign in aid of the Y.W.C.A. foreign work is gaining every day, and this week both sides are expecting big returns. A large map of China, India and Japan, divided into squares, each representing a $1.00 share, is waiting to be filled. The 200 members with smaller cards of the same design are selling shares on their cards at 10c a share, and 10 of these shares count one share on the big map. Both sides are even at present, but the Reds have a few more cards out. If possible, all returns should be in by Saturday.

The activities for the week are:

Monday—2, Sewing meeting. 4.15. Intermediate gym. 6.30, De Laval basketball. 8, Beginners' gym.

TRINITY CHURCH CLUBS FAVOR STRICTER O.T.A.

At a combined meeting of the Trinity Methodist Church Associations of Men and Women, the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

(a) In view of the great beneficial results enjoyed by this city and district as a result of the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act, this meeting urgently requests that the Government continue to strictly enforce this Act, and also further curtail the abuse of privileges accorded by this measure, so that intoxicating liquor may not be fraudulently obtained for beverage purposes.

(b) We urge also that penalties for illegal sale or disposal be made more severe and deterrant.

(c) We consider a referendum on this Act quite unnecessary and a needless waste of public money.

(d) The benefits of the Act are so apparent in home conditions, school attendance, business activity and moral results, that a steady continuation of operation will still further augment these beneficial results. In 1914 the committments for drunkenness in Peterboro were 143, whereas in 1922 there were only 12, and these represent the dregs of previous conditions.

(e) In view of such beneficial results, and in appreciation of Attorney-General Nickel's consistent enforceemnt, we urge that no steps be taken that would in any way impair the efficiency of the Ontario Temperance Act.

IRISH ARMY MUTINY SAID NOT SERIOUS

DUBLIN, March 10. Canadian Press. — The extent of the mutiny in the ranks of the National army is apparently less serious that was at first supposed, judging from the statement issued at army headquarters.

The responsible officers absconded at Templemore and a quantity or arms and ammunition is missing. There was a similar incident at Gormanstown Camp. Three officers decamped from Balldonnel airdrome with Lewis guns and twenty-five men broke barracks at Clonmel.

WEAKNESS OF FRANC IS COMMENTED UPON

Despite Military Ascendency of France She is Still Bound by Economic Laws, Says Newspaper.

LONDON, March 10.—(Canadian Press.)—The whole of the London press to-day played up the weakness of French finances as the most important problem in Europe.

Liberal newspapers ridiculed Paris reports that the collapse of the Franc is due to the machinations of "foreign financial plotters."

The Daily News and the Chronicle hinted that Premier Poincare still had an opportunity to renounce the policy he proclaimed when France went into the Ruhr and save the franc.

The News insisted Poincare "or his successor" must tell the French people courageously.

Occupation of the Ruhr has ended in a disastrous financial failure. We must cease our dream that we can use German reparations to pay off our enormous borrowings."

Despite France's great military ascendancy in Europe, the newspaper continued, "she is still bound by the same ordinary economic laws that govern even the weakest states."

TURKS LOSE PRESTIGE BY DEPOSING CALIPH

Last Ground of Claim to Rank As World Power Removed—Indian Moslems Have Been Treated With Contempt--Britain Neutral In Contest For Succession.

LONDON, March 9.—(Canadian Press Cable.)— Little political importance is attached by the British press to the abolition by the Kemalists of the Caliphate so far as Great Britain is directly concerned though it is expected to knock the bottom out of the Khilafat agitation in India which re-united the Hindu and the Moslem in a common discontent.

The effect of the Kemalists' move on Turkey, however, is quite a different matter. It is generally anticipated here that this action by her national extremists will considerably weaken her position and prestige in the world, removing the last ground of her claim to rank as a great power.

Competition of Rivals.

There are suggestions in the London press that the Arab nomination of King Hussein of Hejaz as Caliph is likely to prove the beginning of an exciting competition among a number of highly placed rivals.. One paper points out that Egypt, which will certainly be opposed to the appointment of King Hussein, may put forward King Ahmed Fuad of Egypt while an Afghanistan is another possible claimant. It is expected also that French influences will be brought to bear against King Hussein whom France considers is a British protege. It is affirmed here, however, that Great Britain will observe strict neutrality in the struggle for succession to the Caliphate.

Turkey "Gone Red."

The Daily Telegram terms the action of the Angora assembly as "the most astonishing act of suicide and recklessness in the history of modern times," and declares that the position of Indian Moslems in regard to the Caliphate is intolerable. "They have been cheated and used with incredible cynicism as a cat-paw to secure advantages at Lausanne for a Turkey which now reveals itself as gone "red."

"The Turks have shown themselves to be a gang of imposters who turn upon the Indian Moslems with insulting contempt."

The weekly periodical, The New Statesman, says: "We can hardly pretend that Kemals' treachery will embarass our policy in India. While we should be prepared for some storms in the east we should on the whole welcome this effort by the new Turkey to bring itself into line with western civilization."

The London 'Nation' points out that the disappearance of the Caliphate agitation in India in its present form at any rate will be something gained, but adds that Islam will not remain forever or for long without a Caliph and that none can tell what fierce tides of passion the rivalry for accession to office may unloose.

Indian Moslems Shocked.

Advices from India represent Moslem opinion there as shocked and dismayed, almost incredulous. Indian Musselmans declare that no section of Islam is entitled to instal or depose a Caliphate and it is suggested that an immediate conference of representatives of the Moslem nations should be held to prevent Islam being shattered. Doubt, however, is expressed whether a conference can be arranged in view of the deep cleavages in the body of Islam. One Indian writer proposes that India be allowed the privilege of being the Caliph's home. On the other hand a suggestion is made in Paris that France as a great Mohammedan power should offer the deposed Caliph, Abdul Medjid, hospitality in Tunis or elsewhere.

French Comment.

There was an outburst of charges of British intrigue in the French newspapers on receipt of the news of the Arab proclamation of King Hussein as Caliph. The Paris Matin heads the news: "British now have their Caliph." Le Journal says that by a stroke of luck and folly the Kemalists have played into the hands of British aspirations, but the importance of the Arab proclamations must not be exaggerated. The vast Moslem masses of Africa and Asia, says the Matin, will always take up the challenge against foreign intrigue. They will be ready to turn towards an independent chief like the Amir of Afghanistan..

The Echo d'Paris says it may be taken for granted that the activities of British agents have not been in vain. The fact that the Caliphate is being transferred from a Turkish dynasty to an Arab may have serious consequences especially in regard to the relations of Angora to Hedjaz.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SLEIGH DRIVE

MARMORA, March 10.—On Friday evening about fifty young people including the Busy Bees Class, the Cheerful Workers Class and the Young Men's Class of the Methodist Sunday School and others, made a sleighing party to the home of Mr. W. Bonter.

Owing to the kindness of Mr. G. B. Airhart and Mr. W. Bonter sleighs were provided for all.

In the early part of the evening a number of games such as spin-the-pan and blind-man's buff were played. Then different groups were formed and a magazine was written. Each division of this magazine was well given and the resulting paper was very amusing and entertaining.

The social was in the form of an apron and tie social and so before lunch the boys purchased their ties and went to search for their partner with the corresponding apron.

The lunch menu consisted of hot beans, sandwiches, cake and jello. After lunch an impromptu program was begun but on account of the lateness of the hour was discontinued.

Another feature of the evening was a spelling match where all displayed their skill.

After giving the hostesses, Mrs. and the Misses Bonter a vote of thanks all left for the return sleigh ride which was enlivened by singing and merry laughter.

Mrs. Mitchell of Toronto is visiting her mother, Mrs. O. R. Jones of Marmora.

Daily Mail Trust Believed to Have Made a Million Pounds In Transaction.

LONDON, March 9. — Canadian Press Cable. — According to the News of the World, the capital of the new company being formed by Sir William Berry to purchase from the Daily Mail Trust some of the papers the trust acquired from Sir Edward Hulton, will be 8,000,000 pounds made up of 4,750,000 pounds of 8 per cent, preference shares, 1,500,000 debentures and 1,750,000 of common shares.

The Daily Mail Trust will retain the Glasgow newspapers which were acquired by the Hulton concern for 1,000,000 pounds; also the Daily Sketch, the Sunday Herald and a 49 per cent. share of the Evening Standard.

CHURCHES BUSY IN CAMPBELLFORD

Day of Prayer In Which Several Organizations Took Part — Women's Institute Met.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10.—The Women's Day of Prayer was held in the Parish Hall on Friday afternoon at three o'clock, with a good attendance. The President of Christ Church Auxiliary was in the chair and announced the programme. The opening hymn was sung, after which Mrs. Archer in a few well-chosen words, explained the object of the meeting.

Members of Women's Missionary Societies of the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian Churches were present, with Salvation Army Captain Stroud and Lieutenant Hurst and the W.M.S. of Burnbrae. The meeting was helpful to all. This Prayer Day is held throughout the Dominion with the churches of each city, town and village all joining.

The fifty-first Psalm was read. Then a Bible reading was given by Mrs. Hutcheon of Burnbrae. A solo, "O, Jesus, I Have Promised," was beautifully sung by Mrs. Chas. Milne of Burnbrae. A number of prayers on different topics were made by Mrs. Redner and Mrs. Ashton of the Methodist Church. The Apostles' Creed was repeated, and the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," was sung. Prayers followed by the Salvation Army Captain and Lieutenant, and others by Mrs. Ballantyne and Mrs. Hay of the Presbyterian Church. The solo, "My Grace is Sufficient for Thee," sung by Miss E. Meiklejohn, was enjoyed by all. Prayers were led by Mrs. Weston and Mrs. Bennett of the Baptist Church and Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Jenkins of the Anglican Church. A solo, "Prayer," was well sung by Mrs. (Dr.) F. De Free. The Lord's Prayer in Unison, with the consecration hymn, "Take My Life and Let It Be," and the benediction by Mrs. Archer, closed the splendid meeting.

A splendid report of the institute convention was given by the delegates, Mrs. Roy Flemming and Mrs. George Von Volkenburg. The same committees were appointed as last year for looking after the printing of next year's programmes.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in community singing, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess. There were sixteen ladies present. Miss May McArthur is the Secretary-Treasurer of the W. I.

HAVELOCK BOYS HAD A BANQUET

Father and Son Event Was Most Successful--Inspirational Addresses.

HAVELOCK, March 10.—The Trail Ranger Camp and Tuxis Boys Square of the Church School of the Methodist Church, Havelock, held their annual father and son banquet on Thursday evening and are to be complimented on the celerity and despatch with which they put on the event.

Sixty-five men and boys sat down to the tastefully dressed tables and partook of inviting delicacies, after which Ivan Barlow, Tuxis Scriptor, acting in a most efficient manner as toast master, proposed the toast to the King, receiving a most hearty response from all present.

In proposing the toast to the church, Dr. McKee, Mentor for the Trail Ranger Camp, spoke of the attitude of the church of forty years ago as being concerned chiefly in fitting mature men and women for the future life, and drew attention to the present-day attitude as being concerned in fitting the 'teen age boys and girls for a life of service by assisting them to greater efficiency physically, intellectually, religiously and socially, as evidenced by the programme the church has adopted, known as the Canadian Standard Efficiency Training Course. Everet Chiles, for the Tuxis Square, and Maynard Bullied, for the Trail Ranger Camp, in responding to this toast, outlined the work as carried on in their groups in a most interesting manner.

Gordon Wilde, Pretor for the Tuxis Square, and sitting member for East Peterborough in the Boys' Parliament, proposed the toast to the fathers, to which Mr. R. E. Campney made suitable reply, acknowledging the challenge the C.S.E.T. programme offered to the men of today.

Mr. W. H Johnston, in proposing the toast to the sons, recalled interesting events in his boyhood days of fifty years ago. The toast was replied to by Donald Ellis of Trent River and Ray Peters of the Tuxis group.

Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, in presenting the toast to the press, congratulated the boys on their fine showing, and proceeding spoke in most complimentary terms of the press of our country, picturing it as going hand in hand with the church for the establishment of all that is good in citizenship. The toast to the press, in the absence of the local editor, Mr. T. P. Lancaster, was fittingly responded to by Mr. C. H. Brewster.

Wilbur Barton of the Tuxis Boys proposed the toast to the visitors, and on behalf of the groups extended thanks to the fathers for their loyal support of the banquet. Rev. E. O. Seymour, the pastor in charge at Havelock, in responding, introduced the guest of the evening, Rev. W. P. Rodgers, B.A., pastor of the Methodist Church, Norwood. Mr. Rodgers, in responding to the introduction, expressed his pleasure in being with the boys on this occasion which meant so much to them. Proceeding, Mr. Rodgers referred to an incident of the Great War, when Major Baden-Powell, the head of the Secret Service of Great Britain, foretold that the war would be decided in 1919. He asked his hearers to get the Baden-Powell perspective for 1935. "What kind of a man," he asked, "will your son be in 1935?" The true victory will be dependant on the quality of men your sons and mine are in 1935. The country of to-morrow will be governed by the boys of today; holding the helm of state, writing the editorials of the press standing at the bedsides of the sick, and while I shudder to say it, if there are men in the jails of tomorrow they will be our boys of today. God forbid that any of these boys should become our criminals of tomorrow. The impressions received and the habits formed in early life dominate and survive. We fathers must realize the importance of this law of nature and that the boy is the greatest asset of state and church, enhanced during the last few years. Two hundred thousand boys went overseas. More than a score of thousand never came back, and so almost unduly early the 'teen age boy has been crowded in and so to add as largely as possible to his efficiency is thrust upon us. Luther Burbank, with God's help, produced a better plum, and I speak it reverently, than God ever produced alone. Luther Burbank placed himself in harmony with the laws of nature, which are God's laws. By placing ourselves in harmony with the laws of nature, which are God's laws, we can produce better boys. Homes for fellowship and self-control, schools for intellectual development and moral training, church to kindle." Turning to the Mentors, he said: 'It is one of the greatest joys of the Mentor to know that he has been used to kindle, and after the kindling the training to keep the going right. Recreation ought to stand for self-recovery, civic life for co-operative service."

At the conclusion of Mr. Rodger's address, a presentation of over seventy badges and crests in recognition of the year's work was made under the direction of Mr. A. C. Denike, Mentor for the Tuxs Boys' Square, who has been interested in this work from its inception.

The evening's programme was enlivened by the singing of community songs, led by Mr. W. J. McBurney, leader of the church choir. The event closed, with tendering a hearty vote of thanks to the guest of the evening for his most interesting and profitable address.

After paying all expenses, the proceeds allow the boys to contribute $25 to the support of the Provincial work.

Missouri, the long-recognized corn cob pipe manufacturing State, has found a close competitor in an Arkansas factory, which turned out 90,000 last year.

ROSENEATH MEN IN ACCIDENTS

Rolling Log and Slippery Roads Cause Injuries — Personal Mention.

ROSENEATH, March 10.—The funeral of the late William Leach was held on Wednesday afternoon from his late residence in Haldimand Township to Bethany Cemetery where the remains were interred. The services were conducted at the house by the Rev. G. McCord, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here. The many friends who gathered to pay their last respects to the departed testified of the esteem in which he was held in the community. He leaves to mourn his loss four brothers—Solomon of Roseneath, Aaron and Moses of Forth Worth, Texas, and Dr. George Leach of Hamilton. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Archie Waldie, Delbert Adams, Frank George, Phineas Warner and Eldridge Sherwin. The community extends its deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

Fell on Ice.

Mr. Frank Nichol, while walking a short distance from his house, slipped on the ice, falling on his face. A sharp piece of ice injured his head.

Mr. Chas. Brown, a local merchant, entertained a few of the young people of the village at his home last week.

Mr. Alex. Brown, while employed with Mr. Bruce Parker getting out logs, was hurt quite badly by a rolling log.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Aikens, who have been visiting the latter's father, Mr. Fred. Sherwin, have left for their home in the West. They intend visiting friends at Teeswater on their way.

Mr. Oswold Curtis of Windsor has been visiting his wife and family here for the past few days.

The C.G.I.T. held their regular weekly meeting at the parsonage last week. The meeting was opened with the Vice-President, Miss B. Clark, in the chair. After business discussion, the Scripture reading was read by Miss Evelyn Turner, after which Miss Laura Sherwin gave a splendid paper on "The Bible Story of Sampson." Mrs. (Rev.) A. R. Walsh then led in prayer. The remainder of the meeting was given to the singing of C.G.I.T. songs, after which the meeting was closed with the Mispah benediction.

THE REASON FOR ALUMINUM.

Because tea deteriorates very rapidly if exposed to the air many tests have been made to find an efficient means of packing it so as to preserve the flavour. The "Salada" Tea Company first used lead packages but some years ago adopted aluminum foil, aluminum being more durable and lighter than lead, besides of course being absolutely sanitary and air tight. This method of packing is admitted to be the most effective known to preserve the flavour of tea. All "Salada" is sold in air-tight aluminum packages.

A BARGAIN IN MUSIC.

The city fathers' action in regard to the appropriations for music indicates that the Aldermen are not bad financiers after all.

For the total sum of $1,000, which is considerably less than a number of municipalities smaller than Peterborough consider necessary for the upkeep of a band, the Council has secured the services for the citizens of a brass band a pipe band and a symphony orchestra.

Variety is the spice of life and the music-lovers of Peterborough are likely to have plenty of it this summer with this three-ringed attraction signed up and ready for the opening of the outdoor concert season.

The brass band is to get $400, while the pipers and the symphony organization divide $600 between them.

That is a lot of mixed sounds to get for $1,000, and the Council seem to have obtained a bargain.

At the same time there will be natural wonder over the question of how far $400 will go towards maintaining a brass band.

Other municipalities find it necessary to contribute three or four times that sum to keep their bands as a going concern, and there will be envious eyes turned in the direction of the city that has succeeded in corralling three musical forces widely different in nature for less than most places have to pay for one.

A LEADER WITHOUT FOLLOWERS.

Harry Leader, the Progressive member for Portage La Prairie in the Federal House, intends to give Parliament an opportunity to show that the protestations of economy made by all the political parties are genuine.

He believes that retrenchment-like charity should begin at home, and accordingly, he intends to move that the indemnities and salaries paid to Ministers of the Crown, the Leader of the Opposition, the Senators and members of the House of Commons be reduced by 12½ per cent. of the present figures.

A similar motion by the same member last year found no support, and it is not to be expected that any more cordial reception will be accorded on this occasion, despite the fact that not a member who has so far taken part in the debate has failed to stress the absolute necessity of national saving and the cutting of expenditures "to the bone" to employ the phrase in which most of the political speakers delight.

Economy is a safe subject to discuss and not unpleasant—until it comes close to home.

It is easy to call for retrenchment, but voluntarily accepting a cut of $500 in sessional indemnities is a horse of another colour, and in seeking to enlist his colleagues in the effective demonstration of the sincerity of our politicians in regard to saving, the member for Portage La Prairie will merely succeed in proving that he is a Leader without followers.

Yet his motion is a real gesture towards economy, whereas it is to be feared that many of the utterances of other members are but attempts to tune in with popular opinion.

LONG SPEECHES.

In his most interesting book, "The Diary of a Journalist," the late Sir Henry Lucey ("Toby, M.P.") related a conversation among a number of experienced British public men and newspaper writers on the subject of the most desirable length for a political speech, and the unanimous opinion was that no speech unless introducing the Budget or a bill of great importance should take longer than twenty minutes.

The passage is commended to members of the Federal Government and of the Provincial Legislature in conjunction with the suggestion made by Senator Dandurand the other day that a time limit on a sliding scale basis should be placed on speeches in Parliament.

Verbosity is a crying evil in our Legislature bodies in this country.

Three members actually occupied the whole afternoon and evening session of Parliament on Friday in wandering, here, there and everywhere in a maze of words covering a thousand and one subjects.

None of them said anythnig that would not have been more effective if it had been confined to a few sentences, and the three speeches could have been boiled down, skimmed off and served in a demi tasse with much better results than were obtained by delivering the oratory by the barrel.

Long speeches not only needlessly prolong the debate, crowd out essential business, delay the entrance of new legislation and jeopardize the future of overworked Hansard reporters and journalists, but they cost money.

And at a time when economy is the watchword, our public men should save their words.

A PROMISING OUTLOOK.

During February a month when business is not generally active, there was little change in the employment situation as compared with January, in which month the falling off in the number of persons employed was not so pronounced as a year ago, the Canadian Bank of Commerce reports.

According to the official figures, there was a decrease in January last of 57,871 persons, or 7.3 per cent. in the total number employed by the firms reporting, while the decrease recorded in January, 1923, was 72,000 persons, or 9 per cent. Another indication that business is not declining in volume is to be found in the increase in car loadings. For the three weeks ending February 9th, the total loadings amounted to 152,995 cars, as compared with 139,907 cars for the corresponding period of last year.

While grain and grain products, pulp, paper and forest products accounted for a large proportion of the increase there was also a material improvement in the way of less-than-car-load lots.

Still another indication of steadiness in business is the fact that in Western Canada payments on debts continue to be made on a larger scale than a year ago. During November and December such payments were less than had been hoped for, but since the beginning of the present year they have been more satisfactory, and it is confidently anticipated that they will continue to be so until work on the land recommences. By that time appreciable progress should have been made in liquidation of old debts.

There has been a promising resumption of operations in most of the factories which closed down at the beginning of the year for stock-taking and for repairs.

As yet there is no evidence of exceptional activity, except in the pulp and paper industry, but neither is there acute depression in any particular industrial district.

The high price of raw cotton has curtailed activity in some branches of the textile industry, since factory orders and those placed with jobbers continue to be for day-to-day requirements only.

A partial explanation of this, however, is to be found in the unsettling character of the present system of taxation.

The sales tax is generally regarded as unsatisfactory in operation, but aside from the question of the kind of tax which should be imposed in order to obtain public revenue there is also the question of the amount which it is necessary to raise, and the latter point is of as vital interest to industry as is the former.

The present burden of taxation is so heavy that any improvement in the method of imposition must, to be at all satisfactory, be accompanied by a reduction in amount. This is essential if manufacturing and mercantile concerns are to have any confidence in the future of their business, but such a reduction in taxation is possible only through a material reduction in public expenditre.

Under the circumstances it is not surprising that a large amount of capital is at present being invested in Government securities and that these are as a result steadily advancing in price.

During February the supply of such securities was scarcely equal to the demand.

REAL BRAVERY.

Every once in a while something crops up to restore our faith in human nature. In a day when "envy, hatred, and all uncharitableness" seem too often to be paramount, some little story of bravery and self sacrifice makes us realize that the better qualities have not suffered a total eclipse, says the Belleville Intelligencer.

Last week a wreck occurred near Brockville. The engineer of the ill-fated train was pinioned beneath the wreckage where he lay in danger of being burned alive. One of the rescuers, by name Egbert Mallory, stripped himself of his clothing, one garment at a time, and with these soaked in water and snow tried to protect the imprisoned man.

In spite of the cold he divested himself of everything except his trousers and by thus protecting the engineer from the flames saved him from a terrible death. That the victim died later in the hospital does not detract from the act of heroism in itself. The engineer himself was not lacking in bravery, for though terribly burned he never lost consciousness, but directed his rescuer in his endeavors.

It may be that there is something of the heroic in each of us, awaiting only the opportunity to show itself. Circumstances very often reveal undreamed of possibilities for good or evil. But, put to the test, it is good to believe that the average man and woman will rise to the occasion and display a latent heroism that is too often buried beneath a veneer of worldliness and self-seeking.

THE GAME OF HOCKEY.

The recent accident in which Johnny Brackenborough, star centre ice player of the Hamilton senior O.H.A. team, suffered the loss of an eye, calls for some observations, says the Ottawa Journal. In the first place the Hamilton player's misfortune but serves to place in relief the remarkable freedom of Canada's national winter sport from fatalities or grave casualties. Compared with the toll taken annually by American rugby in players killed and permanently injured, hockey enjoys a truly enviable record.

The conditions under which hockey is played make of the game possibly the fastest "field" sport in the world, even fraught with possibilities of physical injury to the participants. Yet, with hard, close checking, excited melees for the puck, and players dashing at top speed toward the goals, it is truly a tribute to the greatness of the game and the skill of its exponents, that so few suffer disabilities of a permanent character.

Fatalities among participants in a hockey contest within the past decade or two have been so rare, that one must revert far back in the annals of the game to record the death of a player. If memory serves right, Owen "Bud" McCourt of Cornwall, who died of injuries within a few hours after a game in 1907, and Alcide Laurin of Alexandria, killed in a contest at Maxville in 1905, are the only two players who lost their lives in the past quarter of a century. So free has hockey been from fatalities, deliberate maiming of players, or dirty tactics, that no cry has ever been raised—insofar as we can recall—for the reformation of the game.

Taken all in all, hockey as played in Canada today and during the past few years, has bred a fine type of athlete. The very essence of the game calls for quick thinking, daring, courage, and true sportsmanship. Could there be, for example, a finer display of courage on the part of an athlete than the resolve of Brackenborough, the latest casualty, lying on a hospital cot with an eye gouged out, to get back into the game next year? And what finer manifestation of sportsmanship could one desire than the common impulse of both amateur and professional clubs to stage benefit games for the injured player?

Canadians have reason to take pride in the national winter sport, its history of titanic struggles for the possession of the Stanley and Allan cups, and its tremendous development in the last few years. Let us hope that the best traditions of the game will ever be maintained, and that the day will never come when its votaries will have to declare "thumbs down" on this most thrilling sport.

PREMIER KAFANDARIS' CABINET HAS RESIGNED

ATHENS, March 10. — (Canadian Press). — The Cabinet of Premier Kafandaris has resigned. The Kafandaris Cabinet was formed on January 11th last to succeed that of Venizelos, who retired because of ill-health. Kafandaris held out in favor of a referendum to decide the fate of the Glucksburg dynasty, while the Opposition, including the Republican deputies and a large faction in the army, demanded the abolition of the dynasty and the proclamation of a Republic. Determined opposition to the policy of the Government with regard to the dynasty is given as the reason for the Cabinet's action.

OSHAWA CELEBRATION LASTED TO MIDNIGHT

Lake Shore Town Received Into the Ranks of Canadian Cities By Proclamation of Ontario Railway and Municipal Board — Will Hold Re-union In August.

OSHAWA, March 10.—Oshawa attained its majority Saturday with the official proclamation of its election to the ranks of Canadian cities. The formal document of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board declaring Oshawa a city was read at a public meeting in the armouries at 11.45 a.m. and was the signal for the commencement of the celebration that continued all day.

After the Rev. C. R. de Pencier invoked the Divine blessing on the vigorous initiate to municipal manhood, with its hopes of progressive growth and greatness inspired afresh by the accolade of its Province, the citizens gave themselves up to the carnival of elation and amusement that started with a clamorous chorus of whistles, bells, sirens, motor horns and the military salute of twenty-five individual guns fired by a detachment of the 34th Ontario regiment. Among those who were present at the function in the armouries were Major Frick, L. O. Clifford M.P. and W. E. N. Sinclair, M.L.A.

During the afternoon two bands provided music by parading the main streets, while in the evening a parade of automobiles wended its way around the town landing up at the armouries where short addresses, community singing and dancing were indulged in up till midnight.

Historical Sketch.

The history of the municipality dates back to 1842 when it received its first postal service under the name of Oshawa, the none de plume given by Indian residents of that time and as the red skins explained the meaning of the word was "crossing of a stream." In the year 1897 Oshawa received its incorporation as a town and the first council elected consisted of W. H. Gibbs, Mayor, and Messrs. Rae, Steele, Higginbotham, Dean, Smith, Thomas, Mallory, Western, Munro, Blamey, Kirby, Garrow, Hedder, Lauchland and Warren as Councillors. The Mayors since incorporation with years of office are as follows: 1879, W. H. Gibbs; 1880-1887 Dr. F. Rae; 1887 John Cowan; 1887-1889 Robert McGee; 1889-1896 W. F. Cowan; 1897 W. J. Hare; F. L. Fewke 1899 Robert McLaughlin; 1900-1906 F. L. Fewke; 1907-1908 Dr. T. E. Kaiser; 1909 R. H. James; 1910-1911 W. E. N. Sinclair; 1912 John Gibson; 1913-1914 E. S. Edmondson; 1915 W. E. N. Sinclair; 1916-1917 G. D. Conant; 1918 F. L. Mason; 1919-1922 John Stacey; 1923-1924 W. J. Trick. Of the mayors who served since 1900 all but one are still residents of Oshawaw, E. G. Edmondson is now living in Toronto.

OBREGON SAYS COUNTRY WILL BE AT PEACE SOON

MEXICO CITY, March 10. — (United Press).—President Obregon is in Manzanillo to-day with War Minister Serrano to inspect the troops sailing for Salina Cruz to clear the rebels from the Frontera district. Serrano will command the troops in person, and hopes to kill or capture Adolfo De La Huerta, the rebel leader, who is reported in the Frontera zone. "I assure you the country will be entirely at peace within a few days," Obregon said before leaving Mexico City.

There were enough telephone calls in this country during 1923 to keep one line "busy" with three-minute calls for 104,00 years.

Why Ford Predominates

A Triumph of Mechanical Simplicity

Like all great engineering accomplishments, it has progressed through simplification—the reduction to fundamentals.

This process of simplification has brought into being many of those distinctive features which are found exclusively in Ford cars. The Ford planetary transmission and three-pedal control are among those features. Experts agree that they are ideally suited to the small, light car.

Another feature is the Ford magneto, so remarkable in principle and so successful in practice that a complete unit was recently presented—by request—to the Smithsonian Institution.

There are many such features, but these are sufficient to indicate the sound foundation upon which engineers have pronounced the Ford to be a triumph of mechanical simplicity.

DIGGING GRAVES WITH THE TEETH.

For Some Reason the Brain and the Stomach Have Never Been Friends

Every lovers' quarrel, every spat between husband and wife, begins in the stew pot or the oven, says a celebrated English surgeon. Most of us have noticed a tendency to become irritable when our digestion is out of order.

The London surgeon even believes that character is considerably regulated by what goes into the stomach. He's reasoning along the same lines ar feeding raw meat to a prizefighter to make him ferocious or candy to a girl to make her amiable.

Sir William Osler once said: "For some reason the brain and the stomach have never been friends, and the cleverest men I know treat their stomach like dogs."

Charles E. Hecht, English food expert, says he studied great men of history and decided Osler was right.

Herbert Spencer, the philosopher, always ate a heavy dinner an hour before going to bed—and never was able to figure out why he had insomnia and indigestion. Hecht thinks Spencer's gloom and cynicism were caused by his ignorance of the simplest rules of diet.

Napoleon, another dyspeptic, ate at irregular hours. He bolted his meals. He gorged. He was forever munching candy. Here was a brilliant man, intellectual enough to conquer nation after nation. Yet he couldn't master his appetite.

Shakespeare's marvelous plays could never have been written by a dyspeptic. He ate carefully, sensibly and had excellent digestion.

A big insurance company claims that nearly half of the illnesses of its policyholders originate in indigestion. You recall the old saying, that most people dig their graves with their teeth.

Good cooks cause more indigestion than bad cooks, for tasty victuals entice people to over-eat. Most folks, when the stomach is upset, blame it on some particular thing they have eaten. As a rule, though, indigestion is caused by eating too much—or too fast, as is the tendency in this madhouse age when everyone imagines he's in a hurry.

An old country doctor says it's a good rule always to go away from the table a bit hungry. The stomach can easily be the gateway to the cemetery.

GOOD PRICES FOR BAILIEBORO FARM STOCK AT AUCTION

BAILIEBORO, Mar. 8.—Mr. Hilliard Dawson disposed of his farm stock and implements, by public auction on Wednesday afternoon. There was a large crowd present, and everything sold quickly, and for good value.

One team of Percheron horses sold for $324, while an old brood mare brought over $100. Grade milch cows sold around $70, while hogs were knocked down at eight cents a pound. Ewes went for $20, and lambs brought $15. White leghorn hens sold for $1.15 apiece, and Plymouth rocks sold for $1.65 apiece. Machinery and other chattels were sold for their full value. Mr. Noble acted as auctioneer for the occasion.

Merchant Sells Out

Mr. F. Blake, one of the general merchants of this village, has sold his house, store and business to Mr. Harper, of McDonald's Corners, Perth County. Mr. Blake and family are moving to Campbellford, while Mr. Harper and family will take possession next week.

The members of the U. F. W. P. O. Club of South Monaghan, will present their play entitled "Down in Maine," in the Sunday School hall, Centreville, on Friday, March 14. The Millbrook orchestra will be in attendance, and other vocal music will be rendered by the members of the club.

Roads Dangerous

The roads in this part are in a very poor condition, owing to the soft weather. The horses drop right through to the ground, and there is a great danger of breaking a horse's egs in the holes on the road. There is very little heavy traffic, and, in fact, very little traffic of any kind on the highways. The mailmen on the rural routes are unable to make their daily trips

The boys of Bailieboro are planning to hold another dance in the hall here on Friday evening.

HEAVY LOADS CUTTING THE ROADS TO PIECES

A Spill in the Ditch Adds a Few Thrills to Sleighing Party--Bridgenorth News

BRIDGENORTH, Mar. 8. — The roads have been very good this week, but on Thursday there was some heavy loads passed over them, going into the city, and the result, they were cut up and were in bad shape by night. A couple of 'bus loads, who were on their way to the Foresters' Hall, had a few upsets on the way out; also a team and light pair of bobs which contained two young gentlemen with their ladies, also upset after they made the turn at the corner coming into the village. The four were landed in the snowbank and the team made a bold dash for liberty at Nicholls' Corner they made a quick turn towards the Methodist Church and were ditched, the sleigh turning completely over. Both horses were down, one directly on its back and the other wedged against him. Had it not been for the assistance of Jim Beatty and Victor Fife, who were on the scene first when they landed it might have been more serious. After removing the harness, which they had to unbuckle, succeeded in getting both horses out, neither apparently seemed to be any the worse. The sleigh was put out of commission altogether, and was unable to make the return trip to the city. The outfit was owned by Stanley Blewett, who sent a couple of men out on Friday morning and gathered up the fragments and took them back to the city.

First Things

The first floating bridge across Mud Lake connecting Smith Township and Ennismore was put below the Dunbar property. This bridge was moored to the Dean grist mill in the year 1878. The work of removing it commenced on July 8 and it was ready for traffic on July 13, where it remained until the new bridge was erected where it is at the present time.

The following winter Mr. J. N. Telford, deceased, sold a load of straw to a man in Ennismore for 90 cents, the sum of 60 cents was paid on account, leaving a balance of 30c. This same year, on Sept. 23, a bear was shot at the end of the old bridge in Ennismore.

Bushing the Road

It has been the custom for a number of years during the winter season when the ice is thick enough to ensure safety to bush a road across Mud Lake from the village to the Ennismore shore. No doubt the idea is a good one, which is intended for strangers, and on stormy dark nights there is a possibility of getting lost without some way of guiding the horses over.

We find this year Jim Grant, who had charge of the work, bushed the road across to Westlake's boathouse. This has proved to be a very unpopular route with the Ennismore people, and they have abandoned the road altogether, and are now travelling the old and popular route down at the Duffus cottage.

A False Alarm

There was a report around here that a new bridge might be erected across Mud Lake, but the idea got a sudden jolt when Mr. E. Elliott advertised for timber to repair the present floating bridge during the coming summer.

A New Epidemic

The violin craze seems to be contagious these days in Bridgenorth. A number of the ladies have expressed a desire to study the violin. The instructor is devoting considerable time and attention in instructing the ladies' class.

Entertained Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fife entertained their friends to the number of over one hundred at their home at Hillside on Monday. The evening was spent in cards and dancing. Refreshments were served at midnight. Every person had an opportunity of dancing whichever dance suited their particular taste; there were fox trots, waltzes, Paul Jones, but the most popular one was the quadrille.

General News

The Sidey Beatty dance in the C. O. F. Hall on Monday night drew a large crowd. Harry McManus supplied the music.

George Wheeler, who has the honor of being appointed weather prophet in Dan Whetung's stead, expects to have his first weather bulletin issued in a few days.

The Bridgenorth string band, who has spent some strenuous evenings practicing, made their first appearance in public on Sunday at the Methodist Church Sunday School and created quite a stir.

Our lonely owl up at the park can easily be heard these nights, some of the neighbors say when they are on high land. It's a sure sign of cold weather.

Mrs. J. G. Beatty, who spent the past week with friends in Toronto, returned home on Tuesday.

Mr. C. M. Moncur, of Peterboro, was in Bridgenorth on Thursday on business.

Mrs. Rev. P. H. Neville came out from the city on Wednesday to attend the Ladies' Aid, which was held at the home of Mrs. W. B. Kelly.

Keep Prettier Teeth

When your dentist brings them to you

After a dental cleaning, you marvel at the pearliness of your teeth. Yet the dentist just removes the dingy film and tartar.

Learn what it means to daily combat that film. To keep teeth whiter, cleaner, safer all the time. This free test shows the method which millions now employ.

Film is the problem

Film is the great tooth enemy—that viscous film you feel. Much clings and stays, despite the old-way brushing.

Food stains, etc., discolor the film, then it forms dingy coats.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Brush teeth daily in the old ways, yet these film-caused troubles, as you know, come to nearly all.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

The New-Day Dentifrice

Based on modern research

That is why dental science sought for film combatants, and two were found. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

No possible doubt

Pepsodent leaves no possible doubt. It does other things which research proved essential. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. Thus it gives increased power to the tooth-protecting factors in the mouth.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

A few days will convince you that this method is essential in your home. Cut out coupon now.

CAVAN NEWS

CAVAN, March 8.—The fourth annual basket social under the auspices of the C.S.E.I. was held in the Community Hall, Cavan, on Friday, March 7.

The hall was comfortably filled, and there was a good mixed programme, with music between acts by John Benson of Ida, on his concertina.

There was also a duet on the piano by Mrs. Oliver and Miss Lola Carley. The rest of the programme was by the Tuxis Boys themselves.

The receipts at the door amounted to sixteen. There were twenty-three baskets which sold from seventy-five cents to three dollars a basket.

The total amount of money took in was forty-five dollars.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Fourteen Life Members on Auxiliary Roll--Personal Mention.

MILLBROOK, March 8.—The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist Church held their March meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. S. Burnham, forty-one members and two visitors being in attendance.

The president, Mrs. S. T. Tucker, occupied the chair for the opening exercises, and conducted the business, the secretary, Mrs. C. W. Richards, reading the minutes. Dues were received by the treasurer, Miss Nellie Hetherington, and hearty applause greeted the announcement that one new life member, Mrs. Weatherup, a member of Miss Burnham's group, was added at this meeting. The Auxiliary has aimed to have at least one life member to report each year, and now has fourteen on the roll. Twenty-five dollars is the life membership fee, and its payment is usually the outcome of a definite, personal interest in the great cause of missions. a life allegiance is thus pledged in connection with woman's responsibility on the home and foreign field.

A number of interesting items were given in response to the "Watch Tower," one new Settlement House being reported now in successful operation at Windsor, Ont. The home was opened last September for work among the "New Canadian" children of the city, and through the kindness of the Auxiliaries, Circles, and Bands, has been supplied with everything needed for comfort and convenience. Classes in English have been started, the mothers' meetings are well attended, and over eighty children are in the sewing classes.

Group "D" then took charge of the meeting, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds presiding. The following programme was rendered:

Hymn, "Far and near the fields are teeming"; prayer, by Miss E. Hetherington; Scripture lesson, Psalm II, by Mrs. Weatherup; solo, "Come unto Me for rest," by Miss Ethel Richardson; reading, "Half a Buggy," by Mrs. R. H. Edmunds; hymn, "All for Jesus"; Final chapter in the study book, "The Church and its Agencies, in the task of Building the Nation," by Miss Pearl Burnham; W.M.S. Watchword, repeated by all: "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts; this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

A social hour followed during which Miss Richardson and Miss Hetherington furnished music, both vocal and instrumental, and refreshments were served. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the hostess for the hospitality extended and the pleasant afternoon enjoyed before the guests left for home.

Group "E," Mrs. P. Stinson leader, is responsible for the April meeting. The church year closes next month, and all reports must be completed and sent to the branch secretary and treasurer by the first week in May.

Mrs. F. L. Weeks.

The late Beatrice Louisa Welch, beloved wife of Frank L. Weeks, who passed away recently after a few weeks' illness, was born in London, near Vauxhall, almost in the shadow of the Parliament Buildings, forty-one years ago.

It is nearly fourteen years since, with her husband and their family, which then consisted of two girls, deceased came to Canada. Settling for a period at Keene, Ont., they afterwards removed to Bethany where they lived for six years, removing from there to Kinmount. Four years ago they came to Millbrook to reside, and in that time they have made many warm friends.

Though not apparently of a robust constitution, the late Mrs. Weeks had been about her usual duties until about six weeks ago, when the complicated form of chest trouble, which finally resulted in her early death, began to reach an acute stage. Treatment was given at the local hospital, and expert advice and examination sought at the Peterboro' clinic also, but in spite of all that medical skill could do no permanent improvement was achieved, and the end came with somewhat startling suddenness.

A devoted wife and mother, a faithful member of St. Thomas Church, and active worker in the Woman's Auxiliary, A.Y.P.A., and other organizations, deceased leaves behind her a fragrant memory, and the vacancy in both home and church is very keenly felt.

No relatives outside her family reside in Canada, the immediate survivors, besides her sorrowing husband, being three daughters, Elsie, Vera, and Lena, all at home. The late Mrs. Weeks was predeceased by her parents before leaving England, two brothers and one sister being the nearest relatives still residing in London.

The rector, Rev. Canon Allen, had charge of the private service held at the home, and also of the public service at St. Thomas Church, where the large number who had assembled showed the esteem and affection in which deceased was held in the community. Among the beautiful floral tributes placed upon the casket were a wreath from the Woman's Auxiliary, a sheaf from the A.Y.P.A., and also from the "Wide Awakes" C.G.I.T. group, of which Miss Vera Weeks is a member.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs W. Hilton, H. Lord, J. Guthrie, R. Stone, J. Pitt, and W. Gray. Interment took place at St. John's cemetery.

Among those from outside points who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Swanson, and Mr. Brown, of Bethany, Mrs. Walker, of Carmel.

Rev. S. T. Tucker attended a meeting of the district missionary executive on Wednesday.

Postmaster H. B. Collins is in Toronto this week. Miss Nellie Hetherington is assisting Miss S. Pethick at the office during his absence.

Mrs. William Gray is seriously ill this week, Nurse Reynolds being in charge. Dr. H. A. Turner is in attendance, and had consultation with a Peterboro' doctor recently concerning the case.

SIX YEAR TERM IN PRISON FOR SOVIET BANKER

Former Chicago Lawyer Charged With Misusing Funds—Loaned Money to Brother—Kept Three Horses — Bought Secretary Wine and Flowers Out of Bank Money.

Brother Three Years.

MOSCOW, March 10.—(Canadian Press). — Alexander Krasnotchekoff, one-time Chicago lawyer and former Premier of the Far Eastern Republic, and four other persons, charged with improper use of the funds of the Commercial and Industrial Bank, were found guilty Sunday by the five judges who presided at the trial.

Krasnotchekoff was sentenced to six years solitary confinement, his brother Jacob to three years imprisonment, and the other defendants to one and two years imprisonment.

There was no recommendation for clemency and unless the Central executive committee pardons the men the sentences to be carried out.

Loans to Brother.

The indictment against Krasnotchekoff, who was known in Chicago as Alexander Tobelson, charged that he loaned funds to his brother, for his brother's building concern at the low rate of from one to 1 1-2 per cent. monthly, instead of from 3 to 3 1-2 per cent. monthly.

M. Krylenko, the prosecutor, showed that the banker purchased wine and flowers for his secretary out of bank funds, and that his acts were "unbecoming to the rigid life which communism demands of responsible officials.

Bank employes belonging to the communistic group testified that Krasnotchekoff paid little attention to their recommendations. The defendant explained he ran the bank by business methods, remarking that the State Bank had had the same troubles with the Communists.

He admitted carelessness and lack of tact in lending money to his brother's company, which, the State contended, started business on a shoe-string and was able to operate later on a large scale only because of the favours of the Commercial and Industrial Bank.

Generally, the prosecution contended that the banker created an atmosphere of capitalism, instead of communism, in this bank.

Villa Only Shack.

The State charged that the banker lived during the summer at a luxurious villa and kept three horses. He answered this by saying the villa was a tumbledown shack; that one horse was needed to carry him to his work in the city each day, and that he used the other mount for riding, his only recreation. He explained that he worked hard all summer, while the other Communist officials had vacations. The third horse was sent from the city to recuperate.

Testimony was introduced by the prosecution to show that flowers sent to the village were charged to bank funds as "garbage removal," and that wine was charged to the provision account. Krasnotchekoff declared this had all been paid back; in fact his total indebtedness to the bank was less than 50 cents.

Krasnotchekoff admitted lending his brother Jacob $5,000 from funds of the Russo-American Industrial Corporation, of which Sidney Hillman was the head, saying, however, that this would have been repaid had the prisoners had an opportunity.

AGED LADY SAYS GIRLS OF TO-DAY HAVE GOOD TIME.

She Is 114 Years of Age and Says That the Girls Who Bobbed Their Hair and Smoke Cigarettes Are All Right.

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 8. —Mrs. M. J. Power has lived 114 years, and she says:

"The modern girl is all right.

"In my day we women worked too hard, we had too many children, and we slaved too much. Girls are exactly right in declaring their independence from bondage.

"Men, in my day, didn't appreciate us. But I calculate they sit up and take notice of the women today.

"If I could live again you bet I'd bob my hair and smoke cigarettes. Girls will live longer if they smoke. What's all this hullabaloo about tobacco hurting women. It's good to kill germs."

Some of Mrs. Power's 12 children died in infancy, and the mother who bore so many has forgotten a few of their names. She has 44 grandchildren and 50 great-grandchildren and some great-great-grandchildren, but she doesn't know where they live nor how many there are.

Mrs. Power came down the Mississippi River in a flat-bottom boat 104 years ago and came up to Texas from Louisiana in a prairie schooner. She has lived for 50 years in the same house.

"The only money I ever had of my own was in the spring when I took my basket of butter and eggs to the store and sold them. I always got that money and I was as proud as a queen."

She admitted that she usually went to the dry goods store and bought something for the children with the money.

Romance may be tottering in this present age and the modern girl may be a practical sort of person and the idealists may prate about old-fashioned romance, but Mrs. Power snatchers all these illusions about the girl of the previous age.

"We didn't have no time for such foolishness as engagement rings. That was all nonsense stuff.

"I never had pretty white hands. I used to try to keep them that way, but it wasn't no use. From the time I was 10 years old I had to drive a team of oxen all day clearing land.

"After I was married I had to keep on doing the same thing.

"Maybe that's why I'm so glad to see women havin' a little chance to live these days."

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page, a charming country girl, falls in love with

Bert Traymore, a fascinating philanderer, whom a chance meeting brings into her quiet life.

Janet Mercer, Prudence's dearest friend, an older woman, plain but clever, is masseuse to the delicate child of

Mrs. Vansittart, a pleasure-loving woman-of-the-world, owner of Winston Towers, a beautiful summer home, which she fills with visitors.

Virginian Dale, Mrs. Vansittart's ward, is a blase beauty who counts Traymore among her many swains. She is deeply interested in

Peter Armstrong, a brilliant young inventor, clever, ambitious and reliable. He is already fond of little Prudence whom he has met once.

Traymore fails to keep an engagement with Prudence, and later the same evening, she hears him making love to Virginia. She cries herself to sleep. Virginia, in the meantime has come to realize that she really loves Peter, and she is resolved to capture his heart.

Virginia's beauty is preserved at the cost of much time and effort.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Alibi.

Prudence woke from her night of tears, not with the proverbial headache, but with a sense of exhilaration, as of a load that had been lifted.

'Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning.'

And outside her window hadn't a little wren perched on the ledge of the gable, and over and over again was carolling a song so loud and heavenly sweet that one must marvel such a tiny throat could compose it!

And happy starlings (Prudence knew them all!) were sitting in a row on the old cart-shed roof, whistling and chuckling and talking in that wonderful language of their own!

The girl looked out of her gabled window at a new, enchanted world. The grass was spangled with a myriad of drops of dew that gleamed like diamonds.

Over the orchard trees she could glimpse the common, with its golden maze of gorse a-flower. Great sunpits of it, in which the bees were humming busily. And—yes—she was sure of it, the first swallows were darting over the bushes as though they'd never been away at all!

"If I listen hard, I'll maybe hear the cockuo call!" she said aloud, a-tone to all this riot of young beauty and returning life.

S-sh! There it was! In the high trees among the meadows!

"Cuckoo! Cuckoo!"

She tossed her curly hair back from her eyes, and laughed joyously.

"Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" The bird was laughing at her, too—laughing because she'd been so ridiculously silly and woe-begone last night, when, after all, Bert hadn't really meant to disappoint her!

There would be an excellent explanation, and it would come today!

"Pru-dence! Prue! Breakfast is ready!" came her mother's voice from down below.

Breakfast? Such a mundane thing as eating, on a spring morn such as this?

But nineteen has a healthy appetite, and Miss Prudence, in a freshly-laundered gingham gown, was soon seated at the breakfast-table, enjoying a portion of eggs and sizzling bacon, the very sight of which, at such an hour, would have caused Virginia Dale, that languid beauty, to wilt away entirely!

"Slept well, dearie?" queried Prudence's mother, casting an anxious glance towards her pretty daughter. (What beasts men were, to bring heartache to an innocent child like Prudence! Why, it seemed like yesterday that the girl was a toddling wee thing, with a little angel face and lisping tongue! Even then, she had been capable of suffering intensely, as on the agonizing day her doll was broken! She loved so loyally, so truly, that the new doll couldn't take the place of that first love.)

"Oh, yes; I—I slept pretty well," replied the girl, flushing a little, and hoping that the tell-tale tears had left no traces for these loving eyes to see.

Just then the mail-carrier's quick rat-tat came to the door.

"A letter for you, dear," said her mother, taking in the mail.

Ah no, it wasn't! But . . . it did bear the address of The Towers . . .

"From Mrs. Vansittart, inviting me to a dance on Friday night," breathed Prudence, with eyes dancing like stars. "Oh, mother! My first dance! Isn't it thrilling?"

But her mother's face did not reflect her daughter's joy. She was 'afraid' for Prudence, afraid of this new clique, so far removed from the girl's quietwalk in life.

"Mrs. Vansittart hasn't called on me; and I don't visit at The Towers. It isn't quite right, dear. They aren't your kind——"

"Oh, mother, darling!" Prudence jumped up to fling her arms around her mother's neck. "You wouldn't be a kill-joy, would you? You wouldn't stop me going, when you know how much I'd love it?"

"But—you haven't got a frock," the mother fenced, torn between a desire for her daughter's happiness and a fear that happiness wasn't to be found among this 'set.' "We're so short of money, dear, that we really can't afford to give you one just now—a suitable one, that is——"

"Oh, mother! There's the lovely blue silk Uncle Joe brought home from China. You said you'd kept it all these years for me, didn't you? It's the exact shade of pale blue that suits me, and you and I and Miss Jiggs could make it up between us." (Miss Jiggs was the village dressmaker, be it said.)

The mother couldn't stand against that coaxing tongue.

"Well, maybe we could make it up. You're easy to fit, and everything looks well on you. If your father says you can go——"

"Of course he will,"—in confident tones. Getting round him was an easy matter.

"Mr. Traymore will be there?" asked Mrs. Page, later, trying to sound matter-of-fact and merely conversational.

Prudence flushed adorably.

"Oh, yes."

"I—I'd like to meet him, dear." The gentle mother gained courage. "I know this house isn't grand, but it's your home, and if the young man respects you as he should, he would just naturally want to make the acquaintance of your family."

"Yes, yes; he does, indeed. He's often said so." (Was it a fib? If so, the recording angel surely would forgive the quick instinct to defend her mother's feelings, at whatever cost.) "Bert would like to come. But—he's shy, mother. You know the way young men are shy, don't you?"

So no more was said at the moment, and the Chinese blue silk was unearthed from its long slumber in the attic, and Miss Jiggs and her enormous scissors snipped and cut and basted and draped, and Prudence—all a-thrill with joy—was 'fitted' for the grand occasion that was coming.

"Isn't that someone whistling?" asked Miss Jiggs when she and Prudence were along, stiting stitching side by side.

Prudence raised her head, listening intently. It was . . . why yes! . . .

"Excuse me for a moment." Like a streak of lightning she had vanished through the open doorway, was across the yard and through the apple-orchard, running towards the sunlit meadow where the high trees grew.

There was a hollow there that was their rendezvous . . .

"Bert!"

"Prudence, my darling! As fresh as a rose, and twice as pretty!" He caught her in his arms and kissed her. "No, don't be angry, sweetheart, about last night. Little Lucia was ill, and I had to run the car into the nearest town for the special medicine she gets. You're not on the 'phone, and there was no time to send you a message——"

Prudence nestled into his arms, contented.

Eskimos Met Death Declaring R.C.M.P. Enemies of People

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 10—Declaring on the scaffold that the police had long been enemies of their people, two Eskimos, Alik Omisk, and "Esquimo" Tetamangma, met death without fear at Herschel Island, on February 1, according to advices received here. They were convicted several months ago of the murder of Corporal Doak, of the R.C.M.P., and Otto Binder, a white fur trader. Sergt. Thorne, of the R.C.M.P., arrived on Saturday at Fort Yukon, 150 miles north of here, and reported that he had executed the two men.

He stated that the two Eskimos had remained in good spirits until the hour of their death.

Scientists Prepare for Third Everest Attempt

LONDON, March 10.—Science is to make a third attempt to scale Mount Everest in the spring.

Led by Captain Geofrey Bruce, a group of hardy adventurers will make another attempt to conquer the ice-clad giant whose peak breaks through the Himalayan range on the frontier line of Tibet at a calculated height of 29,002 feet above sea level.

All selected for the trip will be equipped with latst oxygen appliances necessary to sustain life in rarified air.

Mount Everest was first charted by white men in 1903. Two unsuccessful attempts have been made to reach its summit, through expeditions fostered by the Royal Geographical Society and the Alpine Club.

So far eight men have given their lives in attempt to reach the peak.

Two members of the last expedition in 1922 climbed to within 1700 feet of the topmost point but were forced to descend when supplies became exhausted.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Where is the dividing line between those who live by owning capital and those who live by working?

It was claimed in Russia that the only "worker" was an unskilled workman, who used his hands to produce. Russia tried to draw a line between owners and workers.

Every worker who has a savings deposit is an owner of capital. He is an owner in his weekly life insurance, in the benefits from his trade union, and in the house he is paying for on the installment plan.

There are not two classes, those who live by woning capital and those who live by working. The difference is merely one of degree, and most of us come under both classes.

When you consider buying something because it is a bargain, make sure first that you need it or want it. Nothing is greater extravagance than a "bargain" that was not needed.

When is a bargain a bargain?

But when an article is purchased merely because it is on sale at a reduced price, it may become an actual extravagance.

At certain seasons of the year, merchants offer good stock at a low price. The season for the sale of that stock may have passed and rather than go to the expense of storing it and carrying it over, merchants will sell it at cost or near cost to get it out of the way. Thrifty people make purchases in these off-season times. This sort of bargain hunting is good business.

But buying articles on the spur of the moment that one had not planned to own is a very different matter. A cluttered house and a depleted pocketbook is the result of such misplaced economy.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor:
Sir:

Those who care to read the official accounts just published of the latest discoveries in Asia and Africa, will see how suddenly and almost miraculously recent excavations in Egypt, Babylonia, Assyria, and the nearer East have exposed our present-day modernists. The extract from a recent great work, which I have given below, sums up the results in a most informing way. Modernists seemed to have the idea that much of what was described in the Scriptures was merely romance or Arabian Nights tales, but now when they are suddenly confronted with the facts, we know what they ought to do with themselves. But will they? The attempt to wipe the Bible off the slate and substitute for it a much better paid Social Science has failed. Whether people hearken to the Divine message in the Bible or not, most of the historical facts, as laid down in it, have now been unearthed and confirmed. It is well for us to know these things so that we may guide ourselves accordingly. If ever a people has suffered from propagandist bounders it is undoubtedly the people of Ontario

"The buried cities themselves have risen again from their dust. We can walk along the Procession Street of Babylon and tread the great pavement-blocks of red breccia and white limestone, over which Nebuchadnezzar's triumphal chariot rolled as he went up to give thanks to Marduk in the vast temple of E-sagila, under the shadow of the actual tower of Babel, E-temenanki, 'the Fountain-stone of Heaven and Earth.' We can go down into the tomb of Pharaoh and see him lying there still, as he was laid in state three-and-a-half millenniums ago, amid the clash of sistra, and the loud lament of the myriads of Thebes. We can read the letters which the king of Babylon wrote to the king of Egypt a hundred years before Moses was born, and can hear these mighty potentates wrangling over questions of tribute or bribe, bagmen over an order, or horse-copers over a deal. Europeans of to-day have walked through halls where Sennacherib 'gloried and drank deep,' and have ransacked the library where Sardanapalus, the much-misunderstood, stored for himself the wisdom of all the ages that had gone before in Babylon and Assyria; and the worshippers of the God of Israel can tread the Holy of Holies where the prayers of the great Oppressor of Israel were offered. The very graves have given up their dead to show us, so far as the outward form can show it, what manner of men they were who fought and ruled and legislated before Greece or Rome had been dreamed of; and the code by which men's lives were ordered in Babylonia, when Abraham was at the start of his great venture, can be read to-day in a Paris museum. Above all, the literature of the greatest among these nations have now become open books. The weird religious legends of Babylonia, and the romances and love-songs of Egypt are the common possession of all who are to read them; and we can follow, in session the very words in which they themselves gave utterance to it, the thought about God and the universe of men who died five thousand years ago."

The only other thing left for the Modernist to do, therefore, is to maintain that the message itself is not there. He has failed to show that the garment is not there, so he may now try to show that the body is not there either. That, however, is something that Logic says he cannot do. No finite being can say or know anything about an infinite Being. By reason of this infinity He is unknowable. If, therefore, we take up a message and say, "This came from God," we cannot prove it, nor can anyone else disprove it. All we can say is that we think it is a message from God. But the point I am trying to make is that while the Modernist could have said, had it been so, that as a matter of fact there is no evidence of the earthly things described by the Bible, he cannot do the same with the heavenly things. The one was within his power to see and know, the other is not. Therefore he must drop the facts or tangible things, because evidence has been found that upsets him and so must drop the intangible things also, because no man can prove how, when, why or what an Infinite God would say. And not only is the Modernist out of it on both those points, but if he appeals to our reasoning power and says: "Yes, I admit I cannot prove anye thing, but then, you know, the probabilities are all in favour of doubt," we will say that no man can speak of probabilities with regard to an Infinite Being. It is impossible. What, then, will the poor Modernist do? Likely try to apply force to us. It is the only thing left to him, and it is characteristic of such people. They really have no belief in God or they would not despise His plan and set up one of their own.

J. H. BURNHAM.

CHURCH UNION A PROVED SUCCESS.

To the Editor:
Sir:

"Where are these Union Churches?" asks Dr. Ephraim Scott in a letter in which he casts serious reflections upon statements made by the Moderator of his own Church. I have not taken any part in the Church Union controversy, but I have had some experience the ideal of union in Canada, on the basis of the United Church of Canada. It has been my privilege for the past five years to minister to the United Church of Rosedale, which is the largest Union congregation, of which there are over three thousand of various kinds all over Canada. In this locality there is room and need for one strong church, but not for more. In 1913, the Inter-Church Committee on Church extension approved of a site, and sanctioned the establishment of the Northern Congregational Church in that district. The Presbyterian and Methodist Churches agreed not to establish a cause there in view of approaching Union.

At first the Church carried on as a Congregational Church with a measure of success, but it became apparent that it could not adequately meet the situation nor make a sufficiently wide appeal on any denominational line. On my return from overseas I was called to this congregation on the distinct representation to me that the Church wished to take advantage of the agreement entered into for the establishment of Union charges, pending the consummation of the "United Church of Canada." The Church was then organised on the basis of union in all particulars of doctrine and government, with the following result:

In the four succeeding years the congregation increased by 150 per cent, the Sunday School by 100 per cent, and the finances doubled. The church built a manse at a cost of $20,000. On the whole church property, which cost $126,000, there remains a debt of only $33,690. The church undertook the support of its own missionary in West Africa, and in addition supports Home Missions in Western Canada through the Mission Boards of the Congregational Methodist and Presbyterian Churches, besides giving aid to philanthropic causes. The church parlors and gymnasium are the community centre for the social and religious life of the district.

A recent analysis of the congregation denominationally shows the following facts and figures:—The Session—Congregational 5, Methodist 4, Presbyterian 3; Committee of Stewards—Baptists 2, Congregational 2, Methodist 5, Presbyterian 5; the Official Board—Anglican 2, Baptist 2, Congregational 7, Methodist 13, Presbyterian 14; Membership—Presbyterian 206, Methodist 155, Congregational 120, Anglican 30, Baptist 8—a total of 519.

Now what bearing has this experience on the arguments and theories of opponents of Union? I am not speaking from mere theory, but from fifteen years' experience in the Presbyterian Church in Canada from Sydney to Vancouver, and five years in a Union Church. My conclusions are as follows:

1. Union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches is not only practical, but an unqualified temporal and spiritual success where it is fairly tried.

2. It is a success not merely in small communities on the prairie, where economic reasons offer the alternative of union or nothing; but it is a success here in Rosedale, Toronto, a community that could afford to spend money in building rival churches if they were so disposed.

3. The union church has attracted to its membership active service men and women who were out of touch with all churches, in some cases largely because of unseemly rivalry and divisions.

4. Methodists and Presbyterians get along eminently well together, and Congregationalists with both. We have never had a single jar or denominational difference in the session of the church.

5. The office of elder is continued in the United Church according to the basis. Two additional elders were ordained in our church recently, one a lawyer of repute and Christian character, who failed to find either "coercion" or "tyranny" in the Enabling Act.

6. The United Church has a creed, and a good one, which all accept without mental reservations or equivocation of any kind.

Dr. Scott accuses the Moderator of repeating "the time-worn fiction that 2,000 congregations have already gone into union on the faith that the churches were pledged to union." The only answer to such an aspersion upon the veracity of Dr. Gandier is a citation of actual facts. There is in the Home Mission office an official list of 1,245 pastoral charges where some form of union is already in effect. In order of Synods these are as follows: Maritime Provinces 30, Montreal and Ottawa 29, Toronto and Kingston 170, Hamilton and London 1, Manitoba 143, Saskatchewan 431, Alberta 297, British Columbia 139, total 1,245. These charges include over 3,000 congregations. These unions have all been entered upon with a view to the eventual consummation of the United Church of Canada, and the Presbyterians in these union charges acted upon the pledged word of their parent church.

I recall as a boy in Scotland the union controversy there. The same arguments advanced against union then, and thoroughly discredited by time and experience, are advanced now in Canada. The United Church of Canada will arrive. The storms of opposition will only serve to test its equipment and Divine intention, and hasten it on its great enterprise of a United Church in a United Canada...

Toronto, RONALD MACLEOD.

VON LOSSOW PROVED UNWILLING WITNESS

MUNICH, March 10. — United Press. — General Von Lossow was called to the stand at the trial of General Erick Von Ludendorff, and others, accused of fomenting the abortive "Beer Cellar Putsch" of last November, was resumed here to-day.

Von Lossow, who was a military commander in Bavaria at the time of the outbreak, proved an unwilling witness, and was granted permission by the court to refuse to answer any incriminating questions.

The Judge ruled that while Von Lossow was not yet a defendant, investigation which was perhaps preliminary to his arrest, had been instituted against him.

YOUR HEALTH

DR. CLIFFORD ROBINSON

FIGHTING COMMON COLDS

The Public Health Service announced that 35 per cent. of the people in the United States are subject to the common bad colds (there are no good ones) and is making a special investigation to determine the cause and possible cure.

February and March seem to be the favorite months for colds and nasal troubles. But many people always easily catch cold.

What we term the common cold is due to an inrection of the upper air passages of the nose. These germs, with the family name of micro-coccus-catarallis, are always watching for a chance to catch you off your guard and take up their abiding place in your septum.

For this class of colds beware of the nose-blowing, sneezing individual who knows and coughs right into your face, and expectorates anywhere without any regard of consequences.

Another cause is undue exposure, especially of the parts of the body where warm protection is necessary. Insufficient covering at night is another cause.

Wet garments should always be removed as soon as possible and a brisk rubbing or massage indulged in to bring back the healthy glow to the skin. Avoid wet feet, a frequent cause of colds

To guard against cold from exposure is a life process of common sense, habits and exercise. Steer clear of the common cold by your determined efforts to make your body strongly resistant to its effects. Try and avoid dry, warm rooms with dust conditions that attack the nasal passages and inflame the mucous membranes.

Colds may not have any direct relation to the ventilating of your bedroom, but becoming used to pure air during the sleeping period is a great help in strong bodily resistance to the effects of cold germs or exposure.

Sinking of Hampshire With Kitchener Told by German Who Was on Submarine

PHILADELPHIA, March 10. — (Canadian Press.)—With papers to prove his identity, Heinz Hickmann, born in Hamburg, Germany, patient in St. Agnes Hospital here, told a story yesterday that seems to furnish the first authentic information published as to the manner in which the British cruiser Hampshire, on which Lord Kitchener died, was blown up.

Hickmann, machinist on U-22, of the German submarine flotilla, said his captain received a wireless from the German Naval Office in the summer of 1916, that the British commander was on the cruiser Hampshire, and ordering the ship sunk at any cost.

Hickmann says the U-22 and the Hampshire met about six o'clock in the morning. He refrained from giving the names of his captain and officers on the ground that England, with the aid of France, would imprison them. Otherwise he was specific as to details.

U-22's captain picked up the Hampshire with the periscope when she was fifteen miles away, and prepared for the execution of the order from the German staff. Hickmann says they could see the cruiser had an escort of torpedo boats. He does not know how many, but he was sure of two, because they saw them when they came to the surface after firing the fatal torpedo into the heart of the cruiser.

Asked whether he could be more explicit in detail and whether he had seen Lord Kitchener on the deck of the cruiser, Hickmann said he could not, as the U-boat was probably fifty feet under the surface when the torpedo was fired. Then, according to rules of undersea boats, he said, they went deeper and came up miles away from the victim.

Then it was they saw the torpedo boat escort, he said. After seeing the cruiser sink, they submerged again.

Then the captain reported that he had carried out orders and the Hampshire was at the bottom of the North Sea. Subsequently he said, orders came to congratulate the officers and crew on their "good work."

LOCAL BASKET BALL TEAM IS NOW A WINNER

Lost to Belleville Thursday Night By the Score of 24 to 20 But Won Round on Points.

The Peterborough Intermediate basketball team are nominal winners of Central Ontario, and should represent this group in the O.A.B.A. finals.

Playing in Belleville on Thursday night they lost to the Quinte crew by the score of 24 to 20, and playing Queen's in Kingston on Friday evening they lost by 33 to 20.

But neither of the scores notched against the Petes were large enough to overcome the lead on points that the locals piled up while playing at home.

A controversy has arisen. The locals entered this series under the impression that points were to count. This is definitely stated in a letter received by Doug. Loomis from Phil Brockel, of Belleville, convenor of this district. This letter reads:

"Home and home games, points to count, winners to represent Central Ontario in further play."

This ruling stood as far as the Petes were aware until immediately after they lost the game in Belleville, when this same Mr. Brockell, author of the letter, announced that games and not points were to count. If the changeable Mr. Brockel can get off with this decision, Queen's will be group winners, having won their game in Belleville.

The Petes made no attempt to win in Belleville, knowing that they could win easily on points, but by shoving a team of subs, into the fray to hold the score as close as possible, they reserved their regulars for the hard battle that was to be staged in Kingston the following night. It worked just as the Petes figured.

Mr. Doug. Loomis, of the local Y, has been connected with the O.A.B.A. for the past five years, during that time his team went through for the championship, and in no case during these years has games counted, but always points declared the winner. He is of the firm opinion that this is the only way a basketball series should be run, because with the differences in the size and lay-out of the different gymnasiums of the district, a team is bound to win at home and lose away, and under such conditions a successful series cannot be concluded.

The Petes have put their case before the O.A.B.A. executive, and await their decision. The locals, while logical winners, are willing to make certain concessions, but in no way are they willing that they should be calmly passed over in favour of Queen's. The locals are confident that if the O.A.B.A. does call upon them to play another series they shall demonstrate their calibre.

To get back to the encounters.

The game in Belleville did not produce any classy basketball. The teams jostled along on the Quinte "match box," 'and the Petes never exerted themselves, content only to watch the score sheet and make no mistakes in addition, but keep their sum, as close as possible, the same as Weir and company's.

On the small floor space the game developed a little rough stuff, but Mr. Brockel let nothing the Petes did get by him.

In Kingston the game was different; the Petes never held the opinion that they could trim the nifty college team on their home floor, but they were determined to give them a hard game.

The game was good, with real snappy basketball and good combination. The teams had lots of room to stretch themselves on the University gymnasium, and the play fairly sizzled. The play was also fairly even.

The umpire caught both teams off for the slightest body contact, which slowed up the game and put the Petes a little off their form.

For the tricolour Graham and Hewgill did most of the scoring, but the whole team took a hand.

DeGraw and Hardill "split" the basket for most of the Petes' counters.

Methodists talk Union.

At the Methodist church on Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. M. L. Hilton, gave a talk on Church Union, explaining to the congregation the meaning of union and the benefits of the same. In the evening in place of the regular choir of mixed voices a male choir was formed. All the chairs in the choir loft were filled and splendid music was given throughout the evening by the choir. The music consisted mostly of choruses. Mr. W. E. Tate acted as organist at the pipe organ. The pastor took for his subject "Man" and spoke from the words "God Created man in His own image."

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed on Sunday morning in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, the Rev. D. A. Thompson officiating. On Friday afternoon preparatory service was held in the church previous to the taking of communion.

Lost a Finger.

Mothers Should Not NEGLECT BRONCHITIS In the Babies

Mrs. E. Langdon, Kingston, Ont., writes:—"My baby had bronchitis when he was two weeks old, he recovered from the attack but took it again, several months later, and on account of the severity I was almost panic-stricken to know what to do for him. My mother advised me to try Dr. Woods' Norway Pine Syrup, as she had used it for several years with splendid results.

I got a bottle, and after I had used it I could see a decided improvement in him; after several bottle he was completely relieved.

My boy is now two years old, and he has never had an attack of bronchitis since.

As a mother, raising a family, I am very grateful to know that I have found a real remedy for bad cold and bronchitis, as it lifts care and anxiety from an anxious mother's shoulders."

WARM COLORS.

Fashion designers are advocating the use of warm, tender spring colors, such as yellow, green and the rose shades as a pleasant relief from the sombre garb which winter forces upon us.

BUT TIMES CHANGED FOR JESSE'S AIDE.

"BILLY" STILES, EX-BANDIT COMRADE OF JESSE JAMES

BY JACK JUGMEYER

GLENDALE, Calif., March 8.—The only surviving member of Jesse James' gang is here—REFORMED.

Willia Stiles is a disturbing refutation of the proverb that you can't straighten the bent bough.

Billy in boyhood and prime was as crooked a bough as was ever fashioned by the storms of outlawry. Today, at the age of 74, is a straight a human tree as ever weathered the gale.

He does odd jobs on a farm and writes a book between chores.

"I was bad from the time I can first remember," explajns Stiles. "I started stealing as soon as I could walk."

But when he reached that age when most men consider their lives unalterably fixed, Stiles began to delve into the gospel instead of bank vaults and mail pouches.

His first crime was at 14. He robbed a drunken man. He ran away from home and went to a New York "begging school," where he mastered pickpocketing.

After he had stolen a horse in Kentucky—a gallows offense in those days—he decided to go the limit and joined the James' gang.

"My initiation was pretty rough," he recalls. "They sent me out on an errand along the trail.

"Soon I saw men—sheriff's deputies, I thought—surround me. I thought I was lost. When they asked me if I belonged to the James' gang, I couldn't says 'yes' because I thought they would hang me. And if I said 'no,' I figured the gang would kill me. So I refused to answer.

"They put a rope around my neck and hoisted me clear of the ground several times. Finally they released me and I returned to the camp. I found the James' gang around the camp fire, laughing. They had put me to the test and I had not flinched.

"I always think of that incident whenever I put on a stiff white collar and it chafes my throat."

EXPERTS ARE NEAR END OF THEIR TASK

Report Will Be Commenced at End of This Week -- Completed by March 22.

PARIS, March 10. United Press. — The Experts' Commission now inquiring into Germany's financial condition with reference to her ability to pay reparations, to-day began discussions preliminary to drafting its report.

The actual work of the draft will begin towards the end of this week. Although a number of vital points still remain unsettled, including the proposal for international control of German transportation and certain other phases of industry; prospects are bright for a complete agreement.

The sub-committee of banking under Owen Young of the United States, met again to-day, and will hear additional testimony from the German representative, Herr Schacht to-morrow.

A full plenary session is scheduled to be held to-morrow afternoon to hear reports of the sub-committees.

It is doubtful whether the experts full report will be ready to submit to the Commission of reparations before March 22.

BENSFORT BOY DIED SUDDENLY

Albert Collins Found Dead When His Parents Returned Home.

When Mr. and Mrs. Albert Collins returned to their home about a mile north east of Bensfort, in South Monaghan township, late Saturday afternoon, they found their 19-year-old son, Albert, crumpled up dead, on a chair, a bottle of carbolic acid on the table beside him, a rifle on the floor, and a bullet wound through his heart. Dr. A. L. Russell, of Baillieboro, was called, and later in the evening notified the coroner, Dr. T. N. Greer of Peterboro.

Albert Collins had been ill for some time, and only recently consulted Dr. Russell, who gave him a bottle of medicine. Apparently the young man had worried over his ill health to such an extent that he had become mentally unbalanced, and it is thought, unaccountable for his last act.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

TO REV. ROBT. POGUE.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—A little over a week ago the Rev. Robt. Pogue quoted at length Bernard Shaw, the atheist, in favor of the right of the majority to enter a man's house and dictate to him what he shall drink (Prohibition), when that man has not, by excess or other improper conduct, forfeited his rights as a free man. Mr. Pogue wound up by calling those who thought differently "bad sports" and "nuisances." I replied to Mr. Pogue's letter, and stated that if he would quote the Creator and the Saviour in favour of Prohibition I would be convinced that men cannot relieve themselves of their sins in this way. I refused to acknowledge G.B. Shaw or any other Pshaw! as superior to the Creator of Heaven and Earth and all things therein, including alcohol. Mr. Pogue has not replied to my request. He is afraid of defeat, and he may well be. His only argument is his own sweet will, backed by the policeman, a noble type of Christianity, surely. Come along, Mr. Pogue! Show us that God is to blame and not man, and we will all agree, but till then take my advice and apply as little force as you can. Others can do likewise. It is surely a crude civilization that proposes to found itself on Force.

18 BODIES RECOVERED

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 10.—Late despatches say that eighteen bodies of miners killed on Saturday, when a series of explosions virtually destroyed Mine Number 2 of the Utah Fuel Company and entombed 175 men, had been brought out early to-day, and all available trucks were pressed into service upon the reports that "many" bodies had been found and would be brought to the surface.

Indications were that none of the miners in the workings had escaped.

Seventeen rescue crews made rapid progress during the night in the exploration of the mine entries.

As a result, hope virtually was abandoned by the company officials that any of the entombed men would be found alive.

Last night rescue crews proceeded approximately 2,300 feet in the escape way portal, where all rescue work is carried on, and extinguished a smouldering fire that had been burning all day.

CAMPBELLFORD FAIR RETAINS DATE DECIDED

Directors Decide Not to Change to Avoid Clash With Picton -- Sport Day Arranged -- Mothers' Allowance Board Met.

CHURCH CANTATA

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10. — The directors of the Campbellford Fair met on Friday evening to arrange for the celebration which it is proposed to hold under the auspices of the society on May 24th. The date was not set as it is desired that there be no conflict with the memorial services in Hastings which have been announced for Victoria Day. It was stated that the merchants of the town would not care to close their places of business on Saturday, the best day of the week for them, so the Friday preceding Victoria Day was favored by the majority. That will be a half holiday in Campbellford no matter when the Agricultural Society's celebration is put on. The date, however, was left in abeyance, the question to be decided later. R. T. Cowell, leader of the Northumberland Band, will be interviewed with regard to the holding of a concert at night. The day's programme will consist of horse races, baseball, lacrosse and other athletic sports.

The matter of changing the date of the fall fair so as to avoid a conflict with the Picton Fair was brought up, but it was decided to hold the local exhibition on the days set at the meeting of the Central Ontario Fairs Association in January.

It is likely that the merchants and manufacturers will be given an opportunity to exhibit at the Fair next fall. This has always been a favorite idea with Director T. J. Horkins, who is father of the movement to have the Government erect an armouries on the Fair grounds, the building to be used for exhibition purposes. There is little if any immediate prospect of the government taking such action, and Mr. Horkins advocated that the society put up a building at its own expense for the merchants and manufacturers.

J. Nelson Stone, secretary of the society, suggested that a large tent be secured for the roots and vegetable exhibits, now shown on the ground floor of the main building, and that this space be given over to the merchants and manufacturers. This idea met with general favour and such action is likely to be taken, Director Horkins agreeing to the proposition.

In order to assure the financial success of the holiday celebration, each director agreed to sell 20 and each officer 40 admission tickets.

J. Nelson Stone has returned from Colborne where he attended a meeting of the Mothers' Allowance Board of which he is chairman. The present members of the Board, besides Mr. Stone are: Ed. Quinn of Colborne, secretary A. R. Dundas of Cobourg, Mrs. Milton E. Maybee of Trenton and Mrs. Findlay Clarke of Brighton. Miss McCaughey, a school teacher in Cobourg, has been recently added to the Board to look into some special cases in that town.

Miss Burry of Peterborough, Government Inspector for the Board was in town last week and made a trip through the district investigating cases of beneficiaries and of others who have applied for aid under the act.

To Re-Forest Farm

J. R. Wilkinson, ex-Deputy Reeve, who owns a farms on the Grand Road, has offered Warden Walter M. Fowlds of Hastings, to donate five acres of his land for reforestration by the Government. The Warden will bring this offer before the Counties' Council at the June session. The counties have purchased several hundred acres of land for reforestration and the trees will be planted next year.

Cantata At St. Andrews

The usual sermon was omitted at St. Andrew's Church last night, the choir assisted by several local singers rendering a cantata Wensley's "Song of Thanksgiving." The music was thoroughly enjoyed by a large congregation in which many members of other local churches were noticed. The faultless rendition of the various choruses, solos, trios and duetts, showed the careful training that the twenty-two musicians who took part had been given by Choirmaster Wigglesworth who took several of the tenor solos and rendered two duetts with Miss Emma Meiklejohn, soprano. Both the organ and the piano were used for the accompaniments. Mr. Wigglesworth and E. C. Dolman, furnishing the instrumental music. The following well known vocalists took the leading parts: Miss Emma Meiklejohn and Miss Atkinson, sopranos; Mrs. (Dr.) F. F. Free, and Mrs. D. W. Douglas, contraltos; F. Wiggleworth, tenor, and Walter Henson, bass. Books containing the words of the different numbers were distributed among the audience.

The work of the choir last night enhances the high reputation which it has earned during the past year under Mr. Wigglesworth's leadership. A number of the younger members received their first lessons in voice culture from him.

At the Regent.

The programme for this week at the Regent Theatre, is as follows:

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Mary Pickford in "Tess of the Storm Country," the film to which the patrons of the theatre have been looking forward for weeks. Any screen drama in which Mary Pickford appears, never fails to prove a good drawing card wherever shown.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with Saturday matinee—"Masters of Men," the screen version of Morgan Robertsons' well known sea story.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

An engineer in Sweden has perfected a new building material, made from waste paper and designed for ceilings and wall linings. The raw materials are ordinary waste paper such as accumulates in cities, and clay and sulphate lye, the cheapness of which insures an inexpensive finished product. The covering is said to be fireproof and durable; can be applied by unskilled labor, will take paper, paint or stain, and can even be polished. It is a good non-conductor, and does not respond to changes in temperature

By Olive Roberts Earton

THE MOUSE-TRAP

"There!" declared the Beanstalk Mouse.

"Now then," said the Beanstalk Mouse to Nancy and Nick when he had carried them safely out of the dark drain, "we are in the gardener's cellar where it is nice and dry. And now I shall show you the funny round dish the gardener has been kind enough to set out for me."

"What is it like?" asked Nancy.

"It's round and has holes in the sides, also some very shiny whirligigs with bits of cheese hung on them, all ready to dine on. I do think the gardener is a grand man to be so kind! But come on. I'll show it to you. It's right over here under the steps. And you must be my guests and have pot-luck with me. There is plenty of cheese for all."

The Twins were not so anxious to share Mister Mouse's meal as they were to see the wonderful dish he spoke of. What kind of a dish could it be that had holes and whirligigs in it? But Nick said he was sure they would both be much obliged to stay and everything, and after that all three of them went over to the dark place under the stairs.

"There!" declared the Beanstalk Mouse with a wave of his long tail. "There is the dish right there in the corner. And do you smell the cheese? Really it smells so delicious it almost makes we want to sneeze."

"Why!" gasped Nancy the minute she set eyes on it. "That's a mouse-trap, Mister Mouse!"

"A what?" shrieked the mouse, backing away in a hurry. "What did you say?"

"A mouse-trap," repeated Nick. "Those whirligigs are springs, and if you touched any of them, you'd be caught.

"Are you sure?" exclaimed the mouse doubtfully.

"I'll show you," said Nick. "Only the trap is so big and I'm so little, I'm not quite sure I can work it." No wonder Nick had his doubts, my dears, for the Beanstalk Mouse was as big as a pony and the mouse-trap was as large as a—oh, about as large as a garage.

Nick picked up a big piece of wood and reached into one of the holes on the side of the trap.

Scarcely had the stick touched the cheese, when bang! The trap went off like a cannon, turrning completely over and knocking the Twins off their feet.

"Dear, dear! Are you hurt?" squealed the Beanstalk Mouse rushing up. But Nancy and Nick jumped right up, as spry as crickets.

"We're all right, Mister Mouse," they laughed. "Don't worry."

"Oh, I'm much obliged!" panted the mouse gratefully. "Just think what would have happened if it had been me instead."

"You saved our lives, and we are glad to do the same for you," said Nancy. "But remember, you mustn't get too greedy or you may get into trouble yet."

"What's all this I hear down here?" said a great voice just then, and the door into the cellar opened and the gardener looked in. "I thought I heard mice squeaking. I'll just have a look at that trap."

But when he got there not a thing was to be seen but the overturned trap. Nancy and Nick had skipped off.

And as for the Beanstalk Mouse, he had scurried down a hole, long tail and all!

PRESENT STATUS OF INSULIN'S USE

New Diabetes Remedy Discussed by Physicians Who Are Familiar With It.

Not Regarded As a Cure.

NEW YORK, Mar. 10.—Authoritative information relating to the use and limitations of insulin, the new remedy for diabetes discovered by Dr. Frederick G. Banting, the young Canadian, and Professor J. J. R. Macleod, his coworker at Toronto University, is given in an editorial in The Medical Journal and Record. The fact that it is not a cure is emphasized, and the point is stressed that in some advanced cases, especially where eyesight has been affected, the remedy does little good. Also physicians are warned against abondoning the regular diabetic diet and are cautioned concerning the dangers of too free and careless administration of insulin.

It may be stated quite definitely, says the writer, that the use of insulin for controlling diabetes is a conspicuous success. It has its distinct limitations; that is, it is not a cure; but these limitations are fairly well known and, considered from most aspects, the production of insulin is an epoch-making event and one which, moreover, seems to point the way to other discoveries of a more or less similar nature.

The therapeutic value of insulin is so great and the prevalence of diabetes so wide that the remedy should be within the reach of all classes of society. Unfortunately, the cost is a very considerable obstacle to its general employment. On the other hand, the condition occurs most frequently among the prosperous and well-fed—it is held by some to be a disease mainly due to overeating—who can afford to pay for the treatment.

Accurate Diagnosis Necessary

The next points are that an accurate diagnosis shall be made and that the treatment shall be carried out scientifically. Of course, cases of diabetes come mostly within the province of the general practitioner, and ye has to teach himself how to diagnose correctly, at any rate, or the consequences in some cases may be disastrous.

At a meeting of the Section of Therapeutics and Pharmacology held in the house of the Royal Society of Medicine, London, the use of insulin, in general practice was discussed. Professor Hugh Maclean, in opening the discussion, said that the non-successful cases were probably those unsuitable for treatment. If the doctor followed the directions correctly insulin could be safely used by him. The most important point was to go slowly. But every care must be taken in the matter of diagnosis.

Insulin given in too large doses produced certain symptoms, such as flushing of the face, followed by pallor; and there might be local or general sweating and a sense of constriction about the chest or a feeling of impending disaster. Even unconsciousness or motor or sensory aphasia might result. Professor Maclean pointed out that insulin, in nearly every case, gave the patient a sense of comparative well being and he was more energetic. In an unsuitable case the danger of giving insulin was very great.

Eyes Factor in Progress

He did not think one could forecast, in a given case, what would happen in four or five years; but when eye changes occurred there could be little hope of doing the patient good, though an effort could be made to eliminate the blood sugar by giving insulin. He had not yet seen a bad case ot diabetes cured by insulin.

In cases in which sugar appeared in the urine because of a leak in the kidney the giving of insulin might bring about disaster. If one went slow with the remedy and the patient was meanwhile carefully watched, it was impossible for the general practitioner to go far wrong. A definite diet should be decided upon, and that should be adhered to practically throughout the treatment.

The insulin should be commenced with a small dose, and the quantity very gradually increased. He did not think it was necessary that those using insulin in general practice should be able to test the blood sugar. In every case the aim should be to render the urine sugar free. Even in cases where this was not achieved the patients said they felt much better and semed to have more energy than normally.

Dr. Graham's Opinion

Another speaker, Dr. George Graham, said that, while he had no doubt that insulin was a very great value in the treatment of diabetes, it could not be considered a substitute for the diabetic treatment. The more knowledge a doctor had about the disease the better were his results likely to be. The ideal to be aimed at in the treatment was to render the blood sugar normal. In case of coma one got the answer as to the value of insulin treatment in four or five hours, but in mild cases one might have to wait years.

Professor J. J. R. Macleod of Toronto stated that in Ontario classes of instruction, two or three days each, had been largely attended by practitioners to learn about insulin, the various tests and the behavior of the patients, and the Ontario Government, through the Provincial Board, was supplying to the profession insulin free of charge for use for poor patients. Dr. Poulton considered the use of insulin by the general practitioner was safe provided he proceeded slowly.

It appears, then, that the use of insulin by the general practitioner is safe, provided he exercises great discretion, says the editor. But he must become scientifically versed in its employ.ment and above all must be able to diagnose with accuracy. As a matter of fact, in the existing circumstances it seems that the general practitioner, as a rule, and the country practitioner in particular, is not competent to administer insulin with confidence and perhaps his diagnosis is not always to be relied on. The general practitioner, in many instances, requires to be instructed in diagnosis, and more especially as to the scientific employment of the remedy.

The example of Ontario in establishing classes of instruction for practitioners to learn about insulin, the tests and the behavior of the patients, is one which might be followed in this country with benefit to all concerned, the writer says, as well as the example of the Ontario Government in supplying to the profession insulin free of charge for the use of poor patients.

Blackheads Go Quick By This Simple Method

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—soft ones or hard ones—on any part of the body go quick by a simple method that just dissolves them. To do this get about two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—and wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. Pinching and squeezing blackheads only open the pores of the skin and leave them large and unsightly—while the simple application of peroxine powder and the water dissolve them right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition.

CHURCHES OPEN O. T. A. BATTLE

Protest Change in Act--One Methodist Church Passed Resolution.

TORONTO, March 10. Canadian Press. — From pulpits in the city churches yesterday, ministers of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational denominations, fired the first shot of the prohibition forces in their campaign against any change of the Ontario Temperance Act. They were outspoken in their opinions, and presented an array of figures and views of competent authorities in every province of the Dominion to support their arguments.

In the church the pastor concluded his address with an appeal to the members of his congregation to enter their protests with their member in the Legislature against any change and in the St. Clair Avenue Methodist church, where the congregation is representative of all walks of life, a resolution was passed, a copy of which is being sent to the Prime Minister, the Attorney-General, and members for Northwest Toronto.

ROTARY HEARS IRISH STORIES AND ANECDOTES

"Irish Wit and Humour" Subject of Fine Paper by Mr. James F. H. Wallace.

TODAY'S LUNCHEON

"Irish Wit and Humour" was the subject of a most interesting and amusing paper delivered by Mr. Jas. F. H. Wallace before the Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon at the Empress to-day, proving one of the most entertaining addresses the Rotarians have heard for some time.

President V. J. McElderry was in the chair, and several guests were present, including Mr. Vernon Morphet, who sang "A Bachelor Gay" and "The Bandelero" in splendid voice, his contributions to the programme being much appreciated.

Mr. Wallace began his part by paying a warm tribute to the cheerfulness, geniality, kindliness, and largeness of heart of the Irishman, and expressing wonder that these qualities should be developed in a race that had more than its share of troubles. The Irish were the most witty race in the world and it was natural with them to be witty. Wit poured from the average Irishman like water from a well, and it was never malicious or bitter, even the victim of it having a laugh with the rest.

A most entertaining series of anecdotes illustrating the ready wit of the Irish was then given by Mr. Wallace, who told one amusing story after another to the merriment of the audience.

The contribution made by Irishmen to the gaiety of the world, the speaker said in conclusion, was a most valuable one.

It was announced that the Rotary-Annes had a balance of $33.25, which would be turned over to the Rotary Club to help in the crippled children's work and in esuipping the Boys' Camp. The announcement was received with great applause.

Uneasy Conscience Made Youth Return Money to Merchant

COBALT, March 10. Canadian Press. — In an unregistered envelope with a letter stating that he could neither eat nor sleep since his offense, the person who secured $73.00 on a stolen cheque from N. W. Rowdon, the Cobalt hardware merchant, has returned seven ten dollar bills, a two and a one.

Mr. Rowdon recently was tendered a high school teacher's salary cheque for which he gave $73.75 and a toaster to a boy, who represented himself as the rightful owner, and was to return for the balance.

Mr. Rowdon, when it was discovered that the cheque had been lost by its rightful owner, kissed good-bye to the amount. The letter arrived with the signature of B. K. McKee, dated from Silver Centre, but postmarked Haileybury.

GODFREY SUPPORTS DENTAL DISCOVERY

Toronto Dentists Will Discuss Alleged Political Influence at Royal Dental College.

TORONTO, March 10. Canadian Press.—Substantiating his claims as to discoveries made by Dr. Harold Box,, Toronto, in connection with the treatment of the disease commonly known as Pyorrhea, Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Provincial Minister of Health and Labor, will read a statement in the Legislature to-day.

Certain of these claims are however questioned in a circular letter to the Toronto dentists some days ago, by Dr. A. J. McDonagh, prominent former professor, in a dental college, and are again disputed by Dr. McDonagh.

Introduced as a point of issue by him it is likely that the alleged political influence at the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, and the advisability of a federation of the College with the University, will be discussed at a special meeting of the Toronto dentists.

WANTS CREDIT GIVEN.

Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, this morning repudiated the suggestion made by Dr. A. L. McDonagh, that he is mixing the Royal College of Dental Surgeons up in politics.

"As for mixing up in the internal politics of the Dental College, nothing is further from my mind," said Godfrey; "I know nothing about them. My one desire is to see that this brilliant young Canadian (Dr. Harold Box) should receive credit for his work."

Dr. Godfrey handed out a statement to the press, by Dr. Paul R. Stillman of New York, and Dr. John Oppie McCall of Buffalo, well-known dental experts, which declared that Dr. Box's discovery is one of the first magnitude to science.

The statement made to the Minister by these two dental authorities, states that they knew Dr. Box was on the brink of the discovery, and that when he had made it they hastened to Toronto to congratulate him. "We have no hesitation in substantiating his claims," they state.

GROCERY TRADE SHOWS INCREASE

Local Wholesaler Noticed Improvement in Volume of Business -- Payment Slow -- Comment on Markets.

The volume of trade in the wholesale grocery business is very good for this season of the year, according to Mr. J. E. Adams, wholesale grocer, who keeps in close touch with the markets. An increase was noted in the volume of business in January and February, with payments slow, however.

Sugar continues to advance in price gradually. In February, buying by European purchasers sent the price up. A trade journal reports the total shipments to Europe this season from Cuban markets as amounting to 64,944 tons, as compared with 43,384 tons for the same period last year. Stocks in the hands of United States Atlantic port refiners a week ago were larger than for some time, being increased to 107,496 tons, and this factor, in conjunction with a lack of demand for refined sugar, was responsible for a recent decline in the price of raws, which, however, are once more on the up grade.

Stron~ market in coffee is registered, with an advance of 3 cents per pound on the 1st of March. A soaring coffee market, with further advances, is predicted on account of serious shortage in the crop. Another factor is that the consumption of coffee on this continent and in the United Kingdom has increased considerably, while Europe has not been purchasing the same volume as before the war. The world's visible supply of all kinds of coffee on 1st February totalled 4,176,000 bags, as against 7,660,000 bags in 1923, and as compared with 9,293,000 bags on the same date in 1922. The world's deliveries for the seven months' period preceding 1st February, were 13,159,000 bags, while the total receipts for the same period were only 12,005,000 bags.

In spices, also, with particular reference to nutmegs, mace, cloves and cassia, advances are looked for on account of a poor crop, and the same factor has to do with the increasing cost of rice.

Dried fruits are firm. The adverse exchange rate now in operation adds 3 1-2 per cent. to purchases from the United States, on top of the 6 per cent. sales tax. With regard to this sales tax, a new device by those manufacturers who have absorbed the tax is to lower their cash discount considerably to purchasers. A former cash discount on some commodities of 15 per cent. has now become 6 per cent. or 7 per cent.

A strong market in canned vegetables is reported, on account of the shortpack last year, and the cleaning out of factory stocks. There is a slight upward tendency in teas and in flour. Canned syrups and jams and marmalade stocks are plentiful, and a steady market is reported in cereals.

From the Annapolis Valley in Nova Scotia comes the story of a new industry that will manufacture a breakfast food composed largely of apples and wheat, which is said to have as superior keeping qualities and as high a food value as any breakfast food now produced. It is estimated that the product, when placed on the market and properly advertised, will absorb about 300,000 barrels of apples a year, and therefore will be a material factor in developing the possibilities of the Valley.

In the wholesale fruit and vegetable markets, there is a scarcity of potatoes. Wholesale prices are $1.75 a bag. In the stores they sell from $1.80 to $2.00 a bag. On the farmers' market on Saturday $1.75 to $1.85 were the prices asked.

Next week, the first carloads of bananas from the steamers will arrive. Last year, shipments came in very early. At one local point, the fruit was yellow when it arrived, and had to be diposed of quickly. Car temperatures were too high, and a consequent near-cooking of the big yellow fruit resulted.

In the local fruit stores, cucumbers are the latest arrivals, and sell for the high price of from 50 to 60 cents apiece. Artichokes are new also, at a quarter. Quantities of fish for the Lenten trade are on view in most of the fruit stores and many of the groceries.

In the dairy section, the bottom seems to have dropped out of the egg market, and this isn't due, either, to the spring activities of the great Canadian hen. Heavy imports from the United States, where the quotations are very low in large lots, cause the drop. In the last three weeks, a decrease of nearly 30 per cent. has been registered in prices of nearly all grades of eggs, and dealers, it is said, prefer to buy the American product rather than the domestic, on account of the low quotations. Stocks held by farmers for an opening up of the blocked roads will make a still further drop, it is anticipated.

Wholesale prices on hides and wool show an advance, and there is an increase, also, in prices of live hogs, with a small decrease in wholesale prices of the dressed variety.

The scale of buffalo meat, in the retail butcher stores, which attracted a little comment recently, had a brisk ending. With only a hundred pounds to each dealer, and with only two stores in the city handling it, it retailed at 25 cents a pound, and proved to be popular while it lasted. A flavour resembling that of venison was recorded by those who purchased the dark steaks.

In the florists' shops signs of spring are in the bouquets of frail sweet peas, the cheerful double tulips, and the lovely purple violets in small vases. There are waxen-looking Easter lilies, too, in some of the stores.

Confectionery windows display advertisements for hot cross buns, "to be eaten all through Lent," a departure from the old custom of keeping the spiced cakes for the Good Friday trade.

FRANCE IS VASSAL TO FOREIGN MONEY

Declares Ex-Premier Cailtaux to Republican Group -- Condemns Poincare Financing.

PARIS, March 10—(United News A policy on the part of France of alliances and general acords with her neighbors was urged by ex-Premier Cailtaux in a speech before the Republican groups at Montpelier yesterday.

Urging agreements for peace and conciliation, he declared that this policy was not only human, but would result in the avoidance of economic losses and the loss of French prestige which might result from "vassalage."

It is vassalage to live under the flag of the dollar and the pound," he declared, referring to the drop in the value of the franc.

He condemned the French fiscal policy under the Poincare regime.

OLD-TIME STRUGGLE IN MONTREAL ARENA GAVE CANADIENS ONLY GOAL

Crowd of 7,000 Saw Leo Dandurand's Youths Defeat the Senators and Outplay Them Practically All the Way — Slushy Ice Slowed Up the Game But Did Not Diminish the Excitement.

IN OTTAWA TO-NIGHT.

MONTREAL, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—Canadiens will enter the second game of the National Hockey League play-off at the Capital tonight with a one-goal lead as a result of their one to nothing victory over the champion Ottawa Senators in the first of the home-and-home games for the league title played here Saturday night.

But for the slushy ice the local team should have had a more comfortable margin, for they outplayed the visitors practically from the first whistle to the final clang of the bell. They dominated the contest in a game which, while necessarily not marked by the scintillating features that are customary when those rival sextettes meet, nevertheless, was one of those old-time struggles that kept the crowd at high tension throughout the play.

Seven thousand paid admissions were registered and the largest crowd that has ever been packed into the arena jammed every nook and cranny in an effort to glimpse at least part of the struggle.

The Solitary Goal.

Frank Nighbor's poke check and brilliant goalkeeping by Clint Benedict were coupled with the heavy ice in keeping Canadiens out, but there had to be a break under the pressure and the deadlock was broken five minutes after the second period opened when Bowie Morenz batted in the puck after a melee in front of the Ottawa goal.

George Boucher, leader of the Ottawa team on the ice, blocked a rush and in attempting to clear the puck off to one side set it in front of Brother Billy Boucher. The Canadien right wing swooped on it and after a short rush drove the disc at Benedict. The shot was blocked and dropped in front of the goal from where an attempt was made to bat it clear, but Morenz, with customary dash flashed through and Benedict did not have a chance to save.

Not before this season has such a close checking game been seen in the National Hockey League. There was no quarter allowed by either side. Fair body checks were frequent while tripping and hooking in the excitement of play was frequent, and there was a fairly steady parade of offenders to the penalty bench. But none of the fouls were for more than the minor offences and there was no serious results beyond a decided fatigue from the heavy grind of strenous play on a sheet of ice which was lumpy at first and in the two latter periods was marked by pools of water.

Referee A Casualty.

By a strange coincidence the only casualty of the game was Referee Michael Rodden. The arbiter had blown his whistle for an off side play in front of the Ottawa goal and started to skate backwards when his skate hit a deep groove in the ice and he fell on his back. He had not time to break his fall and, with his feet in the air, his head struck heavily on the ice. For a moment he remained on the ice in a dazed condition and examination showed a two inch cut on the back of the head.

He was assisted from the ice and the game halted. The crowd, thinking he would not return started to chant "Ross," hoping to have the local referee finish the game if Rodden could not return. But Michael had had his head in many a hard rugby football scrimmage, and after being patched up, resumed his duties apparently none the worse for the bumping.

Benedict Bumped.

In the first period it looked for a time as if Benedict had again entered the injured lists. He dropped his stick to make a pickup of Morenz's terrific drive from centre ice. He fumbled the catch and the puck bounded out six feet in front. He dropped forward and tossed the puck aside but got the full weight of George Boucher's body as the big defence man fell over his teammate in an effort to assist in clearing the puck. However, a couple of good shakes of the head after he had regained his feet served to set Benedict right and set at rest the speculations of some partizans who thought Ottawa's mainstay for the night had been injured sufficiently to impair his late playing.

Better staying power, despite Ottawa's greater physical strength, were the big factor in Canadien's victory. Not once throughout the game did Leo Dandurand make a change, the regular team playing throughout the scheduled sixty minutes. On the other hand Eddie Gerard who was acting bench manager for the Ottawa club, used Clancy for relief purposes, both on the front line and in place of Hitchman on the defence. But all the strategy for which the champions are noted for from the bench and on the ice was of no avail against the determination of the youthful local players.

Billy Evans Says

Three years ago when the Cleveland Indians were doing their spring unlimebring in Dallas, Tex., a big-shouldered, taciturn youngster joined the squad. Manager Speaker sent him down to second base to work out. Bill Wamby, the Tribe's regular second baseman, had just arrived in camp that day, a bit too late to take part in the practice session.

Wamby sat in the stand with the newspaper boys and watched the work. "Who's that at second base?" he asked, and was duly informed that the young man was a college boy from the University of Alabama answering to the name of Riggs Stephenson.

Wamby watched young Stephenson perform with an intense interest, not only because the newcomer was working at his old spot, but due to the amazing performance he was putting up.

"Shux, I might as well pack up and go back home," commented Wamby jokingly to the scribes. "Wonder if he can hit?"

A few minutes later the Indians came in to do some batting work, and in due time Stephenson came to the plate. Guy Morton, a speed baller, was throwing 'em. Stephenson hit the first ball Morton threw clear to the left field wall, a home run in any man's ball park.

"I know I'm going home now," exclaimed Wamby, and, as if to show he meant it, he got up and walked back to the hotel.

The baseball wheel of fate has turned sharply since that spring. Wamby is no longer with the Indians. He will play second for the Boston Red Sox next summer. Stephenson has succeeded Wamby at second with the Indians, thus fulfilling a prophecy uttered in jest by Wamby three springs ago.

Wamby was an important cog in the Indians' system of defense; he contributed a lion's share to the success of that club the year it won the world's championship, and capped it off by making an unassisted triple play in the world series with the Brooklyns.

Will Stephenson be able to fill Wamby's shoes at second for the Indians this year? Manager Speaker is pretty confident the big Alabama boy will make good with a vengeance. So are the other competent judges of young baseball flesh. But you can never tell.

Stephenson has a stiff right arm, injured in football, and this seems to hamper his throwing a bit, especially in making double plays, although I noticed last year he managed to get the ball to first base ahead of a lot of fast men.

Stephenson is a big man with the expansive build of a wrestler, but he moves with great speed and covers as much ground as the next one.

This will be his first real season as a regular, and therefore his first real test as a big league. Heretofore he has been used as understudy and relief man But this spring he starts with the knowledge that the job is his, and that he has nobody to compete with.

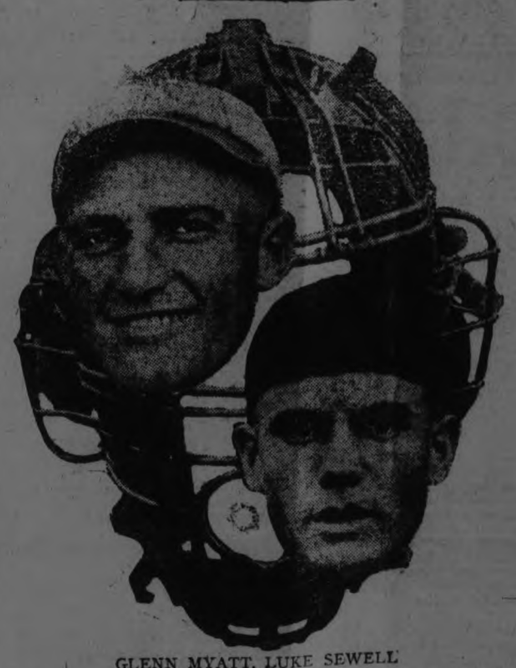
Working regularly Stephenson may develop a smoothness in defensive play that he seemed to lack in days gone by. Certainly he will gain experience and there is plenty to be be learned around the all-important keystone station.

Stephenson's hitting ability is unquestioned. He is one of the hardest right-handed hitters in baseball, if not the hardest. He takes a terrific cut at the ball, with the result that he frequently gets base hits on balls driven directly at infielders, the said drives being much to hot to handle.

It will be interesting to watch Stephenson's career this year, and among those who will watch intently, I imagine, is Bill Wamby of the Red Sox.

Jim Corbett was the first of the ring's "gentleman fighters", but became popular in spite of that.

FILLING O'NEILL'S MASK WILL PROVE BIG JOB



GLENN MYATT, LUKE SEWELL

Who is going to don Steve O'Neill's mask for the Cleveland club and make the fans forget the passing of that popular receiver.

Glenn Myatt and Luke Sewell will fight it out in spring training for the right to be the first string catcher of the Indians. One or the other will attempt to fill the void in O'Neill's mask.

Both Myatt and Sewell have had limited experience as a big league regular, and will probably find that it is quite a job to take up the Cleveland catching where O'Neill left off.

WILLIAMS MAKING GOOD.

BELLEVILLE, March 10. — Rochester Democrat-Chronicle recently received a story from Sam R. Curry, a Belleville boy now living in Watertown, N.Y., concerning the pitching ability of Jack Williams, now with the Rochester Colts.

Sam, who is an Intelligencer old boy, has seen Jack go the limit probably more often than many other fans in this district, having covered many games as the representative of the public for this page.

Sam believes that the new Tribesman has the goods, and states that he won the hearts of Belleville fans by his masterful pitching here.

If Williams can do as well with Rochester as he did with the Canadian team he should succeed.

VILLANS ENTER SEMI-FINALS

Referee Sharp's Collarbone Broken By Collision In the Tottenham-Sheffield United Game—Notes of Saturday's Soccer Games

LONDON, March 10 (Canadian Press Cable). — As a result of their victory over West Bromwich Albion by 2 goals to 0, in the fourth round of the Association Football Cup, on Saturday, Aston Villa will make their eleventh appearance in the semi-finals of the Cup, and they have a good chance of appropriately celebrating their jubilee year by winning the Cup for the sixth time in their career as a club.

The game then settled down, both teams putting up pretty exhibitions.

Gregory was injured and had to leave the field.

With the score 2 to 0 against them, West Bromwich started the second half by a desperate effort to score. Gregory's return helped the team immensely. He played in very fine form. However, the Villa's defence could not be penetrated, though it was lucky at times.

Tottenham's defeat by 6 goals to 2 at the hands of Sheffield United is the heaviest they have sustained in many years. Manlove scored three of the Sheffield goals.

Referee Sharp in this game collided with Barnett before the interval, and fractured his collar-bone, and the linesman subsequently officiated for him.

Other hat trick performers were Duncan in Leicester City's 5 to 1 win over Bristol City and Hammerton in Rotherham's defeat of Hartlepool by 5 to 2.

Hannaford, whom the Orient obtained from Charlton early in the week made a very successful debut, taking passes on runs, Orient won 4 to 0.

Hardy made his 150th consecutive appearance in goal for Stockport County on Saturday when they defeated The Wednesday 1 to 0.

NO SCORE AT MANCHESTER.

MANCHESTER, March 10.—Notwithstanding grounds in heavy condition the cup tie struggle between Cardiff and Manchester City on Saturday was a spirited contest throughout, and rightfully ended in a scoreless draw.

Seventy-five thousand people attended the match.

At the start Cardiff seemed to give a cleverer display than Manchester, the latter frequently being unsteady in front of the goal. However, there were no disasters on this account.

In the first part of the second half Mitchell, the Manchester goalkeeper, had to repulse several dangerous Cardiff raids. He came out of his goal fearlessly several times to do this successfully.

At the other end, Farquharson also had his hands full during the closing period of the game, a terrific breast-high kick from Hamill being one of the difficult shots he negotiated cleverly and safely.

SWINDON-BURNLEY TIE.

SWINDON, March 10. — A record crowd of 20,000 was present an hour before the gates opened for the Swindon-Burnley English Cup tie fixture, which ended in a draw, both teams scoring one goal.

The grounds were in fine condition, being soft, but not slippery.

Swindon won the toss, but the early play was all in Burnley's favour.

The half-time whistle found Burnley one goal up.

After the resumption, Burnley played with great confidence and pressed hard. Swindon, in the early stages of the half, were rarely in the picture. They kept plugging away, however, though for a long time could not make any impression on the Burnley defence when they did start an offensive.

The Burnley forwards were frequently dangerous, and only Randall's brilliant work in the nets saved Swindon from being scored against.

Ten minutes from the end, Swindon was given a free kick, from which Fleming put the ball over Dawson's head into the goal.

The game finished with both teams trying valiantly to get the goal which would win the match.

SUNDERLAND IN LEAD.

LONDON, March 10 (Canadian Press Cable). — Owing to the fact that Cardiff City were engaged in the cup tie round on Saturday Sunderland go to the head of the First League standing by virtue of their victory over Nottingham Forest by 2 goals to 1 on Saturday.

Cardiff City have, however, only played thirty games in the League, as against Sunderland's 32.

SCOTTISH CUP.

Airdrieonions 1, Ayr 1.
Aberdeen 3, St. Bernard 1.
Hibernians 2, Partick 3.
Hearts 1, Falkirk 3.

BENEFIT GAME ENDED IN TIE

Brackenborough Fund Increased By $5,000 In Event of the Year at Arena.

TORONTO, March 10.—(Canadian Press). — Toronto's sporting public cheerfully responded to the call for funds for Johnny Brackenborough, Hamilton player who lost the sight of his left eye in a recent hockey game. At a meeting held in Hamilton soon after the accident a committee was formed to raise money as a slight recompense to the injured star. The objective was set at $10,000 and Toronto subscribed almost half the amount on Saturday night at the Arena when 4,154 attended the exhibition hockey game between Soo Greyhounds, champions of Northern Ontario, aided by local stars and Varsity Seniors, assisted by Canada's world's champion Olympic team. The total proceeds of the evening is not yet known but it will be much more than $4,000 as the exact amount taken at the box office was $3,994 as everyone who was at the game, even the players and the press contributed. Added to the gate receipts is about $100 donated for the privilege of acting in an official capacity and $75 realized from sale by auction of hockey stick autographed by the Olympic champions and the injured player. With approximately $500 realized at the Arena, the Rats' game last Tuesday added to the amount collected on Saturday, and plus other contributions, Toronto will have given more than $5,000, proving again that an amateur is not forgotten by the sport loving public.

Besides aiding a good cause, the large crowd that attended on Saturday were treated to a real night's enjoyment as the hockey game was full of thrills and resulted in a two all tie. During the first intermission the fans were entertained by students of S. P. S. who put on a burlesque Ladies' hockey game which supplied plenty of laughs. In the second breathing spell speed and trick skaters performed, Fred Robinson and Art Flack giving a barrel jumping exhibition while Miss Gladys Robinson, world's champion skated a mile against time, and Jackie Marr, boy skating marvel, raced Miss Mary Rogers.

The game also afforded another chance to welcome the Olympic team and they received a tremendous ovation when they lined up against Soo at start of game. Most of them travelled at top speed and Flat Walsh, Northern Goal tender had a busy time. They did not have all the play however, as the Hounds, as soon as they got acquainted with the styles of the Toronto assistants, struck their stride and held their own.

P. C. I. BOYS TOO FAST FOR L. C. I.

Used Team That Will Represent the Collegiate Next Year in Second Half and Won.

The P.C.I. boys ran away with Lindsay Collegiat, Saturday, when they beat the Scugog lads by the score of 39 to 20 in a basketball game played at the local "Y". At the end of the first period the score stood L.C.I. 2; P.C.I. 26. In the final period the P.C.I. put the team that will represent the school next year on the floor and with the visitors getting more used to the local floor Lindsay mad, strenuous efforts to even up. The visitors lacked shooting ability and were a light aggregation.

The P.C.I. forwards scored almost at will. Balfour was the best shot for Lindsay.

WON BIKE GRIND BY SINGLE LAP.

The Italian-Belgian Team Carried Off Honors In Thirty-Sixth Six-Day Race in New York.

NEW YORK, March 10 (Canadian Press). — Maurice Brocco and Marcel Buysee, the Italian-Belgian team, won the thirty-sixth six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, which ended at 11 o'clock on Saturday night. They were one lap ahead of the field at the finish.

Oscar Egg and Anthony Beckman, the Swiss-United States team, finished second through the number of points they accumulated through the regular sprints during the race. They, with four other teams, were one lap behind the winners at the finish.

In third place were Eddie Madden and Harry Horan, the Irish team, and behind them came the combination of Alfred Goullet and Frank Georgetti, which was made up at the eleventh hour when Alfred Grenda, the Tasmanian, who rode with Goullet from the start, was forced out with a broken collar bone sustained in a triple collision.

McGILL DEFEAT VARSITY

MONTREAL, Mar 9—By a margin of 26 points, University of Toronto defeated McGill University in the annual gymnastic competition held here Saturday night. Varsity's aggregate in the four events was 3543 and McGill's 3,517. The four competitions comprised work on the horizontal bars, parallel bars, horse and mat.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL WAS VERY EXCITING.

The closest girls' game of basketball played this season was staged on Saturday afternoon, when the P.C.I. and the Y.W.C.A. clashed at the Y.M.C.A. The Y.W.C.A. are the city champions and the P.C.I. girls beat Cobourg nicely on two occasions, so both teams are the best, and the basketball played was of the highest order. The Y.W.C.A., after a ding-dong battle, finally notched a 28 to 22 victory.

The teams are evenly matched and the play swayed back and forth with the score always very close. P.C.I. were up 16 to 12 when the first period closed. The 'Y' edged up even with P.C.I. in the first few minutes of the second period. They advanced until with six minutes of play left the Y led by four points. The P.C.I. brightened their play and tied the score again. Then in the last few minutes the "Y" marksmen, "Phil" Young and "Gertie" Gimblett, got busy and bulged the basket three times in quick succession and put the game on ice.

"Pip" Killaly and Isobel Connolly were the best for the P.C.I., while the for winners the two forwards were good and Hazel Jackson checked well.

P.C.I.—Killaly r.f., MacDuffy l.f., Connolly c., Wolstenholme s.c., Dobbin r.g., Hobson, l.g. Subs, Amys, Cooper.

ZUNA WON RACE AT BALTIMORE

Broke the United States Record For Marathon Distance In Great Performance—The Olympic Tryout.

BALTIMORE, March 10 (Canadian Press). — Frank Zuna, of the Mill-Rose Athletic Association, New York City, not only won the Laurel-to-Baltimore Marathon, yesterday but established a new United States record for the distance of 26 miles 385 yards.

His time was 2 hours 41 minutes 39 2-5 seconds. This betters the old record of 2 hours 45 minutes 47 1-5 seconds held by Albert Michaelson, of the Cygnet Athletic Club, East Portchester, N.Y., by 6 minutes 44 2-5 seconds.

Michaelson fininshed second yesterday in 2 hours 45 minutes 47 1-5 seconds, beating the mark he made at the Yankee Stadium last May.

Clarence H. Demar, of Melrose Hillside, Mass., winner of the Boston Marathon of 1922 and 1923, finished third

The race was recognised by the United States Olympic Committee as an official try-out for the Eastern States.

The record-breaking feat by Zuna was remarkable. The race was run over a hard course laid out in rolling country and for a large part of the grind a strong wind blew directly into the faces of the contestants

Zuna was not looked upon as a winner until the men reached the outskirts of Baltimore.

In the early stages he had been content to reserve his strength.

As the leaders entered the city Zuna gradually pulled up on Michaelson, who was in the lead.

A mile and a half from the finish Zuna forged ahead of his rival and breezed away from Michaelson, who was tiring rapidly.

Zuna finished apparently fresh, holding a margin of several city blocks. He drew up into third position about 11 miles from the finish, and remained there until the end.

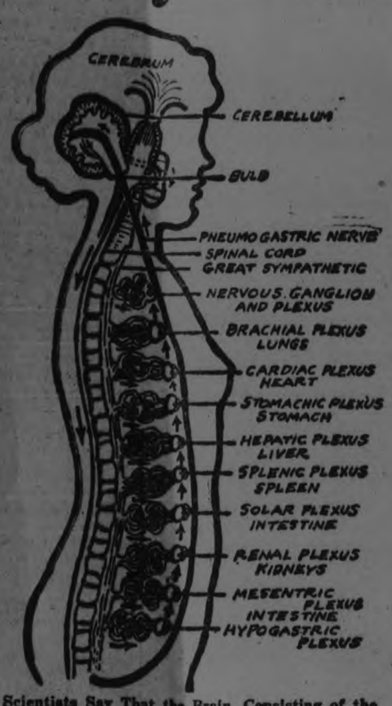
Why Your Body Is Built Like an Electric Battery

How Love, Hate and Fear Are Produced by Electrical Energy Generated Within the Human System.



Scientists Say That the Brain, Consisting of the Cerebrum and the Cerebellum, Is the Positive Pole and the Liver the Negative Pole of the Body's Electric Battery.

WHEN you understand what an ordinary "wet" electric battery is and how it produces a flow of current you have gone a long way toward knowing just what the human body is and how your emotional and mental activities come about.

Dr. George Crile, of Cleveland, Ohio, has a startling theory to explain just how the human body lives and performs all of its actions, both mental and physical. It is the opinion of this Ohio physician that the human body is nothing more than a complicated "storage battery," and that the force which drives it and keeps it "alive" is nothing other than the mysterious but familiar force of electricity. Dr. Crile makes the unmistakable suggestion that electricity may be the ultimate life-force, the force that creates and controls everything that lives.

Another noted scientist who holds a similar theory is Sir Ernest Rutherford who believes that all matter is probably electrical in structure, the atoms of which it is composed being nothing more than collections or systems of electrical charges.

Dr. Crile says that man is simply an extremely delicate mechanism run by electricity and chemical reaction, and that such emotions as love, hate, fear are but stimuli, loosing currents of electricity through certain paths.

In these days of automobiles and radio nearly every one has had a chance to learn what an electric battery is and how it functions. An electric "wet battery" consists of a copper rod and a zinc rod immersed in a glass jar filled with salt water. Chemical action takes place in the jar, and as the copper is eaten away it is changed into an electric current which flows through a wire connecting the zinc and copper rods. The copper rod is called the positive or "plus" terminal of the cell, and the zinc rod the negative or "minus" terminal. A modern "storage battery," such as is used to supply current for operating a radio set, driving an electric motor car and furnishing current for the lamps and self-starter of an automobile is nothing more than a combination of many of these little "wet cells," joined together by wires which terminate in two heavy cables, one "positive" and one "negative."

"In much the same way, the human body," explains Dr. Crile, "is nothing more than an electro-chemical mechanism, or electric battery, constructed on the pattern of constituent electric 'cells' (there are 28,000,000,000,000 of them), each of which is in itself an electro-chemical mechanism. The positive pole or terminal of the whole human battery is the brain, the negative pole is the liver, the connecting wires are the nerves, and the electrolytic fluid in which the mechanism is immersed is the blood which contains the body salts. This theory will explain many, if not all, of the phenomena of life."

In comparing the human body to an electric battery Dr. Crile points out that each tiny blood cell in the human body, containing its minute share of precious bodily salt, is really the liquid element of a small electric "wet battery." Without the salt the cell would not produce electricity; hence the great importance of giving the body an adequate supply of salt. The chemical action which caused the current to flow is spurred on by the action of oxygen which is sucked into the body by the lungs, where it acts on the blood which is pumped into that region by the heart. Scientists call this action oxidation. That it causes a definite chemical change in the blood is amply demonstrated by the fact that unoxidized blood is blue in color, while blood which has been acted upon by the oxygen in the air is red. All the blood one ever sees exposed to the air, even the blood from a "blue" vein, is red in color.

In case this oxidation of the blood should cease, Dr. Crile says that there would be no chemical action in the cells, no electricity would be generated, and the body would be a piece of broken machinery, cease working and die.

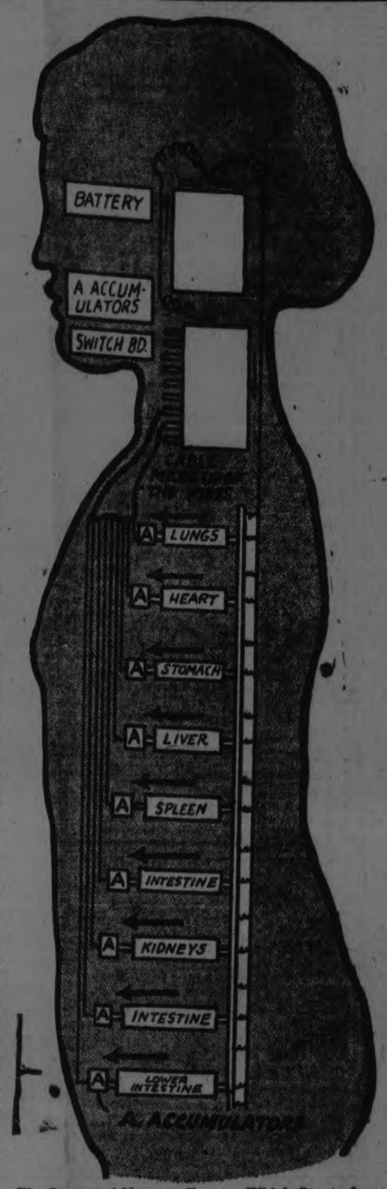
Wires are necessary in an electric battery to connect one cell unit with its neighbors, to collect the accumulated current and send it through cables to the important centers or terminals, which then represent the total pressure of the battery's entire electrical power. The driving force between the two poles or terminals is known as the electrical tension or the "difference in potential" between the "plus" and the "minus" current.

In the same way the nerves, which spread throughout the entire body, are the connecting links between the cells. They are bound together in small bundles, just like the wire in complex electric cables. The nerves make it possible for the cells to act together instead of separately; they add the energy of one cell to that of its neighbors and convey the accumulated power to the great body centers or terminals.

These terminals or poles, Dr. Crile says, are located in those places or regions where the electric tension is greatest, where the positive and negative potentials are, respectively, highest and lowest. Now, the highest positive potential will exist where the chemical action known as oxidation is strongest, and the lowest negative potential where oxidation is weakest.

"Investigations have proved," Dr. Crile goes on to explain, "that the brain has the highest rate of oxidation, and the liver the lowest. Hence we cannot avoid being led to the hypothesis that the body's positive pole is the brain and its negative pole the liver. Between these two points is what causes life to be maintained.

"This hypothesis is an adequate interpretation of the fact that when either the liver or the brain is removed or destroyed, the human or animal organism perishes, just as when the cable leading to one of the terminals of an electric battery is cut or injured, the battery ceases functioning and the machine which it is driving stops."



The Current of Nervous Energy, Which Starts from the Cerebrum, Traverses the Spinal Cord and Is Carried by a Network of Nerves to All Vital Organs and Through the Ganglia Which Act as Electric Accumulators.

Lie Flat, Sit Straight and Stand Tall

THE right use of the body is essential to the best health and 100 per cent efficiency. This is impossible if the body is not used rightly. The human being is at its best when all of its parts are in proper adjustment. Too much of one secretion, the individual suffers; too little of the secretion, the individual suffers. Each may represent purely mechanical elements.

The following instructions were published by the commandant of the Army War College at Washington, D. C., for the benefit of student officers. They apply not only to soldiers, but to every one who prizes health and good appearance.

If the body is used rightly, the head is held up, with the chin drawn in, and the blood flows to and from the brain easily. In this position the wits are most keen, the reactions are quick; it is the position of alertness. In the erect position the chest is held up, the breathing is carried on easily and the circulation is at its best. A person so standing has much better color than when the body is drooped.

In this erect position, the ribs are drawn up, so that the diaphragm is raised, the abdominal wall is drawn in, and the abdominal organs must be held in reasonable position. The stomach must work better, the liver must work better, the bowels must work better, all of the other organs must work better than if they are sagged, as they must be when the body is drooped

The same thing is true of the feet and the back. The chief cause of many of the cases of weak or flat feet or of weak or tired backs is the wrong use of the body. Learn to stand up straight, with the proper balance of the body, and most of this trouble will disappear.

Practice many times a day drawing yourself up to your full height. Feel tall. Draw in the chin, pull up the chest, draw in the waist, so as to flatten the back, and feel the weight chiefly on the front part of the feet. In walking, try to maintain the same position—swing along with the body held tall as if you owned the town, not as if you were ashamed of your town or of yourself.

In sitting, keep the trunk of the body in the same position as when standing; do not bend at the waistline; do the bending at the hips. Lean backward or forward as much as you choose, but do not buckle in the middle.

In lying down lie flat; get rid of the pillows. Lie on the back or face, or side, as best suits you, but do not curl up and buckle in the middle. Give your organs a chance to work properly, especially at the times of rest. Sleep will be quieter and you will wake in the morning rested, with snap and "pep" enough to tackle the tasks of the day and make hard jobs seem easy.

Never forget that the best way to use the body for all purposes is as if it were stretched up as tall as possible, with head erect, chest drawn up and with the waist or abdomen drawn in.

Whether old or young, this should be learned; but since it is much easier to teach the child than those older, see that the children around you are so guided until you become proud of their good carriage. Their improvement will stimulate you to greater effort until this carriage becomes the habit, and once it has become instinctive to stand well poised, it will be hard to lose it. A strong, well-poised individual is better stock to be responsible for the next generation than the drooped type so commonly seen to-day.

Stand up, sit up, stand tall, sit tall, throw a big chest, make your waist or abdomen flat, stand or walk forward on the feet. Be strong and healthy and get that spring and joy out of life which are hard to find when the body is weak and drooped.

Are Germs ANIMALS or PLANTS?

THERE has been not a little discussion among scientists regarding the relationship of such ubiquitous organisms as bacteria. Are these lowly, though dominating, forms of life animals or plants? They were first described as animalcules; and the man on the street still delights to dub them "bugs."

A biologist no less eminent than Haeckel proposed to create a new classification, Protista, into which category were to be placed some of the lower plants and animals that are difficult to classify, together with the bacteria.

The current tendency to assign these microorganisms to the plant world, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association, is based largely on their properties of spore formation and chemosynthesis, both recognized characteristics of plant life. The bacteria resemble some of the algae in form, mode of reproduction, and absence of a definite nucleus; yet those which possess flagella show points of resemblance with some of the protozoa. If the reader should perchance ask himself whether the discussion is worth while, he may find some encouragement in a recent suggestion by Long. This bacteriologist, of the Sprague Memorial Institute at Chicago, believes that "a very useful purpose is served by the effort to fit all living beings into one or the other class so far as the evolutionary point of view is maintained, in that attention is kept focused on the root of all biologic problems." Failing to find convincing evidence for classification in either the morphologic or the physiologic aspect of the bacteria, Long has sought for chemical criteria. He recalls, from this standpoint, that the best studied of all the micro-organisms, the tubercle bacillus, contains a typical nucleic acid of the animal type, probably identical with that of the thymus, pancreas, sperm and spleen. It does not contain any nucleic acid of the known plant types. On the other hand, bacteria clearly resemble plants from the chemical standpoint in the possession of marked chemosynthetic power in nitrogen metabolism, leading to the production of such complex compounds as amino-acids and purins from no other source of nitrogen than ammonia. Other similarly conflicting, though less definite, chemical testimony might be ventured. Obviously, more evidence must be forthcoming before the final decision can be made. Meanwhile, the problem of "the lady or the tiger" can still be paraphrased in relation to bacteria into the inquiry: Are they animals or plants? We have much to learn, Long writes; but, he adds, in the meantime, it is to the credit of those who have added to our knowledge of the chemistry of the tubercle bacillus that they have put on record for this bacillus far more than has been done for any other bacterium.

Changing Rules for Quarantine

QUARANTINE regulations are constantly subject to change as new knowledge of the communicable diseases is obtained. The department of health, of the State of Pennsylvania, for example, has recently issued new regulations which accord with the present understanding of the facts in relation to the behavior of these diseases. They are as follows:

"The regular quarantine period for diphtheria is extended five days and scarlet fever ten days, after the removal or death of the patient, unless the immunity of all other members of the household can be established." This can be determined, in the case of diphtheria, by the Schick test.

"The quarantine period for whooping cough has been reduced to four weeks from the date of the onset, while after the third week, with the permission of the health authorities concerned, the patient may be taken on the streets or highways in charge of a responsible person, who shall not permit him to come in contact with individuals other than the immediate family.

"Actinomycosis favus (a disease of the scalp), impetigo contagiosa, the itch, ringworm, trichiniasis and hookworm have been stricken from the list of reportable and quarantinable diseases.

"In cases of whooping cough, measles, German measles, chicken-pox or mumps, children immune, from having had the disease previously, may attend school and there is no restriction as to the movements of adults in the family.

"Encephalitis lethargica (sometimes called 'Sleeping sickness') has been made reportable and, if deemed advisable by the health authorities concerned, quarantinable.

"In typhoid and paratyphoid fevers, there is no time limit, but physicians may not request the removal of the placard until the patient has had a normal temperature for a period of seven days.

"All typhoid convalescents are regarded as potential carriers of the disease, and are restricted as such until proved otherwise.

"Known typhoid and paratyphoid carriers are not permitted to change residence without notifying the health authorities concerned, or to engage in occupations involving the handling of foods, including milk and its derivatives.

"No case of communicable disease may be moved from one place to another without written consent of the health authorities concerned."

Sinister and Seductive SCENTS That SLAY in SECERT

THE tremendous craze for perfume at the present time is, in a way, an echo of the age of King Solomon; but it is well to remember that not all scents are "sweet-smelling savours."

Foreign countries abound in sinister scents of many and deadly kinds that slay in secret. There are some varieties of trees which breathe out poison, and woe betide the traveler who is ignorant enough to rest beneath their shade!

On the hill slopes of Chili, for example, is a tree which the natives look upon as being possessed of an evil spirit. Many cases have occurred where innocent travelers have crept under its branches during the heat of the day, and paid for its shade with their lives. After resting under one of these trees for a short time, the hands and face of a traveler become swollen, as in a case of snake-bite, and the surface of the skin is covered with boils. Many visitors in the vicinity of Varparaiso have succumbed to the influence of this poisonous tree, according to London Answers.

The trumpet flower, or datura, found in most tropical countries, although not deadly in the open air, is highly dangerous in a room. Innocent people, fascinated by its coloring and scent, take it indoors and soon fall into a trance-like slumber, developing into a deadly stupor, from which they may possibly never awaken.

If this trumpet flower were brought into a sickroom and left there for the night it would mean certain death for the patient. Recently, in South America, an accusation of murder was brought against a family who were said to have profited financially by the death, in their house, of a wealthy relative. Upon investigation, it was found that some trumpet flowers had got mixed with a bunch of others in a vase, which was allowed to stay in the house all night, and were the actual cause of the death.

Some orchids, with their strange and powerful perfume, are capable of drugging the senses and causing faintness. There are some people, too, who cannot stand the scent of roses, while others are prejudiced against the innocent-looking violet.

It is well to make certain that any perfume you use, or have in the house, is suited to your temperament. If the least irritation is caused by any scent it should at once be dispensed with, however beautiful it may seem to others. There are few persons who do not like the scent of clove; yet, not long ago, there was a case in Zansibar where the scent of clove was responsible for an official contracting an ulcerated throat, with consequent loss of voice.

A Tree That Grows Brooms and Soap

A VERY curious use has been found for the foliage, so to call it, of a species of the yucca tree common in the deserts of Arizona and New Mexico. The tree has no leaves, properly speaking, but each one of its branches terminates in a knob from which springs a huge bunch of long bristle-like spines. The bunches look like the brushes commonly employed for sweeping streets—which is not surprising, inasmuch as that is exactly the purpose for which they are used.

But this remarkable tree has other valuable uses. One of the most delightful of toilet soaps recently put on the market, is made from the spinous bunches, which are boiled to extract saponaceous substance.

This species of yucca has been known to the Indians of the Southwest as the "soap tree" since long before Columbus discovered America. When they want to wash themselves, or to launder garments, they simply take a piece of it to the nearest convenient water and rub it with their hands, thus obtaining an immediate and profuse lather.

The bristly bunches make a very superior cattle food, and for that purpose are gathered by wagonloads by the ca[illegible] and put through a specially-designed ma[illegible] which chops them into little bits.

The Yucca Tree Has No Leaves, Each of Its Branches Terminating in Huge Bunches of Bristle-Like Spines, Commonly Employed for Sweeping Streets. Toilet Soap Also Is Made from the Spinous Bunches.

Can SURGERY Speed EVOLUTION?

MAN, as science has shown, is the result of millions of years of development on this planet; perhaps even on some other before "the star-dust swirled." What is not always realized is that this development is still going on, very slowly, as it always has done, but surely.

There are a number of scientists, especially surgeons, who think that the process may be speeded up, and that mankind would be saved much suffering if Nature were assisted in this way.

Not many months ago Prince George, the youngest son of the King of England, passed through an experience which, in a more enlightened age, everybody will undergo in infancy. In the first place he was operated upon for appendicitis, when what physiologists call the "vermiform appendage of the caecum" was removed.

At one time, no doubt, the appendix served a useful purpose. Scientists say that it is a relic of man's ascent from a lower form of life. In some of the other mammals it is a large organ, but in man's body it is, as a rule, quite rudimentary. Sometimes it is absent altogether. In another thousand years or so, perhaps, no human being will be born with this excrescence. But scientists do not wish to wait for that, and a few years hence, very likely, the operation for its removal will be as common in infancy as vaccination is now.

Prince George had scarcely recovered from the operation when it was learned that he was again in the hands of the surgeons. On this occasion it was an even simpler matter, involving only the loss of his little toes.

There was certainly a time when the little toes were of use to man—possibly in climbing trees. But that time is long past. They are now merely encumberances; they do not help him to walk or run or jump; they do nothing to improve golf handicaps, batting or throwing averages. To the majority of people they are simply sprigs on which to grow corns. The only person to whom little toes are conceivable of importance is the bare-foot woman dancer, who would perhaps look rather odd without them.

Nature is very slow in extinguishing parts of animal structure that have served their purpose in the process of evolution. Some time in the future, perhaps, children will be born without an appendix, and with only four toes on each foot. In the meantime, surgery has to be called on where their possession causes danger or inconvenience.

PITCHING STAFF HOLDS ANSWER TO TY'S FIGHT

Detroit finished in second place in the American League last year. That leaves Manager Ty Cobb nothing but the pennant to shoot at for the coming season.

If Cobb is to retain his prestige he must at least equal his performance of last year. If he is to show progress he must win the pennant.

That is going to be a mightly difficult task, for the Detroit team is not as strong as it appears on paper.

Pitching was Cobb's greatest woe last year. Pitching is the big problem for every major league manager. Cobb is going to be up against it again this year as far as pitching is concerned.

Will George Dauss be a consistent winner? Dauss is a veteran of many years. He isn't getting any better. He is at best, an uncertainty.

What about Rip Collins? Doped to be a big winner for Cobb, the former New York and Boston twirler was the big bust of last year. He won only three games. Cobb is foolish to bank on Collins, who has always been erratic.

Pillette, the big noise of 1922, wasn't nearly so good last year. Batters stayed away from Pillette's low ball, thereby greatly minimizing his effectiveness.

Syl Johnson has the stuff and may come through for Cobb.

However, at best Cobb's pitching staff is most uncertain, for a club that is shooting at the pennant.

REMAND STEADMAN ON MURDER CHARGE

Prisoner Says Jealousy Prompted Act -- Wife Ascribes it to Gossip.

TORONTO, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—William Steadman was arraigned in Police Court this morning on a charge of murder in connection with the shooting of Herbert McClure on Saturday afternoon. The prisoner was remanded for a week, and in the meantime will be examined by an alienist. In his statement to the police, Steadman admitted borrowing a revolver some months ago.

McClure, a music teacher, was shot by Steadman just as he stepped from a street car.

Steadman, police stated, had carried out threats he had made two years ago, when he is reported to have warned McClure, who had been giving Steadman's two children music lessons, to keep away from his home. It was further learned by Detectives Nicholls and Hazlewood that Steadman had visited Sheldrake Boulevard and Yonge Street on five different occasions before he was able to meet McClure.

Wife Ascribes It to Gossip.

Mrs. Steadman attributes the trouble to gossip of neighbors, one of whom she made particular mention of. During the past year, Mrs. Steadman said, she felt as though she was being hypnotized and put in a trance several times by her husband. He had abused her so much of late that she has lost all love for him. Despite this fact, she asserted, she has lived a good life and has taken care of her family.

The slain man was single. He was 47 years of age and lived with his mother.

CURLING SEASON IS NEARING END

Two Championship Games Were Played on Saturday.

On Saturday some of the final games for the city championship were played at the Curling Rink. In the final game for Group No. 1, H. F. Foote won a nice game from W. R. Widdiss by the score of 15 to 10. The championship of the junior curlers was won by Mac. Donnelly's rink, when they defeated Gord. Dobbin's quartette by the score of 17 to 12. In the junior competition, for a beautiful cup donated to the Curling Club by G. N. Gordon, there were eight rinks entered. These boys made a great showing this winter, and in the last several games some of them have been used on the senior teams and have proved themselves worthy of meing members of the Curling Club. Both Donnelly and Dobbin have played well all winter, but Donnelly proved a little the better in Saturday's game.

The personnel of the junior rinks were as follows:

Baker	Widdiss
Amys	Rye
Dobbin	Donnelly
Skip 12	Skip 17

The personnel and result of the seniors rinks were as follows:

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

MOUNT EVEREST FILM PRAISED PRAISED BY "MONTREAL MM BY "MONTREAL HERALD" CRITIC.

Snatched by an avalanche on Mount Everest and swept downwards for hundreds of feet towards the cliff of a glacier, and then swept to instant death over its brink—that is only one of the many thrilling experiences related by Major Yeats-Brown D.F.C., during the film of "Climbing Mount Everest," which will be shown to-day, Tuesday, and Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre.

This tragic accident befell the climbing party that made the third and last assault on the summit of the highest mountain in the world. Seven of the cheerful and courageous Sherpa porters with the party were killed, while others were only saved after being dug out of the snow in which they had been completely buried.

This wonderful tale of British exploration and mountaineering, with the accompanying magnificent moving pictures, stimulates the imagination as few other films have succeeded in doing.

Morgan-Powell, noted critic of Montreal, writes: "Climbing Mount Everest" becomes for us a vivid experience in the high places, in which it is possible to share by means of the combination of film and spoken word which make up the modern travelogue.

Major Yeats-Brown, who is an Indian Army officer with eighteen years' experience of India, takes us realistically over a swinging bridge of foaming and frothing water; our march progresses through tropical forests and jungles, across stony and desolate plains, through lands where tropical insect pests are many, to the mysterious land of Tibet. Here the lowest valley is situated at an altitude of 12,000 feet above sea level, and the days and nights are swept with cold blasts of terrible gales.

Then we start our climb; but to tell the story of the ascent would spoil Major Yeats-Brown's travelogue, which must be seen and heard to be appreciated.

The film "Climbing Mount Everest" is a unique entertainment, for it is grim reality and no imagination "studio stunt." Here we have a taste of real adventure and it takes us out of the everyday surroundings that are our daily lot, to see the strange ceremonies of Tiebtan monks on the "roof of the world." It may justly be said that to miss the opportunity of seeing these remarkable pictures is to neglect the advantages of living in the twentieth century. And this is no exaggeration!

WESLEY BARRY AND GREAT CAST AT CAPITAL.

"We've had the Stone Age. We've had the Iron Age, and the Steel Age. And maybe we've had the Bone Age. But it seems that we're in now for a pleasant little session of the Child Age."

So says an observer, after certain salient characteristics about the way kids are up and taking the places of their protecting elders, were pointed out to him.

What with the Columbia College prodigy, the eleven year old chess wonder, the youthful girl swimmer, the young lady who cannot find a typewriter fast enough for her nimble fingers, things will soon come to such a pass that children will soon aspire to our very jobs.

We have tiny tot's in the movies, earning more than they will be able to spend in a long time. In this class, "Baby" Bruce Guerin heads the list for youth, being but four years old and already a screen star. Next in order of age comes "Spec" O'Donnell, the lad who has caused us more violent laughter than any other youngster we have ever seen; he is another star. The "big brother" of these two is Wesley Barry, of freckled fame, a star of no mean reputation.

Yet in spite of their youty, these three have admirers, numbering into the hundreds of thousands, who would go out of their way to see them in a picture.

This is just what the Warner Brothers have done. They have taken these three, and put them in "The Country Kid," Wesley Barry's latest vehicle.

Imagine what an enthusuastic crowd would follow if all three should be cast in one picture?

In this picture, Wesley, as Ben Applegate, sets a new record for himself and other youthful prodigies to follow. He is father, mother and brother to his two orphan brothers, Joe and Andy, besides being a farmer, dairyman and manager of his estate.

We old folks ought to look out for our laurels or our own offspring will soon have us in the shade.

"The Country Kid" was written for the screen by Julien Josephson and directed by William Beaudine, who knows how to handle child wonders. It is coming to the Capitol Theatre to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday as the feature attraction. The remainder of the cast in this Warner Brothers classic of the screen consists of Kate Toncray, Helen Jerome Eddy, George Nichols, Edward Burns, and George C. Pearce.

AT THE GRAND

"CHEERIO" TO RETURN

In response to the popular demand for a return engagement of Captain Plunkett's "Cheerio," both by those who saw it and those who put off buying tickets until too late, arrangements have been made to bring The Dumbells back to the Grand Theatre for two days commencing March 14.

For sheer entertainment value "Cheerio 2nd," stands in a class by itself. There is not one dull minute in the two hours and twenty minutes that the show runs. It has laughter, tears, thrills and harmony, a combination that is devoutly to be desired in any vehicle for entertainment. Especially when the laughter predominates, as it does in "Cheerio 2nd." Harmony runs it a close second, though. A full half-hour is devoted to the new Overseas Orchestra, which by the way is the finest syncopated stage band ever heard in this city. This festival of music, together with about a dozen of the more serious songs gives harmony a prominent position.

Such worthy material in the hands of Captain Plunkett and his featured players, Ross Hamilton, Al. Plunkett, Stan. Bennett, John Hagan, and such reliable artists as Pat Rafferty, Ben Allen, Jack Grace, Morley Plunkett, T. J. Lilly, Gordon Calder, Jim Foley and Bert Wilkinson, have made "Cheerio 2nd" the greatest of The Dumbells revues in Canada.

TOM MOORE PLAYS OPPOSITE VI DANA.

Tom Moore, who plays opposite Viola Dana in this dainty star's newest Metro picture, "Rouged Lips," now playing at the Regent, is one of the golden trio of Moore brothers whose name is synonymous with moving pictures. Theatre-going audiences in America are almost intimately acquainted with these famous young men, for each has been an extensive stage career before entering the films. On the stage Mr. Tom Moore played many leading roles.

Mr. Moore's role in "Rouged Lips" is that of a gay-hearted young lad, well born and wealthy but not spoiled. Established opinions mean nothing to him except as they agree with his own experiences. Thus when he meets a member of a musical comedy chorus and falls madly in love with her he is not frightened away from her by the bugaboo, almost universally believed in, that a chorus girl is not a good girl. His love for her does not cleanse her, as so many men in a similar position would fatuously observe, but because of his love he sees beneath the paint and the powder and recognizes the goodness of soul, the cleanliness of body, and the purity of mind which is hers. Nevertheless—but here hangs the story of "Rouged Lips."

"Rouged Lips" was written by Rita Weiman with scenario by Thos. J. Hopkins. Harold Shaw directed and John Arnold photographed the production.

"THE BETTER 'OLE": FAMOUS COMEDY AT ROYAL TONIGHT.

"Old Bill," World's Most Popular Fighter in "The Better 'Ole"

"Old Bill," the cheerful and dauntless warrier created by Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, has become the central figure in a play which was rapturously received in London and New York, and as a natural sequence to the success of the comedy a film version was prepared, so that a much larger public than can be accommodated in the ordinary theatres will have an opportunity of seeing the veteran entertaining and heartening his comrades in the trenches and relieving the horrors of the war by his bracing optimism and quaint philosophy. "Old Bill" symbolizes British pluck, tenacity and resourcefulness, and "The Better 'Ole," the play in which he is so admirably protrayed, is both a tonic and an inspiration. The play is brimful of humor, but it also contains a moral, and its message will certainly not be overlooked by the public. Bill's subtle humor, shared by his bosom friends and comrades, Alf and Bert, is in reality clever camouflage; in his heart of hearts he takes the war very very seriously and is determined to do his utmost to help in winning it. The play gives a realistic impression of the daily life of the soldier on active service, and this feature is even more clearly brought out in the pictures. The film portrays the humor of our brave boys, who display the lighter vein of human nature under most tragic, appalling circumstances.

Bill will make his second appearance at the Royal Theatre to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday.

VAUDEVILLE AT ROYAL.

In addition to Bruce Barinsfather's "The Better 'Ole and Baby Peggy's newest comedy, two unusual vaudeville novelties have been secured by Royal management for first half of this week, commencing to-day. Jones and Johnson, a colored team, features the popular song writer, Irving Jones; while Leonard and Willson present an out of the ordinary singing and dancing novelty.

AMATEUR NIGHT AT ROYAL, THURSDAY.

Patrons who attended the Royal last Thursday already know what a success the first amateur night was, and will be pleased to know that Thursday of this week another array of local talent is now being arranged for. Cash prizes will be awarded all entries instead of the usual judging of the winners by the audience.

HOCKEY RETURNS ANNOUNCED AT ROYAL TONIGHT.

Returns of Peterboroough-Niagara Falls game at Toronto will be announced at Royal tonight as fast as they come in over the wire.

Despondent Printer Attempted Suicide.

OTTAWA, March 10 (Canadian Press). — William Thomas, 65, proprietor of the Co-operative Press, a job printing and messenger service establishment here, shot himself through the right temple with a revolver while sitting at his desk in his shop on Saturday morning.

He is in the hospital in a critical condition.

According to John Lefebvre, an employee of the Co-operative Press, Mr. Thomas had been contemplating suicide for a long time, as business was very dull and his attempts to dispose of his business had failed.

Mr. Lefebvre said that Mr. Thomas had failed to pay his four employees' wages last week.

Mr. Thomas told Mr. Lefebvre that he had no money and after writing a note telling his employees this, he shot himself.

TORONTO ART ON EXHIBITION HERE

Range Includes Landscapes, Flowers and Still Life--All Modern Art Work.

There is a pretty exhibit of pictures from members of the Toronto Art Association being held this week at the studio of the Conservatory of Music by the local Women's Art Association. The pictures, which number over thirty, are excellent examples of modern art work, the majority done in oils, with a few water colors. The subjects in the main are executions of landscapes and flowers with some pretty figure work and still life.

Particularly noticeable is a large bouquet of widely-opened peonies in pale pinks and reds. The colors are lovely in this, and in a large picture over the mantelpiece, which shows a gorgeously-tinted mass of midsummer flowers in a big bowl whose dark outlines are barely suggested against the odd black background. The vivid blue of larkspur, the bronze of gaillardia, the yellows and reds of assorted blooms are done with a graceful touch that is very attractive by the artist, Miss Elliott.

Miss Katrina Buell shows "The Fan," a bit of impressionistic work in a small frame, and Maud McLaren brings into striking relief the snow-splashed branches of "The Cedars." "The Elm Tree" by the same artist, is another good piece of snow work, and Miss Davidson has a striking bit in "The Beehives — Scotland," and a good grasp of color in the purple and green of "The Moors."

There is a striking perspective in Lorna Reid's "Market Day." Her "Still Life" is a brightly-colored presentation of fruits. The grey coloring gives an odd impression to Miss Minnie Redman's fantastic "Discovery."

Mrs. Digman has several fine pictures in the group. Her use of color in a stippled effect in four scenes from nature is outstanding, particularly in the large picture; "A Woody Path." Presentations of autumn woods in russet and gold are examples of lovely, soft work, and there is a sombre reality about the bare trunks against a deep blue sky in "Pine Trees, North Holland." "Sea Dreams," from the same brush shows the pensive figure of a young girl softly outlined in the foreground of a sea picture, whose perspective shows the strange blue of acquamarine.

There is a quality of atmosphere well defined in Miss Howarth's "A Street in Cornwall," and a deft, light touch in the quartette of pretty water-color landscapes, with English scenes depicted in sunshine-washed greens and blues, in Miss Edith Fisher's pictures.

The exhibit will continue for several days. Afternoon tea is being served daily by members of the Women's Art Association.

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 10.—(Canadian Press).—Professionals renewed their hammering of the industrials toward the end of the first hour on the stock exchange today, operating on the theory that over the last few months Monday has almost invariably shown reactions. Davison chemical was hammered down below 50 against a high of 55 1-8 last week and recesions of from 1-2 point to three points took place in Studebaker. Baldwin and other popular trading specialties.

Before the general list became unsettled, Norfolk and Western went into new high ground, for the year at 119 3-4.

New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, another rails stock, whose leasing potentialties give it attractive speculative possibilities, also made a new 1924 high at 104 3-8 N.Y. Central with stood the shock of President Smith's death in good style. Opening prices on the stock market included.

United States Steel 103, American Can 115 3-4, Studebaker 10 1-8, United States Rubber 35 up 1-4, General Motors 5 1-2 up 1-8, Marland 38 up 3-8, Norfolk and Western 119 Westinghouse 62 1-4, up 1-8, Atchison 99 1-4 off 1-8, Texas Company 43 up 1-8, Southern Railway 49 1-8 Erie 25 1-8 up 1-8, Bethlehem Steel 56 7-8, off 1-8, Standard Oil of New Jersey, 38 7-8 up 1-2. The decision of French officials to take drastic measures in defense of the franc and a rumor in the Paris market that an American syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. would extend France and three months credit of $50,000,000 brought a sharp rally in francs in London and Paris and when local market opened the entire list was quoted well above Saturday's closing prices.

LABOR TAUNTED BY OPPOSITION ON EMPLOYMENT

Tom Shaw Hinted That Relief of Unemployment Might Involve Heavy Payments By People of Means — Conservatives Find Government Proposals Similar to Their Own Programme.

FATHERS HEAR SONS.

LONDON, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—The debate in the House of Commons last night provided interesting incidents. Conservative members challenged the Government on the vote for the Civil Service estimates to disclose its policy with respect to a remedy for unemployment. Stanley Baldwin, the late premier, declared that the unemployment question had killed his government and would kill any government that failed to deal effectively with it.

The Labor Minister, Thomas Shaw, in reply, made a spirited opening declaration that unemployment was a national responsibility which the nation must shoulder to the fullest degree, even if it meant heavy payments on the part of those possessing means to pay.

"Wait and See"

Arguing that the Government had been in office only six weeks and could not be expected to produce a definite scheme as yet, the Minister advised his challengers to "wait and see." He then proceeded to outline a number of tentative proposals that bore such a strong resemblance to the proposals previously made by Mr. Baldwin's defunct administration that the Opposition burst into ironical cheers and laughter which provoked Mr. Shaw to declare:

"Does anyone expect that after six weeks we can produce schemes like rabbits out of a hutch?"

Fathers and Sons.

Other interesting incidents were the maiden speeches delivered by the sons of Lloyd Gorge and Hall Caine respectively. Mr. Lloyd George was sitting two seats away and watched his sons' performance with intent solicitude.

Hall Caine, Jr., in opening his speech, said he would like to congratulate his "fellow maiden speecher" on his very excellent speech, which "showed signs that the young er Lloyd George would follow his very distinguished father."

The former Premier was evidently proud of his son's effort and shortly afterwards beckoned to him, and the two left the Chamber together.

GROCERIES SENT TO VACANT HOUSE

Ruse In Lindsay Directed Order to Home of Lady Hughes, Who Is Abroad

LINDSAY, March 11.—The local police are on the trail of some woman who called up a local grocer Saturday night, representing herself to be Lady Hughes, and that she and her daughter had just returned from abroad and required provisions for Sunday. A large order was placed and delivered, but it now develops that Lady Hughes is still in Europe. The driver, finding no person at home, left the goods, which were afterwards picked up from the doorstep, apparently by the woman who telephoned. It also develops that during the summer holidays two Lindsay shoe merchants were victimized in the same way, the parties using Lady Hughes' name, despite the fact that she was summering at her summer home at Eagle Lake at the time.

BURIED IN LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—The funeral took place here yesterday of Mrs. Bernard McAlpine, a daughter of Judge Harding, fromerly of Lindsay, but now of Hamilton. Mr. and Mrs. McAlpine have been farming in Ops township for several years past. A family of children survive.

EIGHT HOUR DAY FOR GOVERNMENT WORKERS PROPOSAL OF HOCKEN

Toronto Member Also Affirmed That Farm Implement Industry Had Been Suspended By Reports of Further Tariff Reduction — Trade With West Indies Advocated By Nova Scotia Representative.

DOMINION PROBLEMS.

OTTAWA, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Debate on the address in the House Monday touched on problems the Dominion-wide. It opened with the Maritimes, passed to more central Provinces, then turned to the West.

Hance Logan of Cumberland, N. S., pressed for the "old Laurier policy" of tariff for revenue.

He pictured the Maritimes as being squeezed to death between the two walls of the tariff and freight rates. He urged efforts to improve trade with the West Indies. It might be well to admit West Indian imports free he would put a duty on bananas; entering Canada via the United States; h, would have Canadian trade agents at every important point in the West Indies, and here, Mr. Logan drew an amusing picture of the present Canadian Trade Commissioner in Jamaica, like a lone sparrow on a house top, surveying a vast territory from a loft over a broken-down warehouse pervaded with the smell of centuries. As to coal, Mr. Logan thought a commission should be at once appointed to investigate transportation costs.

Civil Service Hours

From Conservative ranks, H. G. Hocken of West Toronto, then dressed the difficulties of manufacturers of agricultural implements in Ontario. The speech from the Throne had put the industry in a state of suspended animation. Mr. Hocken held, further, that savings depositors in the Home Bank should be indemnified. He thought that the Civil Service should work an eight-hour, or at least a seven-hour day. He argued that what western farmers needed mor, than tariff reduction was the cheapening of transportation.

Mr. Hocken went on that the Western farmers had much more to gain through the cheapening of transportation than through tariff reduction of any kind. He was prepared to exhaust the resources of Canada to cheapen transportation. Last session he had voted for the Hudson Bay Railway, though he did not think it would lower freight rates but would be beneficial rather by way of developing that portion of the country. The great need, however, at present was the development of the St. Lawrence which would reduce the cost of transporting grain by from 5 to 8 cents.

Electrify Railways

He further advocated the electrification of the railways which he was confident, would bring about the greatest possible reduction in transportation costs. For this purpose he suggested not only the development of waterpowers, but of the western coal deposits.

The Sales Tax as at present administered was "complicated and exasperating" and auditors of the department did not understand it themselves. Th, same thing applied to the income tax.

Mr. Bureau: "They're your appointees and we have not had time to reform them."

Mr. Hocken: "Well you ar, reforming them as fast as you can."

On the tariff Mr. Hocken said that the Conservatives had not changed their policy where as the Liberals had no united policy. He told Progressives that the Prairie Provinces wanting low tariff comprised about two-ninths of the population whereas seven-ninths resided in the provinces which desired protection.

H. E. Spencer (Progressive, Battle River) suggested that six provinces favored free trade, while only three were opposed. Mr. Hocken replied that that was not the result of elections held on the issue. The present indications of reduction in the tariff by the Government he charged, wer, the result of secret diplomacy at the time that Messrs. Crerar and Dunning visited Ottawa in January.

"It only exists in your mind," put in Hon. Jacques Bureau, "there is no secret diplomacy."

Wheat Not Protected

Robert Forke, Progressive leader remarked that a protective tariff could not protect the wheat market/

"I am not sure that a wheat grower is a farmer" reurned Mr. Hocken

"Do you despise the 400,000,000 bushels of wheat that is keeping the wheels of industry turning" queried Mr. Forke.

"I do not despise anything," was Mr. Hocken's reply, "But I say that there are other branches of farming than wheat." He then suggested that a protective duty might help the cattle trade, the poultry business etc., but Thomas Sales (Progressive, Salt Coats) interposed to say that cattle also were on an export basis.

Tragedy Marked Escape of Fleet

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 11.—The Newfoundland sealing fleet, which had been blockaded in this port since last Friday, escaped through the ice fields encircling the harbor yesterday. At sundown the seven vessels were clear of the ice and making their way northward.

Three men lost their lives while the sealing steamers won their way to freedom. The Terra Nova, flagship of the fleet, sent word by radio last night that three members of her crew were drowned while out on the ice assisting to make way for the vessel through the floes.

Reports received yesterday from the north-east coast of Newfoundland said that seals were plentiful and that the indications were favorable for a good catch this season.

AFRICAN MODE IN SHOULDERS

French Beauty Caused Gasp at Cannes With Neck and Shoulders Like Bronze Statue — Gold Smartest Fashion.

CANNES, March 11.—"Back to the aboriginal" is the new slogan of the society folks on the Riviera, judging from the latest craze for exotic jewelry, which is giving the hectic gambling rooms an atmosphere of darkest Africa.

Gold, gold, everywhere gold. Gold is the latest and smartest thing. Gold ear rings from which are suspended real nuggets of beaten gold, golden bracelets, golden brooches, golden necklaces, golden fringes for dresses, golden powder on bare shoulders and upper arms all glitter in society's rendezvous, the Casino and Nautical Club.

Meanwhile Madeleine Ceres, famous beauty, who has dashed up from Pernambuco for a few days, while adopting the idea of golden shoulders, has launched a still more startling fashion by declaring that powder, rouge and other comestics are out of date.

Madeleine caused a gasp of amazement to go up as she entered the baccarat rooms with a jet black hair net and dead white face, while her neck and shoulders looked like those of a bronze statue.

AVIATOR LOST WAY IN STORM

B. H. Pearson, Former Canadian Pilot, Crashed Into Trees Flying Over Allegheny Mountains — Instantly Killed.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., March 11 (Canadian Press). — Officials of the air field have concluded their investigation into the wrecking of the air mail planc at Curwensville, near here, on Saturday.

Brooks Hyde Pearson, former Canadian Air Force pilot, lost his life when the plane crashed to the ground and burned.

The investigation has disclosed that Pearson, who was flying from Bellefonte to Cleveland, encountered a thick snowstorm while flying over the Allegheny Mountains.

He was forced to descend, and the plane ran int. trees.

The ground where the wreckage of the plane was found is very high, with many peaks.

Pearson's lower limbs and feet were burned, but the airplane was only partly destroyed by fire.

A small amount of local mail being carried to Cleveland was destroyed.

Pearson left Bellefonte about 2.30 p.m. on Saturday, and Air Force officials have ascertained that he encountered a thick storm at Booneville, some distance west of Bellefonte. He was seen to turn east, and when last sighted was north of the regular route.

Curtis Porter, owner of the land where Pearson's body was found, discovered the wreckage of the plane and immediately notified the Air Force officials.

Pearson's body was removed to Curwensville, and the coroner of Clearfield County ordered an inquest, which was held yesterday.

A verdict of accidental death was reported.

It is believed that Pearson was instantly killed when his plane crashed.

Pearson was about 28 years old, and had been flying for ten years according to air mail authorities. He joined the Canadian flying forces in 1915, and later served in the British Army.

TRAGIC DEATH OF A PET DOG BEFORE JUDGE

Complainant Alleges Woman Threw Stone That Crushed Life from Pomeranian -- Judgment for $100 and Costs

UPSET GARBAGE

The untimely and tragic death of a dog of aristocratic lineage formed the basis of a suit before His Honor Judge Huycke in the Division court yesterday. The parties involved live in Ashburnham and the hearing attracted a large crowd of residents from that part of the city. The case occupied the attention of the court all day and the attorneys engaged were G. W. Hatton, K.C., for the plaintiff and Joseph O'Brien for the defendant.

George Stevens, of Mark street, was the owner of a Pomeranian, reported to be pure bred, and which he had got from a friend in Hamilton. The little animal, it seems, was disposed to roam about the neighborhood and this resulted in its death. One day, according to the story, the dog upset a garbage can belonging to Mrs. Thomas Aikens, who resides near the home of the Pomeranian's owner.

It appears that Mrs. Aikens, to frighten away the trespasser, as she claims, picked up a stone and threw it at the dog. That shot shattered the delusion that a woman's aim is never true. The stone found its mark and the dog's death resulted. It was charged, however, that the animal was further beaten with what Judge Huycke in his suming up of the case, stated was diabolical cruelty.

Mr Aikens, the husband of the woman who discharged the fatal missive, went to the owner of the dog and admitting family responsibility for the animal's death, offered Mr. Stevens $5 as a settlement. This tender was rejected, the owner demanding $100.

This was the amount for which Mr. Stevens sued, when on Mr. Aiken's refusal to settle on this basis, the owner of the dog commenced suit in the Division court. And $100, with costs, was the amount awarded him by Judge Huycke after the evidence was all in and the attorneys had been heard.

The price of a Pomeranian was one of the features of the hearing. The lady from Hamilton, from whom Mr. Stevens obtained the dog in question, came all the way from that city to testify and on the stand stated that she had been offered $50 for it.

Dr. T Johnston, who specialized in the raising of this class of dogs, swore that his price for puppies ranges from $5 to $25 each.

BONUSING INDUSTRIES TO BE ABOLISHED BY ONTARIO AND QUEBEC

Premiers In Recent Conference Agreed on Legislation Which Will Reserve to Municipalities the Right to Grant Exemption From Taxation — Ferguson Indicates Other Government Bills to Be Introduced.

T. & N. O. EXTENSION.

TORONTO, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Premitr Ferguson yesterday afternoon announced in the Legislature what further legislation the Government intended to bring down at this session of the House. He stated there would be a bill to abolish municipal bonusing of industry. The right to exempt industries from taxation for a period of years would be left with the municipalities.

This legislation is the fruit of the conference with representatives of Quebec province where similar legislation will be made effective. Premier Ferguson stated that the Minister of Lands would introduce a bill prohibiting the export of hard wood. The legislation is intended to force the manufacture of hardwood products in Ontario.

Summer Resort Tax.

There will also be a bill to produce some revenue from summer resorts in unorganized districts by way of some form of taxation. The Premier pointed out that outsiders came to Ontario and made money from summer resorts with very nominal taxation. There would be some amendments to the highways act which would be held for a short period in the hope that Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister Highways, would be in the House.

The Premier also announced that some legislation would be introduced to prevent as far as possible the sale of fraudulent securities and stock. Judgments in the high courts of Saskatchewan and New Brunswick that companies with federal charters were not liable to provincial laws necessarily changed the intended legislation. He said and the legislation was being changed to meet the conditions as fixed by the courts. The new legislation he added would not be along the lines of the blue sky law passed last session but which has not been made effective by order in council. There would be no board appointed to sit in judgment on securities.

Hotels and Health.

Legislation defining types of hotels and providing regulations would also be introduced. It would be necessary to define types of hotels for both cities and rural places and the regulations would be elastic to cover the different classes. There would also be legislation for furthering rural hydro transmission.

The bill establishing a department of health passed through committee. The Premier said it was not the purpose to have two ministers. There was no department of health by status.

Mr. Raney said that the legislature was being asked to vote approval to an enlarged cabinet and asked what practical advantage there would be.

"I think that public health has become important enough in this province to be dignified with a Ministry," said the Premier. "In the second place if the work should ever become so heavy that health and labor need two ministers the machinery will be ready for their creation."

The bill to establish quarantine for imported bee colonies also went through committee.

Break Their Bargain.

In committee of supply the Premier made a statement regarding the training schools for French-speaking teachers when an item of $40,000 for such schools was being considered. He said that many who attended these schools at which the government paid board did not live up to their part of the bargain. They

MARIPOSA WOMAN'S 103rd BIRTHDAY

LINDSAY, March. 11.—(Special).—On Saturday, March 1st, Mrs. Mary Rogers of Mariposa Township, relict of the late Wm. Rogers, celebrated her one hundred and third birthday, and her friends gathered at her home to felicitate her on the occasion. In spite of her ripe age, Mrs. Rogers has remarkable vitality, especially mentally. Though totally blind, she remembers friends and associates of many years ago. Both Mrs. Rogers and her late husband were members of a colony of Quakers which settled in Victoria County many years ago.

Haliburton Has Smallpox Scare

LINDSAY, March 11.—The people of Haliburton are greatly excited over the report that smallpox has broken out in the county, and the authorities are taking active steps to combat the disease and prevent an epidemic. One case has been discovered in the township of West Guilford, and it is also said that there are a couple of cases in some of the lumber camps.

In Victoria County the authorities have also taken steps to prevent an outbreak. In Fenelon Falls general vaccination of all children has been ordered, and similar steps will be taken in other centres.

The disease is believed to have been brought into the north country by a visitor from the Essex peninsula.

FORMER LINDSAY GIRL'S ROMANCE

Kidnapped By Father When Parents Separated She Married Son of Adopted Parents--Found By Mother After Nineteen Years' Search.

LINDSAY, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—After a continuous search of nineteen years through Canada, Brazil and Mexico, Mrs. Oswald Stein of Cincinnati one month ago found her daughter, Mrs. Irene Raynor, formerly of Lindsay, in Chicago. Irene was adopted when four years old by Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Raynor, then living in a town in Worfordshire, England, but now residing in Lindsay.

Mrs. Stein, it appears, secured a divorce from her husband on the charge of cruelty, and the husband afterwards kidnapped Irene, their child and took her to New Zealand. When the Allan-Hanbury company, of England, opened a branch plant in Lindsay, Mr. Raynor came here as superintendent, being followed a year or two later by Mrs. Raynor, her son and Miss Irene, who had been adopted from her father.

The son enlisted at the outbreak of the war and served with distinction in France and Egypt. After the armistice was signed he accepted a position with the Allan-Hanbury firm with headquarters at Boston. A few years later he was married to Miss Irene Raynor at St. Paul's church, Lindsay, by Rev. Canon Marsh. The daughter had never given up hope of finding her mother, and finally through a Boston attorney they were united.

Mrs. Irene Raynor is a charming and accomplished lady. She possessed a beautiful contralto voice, and sang quite often in the local churches. She also achieved quite a name in the operatic field, notably in the role of Katisha in Gilbert & Sullivan's Mikado. She received her dramatic and operatic training with the Fairbank Opera Company, London, Eng.

Mrs. Stein, her mother, is an authoress of note.

Promised Reduction of London Meat Fails.

LONDON, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Speaking in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, a member pointed out that the importation of Canadian store cattle was recommended to the public on the ground that it would effect a reduction of at least sixpence per pound in the price of meat. In view of the fact that this reduction had not been realized, the member asked the Minister of Agriculture if he would have an inquiry made into the profits of importers of such cattle.

In reply, Noel Buxton, Minister of Agriculture, said the number of store cattle which so far had been imported was too small to have had any appreciable effect on the price of meat. "I don't think an inquiry as suggested would serve any useful purpose," he concluded.

French Exchange Uneasy as Franc Continues Lower

Temporary Recovery on Monday Was Lost at Close—Loans to Devastated Regions Must Wait In Order to Avoid Further Borrowing on the Expectation of Reparations From Germany.

PARIS, March 11 (Canadian Press) — The French franc sank to a new low level last evening after a temporary sharp improvement during the day, attributed to the Government's announcement that there should be no further loans or inflation to justify pessimism regarding French finance.

The franc was worth 3.554 cents, the dollar being quoted at 28.13, and the pound at 119.80, when curb trading stopped, as compared with 28.08 and 120 respectively early in the morning.

Premier Poincare and his ministers, together with the officials of the Bank of France, took all possible steps to prevent further depreciation of the currency.

Patriotic Sacrifice.

It regards the Ministry's decisions as a rallying cry for patriotic cooperation and sacrifice, and it is confident the country will agree that the devastated regions must wait for the thirty billion francs necessary to finish the work there, in order to avoid the borrowing of more money.

The Temps, on the contrary, criticises the Government for saying it will abandon "the policy of loans," asserting that there is no such policy and maintaining that reconstruction of the devastated regions is a sacred obligation, loans for which have long been countenanced.

Germany's Default.

"France never defaults on her obligations," says the Temps. "The sum of thirty billion francs remains to be spent; it will be folly to expect it from taxation. It would not be less monstrous to regard as a policy of loans the demands for credit made solely to make good Germany's default."

The financial edition of L'Information takes a dark view of the situation. It reflects the Stock Exchange temperament as thoroughly panicky, and adds:

"The dangerous conditions can no longer be denied. It must be recognised that there is a divorce between the franc and foreign opinion."

PACIFIC COAST FRUIT GROWERS OPPOSED RATES

The Freight Charges on Okanagan Fruit Excessively Higher Than the Rates In Niagara District--Western Producers Demand Equal Terms to Develop Market.

HEARD AT OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, March 11 (Canadian Press). — British Columbia fruit growers urged the Railway Commission to award them express rates similar to those now in operation for the benefit of the Niagara Peninsula Growers at the hearing of the Express Traffic Association's application for an increase in rates here yesterday.

It was stated that the express rates on fruit shipped out of the Okanagan Valley are from 150 to 200 per cent. higher than fruit shipped from the Niagara district.

Thomas Bulman, British Columbia fruit grower, told the Commission that the proposed increase in express rates could not be borne by the Western fruit producers. It was only fair, he argued, that the Eastern and Western rates should be the same.

A. T. Mutry, fruit grower of Vernon, B.C., stated that the express company was inclined to look upon the question of rates in a rather short-sighted manner. It was suggested that even though the express companies might have to carry fruit at a loss until the growers developed the market, it would be worth while in the long ran for the companies.

To come East and try to discuss the problem here was like talking about a foreign affair.

The producer was being asked to bear the whole burden of re-adjustment. Existing high rates prevented the development of the Prairie market to the utmost. The economic situation among the fruit growers could not continue. Something must be done soon to save the industry.

G. R. Geary, representing the City of Toronto, cross-examined E. E. Lloyd, assistant comptroller of the Canadian Pacific Railway, regarding methods employed in estimating the auditing methods endorsed by the cost of operating express cars. The Inter-State Commerce Commission of the United States were followed for the most part according to the evidence given.

WITNESS DENIED THAT EVIDENCE WAS PURCHASED

Gunsmith Expert In the Delorme Trial Said Suggestion of Dividing the $10,000 With Detective Lajoie If Priest Convicted 'Absurd and Ridiculous.'

PISTOL FOR FRIEND.

MONTREAL, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Oscar Haynes, armorer, who appeared on the witness stand Monday afternoon as an expert on ballistics in the trial of Rev. Father Delorme, described the suggestion that he and Detective Georges Farah Lajoie would share $10,000 if the priest is convicted of the charges as "absurd and ridiculous."

This witness was subjected to a severe grilling by Alban Germain, K. C., for the defence, who asked if he knew two brothers, Ludger and Jules Brien. The witness admitted that he had met them casually.

"But did you not say to these men in a house on City Hall Avenue that you hoped to win the case for the Crown and that if you did you and detective Lajoie would divide $10,000?"

"That is absurd and ridiculous," answered the witness, laughing. 'I have never made such a statement; I have seen something to that effect in the newspapers, but I never, never mentioned anything so silly'

Priest Amused.

The cross-examination of Haynes was punctuated with general laughter in court, even Mr. Justice Martineau smiling broadly during some of the repartees. Father Delorme appeared to enjoy himself greatly, and made no attempt to conceal it. Mr. Germain, whose voice is extremely powerful, spoke louder than usual. In spite of this the witness almost invariably demanded: "What?" Holding his right hand behind his ear as if to catch the question.

"Most people," commented Mr. Germain, complain that I speak too loud, you are apparently of a different opinion."

"What?" demanded the witness — amid laughter.

Contradicted Himself.

In cross-examination, Haynes, who is 37 years old, said he had been an armorer for 18 years. He contradicted himself once or twice. Asked if all the parts of Bayard pistols were manufactured by the firm of Bayard, he replied that they were.

Mr. Germain then declared that not a single part of the pistol was made by the Bayard firm, but the parts were manufactured elsewhere, and assembled by the firm.

"It is possible," admitted Haynes, "I am not in Belgium, I am here."

Another time, in answer to a question by Mr. Germain, he said that he had often communicated with the Bayard firm.

"Can you show me some of your correspondence?" asked the lawyer.

"No; I cannot."

"But you said that you have been in communication with the firm of Bayard?"

"Perhaps I did not hear what you asked me," replied the witness.

Admitted Mistake.

Haynes, however, stood firmly by his evidence for the Crown as to the scratches on the bullets fired from the Abbes automatic, but admitted that he sometimes made mistakes, and that while putting pistols together after the tests on Wednesday last he had got mixed up in the parts and had put the handle of one pistol on to the parts of another. He denied that he had bought the pistol purposely to sell to the priest, but said that he had it in mind for a friend of a policeman that he knew.

Dr. Derome, medico-legal expert, was in the stand in the morning and was cross examined as to his evidence on the bullets fired from the Abbe's Bayard pistol.

Stitches in Quilts.

A. Charbonneau, tailor, testified that one of the quilts found tied and pinned about Raoul's head, and two quilts found in the Delorme house, must have been made by the same person, the stitches being exactly similar, and white and black thread having been used in each case.

Victor Roy, shoemaker, gave evidence that he had repaired Raoul's brown shoes on January 3 or 4, 1922, and said that the shoes still showed traces of outer varnish which would have disappeared had they been used to any extent. Two of the jurymen questioned the witness' statement and pointed out evidence of hard use in the shoes.

Juryman Le Cavalier, whose indisposition this morning halted the trial for a time, was able to take up his duties in the afternoon.

Lipstick Fatal in Hands of Youthful High School Girl

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Blood-poisoning, due to the use of a lipstick, is believed to have caused the death of Florence E. Dickerson, 16-year-old High School student.

The girl's lips became chapped last week.

She applied artificial coloring several days later, and her face became terribly swollen.

Her physician advised an operation, which took place on Friday, but infection had gained to such an extent that it could not be overcome.

Local physicians say it is the strangest case on record in medical circles in this vicinity.

HAVELOCK SEEKS A HIGH SCHOOL

Board of Education Would Transform Continuation School — Fear Crowded Conditions in Public School.

HAVELOCK, March 11.— A regular meeting of the Havelock Board of Education was held in the school building with H. Falker, chairman, H. W. Roche, sec.-treas., Trustees James Barlow, Dr. A. S. Thompson, D. A. Forde, and Edw. Fennell present.

An account with A. C. Denike for $31.82 was passed for payment.

Several communications were received as follows:

From the secretary of the superannuation board instructing that all salaries paid to short term qualified teachers are subject to the 2 1-2 p.c. superannuation assessment when the teaching period is 30 days and over.

From the Department of Education, advising that it was not wise to extend the school hours unduly, and that the management of the school was under charge of the Principal ,subject to the recommendations of the Inspector.

From the secretary of the Ontario Trustees' Association, requesting the appointment of a delegate to the Associations' meeting held in Toronto at Easter.

Dr. Thompson was appointed delegate to the Ontario Trustees' Association. It was further agreed that the secretary and Trustee Fennell be alternatives in the event the Doctor could not attend.

At the February meeting of the board, Mr. T. P. Lancaster drew the attention of the board to the fact that the county had not been billed by our board of education, for the support of the continuation school, on the basis that similar schools in the county were billing, the result being that Havelock did not receive as much support from the county as other schools received. The chairman and secretary were appointed a committee to interview Reeve Curtis regarding this matter and to act with him to the end that the county be given an opportunity to deal as liberally with Havelock school as they had dealt with other similar schools.

The chairman reported that the committee had interviewed Reeve Curtis and that a proper bill had been forwarded to the treasurer of the county setting forth the amount due this board for the tuition of county pupils. The committee's report was accepted.

May Be Overcrowded.

Trustee Forde drew attention to the likelihood of an increase in school attendance caused by the beginners at Easter, with the result that the primer room would be overcrowded unless some arrangement were made for greater accommodation .On motion of Trustees Fennell and Barlow, the secretary was instructed to put a notice in the local paper asking parents to report to the secretary concerning new pupils starting to school at Easter.

On motion the chairman and secreary were appointed a committee to interview the municipal council asking for their assistance in asking the county council to pass legislation giving Havelock continuation school the status of a high school.

HASTINGS FORMS NEW FIRE FORCE

Old Brigade Resigned When Council Assumed Control of Department --Many Applicants.

HASTINGS, March 11.—A large number of ratepayers turned out on Monday evening to organize a new fire brigade the old one having resigned on account of the Council taking full control of the brigade.

The new brigade has 16 members 6 less than the one of 1923.

New regulations were drawn up providing that if any member was found absent from a fire he was to be fined and all members had to turn out to fire practice.

The Club Room is to be fitted up and the members of the brigade are to receive $1.00 for the first hour and 50c for every hour after for attendance at a fire.

BUILD SEWERS BY DAY LABOR

Campbellford Prefers System to Contract Letting--Make a Start When Season Opens.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 11. — The Town Council of this year believes in the economy of day labour over the contract system for public works, and the sewer on Rear and Second Streets will be built by the corporation.

This action was decided upon at the special meeting last night on the motion of Councillor Cole and Reeve Davidson. The Council tried out this plan last year with satisfactory results, sewers being put in by day labour at less tha nthe estimates.

A by-law by Councillor Johnston was put through, to issue debentures for Ranney Street sewer, also another by-law was put through to pay for the Richard Street sewer and water main, this by-law being presented by Councillor Kingston.

Work to Start Soon

A motion presented by Dep. Reeve Dorie and Councillor Cole that the Rear and River street sewer and water main be proceded with as soon as possible.

By-laws relating to Rear and River streets sewer and water main together with the Clerks report on the same were accepted and passed.

The Sebastapool street and Hastings Road sewer and water main extension was considered and discussed by the Council but had to be left over to get the engineer's estimate.

The Second and Cockburn street sewer and water main was dealt with Councillor Kingston presented a by-law to provide for the proceedings to be taken for this. The clerks report on Second street sewer and water main was read and on motion of Councillrs Cole and Abernethy was accepted.

Councillor Abernethy presented a by-law to provide for the assessing of the lands abutting upon the sewer and water main on Cockburn and Second street.

On motion of Dep. Reeve Dorie and Councillor Cole the rate per linear foot, frontage on the Second and Cockburn street sewer and water main be $3.73.--Carried.

The clerk's report was presented and read on the Kent and Napier street sewer and water main petition, the clerk reporting the same sufficient.

A resolution moved by Councillor Kingston seconded by Dep. Reeve Dorie that the engineer be asked to prepare plans and estimates on the Kent and Napier street sewer and water main was carried.

Moved by Dep. Reeve Dorie and seconded by Councillor Abernethy that as soon as the clerk can secure a copy of the estimate of the cost of the sewers on the west side of the river, that the Mayor call a special meeting of the council to consider same. This was carried.

Reeve Davidson brought up the matter of having the hook and ladder waggon repainted and Engineer Plimmer was instructed to have this done.

Moved by Councillor Johnston and seconded by Councillor Cole and carried that tenders be called for for sewer pipe in connection with Rear and River street sewer.

The Council then adjourned to meet at the call of the Mayor.

Spinners' Strike at Manchester Ended.

MANCHESTER, England, March 10. — The threatened lockout by the Cotton Spinners' Federation is believed to have been averted through the action of the carding room amalgamation, which to-day withdrew from the dispute. This arose out of the introduction into a mill at Royton of an extra machine, imposing increased work and bringing about a strike.

The lock out would have involved 150,000 operatives. It is expected now that the workers on strike will return to their machines, and that the lockout notices will be withdrawn.

BANK OF FRANCE BOLSTERS FRANC

Report of Aid From United States is Confirmed by Petit Parisian -- Further Efforts.

PARIS, March 11. — (By Webb Miller, United Press.) — With all France straining every resource to bolster up the weakened national currency, francs opened somewhat stronger to-day. Dollars were quoted at 27 franc, 30 centimes and pounds sterling at 116 francs, 40 centimes.

The Petit Parisian confirms a report that the Bank of France has obtained "important aid," to stabilize the franc in England and the United States. (This presumably refers to a report that France has obtained a credit of $50,000,000 for three months from a syndicate of American banks headed by J. P. Morgan and Co.).

The Cabinet members met to-day in the Elysee Palace with President Millerand to make plans for a definite decision regarding measures already discussed for the betterment of the franc. It is reported that various banking measures were under consideration, including prohibition of speculation. The Petit Journal said the discount rate might be raised to prevent excessive rediscounting, and consequent use of the money for prchasing foreign materials.

Finance Minister Lasteyrie announced last night the Government plans operations for consolidation of the floating debt.

Don't Dose a Cold —Use Vicks

External Treatment With Vaporizing Salve is Best

Mr. Alex McDougall, Box 655, Regent St., North Sydney, Nova Scotia, writes: "I had a bad cold in my head, I tried many remedies but had no relief until I used Vicks. It is also the best salve I ever used for a cold in the chest. Put some Vicks VapoRub on your chest, cover with a flannel and you have a sure remedy. For a cold in the head, melt a little VapoRub, and inhale the vapors. In a short time your cold will be gone."

Vicks VapoRub is an externally applied vaporizing salve. While it acts like a liniment or plaster, it is also inhaled as a vapor, and so gets into the throat and lungs immediately. The cold is often broken up overnight.

Vicks is the modern direct treatment for all cold troubles, the successor to goose grease, camphorated oil, liniments, poultices and plasters.

Used for a croup and children's colds Vicks gives remarkably quick results and also avoids nauseating internal dosing. Just as good for adults and for skin inflammation, such as cuts, burns, bruises, bites, stings.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a [illegible] write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

Madame Kolontay has been acting as Soviet plenipotentiary to Norway and carried out the negotiations that resulted in the recent recognition of Norway by Russia. She visited the United States during the war.

Two Bottles of Dreco Proves Effective

"During the past two or three years my stomach and kidneys have been out of order," says Mrs. E. Brady of Woodville, Ont. "The food I ate lay on my stomach and gave me severe attacks of heartburn. My kidneys were weak and gave me dull, aching pains across my back and my joints were stiff with rheumatism. I was very nervous and restless and suffered from loss of sleep. I have only taken two bottles of Dreco, but feel 100 per cent. better already. My stomach hardly ever troubles me now, the pains in my back have disappeared and my rheumatism is much improved. I sleep like a child all night long."

There is no need for anyone to suffer the pangs of poor digestion with Dreco at hand to tone and regulate the organs and put them in proper working order. The herb, root, bark and leaf juices of this great remedy strengthen the stomach, arouse a sluggish liver, aid the kidneys, relieve constipation and cleanse the blood of all clogging waste and impurities. Try it today. Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterobrough by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold as follows:
Lakefield—E. H. Northey.
Campbellford—J. E. Birks.
And by a good druggist everywhere.

APPEALED FOR MISSION WORK

Rev. Mr. Wickware of Cloyne Emphasized the Opportunity Among Heathen and Large Results Obtained.

WARKWORTH, March 11.—Rev. Mr. Wickware, of Cloyne, who was formerly a missionary in Africa, spoke in the Methodist Church on Sunday morning. He was dealing with missions, but introduced his sermon by speaking of the parable of the rich man and the beggar Lazarus. Just as the rich man missed his opportunity by scorning the poor man, so are many of the Christians of to-day missing their "opportunity" by forgetting the heathen who have not heard of the Christian religion.

Mr. Wickware gave many references to his mission in Africa, which on that very day would see over a thousand Africans packed into a small church. Some of the natives travel forty miles once a month to hear the missionary.

About 1,000 Christians were added to that church in the Congo last year, when in our churches only a few new members are added yearly.

Mr. Wickware conducted the missionary anniversary in Springbrook Church on Sunday afternoon and evening.

During the following week special evangelistic meetings will be carried on by the Rev. Wickware in Springbrook.

First Story Hour.

On Saturday afternoon at 2.30 the children enjoyed for the first time a story-hour. Miss N. Williams kept the children interested in fairy tales. About fifty of the little ones were present, and all delighted by the tales.

Miss Topper will tell the stories next week at the same time.

Miss Myrtle Kennedy and Miss Myrtle Nayler left on Saturday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Percy Kennedy, of Lindsay.

Mr. Pritchard, a commercial traveller, spent the week-end in town.

Owing to the illness of Mr. E. C. Prentice, the Principal of the Public School, the fourth room was dismissed on Monday morning without school.

Mr. Thos. Southworth, head official of the Deloro Refining and Smelting Company, died at his home in Ottawa. Mr. Southworth has been ill for some weeks.

Mrs. Doupe has her daughter from Toronto spending a few days with her.

Chimney Fire.

A very serious chimney fire took place Saturday afternoon about 2.30, when the chimney of Mr. M. E. Grant's house burned out. In some manner the furnace pipes became totally stopped up, and the smoke and fire was finding an outlet through the brickwork.

Among Marmora's latest radio recruits are Mr. Vincent Lynch, Frank Sweet, Bill Sweet, John Bell and Paul Johnson.

Mr. Stafford Clement, of Marlbank, made a week-end visit to his home here.

Mrs. Thos. O'Neil, Hastings, is visiting her son, Mr. Jos. O'Neil.

FRIED MUSH.

Fried mush is much more delicious and has a better appearance if you dip the slices in the white of an egg before frying. It makes them crisp and brown.

Chatham Stockbuyer Dead in His 83rd Year.

CHATHAM, Ont., March 11. — (Canadian Press).—Caleb Wheeler, 83, one of the best known stockbuyers and butchers in Western Ontario, died yesterday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Milton Bachus, Ryler Road, Raleigh. Mr. Wheeler was a well-known sportsman in his younger days. On one occasion he was declared the fastest sprinter in the country. He was at one time a noted horseman, and owned many pedigreed stallions. He loved cricket and rowing, and was second to none with a gun and dog. A charter member of the Big Point Shooting Club, which was established in 1876, he holds the record of the club for the largest bag of ducks.

TUESDAY, MARCH 11, 1924.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce tonight, taking the form of a dinner, should attract a representative gathering, in view of the record of achievement to the credit of the Chamber during the past year.

The activities of the organization have been manifold, and a list of what has been accomplished includes many matters of much importance.

The individual members should indicate their appreciation of this fine showing by a large attendance at tonight's function, which will be featured by a very timely and important address by Dr. Brittain of the Citizens' Research Institute on that subject about which everybody is talking just now, "Taxation."

Dr. Brittain has made an exhaustive study of the whole subject of government, its cost and its extravagance, and he has at his disposal a mass of the most interesting material, out of which he may be expected to select a message for his Peterborough audience that will carry a real punch.

PREACHING AND PRACTICE.

The most difficult feature about making a successful economy drive in the administration of public affairs is the inconsistency of the average individual, politician as well as layman.

People shout for economy—and then organize deputations to wait on the Municipal Council or the Legislature or the Federal Government to urge some undertaking or other that represents a new drain upon the treasury.

Everybody believes in retrenchment, but apparently in retrenchment for the other fellow.

Three members of the Federal House who have taken part in the debate on the Address illustrate this phase of the situation.

All three urged economy—and yet all three wanted the Government to spend money on pet projects of their own.

One of them—the Progressive Leader, Mr. Robert Forke, by the way—insisted that the Hudson Bay railway be built.

And the third would be satisfied with a canal.

So long as that kind of thing continues it is idle to expect real economy.

If it is to retrench, the Federal Government—and all other Governments—will have to have general support; so long as the people cry "economy" and at the same time demand expenditures it will be difficult to find a solution.

A DRASTIC AMENDMENT.

It is interesting to note that while Peterborough's resolution calling for the abolition of the Suburban Road Commission plan as a detriment to urban municipalities, is being endorsed by Ontario cities, Hon. G. S. Henry has a bill before the Legislature that doesn't propose to abolish the commission but to prevent a member of a Municipal Council from being a commissioner.

That would leave the commission in the field as at present, and would deprive the cities from having direct representation upon such bodies.

The Henry amendment is drastic.

It enacts as follows:

"Notwithstanding anything contained in the Consolidated Municipal Act, 1922, or in any other general or special act of this Legislature or in any municipal bylaw, a person who is a member of the Municipal Council shall not be eligible for appointment as a member of any commission appointed under Section 17 of the Act or ameendments thereto, and a person who has heretofore been or is hereafter appointed a member of such commission shall not be eligible as a member of the Municipal Council or sit or vote therein."

If this amendment were to carry it would mean that Ald. Robert Morrison, who has been a member of the Suburban Road Commission for some years, would be automatically disqualified to sit in the Council, and furthermore would not be able at any time hereafter to be a member of the municipal government.

What lies behind Mr. Henry's amendment is not easy to discern unless the motive is to remove the last vestige of control that Municipal Councils have over the expenditures on suburban roads.

The bill should be vigorously opposed.

WOMEN VOTERS.

An analysis of the vote polled at the recent municipal election in Ottawa has revealed the fact that a very disappointing showing was made by the women of the city who were eligible to vote.

The figures indicate that out of every two hundred women who were on the official voters' list one hundred and fifteen did not go to the polls at all, the male voters turning out in much better proportions.

Only 42.50 per cent. of women voted, as against 54.75 per cent. of the men.

In Peterborough the story was much the same, and coming on the first occasion when general womanhood suffrage had been sanctioned by law, the results give occasion for thought.

The Ottawa Journal thinks that the small vote "tells us very plainly that possibly a majority of women are not keen to take any part at all in public affairs."

It did not, however, require an actual vote to prove the truth of that statement, for the demand for the franchise for women was never generally supported by them.

Much noise was made by leaders in the movement, but the great mass of women were never actively interested.

The situation now, however, is that women have the vote, and although the majority of them did not seek it they should adjust themselves to the new conditions and accept the responsibility.

Women should have a particular interest in municipal affairs, especially in seeking to stop the drain on the family purse caused by swelling taxes.

Their duty is to record their opposition to municipal extravagance and reckless expenditure, and they should cheerfully accept the task that has been thrust upon them.

At the next election it should not be possible to say that more women remained at home than went to the polls.

WHY NOT SUMMER IN NEW ONTARIO?

The Old Ontario man knows little of New Ontario. What exasperates New Ontario as much as anything is the indifference of the Old Ontario man, says the Saulte Ste. Marie Star.

We can forgive Lloyd George for his rapture over the White River violets, but Toronto has no business not to know that the Lake Superior section grows the finest on earth.

A learned Toronto professor told his audience about New Ontario's moss, but he didn't know that they grew oats eight feet high on the Transcontinental.

You hear York County people always ring in something about the cold of the north. But they don't know that Toronto's mean summer temperature is only 3.6 degrees warmer than away up at Moose Factory over a 10 year period, if Ottawa figures are to be trusted. The figures are: Toronto, 65 degrees; Moose Factory, 61.4 degrees.

Toronto geologists will come up to Algoma to look at a find of iron ore, and when they get back they will hand out stuff to the newspapers which sounds as if they had just returned from a far off journey, instead of havving just had a comfortable night's ride from Toronto in the finest and homiest train in America—the Soo train.

"Its a disgrace that Ontario knows so little of itself," said an Old Ontario editor last year as he looked at an 800 foot precipice in Agawa Canyon.

Look at the way Ontario raves over Cobalt, at Michipicoten, where 40 miles of gold bearing land has been staked, all Government geologists who have been in Agloma tell the same story—there is absolutely no reason why Michipicoten should not rival Timiskaming.

The Toronto Board of Trade announces it is going to New Ontario—and it goes to Cobalt. It does not know that Timiskaming is a very small corner of New Ontario.

What a benefit to Old Ontario if the newspapers there would undertake a campaign to get all Ontario people to spend their holidays just this one year in New Ontario.

Look what they have to see:

The great Algoma wilderness, including the Agawa Canyon.

The gold belt, the silver belt, the nickel belt, the forests primeval, the paper mills, the great steel works at the Sault, the railroad trip for half a day on Lake Superior's shore.

And last, but not least, the pioneer, the man who has cheerfully undertaken the task of making New Ontario a great and prosperous land.

He's worth meeting.

ESSENTIAL AND OTHERWISE.

Most of the people of the world are engaged in doing something, and all that is necessary in these days of mass production and mechanical accomplishment, in order to make everyone happy is a scheme whereby people will do the necessary things and leave undone those things which are not so necessary.

Brains and energy are being used up in activities along which sufficient progress has been made for the time being, and the persons so engaged are merely complicating matters.

Take the field of fiction writing, for instance! There is a demand for fiction, and many bright minds are busy with supplying that demand.

Every day books and magazines are produced by the ton.

Most of the matter contained in them is essentially mediocre: the stuff is forgotten the day after it is read: the amount of benefit conferred upon the human race by writing it is wasted.

It cannot be denied that fiction supplies a want that might almost be termed a necessity.

It is perfectly all right for people to desire to read fiction, and it is a useful and almost necessary work to supply that demand.

But the point is that the world at present contains all the fiction that it can possibly use.

In the past one hundred years, enough fiction has been produced to satisfy all demands for another half century.

On the shelves of every library on the continent are enough works of fiction to keep a man reading night and day for a lifetime, even though he had nothing else to do except read fiction. If all the magazines stopped publication to-morrow, and it was ancted that no new work of fiction should be published for twenty-five years, how much poorer would the world be?

Would anyone be deprived of anything? Is there a man or woman in the world who could not find enough to read? The only actual result would be that some hundreds of people who might be able to do something useful and who are now engaged in the production of imaginative trash, could turn their attention to some productive endeavor.

Printers, pressmen, advertising agents, solicitors, paper producers and office men could be released by the dozen to help furnish more useful commodities.

We have a supply of fiction. It is not now consumed.

Why should we not let the present generation feed upon the fiction of the past?

None of it which is worth while has deterioroted with age.

There are enough styles in women's clothes and boots to last the world for many years. If all the style-mongers died tomorrow, the world could carry on with the present supply of their product for a decade or two before the shortage would cause real suffering.

There is sufficient jazz music in the world to last until the present generation has passed on: enough rag songs written to keep all the midnight roysterers singing until Doomsday without repeating themselves.

It is possible that enough photographs of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa have been taken.

Within the next five years, it is probable that enough motion pictures will have been filmed to last the world forever.

It may be that enough lectures have been published on Italian art and Mexican pottery.

And when all the men and women, who are engaged in producing these and other things, have been turned loose, perhaps all the children in the world can be clothed, all the sick treated and everybody made happy.—Saskatoon Progressive.

AN AWFUL ATTACK OF PIMPLES ALL OVER HIS FACE

Pimples breaking out on the face and other parts of the body is a sure sign that the blood is not in proper shape.

While the skin is the object of the attack the real seat of the disease is in the blood on account of the entire circulation being poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually banishes pimples and all other skin diseases as it goes right to the root of the trouble by cleansing and enriching the blood.

Mr. Conad Anderson, Kelfield, Sask., writes:—"A year ago I had an awful attack of pimples. They broke out all over my face and I could not get rid of them in any way. One day a friend told me about your Burdock Blood Bitters and let me have a bottle he had to spare. After using it I noticed a change, so I bought three more bottles, and now I don't know there is such a thing as pimples."

THE EXCELSIOR LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

36 BODIES OF MINERS FOUND

Explosions In Utah Fuel Company Mine Believed to Have Been of Tremendous Force.

CASTLE GATE, Utah, March 11—At six o'clock last night 36 bodies had been recovered from Mine No. 2 of the Utah Fuel Company, where 175 men were entombed on Saturday.

One rescue worker, George Wilson, assistant foreman of a neighboring mine, had given his life in an attempt to penetrate the smoking, gas-filled drifts.

Whether the men who descended to their daily work a short time before the explosions were heard were blown to pieces, whether they choked to death, or whether they perished in the flames that followed the series of explosions, has not been determined, and even the hardiest miner dare not guess.

From external appearances the explosions must have wrought destruction almost unparalleled in the history of mine disasters. Three tremendous blasts were heard by workmen on the surface followed by a number of lesser explosions.

HEART WAS SO BAD HAD TO SIT UP IN BED

Mrs. O. E. Fitzgerald, 106 Ross St., St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—"In the Fall of 1921, I was taken ill with my heart, but I did not pay much attention to it. I kept on with my household duties, but seemed to become worse and worse, and finally had to call in a doctor. He said I was all run down and was a nervous wreck. I had a severe pain in my chest which would move over to my heart and it became so bad I could not lie down, as when I did I had such a smothering feeling I would have to sit up in bed till it passed away.

I tried several remedies, but with no good results. Finally, I was induced to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took 7 boxes, and I am now as well as I was 30 years ago, and I am now 65 years old."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CREW LOST WITH SAILING VESSEL

Schooner's Floating Hull Had Apparently Been Cut In Two—Wreckage Sighted In Mid-Ocean.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., March 11 (Canadian Press). — The loss of a Newfoundland sailing vessel, probably with all on board, became known yesterday when a radio message from the steamer Huronia, reported that wreckage of the schooner Roy Bruce of St. John's had been sighted in mid-ocean on 27th February.

The schooner's hull had been cut in two, apparently in collision with another vessel, and no survivors were found.

The Bruce was about 75 days out from Spain with a cargo of salt.

It is believed that the entire crew of the schooner perished.

LABOR PLACEMENTS 450,000 LAST YEAR

Thirty Per Cent. of Total Were For Farm Work Conference of Western Employment Officials Told.

EDMONTON, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Approximatelv 450,000 placements were made in the whole Dominion last year, which is an increase of 60,000 over the preceding year, and thirty per cent. of these were for farm work, it was announced here yesterday, following a three-day conference of employment officials of the four western provinces, and which was attended by representatives of the Federal Government.

Adequate labor supply in Alberta this year will depend in large measure upon the number of immigrant workers who come in from European countries, according to reports given at the conference. Farmers, for instance, will not likely be able to get as many men for seeding as previous from British Columbia, and other sources of supply will have to be found. Only the improved immigration prospects will save the province from a shortage.

took these courses so that they could then teach in French schools. However, many of them never taught and went into other business. University Financing.

The Premier announced when university estimates were being discussed that the fiscal year of the University of Toronto would be changed this year from June 21 to October 31 the same date as other government departments. In the past he said the House had no control of university estimates and had to be content with a kind of post mortem. Next year with the new fiscal year we will get the university estimates in the same form as other department and the province and the House will know where the expenditure is made. This year, he continued, the university would submit tentative estimates and the members would get a clearer idea of university affairs and expenditures. A grant of $25,000 to the British Association for the advancement of science also passed. The grant goes towards a huge convention to be held in Toronto this year which will be attended by the leading scientists of the world.

T. & N. O. Extension.

During the discussion of estimates for the T. and N.O. railway the Premier announced that there was no intention just now of proceeding to James Bay. He said that the road would probably be completed for 70 miles north of Cochrane to Tin Cap portage. Four miles of this is now complete. The completion of the other 30 would depend on the action of the Spruce Falls Pulp and Paper Company. If the company decides to go ahead with its plant at Smoky Falls then the 30 miles will be completed. It is already graded. In any event the road would be kept from deteriorating.

"To go to James Bay" said the Premier, "would be building a considerable time ahead of necessity. It will be some years before the road is extended that far. We have unlimited areas now for agricultural and timber purposes. Why should we scatter the settlements more?"

He said that going down the rivers a 100 miles towards James Bay one got out of the timber into muskeg. There would be no further building until the government had much information.

Malcolm Lang (Cochrane) spoke of oil possibilities and the Premier said that although approached he would not yet grant concessions. Neither was he yet convinced of the much talked of fishery possibilties of James Bay.

Branch to Rouyn.

Mr. Lang asked if the government had considered the extension of the Swastiki branch into the Rouyn mining fields in Quebec. If the line were not extended the C.P.R. would reach it first and the business go to Montreal instead of Ontario. The Premier replied that the T. & N.O. engineers were reporting on the matter. Personally he favored getting in there if he could. He was willing to have defecits on the roads if there was a great general advantage to the province secured. However, the government would not take on huge expenditures without visible signs of proportionate return. The House adjourned with the discussion unfinished.

EIGHT HOUR DAY

Western Demand

Viewpoints from the West followed. D. F. Kellner, Progressive of Edmonton East pressed for Canadian National branch line construction in the west, suggesting that construction might be financed by an issue of Dominion notes.

Mr. Kellner criticized the Government for not returning the $500,000 of surplus from the wheat board to the farmers of the west. On the same day that Acting Minister of Finance declined the request for the return of the money, the United States Government appointed a committee to help to finance the farmers. Ten million dollars was subscribed for the purpose. "Such things as that," said Mr. Kellner, "perhaps account for the fact that immigration into Canada is not what it might be."

Load on West

Mr. Kellner referred to remarks made by Mr. Hocken in regard to the tariff. While deprecating any suggestion of dissolution of the union of the prairie provinces with the east he said that having built up such cities as Brantford and Toronto the west was beginning to feel that it must "get out from under the load." He emphasized the importance of building branch lines in the west and suggested that the Government finance the construction by an issue of Dominion notes. This would save the interest bill which would accrue if the branch lines were financed in the ordinary way. The objection that the amount of circulation would be increased without increasing production causing a rise of prices would fall flat, said Mr. Kellner, because the construction of the lines was sure to increase production.

Encourage Agriculture

J. E. D'Anjou (Liberal, Rimouski), congratulated the Prime Minister on his attitude on imperial questions. Mr. D'Anjou advocated reduction in expenditures on militia and expressed approval of the proposal to reduce tariff on agricultural implements. Agriculture was a basic industry and should be encouraged. Mr. D'Anjou referred to the exodus of Canadians to the United States advising the Government to give some attention to repatriation of those who had gone over.

Public Ownership

An Address by City Clerk S. R. Armstrong

Sidney Webb, now the Rt. Hon. Sidney Webb, once wrote a paragraph in which he ridiculed the politician who still clung to his individualistic philosophy and in which he presented a picture of the extent to which European cities had, prior to the war, taken over social and industrial enterprises formerly left to private capital. That paragraph, somewhat changed to meet local conditions here, is as follows:

"The individualistic city alderman walks along the municipal pavement lit by municipal electric light and cleared by municipal brooms, close to the national canal, and seeing by the municipal clock in the municipal market that he is too early to meet his children coming from the municipal school, near the municipal hospital, he uses the national telegraph system to tell them not to walk by the municipal park, nor to stop at the municipal swimming beach, but to come by the provincial street railway to meet him at the municipal reading room in the municipal library, where is the municipal museum, and in the meantime goes to the national savings bank in the national post office to transact business and receives there a parcel which had been conveyed by the national post system on the national railway, and then returns to the municipal reading room, drinks from the municipal water system and consults national publications in order to prepare his next speech in the municipal city hall, against deepening the St. Lawrence River to accommodate national ocean-going steamers and developing hydro-electric power on that river."

The subject of municipal ownership is now far from being an academic one; municipalities have established or have taken over and are operating many utilities, and provincial, state and national governments own and operate canals, railways and other enterprises, while factors that have become important, in one nation at least, very important, in politics advocate the nationalization of all railways, coal mines, and other natural resources and means of production and transportation. There is a growing movement for public ownership and its subject is one that must be considered by those interested in public affairs and the public welfare.

The telegraph and telephone services are owned in whole or in part by national and municipal governments in practically every industrial country outside of the United States. The postmaster-general of the United States said in 1915: "Only Spain and Brazil among the greater countries join the United States in licensing out the telephone agencies to private parties." Nearly one-third of the cable mileage of the world is public property.

In Canada the great telephone system, that of the Bell Telephone

S. R. ARMSTRONG

Company, is still in private hands, but two of the Western Provinces own their own telephone systems, and there are 108 municipal systems in Ontario serving 233 towns, villages and townships, and one of the great telegraph systems of Canada, and that the oldest one, is publicly owned.

Of the total of 216,396 miles of railways in Europe, 116,111 miles, over one-half, are state railways, and of the 690,138 miles of railways in the world, 225,914 miles, about one-third, are owned by the state. Only in Great Britain and the United States and in a few small West Indian and African dependencies, are the railway systems wholly in the hands of private capital.

Canada owns about 20,000 miles of railways. Perhaps Canada does not deserve credit (or blame) for that. The Intercolonial Railway and part of a transcontinental system were owned by the Dominion when the inability of the Canadian Northern Railway and of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to meet their obligations caused the government, owing to guarantees which it had given, to take over the Canadian Northern and the whole Grand Trunk System, and Canada now owns the greatest publicly-owned railway systems in the world. These railways are a burden on the revenue of the country, as they do not pay operating expenses and capital charges, but there has been a considerable improvement in that respect. During 1923 the revenue over operating expenses amounted to $20,000,000.00, an increase of $17,000,000.00 and the gross earnings of the railway's from the railway's from Jan. 1 to Feb. 23 an increase of $829,947 as compared with its corresponding period of last year. Sir Henry Thornton has predicted that in three years the National Railways will be self-sustaining, and they may after that be able to repay, directly or indirectly, part at least of what they have cost the country to keep them operating during the past few years.

The operation of the railways in the United States by the government o that country during the war has been frequently referred to as evidence that Government operation of railways is not successful. In this connection several things should be remembered. For months prior to the entry of the United States into the war the railways of that country had been unable to meet the demands made upon them. In the Instate Commerce Commission report for 1916 Commissioner McCord said: "In some territories the railways have furnished but a small part of the cars necessary for the transportation of staple articles of commerce, such as coal, grain, lumber, fruits and vegetables . . . In consequence, mills have shut down, prices have advanced, perishable articles of great value have been destroyed and hundreds of carloads of foodstuffs have been delayed in reaching their natural markets." This was the condition under private ownership and management. The great movement overseas resulting from the entrance of the United States into the war increased these difficulties. Finally, in December, 1917, the government was forced to take charge of the management of the roads. The administration ahd to pay a rental of about $900,000,000,-00 annually to the stockholders and the financial result was a deficit in twenty-six months of $900,000,000,-00. But speed, and not profit, was the chief need under government control. Charles W. Baker, consulting engineer, in his Carnegie Endowment study, points out that "saving time and not saving money was the essential of success. Time to create an efficient organization was not to be had." Yet Mr. Wm. G. McAdoo was able to tell the Interstate Commerce Commission that in eleven months 6,500,000 soldiers were transported in comparative freedom from accident over the United States railways, 4,000,000 in special trains, at an average speed of twenty miles an hour. Three months after the government took over the roads, they had transported to the Atlantic Coast food for the Allies equal to the carrying capacity of the available vessels, with over 6,000 carloads of foodstuffs to spare. They also carried 37,000,000 more tons of bituminous coal during the ten months ending October 31, 1918, than in the same ten months of 1917, and greatly increased quantities of oil and staple commodities. Professor I. L. Sharman, of Michigan University, said that the difficulties were further accentuated by the abnormal business despression of the first six months of 1919. The unfavorable financial showing of the first eleven months were owing to the fact that wage increases were in effect from January 1, while the rate increases took effect not much before July 1, and in the latter part of 1919 was largely due to the business paralysis and operating difficulties due to the coal strike. The steps taken by the United States railway administration should at any time bring excellent results, these steps as enumerated by Mr. McAdoo being the elimination of non-essential passenger trains, the common use of freight trains, the unification of terminals, the elimination of circuitous routes, the pooling of repair shops, the consolidation of ticket offices, the reduction of organization staffs, the standardization of equipment, and the maintenance of common time tables.

An admonishing growth in public ownership has taken place in street car services. In England in 1882 but one municipality owned its trolley system. In 1913, a generation later, 171 cities owned their car lines. There are about 30 cities owning their own car systems in the United States and Canada. Seattle, San Francisco and Detroit have recently purchased their street car systems.

The same trend towards municipal control is seen in other public utilities. In United States cities with a population of over 30,000, in round numlists 3,045 municipalities in which the water supply is municipally owned, 1,355 in which it is privately owned, and 37 with mixed ownership. In Ontario there are 150 municipal waterworks systems.

In Peterborough the city took over the waterworks in 1902 Soon after the city acquired the ownership the rates were reduced, and further reductions were made at different times. A new concrete dam was constructed, with a new pumping station and additional hydraulic pump and an auxiliary steam unit to provide for interruptions by anchor ice or from other causes was installed, and yet, previous to the installation of the filtration plant, the net water rate for a five-roomed house with a complete bathroom and 2,000 feet of lawn, was $9.00 a year, compared with $14.40 charged by the water company when the system was purchased by the city, a difference of $5.40 a year. When the filtration plant was completed in 1921 at a cost of about $350,000.00 the rates had to be increased to take care of its operation and the increased demands for interest, and some vigorous remarks were made about the increase. Yet a comparison of the rates that were charged by the water company with the rates at present charged shows that while the water company's net rate for a five-roomed house with a complete bathroom and 2,000 feet of lawn was, as I have said, $14.40, the present net rate for the same service is $13.64, so that the municipal plant is giving that service in filtered water at a less charge than was paid for unfiltered water, besides the citizens having been saved thousands of dollars between 1902 and 1921. It is true, however, that the city council contributes more for water for public purposes. At the same time the requisite sinking funds have been set apart to pay for the works and improvements as the debentures fall due, except in the case of the filter plant.

As to lighting and electric power, a report of a Board of Trade Commission appointed in 1918 in Great Britain to consider the question of electric power supply reported that in 1916 there were 327 electric lighting plants owned by local authorities with capital of £55,000,000, as compared with 230 private plants capitalized at £36,000,000. Great generating plants owned by their respective governments exist in Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, Italy and Japan.

The most important publicly-owned electric enterprise exists in Ontario. In 1903, in response to appeals made to the government, means were provided by which interested municipalities could appoint a commission to investigate and report upon questions involving the supply and distribution of hydro-electric energy. Seven municipalities in Western Ontario resulted in the appointment of a commission which in 1906 made a comprehensive report. In that year the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario was created by legislation. In 1908 by-laws were passed by thirteen municipalities authorizing contracts with the commission for a supply of electrical power from Niagara Falls. At first and for several years the commission purchased power from a company which developed it and the commission transmitted it to the municipalities. By the end of 1910 approximately 1,000 horsepower was being transmitted to a number of municipalities. In 1920 the load was 356,000 horsepower, and last year it was about 650,000 horsepower. In Western Ontario the commission now develops the power and transmits it for the municipalities, which will own these plants as they are paid for, the money in the meantime being furnished or loaned by the Province, and there the enterprise is one of municipal ownership. In this district, known as Central Ontario, the power developments and transmission lines are owned by the Province, which also owns and operates many of the distributing systems. In this district, in the early days of electrical development, several companies owned power privileges, several of which were developed. In Peterborough, at one time, three companies furnished light and power. The companies in this district were brought up by the Electric Power Company of Toronto, which at the same time, in order to secure control the sources of electrical power and the distributing plants, purchased gas and water systems and the Peterborough street railway, as well as a pulp mill at Campbellford. The City of Peterborough made several attempts to secure a power privilege or development, but was unsuccessful, principally because had to operate in the open and slowly, while the company could and did step in and purchase quickly before the city could act in accordance with the municipal machinery provided in the law. Finally, in 1914, Peterborough having, after a long struggle, secured the necessary legislation, purchase the distributing system of the Peterborough Light Power Co., which was one of the companies controlled by the Electric Power Co. This was its first break in the monopoly that company had in this district—and it so far unscrambled the eggs. In 1916, the Province purchased all the holdings, twenty-two companies in all, of the Electric Power Company, and since then the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has operated these properties for the Province, including the gas plant and street railway in Peterborough, waterworks systems in other places, and the pulp mill.

The policy of the Commission in all the systems it operates is to deliver the power to the municipalities at cost. They are billed each month at a rate per horse-power, and at the end of the year the accounts are adjusted, and each municipality is charged with any shortage or credited with any surplus...

The Ontario Commission operates 13 systems, 22 hydraulic developments, and serves 239 municipalities. The value of the plants operated by by the Commission is $160,753,504.00, and the value of the distributing distributing systems operated by the municipalities is $42,706,840.00. The number of customers served is 365,864.

In Peterborough the rates have been materially reduced since the city took over the electrical distributing system in 1914, although the increase in operating expenses has been considerable, because of the advance in the cost of material and labour. Taking the quantity of electricity supplied in the last seven years, and comparing what the people would have paid for that service at the rates which were charged by the company, with what they did pay to the city, the saving to the citizens in the seven years has been as follows:

1917	$ 74,101.30
1918	122,825.97
1919	150,825,M
1919	150,726.04
1920	205,355.71
1921	262,794.02
1922	302,708.64
1923	341,994.68
Total in 7 years	$1,460,506.36

The saving in 1923 was equal to 19.6 on the dollar on the assessment of the city for municipal purposes. Even that does not tell the whole story. In making the comparison, I have assumed that the Light and Power Company charged for power at the rate of $20.00 per horse-power per year for the average load, but the company charged on the basis of the installed motor capacity, which would make the cost considreably higher, and they also charged a higher rate than $20.00 to customers who used less than ten horse-power. So that the saving to the power users was much more than the figures given show. In addition to all that, the lines taken over by the city were in poor condition. A number of them have been rebuilt, and the work of rebuilding is going on. To further improve the service, a new sub. or distributing station, has been erected, with new transformers and other equipment, and the Utilities Commission expects to carry this extra expense without any increase in the rates. Since 1914, $36,586.82 has been set aside for sinking funds to retire the debentures as they fall due, and $40,253.56 for depreciation reserve, and the department has had a surplus of $62,081.41, which has been used in extensions and improvements.

Banking has been regarded as an intricate finabcial business that governments should not undertake to carry on. In Canada, however, the Dominion Government has for many years conducted a saving bank business, and in two Provinces, Ontario being one of them, the Provincial Governments have established banks for taking deposits and making loans. In a few countries, general banking business is done by the governments, as in Australia and the Swiss Cantons, and in Germany, at any rate before the war. Birmingham (England) opened a municipal bank about three years ago, taking deposits from a penny up, and in the first two-and-a-half years its deposits amounted to $15,000,000.00. The Commonwealth Bank of Australia makes a profit of $4,000,000.00 a year.

Sickness insurance has been introduced in about one-half the countries of Europe. Compulsory old age insurance exists in Germany, Luxemburg and France, and old age pensions in Great Britain, France, Denmark, Iceland, Australia and New Zealand; ordinary life insurance in New Zealand and Italy, and fire insurance in New Zealand and in some of the Swiss Cantons. In New Zealand the insurance rates were reduced 33 per cent. The Canadian Government has an annuity system and a system of insurance for returned soldiers. In Alberta some municipalities contract with physicians for medical attention for the inhabitants.

Before the War, Prussia owned 345 groups of coal mines; the New Zealand government produced one-eighth of its whole local coal supply; and Russia, Austria, Hungary, Sweden, Serbia, and Holland owned and operated a number of mines.

There is a broad line of demarcation between public ownership, as advocated in England, the United States and Canada, and the system the Soviet Government of Russia tried to establish. In Russia confiscation was carried out under a system of rule by the proletariat; in the other countries the demand is for public ownership under a democratic system of government and without confiscation.

Among the benefits that it is claimed would follow from public ownership are:

The elimination of the waste of competition without subjecting the community to the tyranny of a private monopoly.

The abolition of the present unjust unequal distribution of wealth based on the private ownership of the vital industries of the nation. The private owners, not satisfied with fair profits, enhance their returns by means of watered stock and other methods.

The regulation of prices in such a way as to encourage the use of commodities and services which best conserve human happiness, and to discourage the use of those of less real utility.

Giving to the producer a share in the ownership and the control of the industrial life of the country and a sense of security in employment.

The development of higher incentives than that of profit-making among the administrators and creative minds of the country.

The abolition of the chief causes of class and national warfare, namely, the operation of industry for profit instead of for communial service.

It is pointed out that public ownership has succeeded in many lines to private ownership is not always successful, of which Canada has had a demonstration in its Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific railways; that governments can organise and control industry successfully, as was shown, nationally and even internationally, during the war; that men will work earnestly for other motives than profit when there is an incentive that appeals to them, as

Teach your child internal cleanliness

Washing Cleans Only The Skin

THE mother who permits constipation in her baby or older child is risking the health, even the life of her little one.

It must be remembered that an infant is helpless, unable to tell that constipation is making its life miserable. Consequently the mother must be able to recognize signs of constipation in her baby. Convulsions, night terrors, grinding the teeth in sleep, feverishness, fretfulness and such symptoms—any of these may indicate that poisons from baby's stagnant intestine are flooding the little body.

In older children biliousness, coated tongue, loss of appetite warn the mother that constipation is present. Constipation, unchecked in youth, may lead to serious consequences. In constipation, according to intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Only Aggravate Constipation

The mother should not resort to laxatives. A noted authority says that laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

More Important Than Soap and Water

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in children's and general hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Let your infant or child have Nujol regularly—and see rosy cheeks, clear eyes and happiness return once more.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol yourself as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH FATHERS AND SONS BANQUET TOGETHER

High Ideals Set For Each by the Other and Way to Harmony and Success Pointed by Speakers -- Prodigal Fathers Mentioned.

The fathers and sons of St. Paul's congregation sat down together last night, at their annual banquet, and to-day must have a better understanding of each other as a result, a better knowledge of the high ideals that the one has for the other. As no man can be a hero to his valet, so it was demonstrated last night that no father can enjoy the confidence and esteem of his son unless in his daily life and conversation he lives up to a certain high standard that the young fellows have set. The sons are not the only members of the family that ocasionally develope into prodigals and in moral tatters return to the family nest begging forgiveness for their transgressions. And they will be forgiven if they show the spirit of true repentance and a desire to do better in the future.

The banquet was provided by the members of the Ladies' Aid and about 200 men and boys sat down to the tables, with T. J. W. Wallace, Pres., of the Men's Society, acting as toastmaster. Beside him sat W. H. Hill, one of the veteran members of the congregation, whose birthday was yesterday, and who received the hearty congratulations of his fellow banquetters, all of whom joined in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Hill's age was not stated but whatever it is he does not look it, being one of the earliest-looking of the fathers who sat the the boards.

The Musical Programme.

Alex. Dick, with his usual vigour, led the singing, every member of the audience being supplied with a copy of the songs to be rendered. These included selections prepared especially for the occasion, many of the familiar old favorites and several clever parodies of standard pieces.

Mr. Dick proved an exacting choir master and insisted on repetitions until he had his singers perform their vocal exercises to his liking. M. B. Chenhall and his son Arthur took turns at the piano.

The Toast List.

The first toast on the list was "The Fathers," which was proposed in a neat speech by one of the boys, Bruce Fraser, who g.ve the parents all that was due them in the way of regard. After all, there is no one, the speaker said, so ready and able as a father, to get a boy out of trouble.

This toast was responded to by H. O. Fisk, who in common with the other elderly speakers, made his remarks short, as it was felt that the ocasion was one upon which the young fellows should be given the right of way.

H. R. H. Kenner, who has had an excellent opportunity to study juvenile nature, proposed the toast of "The Boys." In his response, Gordon Pogue reviewed the parable of the prodigal son so that it read, "Son, I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy father." The young speaker presented generous and charitable treatment to meet such cases, and erring and repentent fathers have nothing to fear. The elders need not arrogate to themselves the spirit of toleration.

The boys joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" with the elders in their mind, and the fathers rising to their feet, rendered the same selection as a compliment to the young fellows, with unmistakable enthusiasm.

F. J. A. Morris read a story, "The Hobby Horse," interesting to both classes in the audience.

One of the novel features of the musical programme introduced by Choirmaster Dick was to have half the audience join in singing "Pack All Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," while the other half, in a spirit of rivalry, rendered "It's a long way to Tipperary."

Character Reading.

H. B. Cowan gave an interesting address, illustrated with living subjects, on "As Others See Us," this being really a lecture on character reading from a phrenological examination of men and boys chosen from the audience, and asked to take seats on the platform. Mr. Cowan revealed the characteristics of each, in some cases with startling frankness. According to the system of the service which he had adopted, there are three classes of temperament: the mental, the motive and the vital, the first two being emphasized by the speaker. Principal Kenner of the Collegiate Institute was taken as an outstanding type of the first, in which intellectuality predominates. The man with the motive temperament is one who demands action in others, and who is the embodiment of energy himself. Members of this class are not lacking among the men of St. Paul's.

The men who most nearly approaches perfection, however, is the one who combines in his own person the mental and the motive, whose mind and body are in perfect accord, neither having been developed at the expense of the other. D. Finnie was taken by this new professor of phrenology as the representative of this combination. He was asked to stand so that the audience might see for themselves his fine physical proportions. Mind and matter in Mr. Finnie attain the ideal combination.

Before the happy gathering broke up President Wallace proposed that the members of the Ladies' Aid be given an expression of thanks in the usual way for the splendid banquet which they had provided, and the hearty applause that followed the suggestion was the answer of the audience to the toastmaster's suggestion.

Dec. 4, 1922.

Difference between the Old Rate Charged by the Peterborough Light and Power Company and the Present Rate Charged by the Hydro Commission.

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Last year, 1921, the Utilities Commission furnished 2,027,611 K.W.H. of power to domestic consumers 1,964,887 K.W.H. to commercial consumers, and 4,772 H.P. for power. The rates for these services charged by the Peterborough Light and Power Company when the city took over the light and power business were 7 cents per K.W.H. for domestic use, 10 cents per K.W.H. for commercial purposes, and $20.00 per H.P. for power. In 1921, the Utilities Commission received for domestic service $59,506.10, for commercial use $35,364.67, and for power $76,195.98.

The cost of doing business of all kinds—the cost of material and labour—had increased considerably between 1914 and 1921. Yet the following comparison of what the people would have paid at the Peterborough Light and Power Company's rates and what they did pay in 1921, will show that, despite the increased cost of material and labour, the people saved much money:

Received by the Commission	59,506.10
Saving to the people		$82,425.97	$103,006.21
Commercial light, 1,964,887 K.W.H. at 10c	$196,488.70
Recevied by the Commission	35,364.67
Saving by the people		161,124.03	186,464.36
Power, 4,772 H.P. at $20.00	$95,440.00
Received by the Commission	76,195.98
Saving to the people		19,244.02	13,238.07
Total saving to the people in 1921		$262,794.02	$302,708.64
1 920			205,383.71
1921			262,794.02
Total saving in 5 years			$815,803.04

This is an amount saved by the people of Peterborough in one year, equal to over 17 mills on the dollar of the whole assessment for municipal purposes of that year.

Taking the five years from 1917 to 1921 inclusive, the saving to the people on light and power has been:

1917	$ 74,101.30
1918	122,825.97
1919	150,726.04

Yours truly,
ROBERT HICKS,
Chairman Util. Com.

PLAN TO APPROPRIATE GAS COMPANY'S PLANT

TORONTO, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Early this morning the City Council, by a vote of fifteen to seven, decided to petition the Legislature during the current session for authority to make an audit of the Consumers' Gas Company's books with a view to ascertaining the basic costs of the production of gas, and for power to appropriate the company's plant should such a step be deemed advisable. This action followed a bitter attack on Controller Hacker by Alderman McBride, who charged the Controller with having made statements relative to the Gas Company's charges which he could not substantiate.

IMP AND GENIUS

BY GEORGE BRITT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 8.—Imp and genius dwell together in the chubby body of 6-year-old Clyde Maxam.

How to drive out one and retain the other has been the problem baffling Milwaukee physicians and psychopaths for four years.

But it can be done, specialists declare.

Challenged by the scientific problem, and implored by the child's despairing parents, they are seeking to develop little Clyde into a man who will express his "genius self."

Meanwhile the child lives his contradictory, jangled life.

One moment he shows intelligence far above his years; the next, he may explode in a tantrum and hurl a knife at his mother.

His memory is remarkable, and he has a mechanical knack exhibited in operating a complicated electric train.

Usually he is quite affected, but when the strange cloud hovers he will attack his parents at once, displaying abnormal strength, nearly strangled his father.

Music infuriates him.

Clyde's violent outbreaks began when he was 2 years old, following a spell of pneumonia. During his illness he was unconscious for more than two days.

The case now is in charge of Dr. Raul Rupp, who is studying the boy in a sanitarium. Dr. H. Douglas Singer and Dr. David M. Levy, Chicago psychopatic experts to whom the case was described, agreed that Clyde's aberration is probably due to uncontrolled emotion.

And the child's brilliance of mind, his genius, would be preserved under the treatment they suggested.

"In a similar case I had, a boy was an egocentric," says Dr. Levy. "The world centered in his personality. He was the deity and recognized no guidance or restraint. He fought his parents as in this case. And we did him a great deal of good at the Chicago Institute for Juvenile Research.

"The treatment may sound prosaic. But it is simply to put him in an environment of order and calm and insure plenty of rest. Then let him vent his emotional outbursts on inanimate objects—chopping down trees and digging in a garden. Finally there is supervised play with other children.

CONSTABLES GET NOTICE TO QUIT

Harry Young and William Welch Given Notice by Police Commission in Effort to Keep Within Council Allowance.

The police constables on whose necks the guillotine of civic economy fell yesterday were Harry Young and William H. Welch. Notices of their dismissal were handed them yesterday afternoon, and they are given until the end of the month to find new positions.

In making the dismissals the Police Commissioners made very clear that they had nothing against the men, and they were hard put to it to decide which men should go.

Constable Harry Young was taken on the Peterborough police force on September 1, 1918, and in point of service on this force there are eight men junior to him. He served overseas from early 1915 until 1918, being twice wounded.

Constable William Welch was taken on the Peterborough force on December 23, 1921, and in point of service there is one man senior to him. Both the constables concerned in this reduction are married and each has one child.

G.W.V.A. AUXILIARY REPORTS GOOD WORK

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G. W. V. A., was held last evening, Mrs. R. J. Devey presiding. There was a good attendance at the meeting, which saw the inclusion of six new members on the roll. It was reported that an amount in excess of $400 had been spent since January in the relief work in which the ladies interest themselves. Meetings every Wednesday are held for sewing, which is also used for the same purpose.

FRANCE TRIES TO BRING BACK SICK FRANC TO HEALTH

The French Saw German Marks Fall With Swiftness of An Avalanche.

BY MILTON BRONNER.

PARIS, Mar. 11.—Every patriotic Frenchman is sitting at the bedside of the sick franc, feeling its pulse and trying to restore it to health and strength.

It is the preoccupation of the nation. Go up to see what Frenchmen are reading on the bulletin boards and you will find—the latest quotations on the franc in New York and London. Pick up the newspapers and on the first page prominently displayed you will see the course of the franc in the money markets of the world.

Go to the theatre and in the intermissions there is flashed on the screen a call to help the franc by refusing to buy goods from countries whose money is worth more.

The French saw Russian rubles become scraps of paper. They saw Polish money become a drug on the market. They saw German marks fall with the swiftness of an avalanche.

So the French went all to pieces when one morning they saw the franc begin to tumble until finally a dollar bought almost 24 instead of a normal five. They blamed the Germans. They blamed the English. They blamed international finances. And, finally, they got sensible and began to lay some of the blame at their own doors.

They found these factors making for the fall in the value of the franc:

1—The huge deficit in the budget for reparation of the devastaged regions.

2—Continued borrowings from the people and failure to repay the Bank of France part of the huge sums promised it.

3—France's heavy debts to America and England with no attempt to pay either principal or interest.

With elections coming on no government likes to raise the taxes. That is exactly what Poincare had to do.

The government decided to balance the budget for reparation of northern France instead of having a deficit of over six billion francs. This it expects to do by the following means:

Raise 3630 millions by a tax increase of 20 per cent.

Raise 354 millions by various new taxes.

Secure 250 millions by putting on the books property that should have been taxed and was omitted.

These measures were not proposed without tremendous criticism. It was claimed this was an admission of the failure of the Ruhr invasion; that higher taxes meant an increase in the cost of living.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page, a charming country girl, falls in love with

Bert Traymore, a fascinating philanderer, whom a chance meeting brings into her quiet life.

Janet Mercer, Prudence's dearest friend, an older woman, plain but clever, is masseuse to the delicate child of

Mrs. Vansittart, a pleasure-loving woman-of-the-world, owner of Winston Towers, a beautiful summer home, which she fills with visitors.

Virginian Dale, Mrs. Vansittart's ward, is a blase beauty who counts Traymore among her many swains. She is deeply interested in

Peter Armstrong, a brilliant young inventor, clever, ambitious and reliable. He is already fond of little Prudence whom he has met once.

Traymore fails to keep an engagement with Prudence, and later the same evening, she hears him making love to Virginia. She cries herself to sleep. Virginia, in the meantime has come to realize that she really loves Peter, and she is resolved to capture his heart.

Virginia's beauty is preserved at the cost of much time and effort.

Traymore makes a lame excuse for breaking the tea date, but Prudence is too relieved to be skeptical. She is invited to a ball at Winston Towers.

CHAPTER XV.

A Wall-Flower.

Winston Towers was gay with lights and music and delightful frocks and the laughter of excited guests.

The ball was actually in progress!

Great banks of flowers, from the hothouses were massed at one end of the dance-room, giving out a heady fragrance, and almost concealing the orchestra which had come to grace the great occasion.

Colored electric lamps peeped out from festoons of smilax on the walls, and dangled from long chains of flowers and greenery that were slung like ropes across the huge room.

The parquet floor was slippery as a sheet of ice, and 'gave' delightfully under the tireless feet of the dancers.

"Quite an Arabian Night's scene" remarked an elderly, stout gentleman to Miss Prudence Page, who, with a palpitating heart and straining eyes, was standing, back to the wall, and gazing among the kaleidoscopic throng for one glimpse of HIM who had become everything to her.

"Yes, yes," she vaguely answered, searching feverishly. Where was he? Why didn't he come, when he knew that she was here?

"There goes the lovliest young woman in America, went on the complacent voice beside her. "The toast of the town. Virginia Dale. A beauty, isn't she?"

"Yes, yes." A pang shot through the girl's heart at that name.

Virginia, in an iridescent gown that held every gleaming color of the rainbow, and that clung to her lovely figure like the fish-scales on a mermaid, floated by in the arms of old Clyde Cumbermere, the richest man for miles around.

He was gazing into her eyes in a fascinated fashion, to the obvious irritation of his stout, plain wife, who was standing near Miss Prudence, staring at the spectacle of her lord and master's enthrallment, with tight and angry lips.

"Old termagant, isn't she? murmured the elderly man on Prudence's left. "But who can blame us old codgers for taking a little fling occasionally? And he ogled Prudence in a hopeful manner.

But the girl was dull, he finally decided, after several fruitless sallies that misfired.

"Pretty—very pretty—but not sufficient sparkle." ('Sparkle' was essential to his jaded palate.)

He moved off.

Prudence didn't even see his going, so intent was she on finding Bert. Where on earth was he? Was he ill? If he didn't turn up soon, she'd go straight to Mrs. Vansittart, who was fluttering from room to room, like an hysterical peacock, preening her feathers and calling greetings here and there, and she'd ask where Bert was . . .

The music of the orchestra had ceased, and a babel of tongues took its place. There were black coats Virginia Dale . . . a whole bevy of them . . . and—yes—the set of one pair of slender shoulders and the shine of one fair head, smooth as a boot-button, was like Bert's . . . if he'd turn around, she could see . . .

"That young woman may have beauty, but she has no breeding," said the angry voice of Mrs. Cumbermere beside her. "In my young days, girls were not so bold." She glared across the room at the enchantress.

With a sinking heart, Prudence felt that this elderly dowager and she were sisters-in-distress . . . abandoned . . .

"Don't you care to dance, my dear? Or are you a wall-flower not from choice?" went on the tactless dame, with a sardonic smile.

"I—I don't know anybody here," faltered the young girl.

"Oh, that doesn't matter much. Men suit themselves, and if they take a fancy to a girl up they'll come, introductions or no introductions."

The orchestra struck up a lively air, and—as it did so—the crowd around Miss Virginia lessened, and the blond young man swung round, and—yes—he was Bert Traymore!

He stared straight across the room at Prudence, standing solitary by the wall, for the Cumbermere woman had already waddled off to the supper-room, and the young girl was all alone.

"He—he sees me!" No, he hadn't! Why was he frowning? Hesitating? It—it wasn't possible that he wanted to avoid her—Prudence—his girl—his sweetheart—whom he'd vowed he loved?

She couldn't stand it any longer so hurried through the dancers around him, overtaking him by the door.

"Bert!" Her breath caught in a little sound that was half laugh, half sob. "Bert! How funny! You didn't see me, dear——"

He halted, a queer expression on his good-oloking face.

"So it's you, Prudence, is it? No, I didn't see you." (God! what an ill-made frock she's got on!)

"But—but you looked directly at me, Bert. No, I haven't been dancing. I'm not sure if I could do those steps."

He stared at her critically, poised for flight, but incertain how to get away. She read his thought, and a great lump rose to her throat, so that she couldn't say another word, but just stand there in the doorway, looking dumbly at the man she loved.

A gold-toothed negro in the orchestra was chanting a queer ditty, I had a peculiar applicability to her present plight . . .

"Yo' gotta see Sweetie e-ve-ry night,

Or yo' can't see Sweetie a-tall!"

A couple cannoned into her, so that she nearly lost her balance, and stumbled against young Traymore.

"Steady! You're in the way here." His tones were gruff.

'In the way,' was she? Yes, she knew it. Her face burned with shame. Why had she come where nobody wanted her? Her mother had spoken rightly when she'd said that these people weren't 'in her walk of life at all. She was out of place, and even Bert—her sweetheart— realized it. The frock that she and her mother and Miss Jiggs had sewn with such care and pride was 'countrified' beside the other lovely gowns, and out-of-date.

"I'll find a partner for you," Traymore was saying, in an irritated tone of voice. "Don't look so woe-begone. Here, Jones, I want to present you to Miss Page——"

"Sorry, I'm booked knee deep." And Jones slid by, as slippery as an eel.

"Then you, Travis, I want you to meet Miss Page——"

"Delighted, I'm sure. Now, if you'll excuse me, Miss Page, I'll have to go off and find my partner——"

Travers disappeared.

It was the last straw that broke her fortitude.

"And I, too; I'm booked with Jinny for this dance," said Traymore, awkwardly. "Awfully sorry, Prue, but I must leave you; see you later on."

With a little sob of misery, the girl stumbled through the hall and out into the darkness of the night.

In Tomorrow's Instalment Prudence is Rescued Again.

MISSION PLEA AT WARKWORTH

Rev. Mr. Beckel of Castleton Occupied Methodist Pulpit on Sunday—Personal Items From the District.

WARKWORTH, March 11.—Mr. Clarence Boyce who is attending Albert College at Belleville spent the week-end at the parental home.

Miss Eva Denike, teacher at Grafton, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Denike.

Rev. Beckel of Castleton occupied the pulpit in the Methodist church both morning and evening and gave two interesting and instructive addresses which were based on missions. The subject for the evening service was "The Heralds of Passions." In this address Mr. Beckel spoke of John the Baptist as being the first herald of Jesus Christ and also mentioned Martin Luther, John Wesley, John Knox and many others who have been important heralds for the kingdom of God. The forefathers were mentioned as being heralds for making possible the many advantages that are enjoyed in the present day and the Canadian boys who offered their services in the great war were hearlds for King, country and liberty and who made it possible for Lloyd George to say when on his visit to Canada, the Maple Leaf will be embroidered on the flag of liberty forever.

After an appeal to the people for their loyal support and contributions for missions the service closed with hymn, "From Greenlands icy Mountains."

Miss Fleet Zuefelt has accepted a position as milliner at Chesley, Ont.

Mrs. Jas. H. Angus is spending a few days in Hastings with Mr. and Mrs. S. Stickles

Miss M. Hulhan of Wiarton has returned to take charge of the millinery department for Mr. J. C. Dixon.

Mr .Percy Glover who has spent some time in Oshawa is visiting the parental home.

Your Health

INFLAMED EYES.

Inflamed eyes result frequently from what may be called sympathetic causes. That is, no direct disease in themselves, but from disturbances in the digestive system, bladder troubles, nervous headaches and conditions of eye strain which in time become chronic, through lack of proper treatment at the source.

Temporary red and inflamed eyes, with unsightly lid conditions, may result from severe colds or particu- dusty, windy days.

Nothing is more painful than a small particle of foreign matter in the eye. Never resort to rubbing as a means of removal. It will aggravate rather than relieve the trouble.

If this foreign particle should happen to be a steel-filing or other metallic substance, the danger is often greatly increased. Careful attention and skilled treatment are absolutely necessary. Rubbing will only cause the metal particle to become more firmly embedded in the ball of the eye. The foreign body may sometimes actually penetrate the eyeball by severe rubbing and cause loss of sight.

Dust particles, cinders and such may be removed by closing the eye and placing the finger tip, after thoroughly cleansing, gently but firmly at the tear gland or inner corner of the eye. The tears will wash them out.

In any acute inflammation, the application of cold water is soothing. If the inflammation is well advanced, continued applications of very hot water may help in constricting the blood vessels, reducing swelling and relieving pain.

Do not resort to quack "eye waters" or "eye drops." They usually contain powerful drugs, such as cocoain and atropin and only augment rather than cure your inflamed eyes.

LADY TELLS HOW TO LOSE WEIGHT.

One of These Healthy Creatures With a Healthy Woman's Appetite.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Selena Royle, weight 168 pounds, looked well enough when she played the role of Solveig in Ibsen's "Peer Gent."

Then she was cast for the part of a slim Spanish senorita in "Rust."

It was easy enough for Selena to change from a blond to a brunet senorita. This is the way she cut her 168 pounds down to 128:

"I began with my diet," she explains. "I am one of these healthy creatures with the healthy woman's appetite. I could arise in the morning and look with pleasure upon a baked apple swimming in thick cream, some bacon and eggs and a few slices of buttered toast—with lots of butter. But no more!

"Now I begin my day with an apple only. Then for luncheon I feast on a bowl of soup, a dish of lettuce and a cup of tea. In the evening I join the family at the board and east nearly anything I want if it isn't too starchy or too fat."

After the diet had been rearranged thus she went in for exercise.

"I arranged," she goes on, "with a gymnasium instructor to give me vigorous exercises twice a week at the gym. Two other days each week I fenced for an hour with a fencing instructor, and on the other two I did gymnastic dancing. This took a great deal of time and naturally accomplished reduction quickly. But I think I could have achieved the same results a little more gradually with the daily dozen or any good set of home exercises.

"At the end of summer I had worked myself down to 128 pounds, and had gained in poise, grace and youth. I felt better than ever before and had twice the pep."

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

A real estate mortgage bond is a little slice of a full-grown old-fashioned mortgage.

Many people who are used to the idea of investing in a first mortgage on real estate, hesitate to invest in a real estate mortgage bond. As a matter of fact, the bond is merely a slice of a first mortgage.

It is exactly as though you chose to eat a slice of bread from a large loaf instead of eating a single small loaf. The dough is the same in either case. The slice is a portion of a large article, while the small loaf is complete in itself, though no better for that reason.

Some people feel that the large mortgage which is divided into bonds is much safer than the single small mortgage, for it has the advantage of skilled appraisal and all the safeguards that can possibly be thrown around it—protection and care which the owner of a small mortgage could not possibly afford to give his investment.

A real estate mortgage bond issued by a house of standing and backed by men of known judgment offers a very attractive form of investment for the person with a relatively small sum to invest, as well as for the man of means.

SHOES DESIGNED LIKE NEW HATS.

Heels of Carved Wood Will Be Seen on the Boulevards.

NEW YORK, March 10. — Glance at some of the shoes, pumps, and other footwear just introduced for spring, and you may believe the shoe manufacturers have gone into the millinery business.

Paris seems to have started this escapade of shoe designers into millinery, but New York and Chicago are not far behind. From Chicago comes word that shoes will vie with hats in fanciness and luxury. Models brought here from Paris and others developed in this territory carry out this notion.

Open work, fine stitching, combinations of rare leathers, luxurious colours ,elaborate buckles, jewels — these are America's contributions to her women's shoe styles this spring. But Paris goes much farther.

Heels of carved wood will be seen on the boulevards matching the shoe leather in colour and carrying out the applique pattern that trims the vamp and upper

Since we have worn jewelled hats with success, there is no reason why the jedelled shoe — heel included—should not be popular. So Paris is introducing it to us this season.

There are pumps covered entirely with brilliants or pearl beads, mules with enamelled leather, combinations of kid and velvet, and other striking departures from the general run of shoe designs.

New York—and the rest of America—may soon see them all.

Back of it all is the desire of shoe dealers to educate the people in the proper wear of the various kinds of footwear at proper times. It is economical, they say.

"Ten pairs of shoes,' one explains, 'is a conservative minimum for a well-dressed non-extravagant American woman. Five pairs should be the minimum for a man. But a woman needs shoes for morning, sport, formal, and informal afternoon and evening.' She must have several colours and styles in some of those classes. The business woman needs another style.

"This equipment will repay the cost in correctness of dress, and shoes worn properly and at the right times will give longer wear."

IF LINCOLN HAD OWNED A RADIO.

We Sometimes Wonder How Much Studying He Would Have Done At Night.

Abraham Lincoln as a boy and young man studied far into the night by the flickering light from a fireplace, doing problems in arithmetic with chalk on a shovel. Much of his wisdom and future greatness originated there by the log fire.

We sometimes wonder how much studying Lincoln would have done at night if he owned a radio set. Being decidely human, he undoubtedly would have wasted a lot of time amusing himself with concerts mysteriously through the night.

Radio in moderation is not a waste of time. It provides the entertainment necessary for relaxation, in which the brain's batteries recharge themselves. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. But not as dull as all play and no work.

Many hundreds of thousands of radio bugs devote the entire evening to their receiving sets—even losing needed sleep. They enjoy it, but it gets them nowhere. Some of their radio time could be profitably devoted to studying how to become fitted to hold a better and more responsible job.

The answer in the majority of cases, of course, is that if their spare time weren't monopolized by radio, they'd be wasting it some other way.

The writer pleads guilty to being one of the people inclined to carry radio to excess, thereby wasting valuable time that could more profitably be used for self-improvement.

But radio is not alone in this matter. Back of it all is a fundamental law: Extremes meet, and the best of things can be carried to extremes.

Economy is a virtue. Carried to extremes, to stinginess, it is a vice. Liberality is commendable, but developed to its logical conclusion makes one a spendthrift. Wise is the man who works hard, foolish the man who works too hard. "Sharp dealing" and cunning, carried to extremes, easily can become dishonesty.

So it goes. You like polite people, but there is such a thing as being annoyingly courteous. Fine sentiments are commendable; an extreme tendency this way becomes sickening. We're not sure that it is possible to be too good, though James Whitcomb Riley once brilliantly described a certain man as a fellow without a single redeeming vice.

Unseated Councillor Lost In By-Election.

LINDSAY, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—At a by election for township councillor held in Mariposa township last Friday Mr. G. Corneil was returned over Mr. W. B. Graham by over 200 of a majority. Graham was a member of the council elected last January but was unseated because of also being school trustee. He resigned the latter and ran for council. Today there is talk of upsetting the by-election, it being claimed that the township clerk failed to post up nomination bills as required by the election act.

OMEMEE GOLDEN WEDDING EVENT

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nugent Received Many Gifts and Congratulations —Tribute From Missionary Society.

OMEMEE, March 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nugent, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Thursday last by a reception at their home, were the recipients of congratulations and best wishes from their friends from far and near, and among other remembrances was a beautiful bouquet of daffodils accompanied by the following letter from the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church:—

Omemee, March 6th, 1924.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Nugent,

We are sending this simple floral token on this the 50th anniversary of your wedding day, with the hope that it may express to you our love and good wishes. May you have many returns of this happy occasion.

No doubt, in looking backward over the now short journey, you can think of many peculiar and trying experiences—places where the thorn grew and the way seemed weary and long; but be assured that the prayer of your friends is that, as you travel the Western slope, going towards the 'setting sun,' beauty without and peace within may be your portion, and at last may 'the gates' swing wide open to bid you welcome to the day that shall never end.

Signed on behalf of the W.M.S.,
Mrs. E. W. Rowland, Pres.
Mrs. G. N. Earle, Secy.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and drink it while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

DECLINE BIRTHS IMPERIAL FRANCE

France Was the Most Populous Nation In Western Europe Twenty-Five Years Ago.

By MILTON BRONNER.

PARIS, March 11.—Frenchmen who seriously think about the future of their country are afraid their race is dying out. Unless there are more babies in France there will be an increasingly large deficit of men and women to carry on its agriculture and industries. And a harder struggle to arm itself adequately in case of war.

Scientists say if France had held her own in population, following the war of 1870 with Germany, the latter would never have dared to start the war of 1914.

And, indeed, the figures presented to the foreign investigator are terrifying. France was the most populous nation in western Europe 125 years ago. She had 26 millions of people to Great Britain's 12 millions.

But 60 years ago a rapid decline set in. Seven times in the 12 years before the last war there was an excess of deaths over births. The last time, in 1911, the excess of deaths was 32,000.

Germany Grows.

Yet in Germany, in the years before the war, the average excess of BIRTHS over deaths was 866,338, against only 43,000 in France. Even now, with Germany suffering all kinds of hardships, her figures for 1922 were 513,000 against 70,000 for France.

Figures just issued for the 10 great cities of Paris, Marseilles, Lyons, Bordeaux, Lille, Strasbourg, Nantes, Toulouse, St. Etienne and Havre show a decrease in births for 1923 of 1,631 compared with the preceding year and of 12,455 compared with the year 1921.

Various reasons are given for this decline. One is that the loss of religious faith has brought smaller families. Another is that the inheritance laws cause people to practice birth control.

People Too Poor.

But I believe the real reason has been discovered by a Catholic organization which recently made an intensive study of the economic condition of French workers.

The truth is the workers of France are too poor to have more children.

This may surprise many people who have visited France. They see a country where everybody seems to be at work. They go to big restaurants patronized, not by foreigners, but by the French, and find the natives doing themselves well. The theatres and opera houses, as well as the movies, are packed. But this does not reveal the true conditions in the miserable side streets of the big cities or the slums of the factory towns.

The Catholic society sent out questions aimed at securing the average budget of expenses for necessities of a family consisting of a worker, his wife and four children below 14. Then it inquired as to the average wages of such laborers.

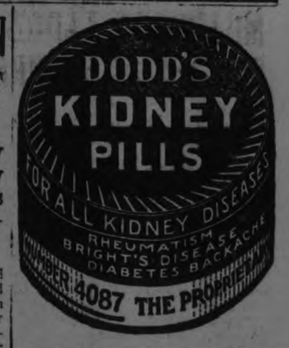
It was found that the average budget required for food for a year was 6,000 francs. For other expenses the general average was 3,000 francs annually.

Can't Meet Expenses.

It was found that the average wage ran from 4,800 to 6,000 francs a year. The inquiry showed that families do not succeed in bridging such a gap by doing extra work.

The result is they live in hovels and slums; they are undernourished; washing clothes is cut down to a minimum; the children grow up puny and sickly. A sickness that entails the need of a doctor and medicines is a burden, and another baby is a misfortune.

That tells the whole story. France is dying because many of its workers can't make enough to live decently and can't afford to have babies.



HOLD A MASS MEETING IN SUPPORL OF O.T.A.

In Meantime Temperance Organizations and Churchet Bombard Government With Resolutions.

TORONTO, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—General organization in opposition to the submission of either a plebiscite or a referendum in connection with the present Ontario Temperance Act is being perfected by prohibition proponents throughout the province, and it is the intention that the culmination of the effort will take place at a general convention and conference called to meet in Massey Hall, Toronto, on Tuesday next. In the meantime, the Ontario Government and members of the Legislature have been heavily bombarded with resolutions of various church and other organizations urging that the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act be given a fair trial by the Ferguson Government under the direction of Attorney General Nickle, before the question is again submitted to the people.

A mass conference here next Tuesday has been summoned under the name of the "annual convention of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance.

R. J. Fleming is president and J. Bailey, acting secretary of the organization. The convention call says A committee of twenty persons representative of different organizations and interests, after many weeks of careful study has arrived at a basis of agreement, upon which it is sincerely hoped that all persons interested in the prohibition cause will unite. It is announced that the present situation in Ontario will be the subject of discussion and that the situation in provinces where there is now a system of sale of liquor under government control will be outlined by representative speakers.

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, which was almost unbearable, and I could not even let the bed clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years, but not so bad until the last eighteen months, and had become so rundown that I cared for nobody, and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was left. I would not consent to that, so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls reach womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to tell some suffering sister of my help, and you can use my name and letter to spread the good news of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines."—Mrs. IDA M. COFFMAN, R. R. 2, Sidell, Ill.

CONGREGATION URGED TO OPPOSE WET MOVE

Rev. R. T. Richards In Sermon at Cavan Said Deplorable Conditions Have Developed In the Canadian Provinces That Adopted Government Control.

CAVAN, March 10.—On Sunday evening the Rev. R. T. Richards delivered, in a very able manner, an address on "The Temperance Situation in Ontario."

In beginning his address, he said that perhaps some thought that this question was one which should not be dealt with from the pulpit, but he considered that it and its effects were among the very greatest evils which had to be contended with, and that all Christian people, by vote and influence should do all in their power to keep Ontario dry.

He proved from statistics, gathered from reliable sources, that the O.T.A. in Ontario, although not perhaps perfect, has not been a failure, as the Moderation League would have us believe.

Grateful to Hearst.

He reviewed the various temperance legislation which has been enacted in this Province, and said the temperance people of Ontario should indeed feel very grateful to Sir William Hearst and Hon. Newton Rowell who, in war time, had united to introduce legislation to prohibit liquor from Ontario as being in the best interests of the successful carrying on of the war.

He showed by figures taken from the Blue Book of British Columbia, that deplorable conditions exist there under Government control of liquor; that deputations from that Province have gone to Ottawa to see what could be done by the Federal Authorities to remedy conditions. In fact, British Columbia is called the "Paradise of Bootleggers."

Government Control.

Mr. Richards reviewed the changing from dry to wet in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and stated that it was the foreign vote which had turned the scale there in favour of liquor, and thought that foreigners coming from countries where the plane of living and moral conditions were so much lower than in Canada, could not be sufficiently educated in Canadian standards of living to allow them to vote after a few years of residence here.

He quoted Government statistics and opinions of Catholic clergymen that the Government control of liquor had only put a cloak of respectability over it, that the evils still existed. Much liquor is consumed, bootlegging flourishs, but there are fewer prosecutions by the police.

Rev. Mr. Richards had words of praise for the Attorney-Generals of Ontario who had conscientiously endeavoured to enforce the O.T.A.

Against Referendum.

He concluded by asking whether the people desired these conditions to exist in Ontario. If not, they must not listen to the Moderation League, telling us that everything will be very fine under Government control and that the O.T.A. is a failure.

Every man and woman must be prepared to do his and her utmost to bring pressure to bear on the Government to show them that the majority of the people of Ontario do not wish a referendum. It is a needless expense. But if a referendum is taken, let each person register a vote against it and use all his influence to help keep liquor from our Province.

Mr. Richards said he would be quite willing to meet any speaker from the Moderation League to discuss this question on the platform.

Tuxis Boys' Social.

The Tuxis Boys of Cavan Methodist Church held their third annual basket social on Friday evening, March 7th. A very good crowd turned out to help the boys make it a success.

The boys put on the programme themselves, which consisted of songs, dialogues, monologues, etc. A couple of choruses were given by all the boys.

Two dialogues by Oakley Carley, Clifford Elliott, Sam Simcus, Willie Swain, were full of fun and highly entertaining. There was a recitation by Rev. R. T. Richards, and a monologue by Earl Houston. Mr. John Benson also gave some selections on his accordion.

There were some twenty baskets sold, which ranged in price from 75c to $2.90.

Paper bags at ten cents were passed around for those who did not care to buy baskets. Coffee was also served. The proceeds amounted to about forty-five dollars.

VEILED TRICORNE.

The Venetian tricorne hats, so popular for wear with the spring tailleur, are a bit severe for most features but become very flattering if draped subtly with one of this season's fashionable veils.

COST OF VICTORY PUZZLING FRENCH.

No Increase in Salary For Government Employees--Millions For War.

BY MILTON BRONNER

PARIS, March 11—"The producer gets four centimes for his cabbage. The consumer pays 115 centimes for it."

"What does the government do, faced by these facts? It makes speeches?

"No increase in salary for the little government employes, but millions for war."

These are samples of signs carried in big automobiles that traversed various streets of Paris the other morning. It was a way of avoiding the police prohibition of paardes by people who wanted to protest against the high cost of living.

It is true the manifestations were Communists. But even people who abhor the Reds and all their ways, applauded this stunt, because all working class France, small shop keepers and minor officials are feeling the pinch of the "vie chere," which is the French equivalent for our familiar "H. C. of L."

Who Won the War?

The average Frenchman cant' understand why a country which was successful in war, which raises a great deal of its own food, and has very little unemployment, should see the cost of living go up five years after the war is over.

According to statistics recently published, the trend in almost everything that the average man or woman needs is upward. Taking 100 as the index figure the cost of foodstuffs in general is 422, and the cost of manufactured articles is 509.

And in France the same phenomenon is manifesting itself that I observed in my various trips in Germany—the depreciation in the value of the French franc is not being followed in the same proportions by a rise in the restaurants and markets.

In France, as in Germany, the prices of things rise as the money of the country drops in value. But the rise is a slower one.

And once more the same feeling that I observed in Germany is becoming manifest in France. When the German mark first began to tumble, the Germans resented the presence of the foreigner with mony of high value. He looked upon the stranger as a leech coming to live cheaply at the expense of a suffering country.

Foreigners' Tax!

A double standard of prices was soon in vogue in many shops, theaters, hotels and restaurants. There was one price for the German and another and very much higher price for the foreigner.

The other day a prominent Frenor journalist said the German example was excellent. He said a hotel which charged a Frenchman 50 francs ought to charge a foreigner, whose money was up, several times that amount. He advocated the French boycotting shops which catered to the foreigner.

And a French deputy has introduced a bill providing for a 20 per cent tax upon the hotel bills of foreigners coming to Paris.

MILLBROOK LADIES SUCCESSFUL EUCHRE

Rebekah Lodge Were the Hostesses—Annual Day of Prayer in Churches.

MILLBROOK, March 11. — The Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, held a successful euchre on Thursday in the I.O.O.F. Hall, thirty tables being in use during the evenand, and a thoroughly enjoyable time was spent.

The social evenings for which the Rebekahs are hostesses are always popular, and their invitations are welcomed.

The rule followed on Thursday evening was that the winning lady should move up one table and the losing gentleman, down. A five-point game was played at the head table. Play stopped about 11 p.m., and the prize-winners were announced by Bro. J. A. Vance, P.G. Mrs. T. H. Bradley won the lady's first prize, and Stanford Gilmour that awarded to the gentleman with highest points. Mrs. W. E. Ball received the lady's consolation, while Mr. Armstrong and Mr. T. W. McCamus cut for the gentleman's ,the latter being presented with a bottle of shoe polish bearing the legend, "If you can't shine at the head, you may at the foot."

The other prizes were dainty china bon-bon dish, pack of cards, and powder puff respectively.

Quite a number of the guests remained for an hour or two after supper was served, and a pleasant dance was enjoyed before the gathering finally dispersed.

Week of Prayer.

The annual day of prayer arranged by the combined executives of the Woman's Missionary Societies, and participated in by all the Auxiliaries in Dominion, was fittingly observed on Friday at 3 p.m., in the Methodist church, Mrs. (Rev.) S. T. Tucker presiding. Following the custom of previous years, the Auxiliaries of the three local churches united for the service of intercession, and a most helpful and inspiring gathering was the result. The fact that their sister societies throughout Canada were engaged, boh in rural and urban centres, in a similar service, lent an added solemnity and sense of power to the meeting. Leaders for the different periods when special subjects of intercession, Scripture lessons, responsive readings, etc., were to be taken up, had been suitably arranged beforehand, the programme as sent out from the headquarters in Toronto being followed as closely as was thought expedient. Those taking part from the Auxiliary of St. Thomas' church being Mrs. (Canon) Allen, Mrs. C. McNeil, Mrs. H. Mulligan and Miss Annie Armstrong; from Grace Presbyterian church, Mrs. (Rev.) G. S. Gervan, Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Mrs. J. R. Eakins; from the Methodist church, Mrs. (Rev.) S. T. Tucker, Mrs. H. Rea, Misses S. Hetherington and P. Burnham.

Francis Ridley Havergal's beautiful prayer hymn "Take my life and let it be," Joseph Scriven's "What a Friend we have in Jesus," and J. Marriott's "Let there be light," were the hymns sung during the service.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Earton

THE LITTLE GIANT BOY

"Where did you come from?" he giggled.

The next person the Twins met in Beanstalk Land was a little boy—a little boy for Beanstalk Land, but a very big boy for any other place. The Twins were not half way to his shoe tops.

"What's the matter, little boy?" called Nancy as loudly as she could.

But whether it was because she was so tiny or because he was making such a noise with his wailing, the little Beanstalk boy didn't hear a word.

"Boo, hoo, hoo!" he roared. "Oh, oh, boo, hoo, hoo!"

"What's wrong?" yelled Nick at the top of his lungs, making a ring with his hands around his mouth at the same time, so that really almost anybody would have thought there was a fire somewhere.

But still the boy didn't hear.

"Climb up and shout in his ear," suggested Nancy. "Perhaps we can help him.

So up climbed Nick, with the help of his little green shoes. He did it so quickly and the little boy was crying so hard that the Beanstalk boy never noticed that he had a visitor until he heard a voice right beside his ear wanting to know what the trouble was.

"Wh—who are you?" cried the Beanstalk boy. "Are you a fairy or something?"

"No, just me," laughed Nick. "I mean, just I. And the other half of me is down there on the ground beside you."

"Ooo! I'm afraid to look," shivered the boy. "How can you be alive if there is only half of you?"

"Don't be afraid," Nick assured him. "We're twins, you see."

So the Beanstalk boy peeped first at Nancy, and then taking Nick off his shoulder with his huge hand, looked at him, too. "Where did you come from?" he giggled. "You're awfully cute! Are you fairies, or toys come to life, or what? I never saw anything like you before.

So Nick told him as loudly as he could how they had planted a magic bean like Jack's, and when a big beanstalk grew suddenly to the sky, they had climbed it as quickly as they could. And that was how they happened to be in Beanstalk Land.

"What were you crying for?" asked Nick suddenly.

"Crying?" Oh I forgot, so I was," exclaimed the boy. "Boo, hoo, hoo! I have to go to the dentist's and have a tooth fixed at 10 o'clock, and I don't want to." And he started to cry all over again, so hard that Nick thought he was going to be drowned.

"Where do you live?" shouted Nick.

"O—over there!" sobbed the boy. "Over there in that red house, and it's nearly 10 o'clock now."

Nick slid down to the ground, where Nancy was waiting. "Say," he declared, "I don't blame him for yelling. I don't like to go to the dentist's either. Perhaps we can do something to help him. What do you say if we go over to the red house and see what can be done."

"I don't thing we ought to do a thing," declared Nancy. "If he has to go to the dentist's, that's all there is to it. I hate cowards."

But Nick wasn't so sure. "We fellows have to stick together," said he. "And I'm going to do something. You can come along if you like."

So poor Nancy had to go whether she wanted to or not.

A BRILLIANT GATHERING AT KING'S FIRST LEVEE

LONDON, March 11. — (United Press).—The King's first levee of the season was held at Buckingham Palace to-day, with the army, air force and diplomatic corps in dazzling full dress. Ambassador Kellogg wore the long trousered evening suit, which is the prescribed levee dress. The entire American Embassy staff was present, with other foreign legations.

HOW VITAL NERVE FORCE WINS THE JOYS OF LIFE

It Keeps Our Bodies Filled With Energy and Rekindles the Fires of Strength.

A boy wakes and hustles out of bed. He has had enough of bed; he's got to get out in the world and see what's going on—and make something go on. His long sweet sleep has renewed him, restored his vital energy. The only way to keep him in bed is to tie him there.

That boy is on the run when he hits the floor. It takes the whole family to hold him long enough to tie his shoes. That boy has what many men and women lose when they ought still to be young; the vital force and energy that makes a real woman with all the charm of full physical vigor.

That boy has all of his vital nerve force. It has not been impaired by illness, overwork, worry or mental strain—so he is filled with energy that will not be denied. In some men and women the vitality of youth lasts all their lives. They do not know what it means to have weakened or shattered nerves, to have under nourished bodies, to lack strength and purpose.

Such men and women are everlastingly joyous. In work or play, business or pleasure they succeed because of the vital force that is in them.

When our systems no longer respond to Nature's strength building processes we must look to our nerves if we wish to restore ourselves. Our nerves are the positive forces of our lives. We must nourish our nerves, feed them the elements they require. If we suffer from general physical weakness, poor appetite, impoverished blood and nervous depression; if we are too thin, pale, anaemic looking we should begin at once to rekindle the fires of strength.

Such men and women ought to go to their druggist's without delay and begin the home treatment of Wincarnis, the nerve restorative and blood builder. Wincarnis nourishes the nerve system. In twelve days see the improvement this home treatment brings. Wincarnis treatment costs less than ten cents a day. You will no longer worry over failing strength and exhausted nerves.

WORLD REVOLT SOVIET SCHEME

Seven Organizations Are Working For Universal Revolution—Boring In Everywhere.

RIGA, March 11.—The Soviet press on Wednesday was devoted almost entirely to the fifth anniversary of the Third International. Articles by leading Communists were freely printed, all on the theme of how to bring about universal revolution.

In the Izvestia, Kolaroff, General Secretary of the International, describes seven auxiliary organizations, created and supported by the Third International for revolution abroad. These are the Red International Trade Union, working hand in hand with the Third International; the League of Communist Youth, politically controlled by the committee of the Third International; an auxiliary instrument for the international struggle called the M.O.P.R., or Society for the Relief of Destitute Revolutionaries Abroad; the Co-operative Section, which aims to convert all workmen's co-operatives throughout the world into an instrument for revolution; the Sport International, which is to combine all forms of proletarian sport organizations for revolutionary strife; the Women's Section, working specially for the emancipation of Oriental Women; and the Peasants' International.

The majority of articles lay emphasis on the fact that the Russian Communist Party conducts all the affairs of the Third International. Writing in the Pravda, Clara Zedtkin says:

"Indisputably, the Russian Communist Party conducts the affairs of all the world's proletarian organisations. The Bolshevist victory proclaimed socialism on Russian soil, but the revolution towards our beautiful goal must be continued on an international scale by the proletariat in highly developed capitalist countries."

Zinovief, speaking as chairman of the Third International, referred to the statements made abroad that the Societ Govermnent was merely a branch of the Third International, and said:

"Such views do not daunt us. We know we ourselves are the Soviet Government in Moscow and in Leningrad, our home."

He added that Communist progress was slower than they originally hoped. The Communists now swayed only one-sixth of the world, but in five years they would bring half the world under the Soviet sway.

The "Oriental specialist," Katajame, states that although the International was successfully sowing Communist seeds in Japan, China and Korea, they must, more than hitherto, devote attention to those countries, and also to India, Java, Egypt and Turkey.

In an editorial article, the Izvestia of March 4 discusses the failure of the Rome disarmament conference, and declares that though Soviet Russia more than any power hates war, she must increase her fleet 490,000 tons but will agree to 280,000 tons only. the Baltic and Black Seas are close to all outside warships, and also i the Korean Gulf is demilitarized an the warships taken by General Wrangel and Admiral Stark returned t Russia.

It says Russia's interests require the creation of a stronger fleet.

PRESENTATION TO FOUR SCHOLARS

Bailieboro School Teacher and Pupils Honor Young Folks Who Are Moving With Their Families From the District.

BAILIEBORO, March 11.—On Friday afternoon, before the closing exercises, the teacher and scholars of the public school here made a presentation to four of the pupils who are soon to leave this school.

Miss Kathleen Bateman read an address to Miss Helen Dawson, while Miss Ruth Dawson presented the gift, a beautiful sapphire ring, while Master Charlie Barnard read the address to the three boys and Master Stanley Johnston presented the gifts, which were Eversharp lead pencils.

The scholars thanked their teacher, Mr. M. Tarvas, and the scholars of Bailieboro public school for the gifts, and for their thoughtfulness to remember them previous to their leaving the village and their many friends.

Miss Helen and Master Jack Dawson are moving to Pererboro with their parents, while Master Stewart and Clifford Blake are moving with heir family to Campbellford. All of these scholars were popular in the school and village, and will be greatly missed by their schoolfellows and playmates.

Distemper Epidemic.

An epidemic of distemper has broken out in this district. Nearly every herd of horses in this part have contracted this disease. Some of the farmers state that their horses only have a light attack; while others say that their horses have very sore throats, and in some cases there is considerable swelling around the throat, and all of them have a heavy cold, and are frequently attacked with a severe coughing spell.

Distemper with horses at this season of the year is very hard on the animals, as they lose their appetite nearly entirely, and also lose heavily in flesh. It weakens the horse, and leaves it in a very poor and run-down condition to begin the heavy spring work.

Irregular tunics are featured in spring coat dresses, and scalloped flounces are most effective.

GEESE RETURNING TO BIRD REFUGE.

First Signs of Spring Appear in Essex County.

KINGSVILLE, Ont., March 11.—In Essex County a sure sign of Spring has put in its appearance, all the snow pas melted and the atmosphere is very mild.

About five hundred wild Canadian geese have arrived back to their famous sanctuary on the Miner farm, several of which have tags on their legs, giving evidence that they had visited this bird paradise in former years.

They will no doubt stay at this place of protection until time for them to migrate on to their nesting grounds, which Mr. Miner has proven through his tagging system to be around the shores of Hudson Bay and Baffins Land.

They will as usual leave this bird farm about the last week of April. During the last week robins and song sparrows have been very plentiful on this bird haven.

Jack Miner, the owner of this well-known spot, was the guest of honor Friday at the Toledo Rotary Club, and in the evening was the speaker at one of the largest father and son banquets ever held in that city.

Mrs. Miner and son, Jasper, accompanied Mr. Miner on this trip. He will return during thee arly part of next week.

THE TEST AND PERSISTENCE OF FAITH.

In the wonderful days of long ago, when Jesus of Nazereth walked this earth, He came one day with His disciples into the borders of Tyre and Sidon; and behold a woman came out of the coast and cried unto Him, saying, "Have mercy on me, O Lord, Thou Son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil." But He answered her not a word.

Now, for most of us, this would have been enough; we would have gone away crestfallen, perhaps with hard thoughts about this Man who was supposed to be so kind. The disciples say unto Him, "Lord, send her away, for she crieth after us"; then He spoke, and said, "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Now what was there in that speech to encourage this woman in her quest; seemingly none, yet she drew nearer and she knelt at his feet and worshipped, saying "Lord, help me."

But He answered and said, "It is not meet to take the children's bread and cast it to dogs." Yet she is still kneeling there at His feet; she don't jump up in a rage at being called a dog, but she says, "Truth, Lord, but the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their master's table." Then Jesus answered, "O, woman, great is thy faith; be it unto thee even as thou wilt," and her daughter was made whole from that hour. It would seem this was the only piece of work he had to do there, for we read just afrerwards that he departed from thence and came nigh unto the sea of Galilee. How glad the woman must have been that she did not take offence. She believed in His power, His love, His divinity; for she worshipped, and He brought out her true faith by seeming harshness.

A FAVOURITE CIGARETTE IN ENGLAND FOR OVER 30 YEARS

The Bar-None by Jack Lait

WHEREAS the cowboy is a rapidly disappearing manifestation, even in the movies, the cowgirl will not perish from the earth as long as chaps and sombreros are becoming to the feminine lines and features.

Genuine cow-punchers and bronc-busters, when not in the spotlight of the rodeo or the stampede for show purposes, work mostly in overalls and hick'ry shirts. But a cowgirl is a cowgirl anywhere. Young women are rarely sloppy except indoors, and cowgirling is an al fresco existence, be it on the level or for the erring eye of the tenderfoot or the unerring but flexible eye of the grinding camera.

Tourists through the great Northwest and the great Southwest will catch occasional glimpses of mounted frails, even from observation platforms. They will find them on silver-mounted saddles, with woolly shirts of as many colors as Joseph's coat—but every color aimed to set off the hair and eyes above; with flaming chaps of Angora, dyed golden yellow or crimson; with natty boots trimmed tightly to the calves, heels high, shiny spurs big enough to rowel a rhinoceros, fluffy silk kerchief of the star shade about the throat, huge hat over all (black for the blondes, tan for the brunettes, green for the redheads).

They can ride—some of them.

In the land of the horse and steer, where such things are still taken seriously as something less than circus stuff, the cowgirl becomes a type, hanging about the corrals and the exhibition fields like pop-eyed flappers at the fences of the movie studios or freckle-faced kids at the bleacher gates of big-league ball parks.

To them the professional trick riders of their sex, who are engaged to furnish exhibitions before the night contests, are the Mary Pickfords and Babe Ruths. The pedestrian cowgirls worship and serve, happy to get a word or a chance to hand one of the stunt experts a rope forgotten on the field or dropped powder rag.

In the evenings, especially, when there is a rodeo in town and cowboy clothes are the fashion as purple ribbons and white crushers are at an Elks' convention, these synthetic wildflowers of the prairie bob about, pose before the principal hotels and at the beribboned and buntinged crossings, talking horse-slang and cow-language, with a little sprinkling of bull-talk.

About the movie studios, where "Westerns" are being shot, they group also, hungry for extra work, envious of the established beauties who play hard-riding parts and don't know how to sit a saddle, and they express their hot resentment of these city-bred heroines who star in cowgirl roles and have understudies fake their rides.

The saddest shadow over it all is that almost all cowgirls are phonies, even the ones who follow the trade for a living. They all represent something that isn't. On the big, bona-fide ranches there are girls; and they ride and live the life, of course. Ranchmen have wives and daughters and nieces, and even servant maids. And they cannot look and act on a 10,000-acre range as they would in a Boston hotel. But they are cowgirls only by adoption, like the white men who are made chiefs by the Indians. There is no place for girls in the actual operations of herding cattle and breaking ponies.

Therefore, when a girl like Alice Cavarre is stung by the bee, she is virtually doomed to spend the rest of her life disappointed, longing, hoping for something that is hopeless, except she become a rider who can do the impossible on, over and under a horse, or she land one of the needle-in-a-haystack steady riding jobs in the films. To become a trick rider in competition with those who work circuses and give exhibitions at the round-ups, she must start young, practise constantly, take her life and her looks in her hands every hour—and own a great, trained, valuable horse. One cannot stand on the back of a galloping steed unless that steed as well as the stander is broken and educated to it.

That situation gave Alice Cavarre all the worst of it all 'round. She was a poor girl who lived in Calgary. Her father had been a cowman, but now he was a policeman; not a "mountie," just a plain crossing traffic cop, of which there are such things in Calgary, one of the most hustling and up-to-the-scratch towns on this continent.

When a child on the ranch where her father then worked, little Alice had learned to love horseflesh and to sit it. In later years she had only increased both faculties, but now a horse was a hard creature to borrow, and the block where she lived had asphalt paving, where horseshoes skid and where a crowd gathers if one appears in ranch regalia and tries to teach a city-broken equine how to play new jokes.

Alice, when she reached adolescence, was instructed to hold up her end against the domestic budget, and she grabbed herself a lunchroom shift in the sanitary place opposite the leading hostelry, dishing up ham-and and other tidbits across the cleanly counter during the three rushes for the three meals.

She heard the gossip of the cattlemen every day, for Calgary, while it is a progressive and metropolitan centre, is still the market-point and capital of a vast ranch country. Its mayor is a former cow-puncher, and most of its principal citizens are still owners of incredible cattle empires in the golden back sections of Alberta. The automobile is seen on every square yard of the modern paving, but the horse has not been crowded off entirely. There are still too many sons and grandsons of pioneers in the upholstered cars to expunge the affection for the horned saddle.

Alice knew most of the owners and most of the men who rode for them.

She had always been a Christian, discreet girl. No one could ever say the snap of a finger against her good name, though she had mingled with the rough boys about the corrals and ridden with them over the byways. And in that character of country there are few secrets. In New York one may live on the other side of a party door from a stranger for years and never know anything; but in the "wide open spaces, where men are men," and where women are still women though they sometimes dress like men, everybody knows what everybody else over a scope of many square miles does, has done, would do.

So everybody knew that Alice Cavarre loved horses and pined for them—and walked; that she was a pretty girl who would some day make some man a fine, upright wife; that the one-thirty-second strain of Kootenay Indian in her veins, through her mother's line, gave her a bit of distinction rather than a social bar in those parts; and that she could have had any of a dozen romantic young steer-handlers for a nod to their asking.

"Fingy" McGaffney, owner of the lunchroom, prosperous widower, had entered the lists and had gotten nowhere. "Cheyenne Boy" Williker, the dude of the rodeos and the ex-champion of steer bulldoggers, who lived a precarious though scintillant existence and was "too strong" to take steady work with any "outfit," had been given all the fresh air west of Winnipeg. The night clerk at the hotel, who came in every day at twilight to have his breakfast, and who always chose the sector where Alice's activities functioned, had been put back to sleep several times by her sweet but definite answer, "Not a chance, Hec."

So Everybody Knew That Alice Loved Horses and Pined for Them—and Walked.

Alice's mother mumbled now and then because her daughter was growing along and wouldn't pick herself a man. She, herself, had married "Frenchy" Cavarre when she was sixteen, and had never regretted it through the many vicissitudes of heat and frost, ranch and town, eat or starve.

The girl was a generation beyond her and wasn't a bit worried over singleness at nineteen, and whenever her mother talked husband, Alice answered with horse.

"You gimme a pain in the ear," said Mrs. Cavarre one night after Alice had trudged the long way home from the lunchroom and was sitting in a rickety rocker, re-sewing the seams in the heavy leather of her saffron chaps. "You think more of hosses than what you do o' men."

"That's a good bet an' name your own odds," answered Alice without glancing up. "Hosses for mine."

"Well," snapped Mrs. Cavarre petulantly, "why don't you go an' marry a hoss?"

Alice cracked no smile. She seemed to be running the suggestion over in her head.

"Ma," she said slowly, "that ain't a bad idee. Marry a hoss? H'm—it could be done."

"I guess you're off your nut," said her mother. "But that ain't no novelty to me. If you married a hoss, he'd have most o' the sense in your fam'ly. Marry a hoss? Marry a hoss! That sure is the cat's nailbrush, as they say in the comic papers."

"I say, it's a great thought, ma," insisted Alice. "I'm gonna do it—an' that's no stall."

"I don't think a hoss with any respec' for his future would take you—what do you think o' that?"

"I don't think so much of it."

"You can't think much about anything. . . . Marry a hoss! No mother-in-law to a bronc, huh?"

"A bronc won't do. This is got to be a thoroughbred."

"Oh, go to bed."

Alice went to bed with a broad smile.

Next morning, at the counter, she waited for Ned Thaxter to come in for his coffee and pie. Ned was the crier, circulation medium and dirt-disher for the cowboy element. He had roustabouted on every ranch in the region, and now spent his time talking over the old days, retailing the dribs and drabs of information that trickled through him—of a horse that had stepped into a gopher hole, a rustler suspected in the neighborhood of Riley's range, a deal in horseflesh, a new wrinkle in lariats. He was the trade-medium for the short-grass circle, and an industrious gatherer and dispenser of the grist he milled.

"Mornin', Alice," said Ned.

"Hello, Ned," said Alice. "The usual? . . . Comin' up. . . . Here y'are. . . . Say, Ned, me an' ma had a funny talk las' night. Jus' for a gag, she said I was so loco about hosses I'd ought to go an' marry one. So I said I would. Well, I got a-thinkin', an' here's what I thought out:

"There's a lot o' punchers aroun' here a-willin' to marry me. Some of 'em is fine fellers, but none of 'em has ever dented me. What I always had in the back o' my skonce was, if I ever marry I wanna marry a man what can stake me to a hoss. You know, I mean a hoss; one I can train an' own, with good blood. None o' them ten-dollar cayuses or prairie riffraff. I want a-a-a-a hoss! An' I'll marry the guy what can give 'im to me."

"Gee," gasped Ned, "that'll make great tellin', that will. You mean it?"

"I said it. You can tell the wide, waitin' world I said it an' I'm back of it. First come, first served, that's a waitress's motto . . . an' may the best hoss win."

Ned spread it around like Paul Revere.

Before luncheon, every second customer was kidding Alice about it. To them, also, she gave the assurance that she was serious about it.

The tale ran the length and breadth of the Calgary street. One of the local dailies heard of it and sent a photographer and a reporter. Alice admitted everything, and made only one request—that she be "shot" in her riding get-up and not in her livery of counter service.

The letters began to pour in. Some of them were facetious, some were funny. Aged, lonesome ranchers wrote clumsy proposals, setting out the advantages of their acres and herds, and even the pedigrees of their horses. Mashers wrote her and offered limousines, but not matrimony. Women, and even women's clubs, sent her severe reprimands. One preacher based a sermon on her strange pronunciamento, deploring the low figure to which the gilt-edged, sanctified bonds had fallen. One agricultural weekly led with an editorial, "A Soul for a Horse!"

Alice stuck pluckily. She endured the razzing and the questioning, the sidewise glances as she passed along the streets, the unceasing mutterings of her mother and the peevish displeasure of her father.

"Fingy" McGaffney, who loved her, was tremendously indignant, and would have bounced her instanter were it not that Alice was actually drawing trade to the place. The night clerk moved to the other end of the counter and gave Alice the frozen face.

She stood pat, gamely, though she was getting misgivings about her rash promise—misgivings on account of the way people were picking on her, not because she regretted the sentiment she had expressed. To her surprise, though, not one bona-fide advance had come of it. The few remote landowners who had offered horses and husbandhood had been impossible—very old men with packs of half-wild, stubby mountain or prairie cayuses fit for nothing except calf-chasing or sausage.

She had even barred herself from occasionally borrowing a mount she found. If she appeared on a local pony now, the little children snickered and their elders sneered. Her worshiped chaps began to gather dust and her quirt seemed limp and wilted as it hung beside them in her attic room.

When the local stock company chose, of all plays, "Richard III," and the line, "A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse," spread through the town and was on the rude lips of everyone who met Alice, it hit her as about the end. She had horsed herself into a situation that was growing less bearable every day. And Alice determined to leave Calgary.

She had saved a little money, not much, just enough to get her westward to Banff or Lake Louise, where there were big, fine tourist hotels of which she had heard and read and dreamed. She was an expert waitress and they would need her at one of these places. She would change her name. Anyway, in such grand resorts, waitresses had numbers and no names. At McGaffney's and in Calgary she was Alice to everybody—the worst luck. Among strangers she might lose her name and her fame.

She slipped away far in the night—the train left for the West shortly before sunrise. There were tears in her eyes, for she loved her parents and knew they would be frantic when they missed her. But she had made a great mistake that might be repaired only far away—an innocent blunder, but a crushing, grinding one. Those who loved her must suffer with her.

She was not recognized in the depot as she slipped into one of the coaches. She curled sleepily into a bench when her feet encountered something she hadn't seen—a large sombrero. She slung down her feet and reshaped the big beaver hat. It was of the finest quality and must have cost a lot. None but the most extravagant cowboy or a rich ranchman would buy one like it.

As she twiddled it in her hands a tall, square-shouldered man came out of the smoker and walked toward her. He stopped, embarrassed, seeing a pretty stranger toying with his hat. Alice saw him, blushed and stammered, begged his pardon—and they were acquainted.

As the sun rose and as the train proceeded over the rolling hills at the feet of the Rockies, the man grew intensely interested in Alice. He was going to Golden. She told him she didn't know just where she was going, but had a ticket to Lake Louise. He urged on her the advantages of Golden, at the Great Divide, where there was a hotel, too, and near where he lived. He hinted that he was a bachelor—and was just beginning to realize what a lonesome bachelor he had been.

Alice passed Lake Louise almost before she knew it, and her new friend paid her passage on.

"Don't worry, little girl," he said, "you're in good enough hands. Anybody in these here parts can tell you Marty Sutherland is all right."

Sutherland? Marty Sutherland! He was known from Portage au Prairie to Vancouver as the richest rancher in British Columbia, the breeder of the finest percherons, Arabs and English riding stock in the Dominion. Alice gulped.

"Are you Marty Sutherland?" she whispered.

"Yes, girlie. An' who are you?"

"I'm—I'm the notorious Alice Cavarre."

"Notorious! How? Who says so?"

"I'm—I'm the girl who crabbed myself by sayin' I'd m-marry the f-first man who could gimme a good hoss to ride, bar none."

"None?"

"None."

"Well, how would I do?"

"Oh—mister Sutherland. I s-said m-m-marry!"

"You said a mouthful. . . . Come out to the ranch. My car meets me at Golden. . . . An' pick your own hoss. . . . Go?"

"Is—is it very far to Golden?" asked Alice, in tears. "It's a pretty name, Golden."

"Named after the color of your hair, Alice."

"Named after the color of your soul, M-Marty. I was a-runnin' away becus folks rode me on account o' the bonehead thing I said, an'——"

A DECLARATION OF PEACE NOT DECLARATION OF WAR

When those scientists were robbing that grave of old King Tut they found nothing unusual but old bones. They forgot to catch the spirit of the old monarch. That spirit has just been discovered by young King Tut and he says that the engagement (ring) is more important than the wedding (ring).

The engagement ring is given by a prince to a princess and is the seal to their promise to save up all their love and strength for one year previous to their wedding and by doing so their strength will outgrow their weakness, their brain will develop and mature and then they can see and understand everything on God's creation. This being good for twelve months as the Saviour meant in the New Testament. You have to give up nothing only save up the most valuable thing you have. By doing so a prince will become a King and can make a princess a Queen.

Marriage and peace was supposed to be the same. Marriage means the melting of two bodies into one, then it should be engagement, battle, (marriage), peace, not engagement, marriage, battle.

Brains of wisdom, religion is all the same it is simple instinct. It is born in you, all you have to do is give it a chance to let it develop itself.

This is not fiction because young King Tut is going to prove it all in flesh and blood. Seeing is believing History is nothing but the same thing over and over again.

Young King Tut is going to bring Noah's Ark back to life again. Animals have instinct and if properly developed they can understand people. And then when you can see with your own eyes how Noah brought back peace to the world or how animals can be converted into peaceful intelligent creatures then it will remove the arguments about religion. Besides Noah's Ark, he is going to open a summer resort where people can give themselves up to mother nature and let nature cure them from any disease. Not by taking away food, drink, sport or other amusements or by praying every day in every way. Just simple, live up to mother nature for a while. Every day the sun shines is summery.

The World War started in 1914 and young King Tut says:

The World's peace is going to start in 1924 and to be correct, it is going to start in the Township of Harvey, on the shore of Pigeon Lake.

If farmers don't know how to stop tuberculosis, or foot and mouth disease just go up to Pigeon Lake and see how cattle can be raised so they won't fall victims to any disease.

It is perfectly simple to cure tuberculosis or the old country's dread disease, that foot and mouth disease.

Tuberculosis, cancer, etc., all those dread diseases, are no curse, they are simply a warning signal that we are on the wrong road. Everything is good for something and if we cannot see what a thing is good for, it is just because we are blind or too short-sighted to see the real value through it. This is going to be the world's experimental farm, university or a resort, all in one, conducted by a king for kings. The world is a book and that is the only book that people can depend on if you can't read the world then you can't read the Bible. If you can read the world then you prove it too. Brains (instinct) can be developed without books. And feeding children education with spoon don't improve their ability and quality any.

Young King Tut says he is going to reduce the taxes of this country 50 per cent. and increase the prosperity 50 per cent. The people have been gambling on those dark horses too long by trusting their religion (the foundation to success and good halth) to a clique of officials which are supposed to help a nation to success and good health. If we raise the standard of living and the standard of breeding live stock of this country we be the first country on the globe. Just by going over to the Old Country and borrowing brains or laws or importong pedigreed live stock we never raise above the average. Young King Tut is going to make it the birth of a new nation a nation of pure breds this don't refer to pedigreed people or pedigreed live stock. He means the genuine article and it don't need no pedigree it will speak for itself. He says we can make pure-bred cattle out of scrubs; not by using pedigreed stock and slaughtering the scrubs just simply by using human brains. We can improve our schools and our children's education 100 per cent. and it won't cost half as much as it costs now. Not by hiring a bigger army of high-priced officials but by hiring less officials and of a better quality and ability. If the parents would save up good health instead of a pile of money for their children they could save themselves a lot of trouble and expense.

If our teachers and preachers are supposed to learn our children how to make an honest living, why not try some of them out and see if they could make a living for themselves? Take away the nursing bottle (the soft feed or salary) and plant them in our national park and see if they could make a success. If our professors of agriculture can't make the experimental farm pay its own way, if they can't show us how the farmer could make it pay, then what do we want to nurse them for? If people would invest their money in live stock they could water it themselves and watering them don't decrease the value either. We have too many parasites in this country. Why there are all kinds of remedies to reduce the number. If a sheep is full of ticks it will get them, and just as soon as the sheep gets too poor to feed them they will die themselves; on the other hand if the sheep is fat and greasy the ticks can't live either. One way is starve them; the other, overfeed them. If the parasites get so stupid that they don't know that if they want a nice steady flow of milk they have to feed them well, then they will learn a lesson. If our manufacturers can't compete with the world market then they simply prove that they are more ignorant than the farmers.

Just look at your next neighbor, the States, blowing about being independent, and with all their inventors and senators they have to depend on Old England to manufacture one of their main crops, the cotton in the cloth, when they could do it just as well at home and solve their own labor troubles. Look at their ablest man, Edison, the inventor or tinker. He is thinking of most anything except the human being. Look at Henry Ford, the constructor of a cheap jitney, and it was not that his machine was such a wonderful marvel just because he used 4 inches of commonsense in manufacturing with economy that made the money for him, and all those money men like Ford and Rockfeller don't know how to spend money. If Rockfeller can't see that manufacturing the cotton at home would be an oil well, he would not be drilling half-way down to China to look for oil.

If Germany can get along without money just by using scraps of paper, they simply prove that money is not exactly what people think it is.

Brains, (instinct), is the foundation of everything; if our statesmen cannot develop brains they cannot develop a country or national resources.

The German people are nursing a lot of officials, and by careless feeding these officials grew too big, and then in return those officials fed the German people with patriotic spirits and clever spirits got them good and drunk with that stuff, and then made them fight the whole world, and by doing so they cut their own throats, and brought the people to their senses.

Look at Lloyd George, the famous British statesman, and he don't know that being good gives you more strength or power than money influence. Look at the French Tiger, that set his poisonous claws at the heart of Germany—don't you know that one man could lick Germany without a gun and powder, and would not have to ruin his own country trying to wreck the next.

It is ridiculous to call it a United Kingdom, a United States, without having the foundation united. And if the minister's marriage made two into one, then one vote would do the two. Unless we are all kings we can't have no United Kingdom. We have been playing poker long enough—let us call the bluff off, and see what you have got—a white King and Queen, a red K. or Q., a yellow K. or Q. and a black K. or Q., and I have the four aces. Then we can make two one, then we can make four one too.

Looking at that big stone head and the pyramids, and not knowing what it means. Don't it show quite plain that one head can make 4 into one—the four sides of the pyramids run into one point, the top. You can see the same on a balsam tree; everything shows it to you. You can't help and see it, if you want to.

If you don't let your heart grow big your head, your brain, won't grow big either. ADVT.

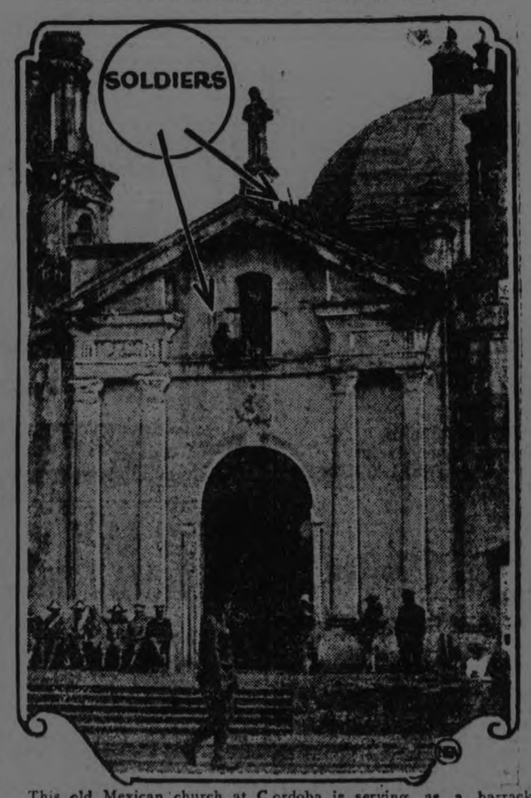
IT'S A BARRACKS NOW



This old Mexican church at Cordoba is serving as a barracks. Troops of Obregon's army are quartered there. Snipers are posted behind the cornices. Another sits right over the main entrance. If the rebels put in their appearance, they'll be pretty much up against it.

CHRIS. GRAHAM IS PRESIDENT

Fish and Game Protective Association Held Annual Election--C. B. Coones is Honorary President.

The members of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association will confer with the Chambers of Commerce on the question of having a booklet issued setting forth the aims and objects of the organizations and giving information regarding the hunting and fishing in the district. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M. P. Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons and W. H. Bradburn M.P.P. will be asked to secure a change in the laws providing for the protection of fish.

This action was taken after annual meeting of the Association held in the Empress Hotel Monday night with President C. B. Coones in the chair. The report of the Secretary-Treasurer C. G. Graham showed a balance in the bank of $94.94. The secretary also gave a report of the work done during the year and an account of the annual meeting of the Ontario Association in February. Peterbrough branch is now associated with the provincial, Mr. Graham having been elected a member of the executive.

Change in Law

Mr. Gordon and Mr. Bradburn will be asked to work for a change in the regulation for the protection of fish by having the pickerel open season being made the same as that for bass and 'lunge in the minor inland waters between Trenton and Georgian Bay. It was felt that the game wardens cannot possibly protect the latter if pickerel fishing is allowed during the closed season for bass and 'lunge.

The conduit dam at Fowler's Corners was again discussed. The president will have Mr. Bradburn request the Deputy Minister of Game and Fishing to have the planks removed when the fish begin to run.

Officers Elected

It was decided to have the retiring president made honorary president at every annual meeting and the first to fill this position was C. B. Coones, president for 1923. The other officers elected were:

President —C. G. Graham.
First Vice-President—F. L. Roy.
Second Vice President— W. C. Ackerman.

Several members were suggested as deputy game wardens to act during the spawning season.

BRITAIN IS NOT MENACING ITALY

British Press Endeavours to Allay Italian Alarm Regarding Manoeuvers of Fleet in Mediterranean.

LONDON, March 11. British United Press. — In a serious effort to allay Italian alarm, the Times to-day devotes its leading editorial to the British naval manoeuvres in the Mediterranean, arguing on the "obvious advantages" of exercises in that area.

The Journal adds:

"British trade in the Mediterranean is far greater than that of any other nation. The Suez Canal returns show that the British percentage of tonnage is about 6 times that of the nearest competitor. The products of the Far East, bales of wool from Australia, mutton from New Zealand, practically all the tea and jute that England consumes; also all of England's purchase from India, pass through the Mediterranean.

"It is plain common sense therefore that the British fleet should be kept familiar with these waters. Only last July the French navy held their summer exercises in the British channel. A repetition of the visit at any time would be heartily welcomed by British sailors and the British people."

CHALLENGE TO DAIL FROM ARMY OFFICER

DUBLIN, March 11.—(Canadian Press.) — President Cosgrave announced in the Free State parliament to-day, that on March sixth, a letter was received from General Tobin and Colonel Dalton, in behalf of the executive council of the Irish Republican Army, demanding a conference with the government to discuss the interpretation of certain treaty conditions. How Other Cities Solve Problems

The tax rate in Brantford for the present year will be 38½ mills, with 3 mills additional for separate school supporters.

This was the decision reached at the final meeting of the Estimates Committee.

The sum is one-half mill less than the rate for 1923, and the desirable outcome was reached only after the most strenuous efforts on the part of the members of the committee.

When the first estimates of the various spending boards were received it looked as if a much higher levy than even that of last year would have to be made, but Mayor Billo, Ald. J. A. Hainer, chairman of the Finance Committee, and all others associated with the estimates task, centred their efforts upon securing retrenchment.

The Hospital Board was the first to respond by agreeing to attempt to get along with $30,000, despite increased expenses of operation in connection with the opening of a new wing.

The Board of Education members, realizing the necessities of the case, joined hands in the proposed lessening of demands.

As the net outcome a saving of many thousands of dollars was effected and instead of increased taxation there is a decrease—small it is true, but a step in the right direction.

SEVERAL BOND FIRMS PROBABLY INVOLVED

TORONTO, March 11.— (Canadian Press.)— Public Accounts committee of the Legislature which tomorrow will open its investigation into the purchase of succession duty free bonds at high prices from a phantom provincial securities company is expected to involve several other bond firms in Toronto and Hamilton, according to information received at Parliament Buildings today.

Charles Matthews, Deputy Provincial Treasurer, will be the first witness called and will be asked to trace the origin of the decision of the late government to enter the market for the purchase of succession duty free bonds. To-morrow's session of the committee is expected to be merely the preface to a greatly enlarged session of the committee.

BEER CELLAR PLAN ABSURD SAYS KAHR

Realized That People Did Not Want Ludendorff Directing Dictatorship --Treason Trial Proceeds.

MUNICH, March 11.— (United Press.)— Confirming General Von Lossow's testimony, Dr. Von Kahr, ex-Bavarian dictator, called in the "treason trial" to-day, declared he opposed the plans of Hitler and General Ludendorff for military action against the north.

"We wanted a directorate nominally based on political pressure," Von Kahr testified. "It was to be a sort of dictatorship composed of able men free from parliamentary and other restrictions."

Von Kahr said that Hitler and Ludendorff would have caused a new civil war. "We could only see smoking ruins and collapse ahead if they were given a free rein," he added. Hitler and Ludendorff would not have touched Bavaria, Von Kahr declared, if the State government had agreed not to molest their plans for a march on Berlin. He said that with Von Lossow and Wesser he tried to dissuade them from their plans, foreseeing a march on Berlin would bring the French and Czecho-Slovakia swooping down to Germany.

"I konw their plans were absurd and groundless," the witness asserted. "I realized that many even in the north did not want Ludendorff directing a dictatorship since it meant a bad foreign reaction. There were also many who did not want to hear anything about Adolf Hitler."

The ex-dictator spoke sneeringly of Hitler throughout.

PALESTINE LECTURE IN GEORGE STREET CHURCH

An interesting series of views of Palestine, accompanied by a description from a personal visit to the Holy Land, were given in George Street Methodist Church last evening by Rev. F. A. Robinson, of Toronto, head of Interdenominational Missions of Evangelism, who took many beautiful pictures while on a trip to Palestine, and who had a good-sized audience for his lecture and views last evening.

The scenery, the cities, the customs and manners of the people of the Holy Land are reproduced in these slides, the majority of them colored, and several, as in the case of a particularly pretty sunset scene, having several different varieties of colorings. The Bible cities, Damascus, Jerusalem and the Holy Sepulchre, are included in the series, which was made especially interesting by Rev. Mr. Robinson's comments. The speaker was accompanied by a pianiste and lantern assistant: Miss Grunert and Mr. Koffend, both of whom were garbed in the costumes of the Holy Land, the former as a woman of Bethlehem and the latter as a Mohammedan priest.

During the evening, Mrs. J. H. Renwick gave a well-rendered vocal solo. Rev. Mr. Young introduced the speaker.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

BAND GRANTS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: If not too late would it be possible for the Aldermen (knowing that some are gifted with musical talent) to take a slice off the $400 so graciously and generously granted the Rangers Band, and place it at the disposal of that self-supporting muiscal organization, "Duggan's Jazz Band," whose services are so much appreciated by the midnight ramblers of this city, and who I doubt not would appreciate the honor of giving a performance or two in the Parks this summer. I am, sir, respectfully yours,

Walter Dyer.

THIRD EXPERT SWEARS IDENTITY OF BULLETS

MONTREAL, March 11 (Canadian Press). — About seven o'clock on the night of his disappearance, Raol Delorme telephoned to his half-brother, Abbe Delorme, that he would not be home till Monday. Having met an old university friend, Raoul had left at 2.30 that afternoon for the Princess Theatre.

Abbe Delorme himself made those declarations during the interviews on 7th January, 1922, the day following Raoul's disappearance and the day the body was found at Snowdon, and on 10th January, 1922, L'Adrien Lapege, Chief of Detectives at the time of the murder, testified to-day.

From those notes, the ex-Chief informed the jury of the movements of the prisoner on the day of Raoul's disappearance as told by the prisoner himself.

The third expert, Col. F. H. Gaudet, to-day swore that the examination of the three bullets taken from Raoul Delorme's corpse and the barrel of the Abbe's revolver, revealed similar hairline streaks on the four exhibits.

R. M. C. CADETS ARE FREE FROM WORK

Juniors Will No Longer Be Flunkeys of Senior Cadets, Says Announcement.

KINGSTON, March 11 (Special to The Examiner). — It is announced that the recruits of the R.M.C. are no longer permitted to be the "flunkeys" of the senior Cadets of the institution.

For years they have "fagged" for those in the higher classes, but as a result of the Cadet Arnold sensation the seniors must do their own little jobs.

It is stated that Major-General Sir A. C. MacDonnel, the Commandant, intends to inaugurate many changes so as to ake the life of the recruit more bearable.

The General has intimated to the Cadets what he thinks of their actions that have brought Canada's military college into the limelight within the past three weeks.

Since Saturday, it is stated, there has been no "fagging" at the Royal Military College.

Mistake In Tactics Fatal To Peterboro In Championship Final

AFTER TIEING ROUND WITH THREE MINUTES TO GO PETES PRESSED THE ATTACK---LEFT OPEN PATH TO GOAL

Overcame Niagara Falls' Lead In Last Period By Brilliant Offensive In Great Game That Won the Admiration of Thousands of Neutral Fans in the Toronto Arena—Gambled For the Deciding Goal In Last Few Minutes—Game Was Replete With Thrills.

PETERBORO FANS WERE LOYAL.

After as gallant a fight as ever a Peterborough hockey team fought, the Petes saw the coveted O.H.A. intermediate championship slip out of their hands last night when playing their "home" game against Niagara Falls in the Toronto Arena they fell one goal short of sewing up the road.

The blue shirts won last night's fixture by 5 goals to 4, but as the team from Powerville had annexed a 3 to 1 victory on their own ice on Friday night Gene Fraser's Falls outfit captured the round by 7 goals to 6.

The Petes went down with colors flying, but the tragedy of it was that they didn't need to have gone down at all.

A mistake in tactics cost the championship.

With five minutes to play the blue shirts, battling with a dogged determination that had every neutral fan wildly cheering them, had finally tied the round after a wonderful uphill fight which saw them convert a three-goal deficit on the round at the end of the second period into a tie.

The obvious safe policy then was to have protected that two-goal lead on the game, for it was a moral certainty that had a third game been necessary the Petes would have won. The strain of the tough series was wearing out the veterans on the Falls line-up, and they would have had little left for a play-off.

Gambled For Goal.

The Petes, however, who had been playing four men up on the attack in their drive from behind, elected to gamble on scoring the winning goal in the last fifive minutes. And they gambled and lost.

Defence methods were thrown to the winds as the Eastern Ontario representatives battled for the marker that would have meant the championship.

They might easily have got it, too, but a little over a minute to go the fatal break came.

How It Happened.

Halpin started a rush down the boards and overskated the puck, which was picked up by the ever-alert Bawtenheimer. The veteran wing player saw his chance, whipped the rubber out to Rice, and with the Petes up the ice, the ex-Aura Lee start had a clever run. Dwyer hurled himself at the puck carrier in a desperate attempt to save the situation, but the puck hurtled against the back of the net.

It was the "million dollar" goal that meant the championship for the Falls.

It was a heart-breaking climax to as exciting a game as the majority of the fans in the arena last night ever saw.

As Lou Marsh would say, "Wotat game, wotta game!"

The Petes' gallant fight against odds will furnish food for hockey fanning bees for many years to come and Peterborough should be proud of every man jack of them.

Gave All They Had.

Down two goals to an experienced sturdy aggregation, with a record of being better on the road than at home, and playing on artificial ice, and on a cushion much similar to that which the Falls' team are familiar, the Petes threw into the fray every last ounce they had. As a team and in some cases as individuals, too, they may have played better hockey this season, but they have never played any harder hockey or shown more determination and fighting spirit.

Early in the game they failed to combine and their shooting was decidedly off colour— it never at any time during the game was top-notch —but they kept on trying even when the Falls bagged the first goal, running their lead up to three and were eventually rewarded by tieing up the game just before the first period ended.

Reverse in Second.

When they scored half way through the second session, were in front for the first time in the series and only one goal down on the round, their chances for ultimate victory looked rosy, but two counters in quick succession for Niagara toward the end of the period left Gene Fraser's veterans one to the good on the game and three up on the round and the Petes' prospects with only twenty minutes left to play, were not of the brightest.

Then in the last session came the wonderful rally that turned the big crowd into a collection of wildly cheering fanatics who nearly tore the arena down when the Petes ran in three goals in fifteen minutes.

And then the break and the vanishing of the championship.

Thrilling Game.

It was a wonderful game, not always wonderful hockey, but hard, exciting, relentless, without a let-up. First one goal in danger, then the other. The Falls, using a six man defence in a desperate effort to hold their slender lead, and the blue shirts striving valiantly to pierce the cordon and crash shots at Mayo, colour, action, excitement during every one of those sixty minutes.

Crowd of 5,000.

Over 5,000 people saw the championship decided. There were at least 50 from Peterborough and the Falls outfit had more than their contingent, including a brass band and a black cat mascot. Old boys and girls from both towns, now living in Toronto, helped to swell the rival rooters, while Queen City fans, scenting a worth-while struggle, turned out in surprising numbers and incidentally nearly all of them supported the blue shirts.

At the end of the first period a collection was taken up for the Brackenborough fund.

The Players.

Every man on both teams gave all he had and nobody spared himself. The importance of the result and the big crowd tuned the players up to concert pitch and the game was worthy of the occasion.

For the winners, Bawtenheimer and Rice on the forward line stood out, while Mayo and the defence veterans, Murray and Fraser, were very effective. The wily Bawtenheimer figured in all four goals, getting the first himself on a rush by Fraser and handing Rice a pass for each of the other three counters. Rice was always on the job for a pass, and the scoring summary shows that he did not fail to take advantage of what he got, while his poke checking helped to wreck many a Peterborough rush.

For the Petes Dwyer's performance was as consistently brilliant as ever and all four shots that beat him were at close range. Halpin showed more speed than at any time this season, while Parker led the attack during the third period rally and scored two goals. On the line there was no particular star, for everybody contributed the last ounce to win the championship. Brennan, the Havelock boy, who played with the local juniors for the past two seasons, was a last minute addition to the squad, replacing McPherson, and he gave a good account of himself.

The Play.

Right off the reel the Petes started to carry the play to the Falls and Rose had the first shot of the game when he checked Fraser and gave Mayo a hot one to handle. Rice drew a penalty for tripping and a moment later Murray chopped Halpin over the arm and was chased, leaving the Falls two men short. It was a golden opportunity, but the Petes failed to work together and the Niagara four held them out until the absentees were back. Murray, however, was only out a moment or two when he repeated his offence, this time slashing Parker.

The Petes had several openings, but could not locate the net. Then Ranger dumped Murray and was benched and he no sooner got back into the game than he was sent away for tripping.

The Falls put on the pressure at this stage and Dwyer saved a goal by a beautiful stop of a close-in shot from Bawtenheimer.

A moment later, however, Fraser broke away for a long rush, and when Halpin fell as he moved to check him the Falls captain went in close and transferred to Bawtenheimer, who scored neatly.

McAteer drew a sentence for tripping. Brenann was interjected into the game at this stage and drilled several hard ones at Mayo. He got his own rebound on one of these and a goal seemed certain, but his shot was wide.

The period was almost over when Rose went up alone, and shooting from outside the defence, drilled a beauty past Mayo, tieing the score on the game.

The Second Period.

Early in the second session Rice drew a two minute penalty for tripping and while he was off the Petes came within an ace of scoring on a three-man combination, Rose's shot, with Mayo beat, hitting the post. Brennan was hurt and there was a short delay. Niagara were using a six man defence at this stage and the blue shirts were pressing them hard. Finally, after 10 minutes, Halpin rushed and passed to Ranger, whose side shot eluded Mayo and the Petes were in front.

Collins was chased, but with a man short the Dwyer gang kept the Falls busy for some time. Then Bawtenheimer got away and passed out to Rice who scored from close in.

Right after this a Peterborough rush was stopped at centre and Harrington, Rice and Bawtenheimer, breaking fast, eluded the blue defence by a pretty piece of combination that gave Rice another point blank shot which beat Dwyer, and the aFlls were 3 to 2 ahead on the game and 6 to 3 on the round when the period ended.

Parker had a royal chance to tie up the game just before the bell rang when he worked right in, only to have Mayo beat him.

A Great Rally.

The third period's start found the Falls protecting their three goal lead and the Petes striving to get inside. Early in the session Dwyer and Pennie had a clash which Referee Hewitson missed and right after this Parker was penalized. Playing a man short the blue shirts tied the score when Ranger, after some pretty stick-handling, went in close to beat Mayo.

When Parker came back he moved up on the forward line and the Petes used a four man attack, with Parker doing a lot of the puck carrying. Harrington and Ranger served penalties in turn for tripping, but nothing happened while they were off.

Then came the only real break the Petes got in the series, when Parker let drive a long, high shot from centre that Mayo never saw until it crashed into the back of the net behind him.

That goal put the Petes in front and they came on like wild fire amid wild excitement. When Parker, camping unchecked in front of the nets, took a pass from the corner by Collins and rapped a hot one past Mayo, putting the teams on even footing on the round, pandemonium broke loose.

Five minutes remained to be played and thirty seconds after this goal Ranger broke down the side, circled out from the corner and tried to go round Mayo as the goaler came out. Mayo half tripped the puck carrier and saved the day, for a Peterborough goal at that stage would have meant the championship. Halpin was off at the time and the Petes held their own until he came back. Then they started out to get the goal that meant victory and the Bawtenheimer-Rice play that broke up the game followed, as already decribed.

It was a great finish for Niagara and a bitter disappointment to Peterborough.

DEMPSEY MAY SHELVE FIRPO

Rickard Will Test Spalla and Rojas to Determine Which Shall Challenge Dempsey--Gibbons Bout Uncertain.

NEW YORK, March 11 (Canadian Press). — The probability that Jack Dempsey will defend his world's heavyweight championship but once this year, and on that occasion against a South American challenger, loomed yesterday out of a series of developments in the year's prospective programme.

Though a return match between Dempsey and Luis Firpo has been regarded generally as a foregone conclusion there now is a possibility the giant Argentine's ambition may be shelved in favour of other Latin contenders.

On top of his agreement for a series of bouts here with Quintin Romer-Rojas Chilean heavyweight, Promoter Tex Rickard announced he also had signed Erminio Spalla, Italian holder of the European heavyweight title, who was knocked out by Firpo in fourteen rounds.

Spalla and Rojas both are expected in the United States within a month, according to Rickard.

The promoter plans to test them against several heavyweights, after which, if successful, they may be matched to determine which shall challenge Dempsey.

Rickard asserted that he had the consent of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, to a fight in the fall with either Spalla or Rojas.

The prospect that Dempsey may be idle until fall developed after Kearns rejected $500,000 offer from Providence, R.I., promoters, representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars, for a match on 4th July, with Harry Wills at Cumberland, R.I.

The promoters, John Griffin and James J. McGinnity, who claimed to have obtained previously Kearns' tentative assent to the match, declared they came prepared to advance $25,000 to Dempsey as a guarantee, but the champion's manager turned down the proposition because of a prospective motion picture engagement.

Movie work, Kearns said, might keep Dempsey busy for eight or ten weeks this spring, thus jeopardising the prospective return match here in June, with Tom Gibbons.

Kearns declared he had made no agreement for a Gibbons bout but Rickard, who has obtained the St. Paul boxer's consent to terms, professed his desire to go ahead with this match.

WILSON'S BACHELOR

Still the Most for the Money 10c.

ANDREW WILSON & CO. TORONTO AND MONTREAL

SECOND GAME IN OTTAWA TONIGHT

The Canadiens Have Not Registered One Victory In Capital All Winter—Hope to Take the Series.

MONTREAL, March 11.—Wheth er Canadiens can head the champion Ottawa Senators at the Capital tonight and thus capture the N.H.L. title and the right to enter the Stanley Cup series for the world's professional hockey laurels, is the question that is causing great speculation in the cities of the N.H.L. circuit.

The local team will go into the second of the home-and-home games for the crown with a one-goal lead, gained in the first game here Saturday night when they defeated Ottawa 1 to 0. Those who closely followed the fortunes of the Canadiens this season feel that Manager Dandurand's combination has an excellent chance of at least an even break.

All the local players are ready for a fast and strenuous battle, and similar news has gone forth from Ottawa, so that no matter what the outcome, at least there is one thing all are agreed on and that is that it should be one of the greatest contests of several seasons.

To date this year Ottawa has had the advantage over Canadiens on games played at the Capital where the Montreal team has not been able to score one win this season. And it is granted that the Senators are great fighters on their own ice especially. But there are those who have witnessed Canadiens reaching the peak of their form in the last few games and they recall that the last meeting between these two at Ottawa was one to nothing in favor of the Senators, but might just as well have been reversed. For on that occasion Canadiens had an equal share of the play and there arose the question of a goal, which was decided against the Canadiens. On the form of the last game there between these two teams, local experts look for an even break at least.

FINAL HOCKEY GAME FOR CASEMENT CUP

Warsaw Was Winner Last Year—Lakefield Follows Winter Sport.

LAKEFIELD, March 11.—The final game in the Lakefield District Hockey League for the Casement Cup will be played on Friday evening between The Grove and Warsaw and promises to be the game of the season. There is keen interest in the outcome as both teams play a fast game. Warsaw won the trophy last season in a game with Blewett's team played on March 2nd. The score was 4-2. After the game, Mr. Casement, donor of the trophy, presented the cup to H. Choate, president of the Warsaw Hockey Club.

Youthful Hockeyists.

Unflagging interest in hockey shown among the young men and older boys of the village is shown in no less degree among the younger boys who have formed themselves into teams and all showing promise of being good players in a few years. Mr. Mackenzie and "Dad" Morin, who have done more to encourage hockey in the village that anyone else, have shown a deep interest in these "bantams" and their encouragement of the younger boys have aroused interest in others. Next season an interested party has offered to put up a "Bantam Cup" which will be played if a sufficient number of teams can be made up. To make it interesting there should at least be four teams.

Kittens and Mice Play.

The game which was played on Saturday week between the Rink Kittens and the Rink Mice resulted in a tie and in consequence rarely a day passes without a delegation from these teams waiting on the rink manager to ask for a decisivie game. At last reports the game will be played next season.

Accept Challenge.

The local intermediates have accepted the challenge of the Examiner team of Peterboro to play another game, the losers to provide an oyster supper. The game will be played in the local arena.

Sports Night.

The annual sports night will be held at the Lakefield skating rink on Wednesday night. There will be races for ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls. The three mile race for men is the principal item on the list and the award is the Strickland skating cup donated two years ago by Reeve J. C. Strickland.

FRANK NEIGHBOR GETS HART CUP

Selected As N.H.L. Player Most Valuable to His Team This Season — Sprague Cleghorn One Point Behind Him.

MONTREAL, March 10. — By the narrow margin of one point, Frank Nighbor, of the Ottawa Hockey Club, wins the Hart Cup, presented to the National Hockey League by Dr. David A. Hart of Montreal, for the player of most value to his team in each season.

The cup must be won three times, not necessarily in succession, to become the outright property of any player.

Sprague Cleghorn of Canadiens, was the runner-up, and John Ross Roach of St. Patrick's a close third, being only one point behind Cleghorn.

The decision was reached by a jury of sporting writers from the various cities in the National Hockey League Circuit composed of F. Jones, Hamilton Herald; W. MacMullen, Hamilton Spectator; C. H. MacQueen, Mail and Empire, Toronto; R Hewitson, the Telegram, Toronto; Basil O'Meara, the Journal, Ottawa; A. Laberge, La Presse, Montreal and E. W. Ferguson, the Herald, Montreal.

Each member of the jury was asked to name eight players in order who in their judgment were of the most value to their respective teams. Eight points were allotted to the first on the list, seven to the second, and so on down.

The final aggregate gave Frank Nighbor 37 points; Sprague Cleghorn 36 points; and John Ross Roach 35.

Next in order were George Boucher, Ottawa; Billy Burch, Hamilton; Morenz, Canadiens; Forbes, Hamilton; Prodgers, Hamilton; Cy. Dennenav. Ottawa; "Babe" Dye, St. Pat's.

The cup will be formally presented to the winner at the Ottawa-Canadien game in Ottawa, Tuesday night.

KITCHENER BOYS GO INTO FINALS

Hamilton Team Put Up a Hard Fight but Lost by Score of 5 to 4 and 8 to 7 on the Round.

KITCHENER, March 11.—(Canadian Press.) — Staging the most thrilling finish ever seen in the local auditorium, the Kitchener juniors last night defeated Hamilton 5 to 4 in the semi-finals of the Junior O.H.A., thus taking the round 8 to 7 and qualifying to meet Owen Sound in the final.

The ice was heavy throughout and under conditions the hockey played was very good.

Kitchener got the first goal, and then slumped away, and at the end of the first period the visitors were leading 2 to 1. In the second period the locals played much better and knotted the count at 3 all, and on heavy ice it was expected that the seventh goal would decide the issue For twelve minutes the teams battled on even terms, both having many close calls, and finally Harley counted on a shot that Klem let through his legs and the game appeared to be over.

Kitchener threw all they had on the attack, but Hamilton held them desperately off until with less than four minutes to go Farrell was chased for illegally checking McKar when the latter was down on a rush. The Kitchener team tore in and in two seconds Gross tied up the score by going right in on Rohmer on a great lone effort. Two seconds later, before the crowd had recovered from the first goal, Gross checked one of Hamilton's defence men as he was rushing and whipped in the winning goal like lightning.

It was the quickest change ever seen here, and the crowd went wild with joy, while Hamilton was nonplussed.

HAMILTON TIGERS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Stratford Lost Hard Game 3 to 1 and Round by 4 Goals to 3.

HAMILTON, March 11. Canadian Press. — The Tigers are champions of the Ontario Hockey Association, Senior series, for the second time in history. They earned the honors in a thriling game here last night when they beat the plucky Stratford team by 3 to 1, and won the round by 4 to 3. Until the final period when Cooper scored the winning goal, the visitors gave just a little bit better than they received, and even the most partizan local fans gave them credit for putting up a titanic struggle.

The largest crowd that ever jammed its way into the Barton street ice palace saw the kings of O.H.A. decide the championship. Six thousand gained admission, while hundreds were turned away, among the latter being people who had come from distant points.

It was a wild night outside the arena where fans lined up in rain and snow, but the mild weather did not affect the ice surface, which was as fast as lighting. The pace was extraordinary from bell to bell with the speedier players from the Classic city leading the way. They asked for no quarter and gave none. It was a fairly strenuous affair, with bumps exchangd frequently, but none but minor penalties were earned. The most exciting moment for the Tigers was when Charlie Stewart, ace goal keeper of them all, was ruled off for throwing his stick at Griffin in the second period. They had collided outside the goal area, and Stewart was riled. Stratford, however, were unable to get one accurate shot at the net during his absence. The fans cheered themselves hoarse as the tide of battle changed first in favor of one team and then again in favor of the other.

"Herbie" Mitchell, the local player, who was badly injured at London, nearly went the route. He was used on defence and at centre, and did good work. Cooper, who scored the winning goal, was not prominent. He was checked to a standstill by sensational "Butch" Kelterbourne, and the latter was without doubt the best man on the ice. Two players not considered among the elect of hockey, "Ab" Stanley and George Redding, rose to great heights and led the Bengals to victory.

During the first intermission a collection was taken up for Johnny Brackenborough, the star centre man of the Tigers, who recently lost an eye in a game at Toronto. One thousand one hundred and sixty-one dollars and thirty-eight cents was realized, this being a record for such an event in the history of hockey. A large tub was used to carry the bills and change, and it was nearly full. Pictures of Brackenborough were given to every one who donated to the fund.

Master Minds Often Fail in Pinch

An Interesting Tale Featuring That Brainy Pitcher, Jack Coombs.

Ira Thomas, former star catcher of Connie Mack's Athletes, now managing the Shreveport team in the Texas League as well as being part owner, was a brainy backstop. There perhaps have been many better mechanical receivers, but few who used better judgment back of the plate than Ira.

When Thomas and Jack Lapp, now dead, were the catchers on Mack's club, the Athletics had a great staff of pitchers, prominent among them being Eddie Plank, Jack Coombs and Chief Bender. While great pitchers, this trio received much help from the very capable catching department.

When Jack Coombs pitched to Ira Thomas, it meant the opposition had its work cut out to win. Thomas knew the weakness of every batter and made a careful selection of what was best to pitch. In addition, Jack Coombs put much thought back of every ball he served the batter. Coombs was more than a mere thrower, he was a pitcher who tried to put every ball where it would be hardest to hit.

Coombs Was Brainy Pitcher.

Despite the fact that Coombs was the master-mind type when on the rubber, a certain situation once came up in a game at Philadelphia which proved that brains can sometimes go a-rambling. During the recent world series I had a chat with Thomas and it so happened in discussing Coombs, both of us recalled the peculiar incident. Here it is:

It was the last half of the ninth, with the bases filled, two out, two strikes and three balls on the batter and the Ahletics leading by one run. Of course everything hinged on the next ball pitched.

Thomas crouched, gave a signal to Coombs, only to have the pitcher shake his head. The performance was repeated several times. Finally digusted at the delay in the game, I stepped to the side and said to Thomas:

"What's the idea? Looks as if you two fellows were trying to make a joke out of the game. Better get together on your signals."

Gave Waste Ball Sign

"Don't blame me," replied Thomas, "I have given Coombs every signal, except the one calling for a waste ball and he has shook his head every time."

"Well, I guess you had better give him that one," I answered in pure jest. Once again Thomas crouched, and gave the signal for the waste ball. Instantly a peculiar look came over Coombs' face. Walking almost up to the plate, he remarked:

"Have you gone crazy? Do you want me to force the tying run over with the count three and two and the bases filled?"

"Well, that's the only signal I had left," answered Thomas, "you shook all the others off."

That gave Coombs a big laugh. He then conferred with Thomas, decided on the ball to be pitched and proceeded to strike out the batsman ending the game.

And the funny part of the joke is that Coombs used to insist that Thomas pulled the joker by calling for the waste ball. However, that was Jack's way out for having permitted his mind to wander.

"Guess Coombs must have been up in Maine hunting deer as I was giving those signals," is the way Thomas explains it.

CHAMPIONS WORE GOOD DISGUISES

Thomas and Reddick Were Not the Boxers the Fans Expected--Both Lost.

TORONTO, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Jack Thomas and Jack Reddick may be champions their press agents claim them to be, but they both successfully concealed the fact from the boxing fans who attended the show at the Standard Theatre last night.

Reddick won from Bert Kenny of New York via a knockout in the sixth round but that did not mean much. Thomas, Montreal, lasted six rounds with Harry Freeman, a well seasoned Toronto performer, but lost the decision.

Kenny showed about as much as he displayed in his funny bout with battling Livinsky here some years ago.

Harry Freeman all but broke his hands thumping Thomas and had the Montrealers outpointed at all stages.

Other results were, Alex. Burlie 110 1-2 pounds, obtained the decision over Allan Holmes (Toronto) 110 1-2 pounds.

Chris Newton (Toronto) 132 1-2 pounds obtained the decision over Sid Conn, (England) 134 pounds after six rounds.

HORSESHOES FOR KEARNS

JACK KEARNS

There are those who insist Jack Kearns, now wealthy manager of the now wealthy Jack Dempsey, is all broken out with horseshoes. For the benefit of these critics we present Mr. Kearns with one of his most effective horseshoes. It should be added, however, that the champion's manager is merely playing the game of barnyard golf.

BOXING CARDS TO BE RESUMED

First of Spring Series at G. W. V. A. Hall Next Monday.

With the passing of hockey, boxing activities will be resumed at once, and the first of a series of boxing programmes will be put on at the G.W.V.A. Hall next Monday night. The Boxing Committee has been in communication with boxing clubs in Toronto, London and other places, and will be able to give the fans some very attractive fistic cards. For the remainder of this month, the committee hope to put on a bill each Monday night.

Good boxers are being secured to meet Willie Buff, the U.S.A. champion, and Billy Cutt, who were here in January, and an effort will be made to have Bobby Booth, of Toronto, who is one of the best known bantamweight boxers in Ontario, come here for a bout with Cutt.

Monday night's card will be announced on Thursday. A rally of the local boxers will be held at the training quarters at the G.W.V.A. to-morrow night, commencing at 7.30 o'clock.

DEBATE VERDICT AGAINST UNION

Church Question Was the Subject of Orators at U. F. O. Meeting at Omemee.

OMEMEE, Mar. 10.—The United Farmers and their friends of Omemee, had a most interesting programme in their club-room, which was crowded on Thursday evening, March 6.

The young people are in the debating contest for the "Sandy Cup" and since they have learned that two young ladies have won the "Watson Cup," they are most anxious to compete for the "Thurston Cup." Whether they win the cup or not they are sure to make the acquaintance of two brilliant young ladies, which is worth the effort.

The subject of the debate last night was a modern one, "Resolved, that Church Union is desirable in Canada."

The affirmative was taken by Messrs. Gordon Bradley and Irvine Connell, and the negative by Messrs. Harry Jackson and Vernon Lang.

All the young men made a fine appearance on the platform, spoke clearly and showed they had given much time and thought to the great subject that is engaging the attention of some of the best minds in Canada to-day.

The judges, Mrs. R. Johnson, Mrs. Wm. Brown and Mr. D. Weir, after considerable time, gave their decision in favor of the negative.

Mr. Wm. Howden favored the audiences with a humorous reading which brought a rousing apiplause.

Mr. Bruce McNevin gave an interesting report of the meeting of the Canadian Council of Agriculture. One listening could not but regret that so few farmers know of the vigorous fight that is being waged by the organized farmers in their behalf.

The next debate will be held Tuesday, March 18. Mr. F. G. Sandy will also address the meeting on an important subject.

Counterfeit Franc Did Not Pay Swiss Who Kills Himself

PARIS, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—It is reported from Switzerland that a Roumanian, who had been preparing plates, lithographs and parchment to make counterfeit French 1,000-franc notes (about $40), committed suicide yesterday because French currency is so depreciated it did not pay to make bogus money.

Swiss detectives learn that the counterfeiter worked two years obtaining the dyes, starting when the franc was worth half the Swiss franc.

STRIBLING IS NO HITTER.

Perhaps the most active fighter in the game at present is Young Stribling, the Georgia school-boy light heavyweight. Stribling fights three or four times a month and usually wins. Stribling is fairly clever but no hitter. He rarely ever drops an opponent.

THEATRES

"A WOMAN OF PARIS."

Peterboro picture fans who have often laughed at Charlie Chaplin's antics on the screen have an opportunity of getting another conception of the famous comedian in the appearance at the Grand of Mr. Chaplin's picture, "A Woman of Paris." As a scenario writer, the celebrated screen star has proevd a great success, and "A Woman of Paris" is developed along new lines and with deft skill. This is no pre-throwing, slap-stick comedy but a real picture with an intriguing plot that is carried out to a logical conclusion, and provides a most interesting entertainment. Edna Purviance is the featured star, and her role in this production is probably the best thing she has done on the screen. She is supported by a splendid cast, and the whole picture is a success. It will be shown at the Grand again to-night, to-morrow and Thursday night, and should attract big audiences.

"DUMBELLS" RETURN IN "CHEERIO"

Back again after a record breaking tour from Halifax to Victoria, the ever popular "Dumbells Company" will play a final engagement here of their fifth and best revue, "Cheerio," at the Grand commencing March 14.

Captain Plunkett certainly had his finger on the public pulse when he produced "Cheerio 2nd." Of all the five Dumbells revues which he has presented in Canada in as many years, "Cheerio 2nd" is easily the most entertaining. The action of the revue is revealed in a series of splendid scenes which move with lightning-like rapidity. The three comedy sketches are exceptionally clever, while the various musical numbers are catchy and appealing.

Al. Plunkett's new songs are the finest that this clever artist has ever offered.

Ross Hamilton again evidences his infinite artistry by giving three distinctly new characterizations of his famous impersonation of "Marjorie," the best loved girl in the Canadian army.

Stan. Bennett, that deucedly clever chap who takes off the English Johnnie so admirably, gives a new and delightful interpretation of "Archibald."

Pat Rafferty has a couple of songs including "Tony the Gay Mountaineer," that are worth the price of admission.

Ben Allen and Jack Grace are a whole minstrel show in themselves, while their African golf game, with Jim Foley as the Chinaman, is a screem.

Captain Mert. Plunkett and his Overseas Orchestra round out a bill that is just one good thing after another.

"Cheerio" has been given a complete revising since the last engagement here to make it equally as interesting to those who saw it before as to those who will see it now for the first time.

HAGEN'S BRAINY SHOT BEAT 'EM.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

HAGEN

Always as long as golf is played the name of Hagen will be synoymous with grit and fight. The Rochester homebred is at his giddy best in the pinches. His genius shines brightest when the odds are heaviest and the pressure tightest.

No more spectacular spurt has ever been recorded than Walter Hagen's drive to overtake Mike Brady, leading by five strokes, at Brookline a few years back. Hagen's brilliant rush brought him into a tie and in the playoff he won the open title.

Hagen differs from many golfers, from Jim Barnes, for example. Nothing pleases Hagen more than to known in advance exactly how many strokes he must pick up in order to overtake a leading rival.

An instance comes to mind. Hagen, playing in the western open at Cleveland several years ago, came to the sixty-third hole, and was told Jock Hutchison had finished with a comfortable lead. "What do I need to beat him?" Hagen asked. "You'll have to beat par in by three strokes," he was told. Hagen won that tournament.

At Inverness in 1920 Barnes, coming down the stretch, appeared to have a fighting chance to overtake Ted Ray, ultimate victor. A spectator, thinking the player would be interested, told Barnes Ray's finishing figure. Barnes resented the spectator's action. Plainly he preferred not to know what he had to do in order to win. Instead of being an incentive, the knowledge that he must keep within a prescribed scoring circle had a disturbing effect, and his game immediately slumped.

There are a lot of players like that. There are few like Hagen.

I asked Hagen to tell me about the greatest shot he ever made. "That's too hard," he answered. "I'd rather tell about the most intelligent shot I ever made, if you don't object to my claiming to be intelligent. It was in the French open in 1920. I was paired with Abe Mitchell. We were playing the last hole. LaFitte, the Frenchman, had finished in the lead. Mitchell and I each needed fours to win and fives to tie.

"The hole in question was a difficult two shotter. Both Mitchell and I were capable of getting home in two by playing long wooden shots. But it was too risky. I told Mitchell I intended to play safe for a five.

"Mitchell decided to go for his four and the title. He played a wooden second and topped the ball. I took an iron and was short but within pitching distance. Mitchell still had a hard long shot for his third and missed. That ruined him. I got the five I was after, tied LaFitte and beat him in the play-off."

AT THE REGENT

A Metro picture, "Rouged Lips," with Viola Dana its star, opened at the Regent Theatre last night. It is a picturization of Rita Weiman's story called "Upstage," which appeared formerly in The Saturday Evening Post. It is a disclosure of life behind the stage curtain, a story of stage people. It was directed by Harold Shaw from scenario by Thomas J. Hopkins and ably photographed by John Arnold.

Little Norah one of the devil's chorus of "thirty under twenty," meets her Prince Charming, Jimmy, who wants to marry her. He tells his father, who scorns the idea of his son marrying a chorus girl and doesn't believe, as Jimmy says, that Norah is one among a million and has a heart of pure gold. Jimmy offers to show him by inviting Norah to the house that evening and proving that she is not only beautiful and good but a perfect lady and well suited to enter into the family.

Meanwhile Norah, heart-stricken because she has always appeared before Jimmy in shabby clothes, decides that for his sake she will spend some of her savings and dress herself up so that he will be proud of her.

When Jimmy appears that evening to take Norah to his home, jealous whispers cloud his mind and when Norah comes out all dressed in her newly bought finery he misunderstands and accuses her of being like all the rest merely a chorus girl. He leaves Norah heart-broken but determined to show him that he is wrong.

Well, of course, it all ends—but this is giving away a delightful story In the meantim, Viola Dana gives a vivacious performance, sparkling and life-like. With Miss Dana, as Jimmy, is Tom Moore who also gives a very competent performance full of humor.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Climbing Mount Everest," showing the remarkable kinematograph films made by a member of the party who essayed the conquest of the historic mount of the Himalayas in the second expedition of 1922, is an added attraction to the usual Capitol Theatre programme for the first three days of this week. With the pictures, giving a running descriptive account of the attempt, is Major Yeats-Brown, D.F.C., who tells in an interesting manner the story of the hardships and difficulties encountered by the dauntless band of men who succeeded in reaching a height of 26,000 feet, but were compelled to abandon the conquest of the Mount because they were unable to pitch camp in a position that would allow them to gain the summit and return to camp within the same day.

Some idea of the hazards, and a good idea, also, of the fascination, of high moutnain climbing, is gained by watching these pictures, which include some remarkable films of the winds which play like smoke from a devil's cauldron around the sides of Everest, travelling at the rate of between forty and fifty miles an hour, with a temperature forty degrees below zero. The glaciers and the pure white snow pinnacles of the Himalayas are shown, with the party in a tailing thin black line, toiling up the ascent.

A weird feature of the picture is the representation of the outlandish dances of the monks in the Thibetan monasteries. Garbed in queer costumes, with enveolping head-dresses, they twirl and leap in their devil dances, their dance of the cemetery ghouls, and the dance of the God of Anger. Interesting, too, are the people of Thibet, with a strong facial resemblance to our own North American Indians, and a quality of dirt that stands out in their pictured faces.

The feature picture at the Capitol is "The Country Kid," with Wesley Barry in the title role. The freckle-faced child who used to frolic through Barry's pictures has grown to be a gangling youth with as prominent an Adam's apple as ever and a cow-breakfast hat. As the guardian of his two small brothers, Joey and Ben, Andy Applegate does the family cooking and washing, besides running the farm, but he runs foul of Uncle Matt, a hard-hearted creature who schemes to obtain possession of Andy's fram. The uncle sends the two smaller children to the country poor farm and makes Andy toil for him. However, the tale straightens itself eventually, with the schemer foiled and everything running smoothly for the three boys. In the story are the various laughable incidents and the funny happenings in the lives of small boys that add greatly to its mirth-provoking atmosphere.

"PONJOLA" COMES TO CAPITOL THURSDAY.

Cynthia Stockley's famous romance of the South African veldt, "Ponjola," which appeared in Cosmopolitan Magazine, will be the attraction at the Capitol Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Anna Q. Nillson and James Kirkwood play the leads.

"THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME" BOOKED FOR CAPITOL.

"The Hunchback of Notre Dame," one of the three great pictures of the year, featuring Lon Chaney, will be shown at the Capitol Theatre at an early date. Following the successful engagement of "Scaramouche," this great attraction was secured for an early date at the Capitol. It is one of the most costly productions ever made and has aroused storms of popular approval where it has been shown.

AT THE ROYAL

REAL ENTERTAINMENT IN BAIRNSFATHER PLAY

Everyday Life in the Trenches as Lived by Old Bill, Bert and Alf Now Playing at Royal.

"The Romance of Old Bill," as related in the film of "The Better 'Ole," is a stirring story containing a strong vein of humor and a message to all who see it. Old Bill is played by Charles Rock, in whose experienced hands Bairnsfather's character is admirably presented. The striking charm about these master studies is that they are so thoroughly unstudied. The characters reek—that is a sound word to use about the trenches—of truth. We see Old Bill, that philosopher of the trenches, Alf and Bert, those life studies in khaki, the comedy of the uniform. Khaki and cachinnation is the motto for "The Better 'Ole." It is better than any play. Only a percentage of people have seen the legitimate version. The screen version begins with a prologue in which we vision Rouget de L'Isle singing the "Marseillaise"; we see the Three Musketeers of Dumas, "one for three, three for one." These dissolve into our modern trio of warroirs, Old Bill, Alf and Bert. We see them in their dugout, making merry in billets behind the lines, then off to Blighty and their welcome home. The London Evening News says of it: "The Better 'Ole" is meeting with enormous approbation where ever shown. It gives real entertainment."

The comedy presented last night features that cute little kiddie, Baby Peggy. Both vaudeville acts have talent and were very well received last night. Jones and Johnson, a colored team, had the audience in constant laughter with their clever patter. They feature their own songs. Leonard and Wilson have a line of talk about moving pictures that received many laughs. Their song Mr. and Mrs. registered a big hit. Both acts are clean and refined.

AMATEUR NIGHT AGAIN THURSDAY AT ROYAL

Local talent, of which Peterboro has a plentiful supply, will be an added attraction at the Royal Thursday night. Substantial cash prizes will be given all entries and another enjoyable evening can be looked for ward to. The featur, attraction for Thursday is the laugh film of the year Potash and Perlmutter."

"POTASH AND PERLMUTTER" A NON-STOP LAUGH

"Potash and Perlmutter," a First National picture produced by Samuel Goldwyn which is coming to the Royal Theatre on Thursday night for an engagement of three days is filled with situations so humorous that it keeps audiences in an uproar of laughter from start to finish.

One of the most laughable sequences devolves about Abe Potash's earnest endeavors to interest a group of clothing buyers in his latest suit styles. Poor Abe, unable to engage a competent designer, evoked merely sarcastic remarks as he exhibited suit after suit. Being too poor, also, to afford to live models he made use of a mechanical model, which, when wound up, turned slowly.

Abe sweating and gesticulating, stood beside the model, pointing out the good points of the garments. So oblivous was he to everything else that the outstretched arm of the model would swat him on the head with every turn until Abe subconsciously ducked at every revolution, furnishing his auditors with further amusement.

Barney Bernard plays the part of Abe in the picture, and Alexander Carr has the role of Morris Perlmutter. A third member of the cast is Vera Gordon, who is seen as Rosie Potash.

CONFLICTING REPORTS OF THE IRISH MUTINY

LONDON, March 11.—(Canadian Press.)— Despatches from Dublin to-day state that while the Free State government claims that the situation with regard to the trouble in the army is "absolutely normal in all commands," rumors in the capital do not agree with this statement. It is said that the movement of dissatisfaction is much wider than the official reports admit and that the public has not heard all that has happened.

General Owen O'Duffy, head of the Civic Guard, who was yesterday appointed commander of the defence forces, is taking up his duties immediately, and it is said his appointment indicates that the situation is more serious than it appears on the surface.

RAILROAD WRECK NOT SO SERIOUS

Reports of Big Loss of Life Denied by Railroad Company -- Now Placed at One Killed, 20 Injured.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 11. — United Press. — One man was killed and more than a score injured when five cars of the Boston-Montreal express, travelling over the Central Vermont Railway, left the rails at a point between Bolton and Waterbury to-day.

The first reports here said that ten persons were dead, but this later was denied by the railway officials, who said that a George Gaines, of Burlington, was the only man to lose his life.

A relief train brought the injured to Burlington, where they were taken to an hospital.

Two sleepers and three day coaches left the tracks and fell into a swamp.

The accident occurred about 4 in the morning, as the train was speeding towards Burlington on its way to Montreal.

The wreck, the Canadian National Railway officials said, was caused by a broken rail. The locomotive, one mail car, and the last car of the train remained on the tracks.

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 11 (United Press). — Stocks were steady in the early dealings, showing scarcely any appreciable changes from the previous finals. Secy. Mellons' aspiring statement on trade conditions, Schwab's forecast of business in the event of favourable tax legislation, the rally in francs, further price increases in oil and copper were factors which helped sentiment. American sugar was one exception to the general steadiness, dropping to 55 against last week's high of 58 5-8 on the expectation of an unfavourable showing in the 1923 report.

Operations for a rise resulted from the rumour that the Norfolk and Western Railroad might be leased into by the Pennsylvania system on a great revenue basis. On this rumour, Norfolk and Western shot up to 120 1-4, a new high since 1922.

Associated Dry Goods responding in sympathy, went to a record price of 100 1-2, largely because of its exceptionally liquid condition and the high rate of earnings recently made.

While most of the stock pools are making no effort to mark up their stock, it is evident they are supplying good support when it is needed. This explains the inability of the bears to drive prices down for one or two points.

News despatches that the Government prosecutor had left Washington for the West in expectation of forcing the Government's suit to cancel the Teapot Dome and California Reserve cases had little effect on either the stock or the curb market.

BIG REDUCTION IN C. N. DEMAND ON GOVERNMENT

Sir Henry Thornton Says the $20,000,000 Increased Net Earnings Will Reflect in Canada's Budget.

MONTREAL, Que., March 11.—(Special to The Examiner.)—A reduction by twenty million dollars of last year's amount will be made by the Canadian National Railways in the money to be asked from Parliament this session, according to Sir Henry Thornton, President of the National System, in an address given before more than one thousand members of the Montreal Canadian Club in the Windsor Hotel here today.

"I am advised," stated Sir Henry, "that an attempt will be made by Parliament this year to balance the budget. What a part the Canadian National Railways played in bringing about that cheerful state of affairs! The net earnings of the Canadian National Railways for 1923 were $20,200,000 as compared with slightly more than $3,000,000 in 1922. When I became assured of the figures, I determined that the budget of the Canadian National Railways should reflect these earnings. I am able to tell you that the Canadian National Railways will this year ask the Government for twenty million dollars less than they asked for last year, and while there is still considerable work to be done and many improvements to be made, you can see for yourselves that the 'white elephant' has reduced the whole color of his hide towards a pale grey to the extent of twenty million dollars.

The meeting, one of the largest in the history of the Montreal Canadian Club, listened for more than half an hour while Sir Henry Thornton dealt with problem after problem that directly affects the railways. As in a previous address, the speaker stated his conviction that although Canada has many problems, there are none incapable of solution if approached in tthe right manner and with proper thought. He appealed for a broad understanding of these problems and for the subjection of all sectional pride and difficulties to the broader principles of national life. He felt that more good could come from the appreciation of our national assets than from clothing ourselves in sack cloth and standing on a corner bewailing our liabilities.

CONDUCTOR ATTACKED AND BADLY BEATEN UP

COCHRANE, March 11. — Canadian Press.—Word has just reached here of a serious assault on Phil Rody, a well known Canadian National fright conductor, by four members of a repair gang at Armstrong. The men are said to have entered the van and started an argument, the subject of which is not yet known, and then jumped on Rody. One eye was badly hurt, and one ear partly torn off, and he was kicked and pounded so that his life was at first despaired of, but he was taken to the Winnipeg hospital, and will likely recover. The provincial police are investigating.

Motorists Are Slow in Taking Licenses If Fast on Highway

The time limit set for the taking out of motor licenses for 1924 was last Saturday, and up to noon on Tuesday the Chamber of Commerce had issued 212. Last year the total number of cars in the district was 3,100, so that only a small percentage of the owners have complied with the regulations.

The police have taken no action so far, and say that no complaints will be made until the weather changes and the running of cars becomes general. There are less than 200 cars being operated at present in the district, chiefly in the city, and these are carrying the 1924 license numbers.

EXPERTS WORRIED BY SLUMP OF FRANC

Stimulative Efforts of French Government Were Partly Successful in Opening Market.

(By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, March 11 — Responding to the strong stimulative efforts of the French Government the franc opened at 118 francs 85 centimes to the pound sterling to-day.

Financial experts were frankly perturbed at the slump in French currency, which has pursued an almost steady downward trend for weeks, and agreed unanimously that the present week will be critical.

"The next few days should decide the outcome of Premier Poincare's conflict with the Senate on the questions of financial reform," the Manchester Guardian said, "and the reports of the experts' committees on reparations also should be ready this weekend."

"These reports, and the actions to which they may lead, are of far more importance to French finance than the Poincare Government's internal financial programme, because it is highly doubtful if even the most drastic internal measures could in themselves save the franc."

JULES BRAZIL HERE ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Concert in Grand Opera House on March 17 Has Attractive Features.

The concert to commemorate the the birthday of Erin's Patron, St. Patrick, which takes place as usual on Monday, March 17th, in the Grand Opera House, promises to be something out of the ordinary this year. The energetic committee at the head of affairs have arranged a programme which should appeal to lovers of the music of the old and the new Ireland alike. The headliner for the evening, which is departing from the standard custom and offers an entire entertainment of music and fun, is Jules Brazil, the well-known Toronto entertainer and comedy artist. Mr. Brazil is recognized as among the foremost of Canada's entertainers, and will have a large part of the programme in charge, when he will give several of his notable musical monologues, along Irish lines.

Two other new arrivals in the annual Seventeeth entertainment are Miss Eileen Kelly and Miss Grace Holland, both of Toronto. Miss Kelly is recognized as one of the coming vocalists of the Queen City, and is possessed of a fine, soprano voice, which will be heard in the very latest Irish songs. Miss Holland is a member of the Ladies' Medley Orchestra of Toronto, and will give several selections on the xylopohone.

A well known group of local amaturs, under the direction of Miss Lillian Simons, will round out the programme with a one-act musical comedy, entitled "Old Timers," in which a theatrical manager and a number of aspirants for theatrical positions will take part. Each of the vocalists in the cast will have an opportunity to display their talents in the short comedy, which ends with a general dance.

Among the attractions of the evening will be a dancing and talking number, with some clever comedy, by Messrs. Wesley and Quinlan, a dance by Kathleen Cooney and vocal numbers by a male quartette.

The programme for this year's Irish concert includes some of the best of the city's musical talent, with a trio of well-known entertainers from Toronto, in a novel and interesting evening of fun and music. The plan for the seat sale opens at the Opera House at ten o'clock on Friday morning.

SIX MONTHS' HOIST FOR O.T.A. REFERENDUM BILL PROPOSED BY FARMERS

Amendment to the Amendment Submitted By Hon. D. Carmichael--Hon. Mr. Raney Argued That Government's Bill Is Unconstitutional—Asked How Government Guaged Public Opinion On Desire to Vote.

NICKLE DEFENDS IT.

TORONTO, March 12.—(Canadian Press.)— Opposition criticism so as to even challenge the Legislature's constitutionality was early this morning survived by the Ferguson government over the referendum bill, and it received a second reading from the Ontario Legislature and was saved from the hazards of a six months' hoist proposed by Hon. Manning Doherty and of a further amendment by Hon. Dougal Carmichael denying its constitution. It is merged at last by virtue of the Speaker's ruling in its favour and of two divisions given it by majorities of 69 and 45 respectfully. The Bill, which is thus approved in principle by the House, is one which leaves it entirely in the hands of the Government for solution by it of the temperance problem of the province. It is the first necessary step by the Ferguson government in the fulfillment of its pre-election pledge to take a plebiscite upon the Temperance Act when or if public opinion demands it.

TORONTO, March 12.—An amendment to the amendment on the government bill creating the machinery for the taking of a vote on liquor questions was moved in the Legislature Tuesday afternoon by Hon. D. Carmichael (U.F.O. Centre Grey.)

The first amendment that the bill be given a six months' hoist also came from the U.F.O. being moved by Hon. Monning Doherty.

The amendment to the amendment reads: "That this House do not proceed further with this bill until the Prime Minister has given to the House his assurance that in the opinion of the government there has been manifested a desire for a change in the law sufficient to warrant the government in believing that there is a real public demand for such a change; nor until the government has submitted to the courts under the Constitutional Questions Act, the question whether this bill is within the constitutional authority of this assembly to enact, and received the answer of the courts to su h a question."

Not Constitutional.

The feature of the afternoon was the argument by Hon. W. E. Raney that the bill could not constitutionally be passed by the House, and R. Belanger's (Russell) contention that it was not in accord with parliamentary government nor responsible government. The government, through the Premier and Hon. W. F. Nickle, argued that the bill was quite constitutional. Peter Heenan (Lib.) announced his intention of supporting the government in the bill.

Mr. Belanger said that the act was a misconception of responsible government and taking away of the prerogative of the members of the Legislature. The matter of duty should control the members, instead of adhesion to party in the matter, he said appealing to the Con- vative members to oppose the bill.

"This bill does not even foreshadow legislation," said Mr. Belanger. "It is simply a proclamation of the government that it is unable to frame legislation, that it has no policy and it wants authority to make legislation during the summer. It is a flouting of Parliament. One clause of the bill stating that such legislation must be approved at the ffext session is an expression of remor e at taking away the rights of the House. This is contrary to government responsibility which does not mean that a government can do something and then carry it out with their majority in the House."

Time not a Factor.

Mr. Belanger said that the amendment of a six months' hoist did not help the situation, because the same problems would present themselves in a bill six months from now. "The Liberal party stands now as it would stand a year from now, ready to protect the prerogative of the members of this House and to stop the taking away of their right by a Cabinet. Surely the motive behind this bill is not that the government is afraid of secession in its own ranks? There are always enough Conservatives who will put allegiance to party ahead of allegiance to principles to carry a bill."

O. T. A. Too Lenient.

Hon. Dougal Carmichael regretted the levity with which the O.T.A. was debated. He declared that the O.T.A. although it may not have been the success that some thought it would be had without doubt reduced drunkenness and misery. He

Declaring Ban on Hardwood Export

TORONTO, March 12.—Hon. James Lyons, Minister of Lands and Forests, introduced a bill in the Legislature yesterday afternoon placing an embargo on the export of hardwood. He also brought in a measure of license pulp, saw and paper mills for the purpose of checking up on the returns to the government, of preventing.. disputes.. over rights in rivers during driving operations and of securing general information. A nominal license fee is provided for.

HEBRIDES NEED FINANCIAL AID

Threat of Starvation Warded Off, Investigators Report, But Islanders Require Money For Seed and Subsistence Until Next Harvest.

NEW YORK, March 12 (Canadian Press). — Starvation has been warded from the Scottish Hebrides, but acute distress is still prevalent among the destitute people there, and United States financial relief would be greatly appreciated, say messages from Lord Balfour and W. Sleigh, Lord Provost of Edinburgh, made public yesterday by the Sulgrave Institution.

The messages were in reply to the Institutions's request for an authentic statement of conditions in the Hebrides, after a recent appeal for United States aid met with criticism in Great Britain on the ground that the situation was not as bad as had been represented.

Distress Exists.

"Highlands Distress Committee greatly appreciates your cable," said the Lord Provost's message. "Considerable distress undoubtedly exists, which is being alleviated by the generous contributions here, but the financial assistance from friends of the Highlands resident in the United States would be gratefully received. Food, clothing, and fuel are being provided by my committee.

"The necessities of the people are being met by subscriptions collected in this country, but large sums will be required to provide the inhabitants of the islands and the Highlands with seed potatoes, seed oats, and the means of subsistence until another harvest is reaped."

Failure of Crops.

Lord Balfour's investigation revealed, according to his message, that:

"The exceptional weather conditions of last summer and autumn produced a most serious failure of crops in the Hebrides and in certain Highland counties. Energetic steps were taken by the local authorities, supplemented by charitable assistance in charge of the Lord Provosts of Edinburgh and Glasgow.

"There is therefore no danger of starvation, but there is much distress, and I understand that contributions by friends of the Highlands and the islands would be greatly appreciated and most valuable."

The destitute ones, clinging to a land that has yielded its inhabitants a bare living for centuries, were reported to have been brought to their present state by a combination of floods, a bad fishing year, and the loss of outside revenue through the shutdown of many industrial plants in the British Isles.

Quebec Adoption Law Carried On Division.

QUEBEC, March 11. — On a straight party vote 51 to 17, the Legislative Assembly to-day adopted Premier Taschereau's adoption law in third reading. The vote came on an amendment moved by Jules Langlais Conservative M. L. A. For Temiscouta, who moved that the bill be sent back to the committee of the House with instruction to study it anew, and to amend it to the effect that it should apply only to children who had neither father nor mother, and to foundlings in orphanages, creches, or other such institutions. There was no debate the amendment being simply voted down.

DELORME COURT HEARS EXPERTS

Colonel Gaudet Gave Evidence As to Scratches On Bullets and Handwriting Features Were Brought Out.

MONTREAL, Mar. 12.—The testimony of handwriting experts was reached in the trial here Tuesday afternoon of Rev. Adelard Delorme. Mr. Justice Martineau expressed anxiety when the first expert was called to the witness stand and asked if some way could not be found to curtail this evidence which took up nearly a whole week at last summer's trial. His Lordship suggested that only the most marked characteristics of alleged similarity between the standard exhibits, admittedly Father Delormes' handwriting, and the writing on the mysterious wrapper addressed to Chief of Provincial Police D. D. Lorrain, should be gone into.

Handwriting Expert.

The first handwriting expert heard was C. R. Hazen, vice-president of Milton, Hersey Co. Limited, who illustrated his explanation with a number of enlarged photographs which were handed around among the jury in order to aid them in following every statement made, regarding the formation of a letter or the stress of a line. The evidence differed in no way from that already heard at last summer's trial and the court room emptied rapidly as spectators realized that nothing new would be brought out.

Colonel Gaudet, the first commander of the French-Canadian 22nd Regiment, technical adviser to former Premier Lloyd-George when the latter was Minister of Munitions during the war and for twenty-two years connected with the manufacture of munitions of all kinds, was cross-examined by Alban Germain, K.C., counsel for the defence.

Col. Gaudet maintained that the scratches along the sides of the bullets, parallel with the grooves were alike on all bullets fired from the priest's pistol and that they must have been caused by a defective bajrel. He thought it quite possible that the two Bayards produced in court bearing consecutive numbers might have been manufactured at different times or in different parts of the shop with different sheets of metal.

Nun Informed Police.

Sister Marie Madeleine of the Convent of the Little Girls of St. Joseph, told of repairing Father Delorme's overcoat and soutane on Feb. 13, 1922, the day before the Abbe's arrest. When she heard the rumors circulating at that time that she thought it her duty to inform the police that she was doing that work.

Montreal newspapermen told of hearing sound tests of shots fired at the Delorme home last February. The witnesses who were outside the house said they heard the reports.

Another newspaperman produced a copy of a document, claimed to have been written by Father Delorme and headed "An Appeal to the People," which had been reproduced in a local paper.

RAINBOW ROADWAYS!

Elevator Torch For 17 Buildings

PHILADELPHIA, March 12. —Fire, starting shortly before 8 o'clock last night in the big grain elevator of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company at 20th and Callowdill streets, quickly spread to nearby property and an hour later seventeen other buildings, mostly residences, were in flames. Six alarms, calling into action practically the entire fire fighting forces of the city, were sounded. High winds hampered the firemen in checking the blaze.

RENTAL DEBATE NOISY SESSION

Labor Members of British Government Committee Angered By Obstructive Tactics to Restrictions Bill.

LONDON, March 12.—(Canadian Press).— There were lively scenes in the House of Commons yesterday in the committee stage of the rent restriction bill, the object of which is to continue rent control until 1928 instead of 1925, the time set originally for the decontrol of rentals, and to provide for a period of modified control after 1928.

That the government did not intend to back the measure was indicated by the withdrawal of John Wheatley, Minister of Health, and Patrick Hastings, K.C., attorney-general, from membership on the committee. This evoked a protest from the Conservatives, who demanded an adjournment, but were ruled out of order.

Labour members angrily interrupted the Conservatives' speeches, which they described as dilatory and obstructive, and they noisily defied the chairman's ruling that the committee should adjourn until March 15.

The Labour members continued the uproar after the chairman had left the chair.

CANADA'S CLAIM ON MOTHERLAND

Finally Settled At Eight Million Dollars For Liabilities Incurred During the War.

LONDON, March 12 (Canadian Press Cable). — The Canadian Press learns that an adjustment of accounts between Canada and Great Britain with regard to war liabilities has been made and the amount that Canada is to receive has been settled.

The Dominion will receive from Great Britain certain Canadian bonds and a sum in cash. The whole payment will amount to between 8 million and 10 million dollars.

The payment will become operative on 1st April.

More than a year ago Canada put in a claim for $32,000,000 as the balance due the Dominion from Great Britain in adjustment of debts standing over from the war, while the British Government held that a much smaller sum was due, the difference being a matter of exchange.

While hostilities were proceeding the British Government received advances from the Canadian Government of something like one thousand million dollars, and the British Treasury on their part supplied Canadian troops with food, clothing, munitions, and even British currency for the paying of Canadian troops.

Adjustments were made from time to time up to March, 1920, at which date the Imperial Government owed Canada more than $100,000,000.

In the final adjustment Canada claimed that payments made by the British Treasury on account of the debt should be credited "at exchange rate of the day" of payment, but the British Government held that they should get par for the pound sterling, that is $4.86 2-3, although at times when payments were made the pound was selling much below par.

The parties finally agreed to refer the issue to ex-Premier Asquith as the sole arbitrator, and he accepted the British view regarding exchange, and awarded Canada about 8,000,000 one year ago.

CANDLER MONEY AGAIN DEFEATS WOMEN'S ATTACK

Son of Coca Cola Magnate Wins Verdict in $100,000 Damage Action — Blackmail Was Defence — Father Won Similar Suit and Breach of Promise Action.

HEAVY LEGAL COSTS.

DECATUR, Ga., March 12.— Those Candler millions—what a hard-luck trail they have made for the family of Asa G. Candler, the soft drink king!

The latest attack on the money bags of the South's richest family ended yesterday when a jury awarded a verdict in favor of Walter T. Candler, son of Asa, in a $100,000 suit which Mrs. Clyde K. Byfield, beauty contest winner, brought against him.

"The luck of the Candlers—they always win when women sue them, but gosh, what it must cost them to defend their coin!"

That exclamation was ejaculated by a by-stander as the pretty Mrs. Byfield was led from the courtroom, weeping.

Third Character Suit.

This was the third so-called character suit which the Candler family withstood.

Mrs. Byfield charged that on the night of July 17, 1922, Candler attacked her in her stateroom on the S. S. Berengaria, while she and her husband were en route to France. Candler denied the charge and contended he was a victim of blackmail.

Blackmail!

The Candlers have made that retort before—and have won in court on it. In this case Candler told friends when the suit was filed:

"The Byfields held me up. I never touched Mrs. Byfield and nothing improper occurred. It was only by chance I wandered into the stateroom where the woman was. There was a champagne party on ship that night. I was intoxicated and I don't know exactly how I got there.

Byfield Shouted.

"Byfield suddenly crashed in the door, and shouted:

"'Now I've got you and I've been suspecting this for six months. You must pay me $25,000.'

"He struck me and I struck him, and he struck his wife. He made an apparent effort to get a pistol."

Candler admitted on the stand that he gave Byfield a $25,000 check "to keep his mouth shut." He later paid Byfield, according to the evidence, $2,000 in cash and gave him a note for $20,500 in exchange for the check and a signed statement, made in Paris, exonerating him from the attack charge.

When the capitalist returned to America he entered suit against Byfield to recover the note.

The first bit of real mud thrown at the Candler family 'scutcheon was during war days, when Asa G. Candler, head of the family, was Mayor of Atlanta. This is how the soft drink king says it happened:

"A Mrs. Margaret Hirsch came into my office and said she wanted to see me on Red Cross business. She seemed nervous. Suddenly she said: 'Oh, Mr. Candler, there's a man at the window.'

Disarranged Blouse.

"I turned around, but saw nobody. When I turned back again Mrs. Hirsch had thrown off her hat and coat and had disarranged her blouse. The next minute the door burst open and a man stood there. He said: 'This is nice! Our honorable Mayor and a little society lady.'"

The man, Candler avers, was "Handsome Bill" Cook, man-about-town. The aged millionaire claimed the man and woman demanded $500,000 as the price of their silence. Instead of paying, Candler had them arrested as alleged blackmailers.

The jury exonerated Candler of Mrs. Hirsch's sensational charges and convicted her.

He met the pretty Mrs. Onezima de Bouchel, New Orleans society woman and a noted beauty. He proposed. Suddenly Candler smashed the betrothal himself. Said he had "heard things" about his fiancee.

She sued for $500,000 breach of promise.

Candler won that suit, too.

INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS CHAMBER COMMERCE MEETING LAST NIGHT

Grave Digger Was Robbed and Killed

NEW YORK, Mar. 12.—Norman McElroy, a grave digger at Stonypoint Cemetery in Rockland County, was found dead beside a half-dug grave there yesterday morning. He had left home the night before with $100 in his pocket, and when the police found the money missing and also discovered various bruises on the body an investigation was started to determine the possibility of murder.

Further examination by Under Sheriff Robert Woods and Coroner Carl Shankey revealed several empty bottles nearby, as well as footprints which indicated a possible struggle. Coroner Shankey will have an analysis made to find out if McElroy might have been a victim of alcohol poisoning.

Government of Country Costs Too Much-- Dr. W. L. Brittain Was the Speaker of the Evening

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Canada is too expensively governed according to Dr. W. L. Brittain of Toronto, director of the Research Institute for Canada, who was the special speaker at the banquet and annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at the Empress Hotel last night, and who spoke on the subject of taxation. There are too many aldermen in the cities, too many members of the various Legislatures and of the Dominion Parliament. The same principles that are applied to the conduct of private business are ignored in the management of public affairs. Taxes are high, but the people have the remedy in their own hands. They are spending money not for what they need but for what they want.

Peterborough's Record.

From information filed in the office of the Institute Dr. Britain says that out of 17 cities, 17 have a higher general per capita debt than Peterborough, that is a debt outside the public utilities that are really not charged. Twenty cities are higher in tax arrears per capita. This latter fact, the speaker said, speaks well for the soundness of the city and for the tax collecting department. "You must," he added, "have more money than other people."

The aim of the Research Institute is not to attack any Government but to endeavour to teach the proper methods for the management of public business. If the present day expenditures are large, it is because the people themselves have asked for them. Some of these outlays are due to a group getting grants for local works, something that the general public know nothing about. We are all too willing to sacrifice one wife's relations to benefit at the expense of others.

The alderman who has secured the greatest amount of money for his ward is regarded as the most successful. If we would abolish the ward system in cities, make Parliamentary divisions larger, reduce the number of representatives in Parliament and Legislature that would be one way to keep down expenditure. The trouble is that we have been spending not for what we need but for what we want.

Drift to the United States.

Canada is losing its man power. The very men who are wanted here are going to the United States. University graduates who cannot find positions at home at nine or ten hundred dollars a year cross the line where they are paid three times as much. Unless something is done to remedy conditions, this loss of population will become worse. The wonder is not that our taxes are so large but that they are not still larger.

Too Many Public Servants.

There are too many men in Parliament and too many aldermen in the City Councils. The speaker believes in the system of permanent appointments instead of the elective system in vogue in the United States. A public servant should be given time to learn his duties and then should be let alone. Members of Parliament are elected for too short a term. Too much time and energy is required in preparing for the next election. There is too much talk and too little action. If a law were passed compelling men to sit down

CALIPH ISSUES WORLD SUMMONS

Abdul Medjid Invites the Moslem Leaders to Make Suggestions For Inter-Islamic Congress to Determine Future of the Caliphate.

TERRITET, Switzerland, March 12 (Canadian Press). — Abdul Medjid, deposed Turkish Caliph, has issued a call to the Moslem populations of the world to determine through their respective group leaders what should be done regarding the Caliphate in view of hs exile.

He says that he considers the measure deposing him and abolishing the Caliphate as "fundamentally sacrilegious and void."

The Mussulman world ratified his election a year and a half ago, says the Caliph, in a manifesto, and as the present Turkish majority in the Angora Assembly has lost the right to participate in the affair by its present attitude, "it is now for the Mussulman world alone, which has the exclusive right to pass with full authority and complete liberty upon this vital question."

Consequently Abdul Medjid invites the leaders of Mussulman communities of the world to send concrete suggestions for the calling of a great inter-Islamic religious congress to take whatever action is necessary.

SPRING MEETING PRESBYTERY HERE

Resolution Dealing With the Temperance Situation in Province.

The Presbytery of Peterboro held its regular spring meeting in St. Paul's Church Tuesday, the business occupying the entire day. At this meeting reports are received from all the committees of the Presbytery, and the whole work of the Presbyterian Church in this district is passed under review. The first business was the election of a new Moderator. The Rev. Mr. Bremner of Cobourg was chosen.

One innovation in Presbyterian polity was sanctioned, namely, the decision to allow deaconesses the standing of corresponding members of the Presbytery, and permit them and lady missionaries, when no other person competent to officiate is present, to baptize children. The resignation of Dr. McKenzie of Colborne was granted, to take place on the 4th of May, which will be the fortieth anniversary of his ordination to the ministry. The Presbytery recommended to congregations that an opportunity be given, where so desired, to contribute to the expenses of the Union Committee. The Rev. C. McKinnon, D.D., Principal of the Presbyterian College, Halifax, was nominated as Moderator for next Assembly.

A Resolution.

The following resolution on the temperance question was authorized:

1. That the Presbytery appreciates the difficulties under which the Government labors in its efforts to enforce the Ontario Temperance Act.

2. That the Presbytery expresses its belief that the beneficial results that have attended the operation of the O.T.A. form a strong argument that the Act should be given reasonable time under favorable conditions to prove its full value in controlling the liquor traffic.

3. That the Presbytery believes that there is no widespread or general desire for a vote on the matter, and respectfully suggests that a special committee of the House be appointed to obtain information on the subject before any decision is reached regarding a plebiscite or referendum.

The following were appointed commissioners to the General Assembly: Rev. G. I. Craw, Springville; Rev. P. L. Jull, Lakefield; Rev. D. A. Thompson, Hastings, and Rev. C. F. McIntosh, Campbellford.

The following elders were also elected: Mr. James Dutton, Peterboro; Mr. J. H. Walker, Port Hope; Mr. J. Dick, Warkworth, and also an elder from Springville.

THE ROTARY ANNES BALANCE $433.25

This Amount is Being Turned Over to Help in Work of Rotary Club.

In the report of the Rotary luncheon on Monday a typographical error was responsible for stating that a balance of $33.25 would be turned over to the club by the Rotary-Annes to help in the crippled children's work and in equipping the boys' camp. The correct figure should have been $433.25—a mere difference of $400. The Rotary-Annes have done splendid work during the year and their contribution is thoroughly appreciated by the Rotary Club.

PETERBORO MALE VOICE CHOIR.

A splendid attendance was again recorded at the weekly rehearsal of the above organization in the Greene Music Studio. The month of March is a particularly severe one, with the additional practices, and the members are in real earnest, to give a good account of themselves in their exacting selections on Friday, March 28, at the annual concert. Three outstanding Canadian artists have been engaged for this event, and the executive officers are confident that the music-lovers of Peterboro will again be handsomely rewarded for their attendance. M. Murray-Davey, famous basse-chantante, Covent Garden, Paris and Brussels Opera, etc.; Miss Nellye Gill, leading Canadian soprano, Toronto, and Gladstone Brown, tenor, formerly soloist New York Symphony Orchestra, Russian Symphony Orchestra, and London, England, Choral Society, are taking part in this year's concert. Last evening's report of tickets sold was proof that the Choir will have a capacity house. This ready response on behalf of the public for tickets is appreciated, and will stimulate the members in their efforts to make the 1924 concert a success.

STOP IT!

Why Cough Your Head Off

Make Your Own Cough Mixture for the Whole Family and Save Money. It's Easy.

When you can make in your own home a wonderful cough mixture far ahead of any you can buy ready made, why not do it?

This home made mixture will stop the most stubborn cough and is fine for chest colds and acute catarrh. Children love it.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make half a pint—that's all there is to it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

Any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

PARENTS PAINT BABIES, ENGLISH WOMAN SAYS.

Asserts "Nice Little Girls" Are Rouged and Powdered.

LONDON, March 12. — A woman writer in the Daily Chronicle protests against the growing fashion of "painted angels."

"At least half the small girls who were having their dancing lesson were made up," she writes of an exclusive West-end class. Some were actually painted and had their cheeks touched up with rouge, while others showed a considerable use of powder and sundry artificial beauty aids. There were the children of "quite nice" parents.

Beauty specialists have plenty of child clients, the writer declares.

"Baby girls not yet in double figures have their hair tinted or actually dyed, to say nothing of the permanent waving, curling, and shampooing which are matters of habit. Rouge is being used far too much on tiny children."

Athletic Association Held Annual Election--William Wellman, President.

HASTINGS, March 12. — The Hastings Amateur Athletic Association met on Monday evening, March 10, to re-organize for the coming season.

This year the association has elected new officers. A fairly large crowd was present at the meeting, in spite of the fact that another important meeting was in progress.

The election of a treasurer was also an important subject of discussion, Mr. A. V. German at last consenting to act, upon motion of Mr. R. N. Simpson and Mr. N. Scriver.

Mr. Carlos Runnels is the newly elected secretary, this motion being put through by Mr. Lou Scriver and Mr. R. N. Simpson.

The honorary presidents are the clergymen of the town, namely: Rev. D. A. Thompson, Rev. M. L. Hinton, Rev. Father C. S. Bretherton and Rev. W. A. Pippen.

Dr. Hess, who has been the association's president for the last year, made a few remarks, saying that now that he was resigning from office, he wished the association the best of success in the coming year. He also said he was sorry the trouble that had occurred during the last year had seemed unavoidable, but hoped it would soon be cleared up.

After this the meeting adjourned until an early date, when baseball and lacrosse will be re-organized for the coming season.

In Mountains Near Sogamosa, 100 Miles From Bogota, According to Message.

BOGOTA, Columbia, March 12.—(United Press.) — The celebrated "Temple of the Sun" of the Chibchas Indians, long known in the Columbian legend, has been discovered by a scientific expedition making the explorations in the mountains near Sogamosa, 100 miles from Bogota, according to a message reached here to-day.

The ruins of the temple were found after extensive excavations by private workers, acting on information obtained from manuscripts of the old Spanish Conquistadores.

Many idols of gold, decorated with emeralds and other precious stones, have been found in the grottos of the temple. The academy of history has intervened in the discovery and will superintend further excavations to see that the historical relics are preserved properly for the nations.

According to the old Spanish manuscripts, the temple was sacked in 1537 after a fierce battle between the Conquistadores and the Indians, and later expeditions were unable to find it again.

GIRL 'MOTHER' A SUICIDE

Young Woman Discouraged Over Failure to Raise Brother and Sister

PITTSBURGH, March 11.—The care of a household, which included playing the part of mother to three younger children, was assigned as the cause of sudden death of sixteen year old Gladys Singleton at her home in Creighton, near here. Her body was found in her bedroom by other members of the family a few minutes after they heard the report of a pistol.

A farewell note said she was discouraged because of her failure to raise her two brothers and sister. The mother died six years ago.

Validity of O.T.A. In Supreme Court

OTTAWA, Mar. 12.—(Canadian Press.) — The Supreme Court yesterday afternoon reserved judgment on the case before the court for some days which raises interesting questions of law as to the validity of the Ontario Temperance Act. On the one hand, it was argued that the Ontario Temperance Act was not an Act prohibiting the sale of liquor for beverage purposes in as much as it allowed the general sale of native wine. On behalf of the Attorney-General of Ontario, the view was taken, on the other hand that the prohibition need not be absolute, that one prohibiting sale generally would suffice.

TORONTO FIRE WAS CAUSED BY TRAMP

Old Toronto Clubhouse Completely Destroyed by Fire Early This Morning.

TORONTO, March 12 (Canadian Press). — The old Toronto Lacrosse Clubhouse, just south of St. Andrew's College, Rosedale, was burned to the ground by a fire which broke out at 12.50 this morning.

With it have gone the cricket outfits of the Rosedale Cricket Club, senior and junior, and the Yorkshire Club, together with several tennis racquets and nets and other sporting equipment.

The blaze was both stubborn and spectacular.

The old structure, built thirty years ago, and condemned two years ago, by the city authorities, proved ready fuel, and efforts of the firemen were necessarily confined to keeping the blaze from damaging the adjoining trees.

Tramps, it is believed, were the cause of the fire. It is known that wanderers sometimes made use of the club buildings at nights, and according to Harold Livingstone, the secretary of the Rosedale Community Club, the fire probably started as a result of the carelessness of some irresponsible person.

DEBATE DRAGS IN OTTAWA HOUSE

Tariff Policy of the Government Discussed Yesterday.

OTTAWA, March 12 (Canadian Press). — Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative, Fort William, Rainy River, in the House of Commons yesterday attacked the Government's tariff policy and made charges of unkept promises. He urged national policy that would retain the home market for products and would protect Canada from cheap foreign labour.

"I am prepared to help the West, but I am not prepared to ruin the East to help the West," declared R. Manion. He divided the Speech from the Throne into an expression of doubt, meaning pious hopes, promises of better conduct, and mis-statements of facts.

His speech was a strong defence of Protection. He admitted supporting Reciprocity in 1911 but declared that present conditions made a strong Protectice policy indispensable to Canada.

Dr. Manion attacked the administration of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, affirming that it was difficult for ex-soldiers to get justice under the present Government.

W. T. Lucas, Progressive, Victoria, advocated the removal of the judiciary from the hands of the Government. He would have the appointment of Judges controlled by law societies and bar associations.

W. E. Baldwin, Liberal Stanstead, G. H. N. Dickie Conservative, Nanaimo, Murray MacLaren, Conservative, St. John, and Albert G. E. Stomart, Progressive, Rumboldt, and A. E. Ross, Conservative, Kingston, took part in the debate.

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, said that the revision of the powers of the Home Bank Commission would be held over until the return of the Prime Minister.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

PREFERENCE TO EMPIRE GOODS

Practice of British Government Departments Said War Secretary, But Conference Recommendations Were Outside His Office.

LONDON, March 11—(Canadian Press Cable)—Stephen Walsh, secretary of state for war, replying to a question in the House of Commons to-day, said it was the practice of the government departments to give preference within reasonable limits to goods and materials produced within the empire, but the question of formal adherence to the resolution passed at the imperial economic conference on the matter was not for the war office to decide.

Asked whether he would give a similar undertaking to that given to the imperial economic conference by his predecessor in the war secretaryship, Lord Derby, that in every case the dominions' source of supply would be considered in connection with the awarding of a contract, Mr. Walsh said he had no official knowledge that Lord Derby had said anything of the kind—nor any other lord.

This was greeted with cheers from the ministerial benches.

C.N.R. BROADCAST OPERA TONIGHT

Two Acts of "The Yeomen of the Guard" Will Be Sung From the Ottawa Station.

MONTREAL, March 12. — Something new in the way of radio broadcast in Canada will be given from station CKCH, Canadian National Railways, Ottawa, to-night, when the musical selections from the first and second acts of Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "The Yeomen of the Guard," will be broadcast.

On several occasions stations in the U. S., have broadcast comic and grand opera but an attempt to do so has never been made before by a Canadian station.

"The Yeomen of the Guard" is one of the most tuneful of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, and the artists who will sing the numbers from station CKCH are from what is known as the Orpheus Amateur Operatic Society of Ottawa.

This society is made up of some of the cleverest amateur actors and actresses in Canada and their work in the past has received very favorable comment from musical and dramatic critics in Eastern Canada.

There is a large male and female chorus as well as male and female soloists of distinction.

EAT RAISINS THIS TIME OF YEAR.

They Are of Great Value to the Health of Men, Women and Children.

At this time of the year, every person should eat raisins, either raw, in pie, cake or bread. The body is undergoing changes and this fruit helps to build up the system. People should make a habit of eating some every day. The children going to school should have a few handfuls in their pocket. The office man, and the laborer should all eat some each day for fatigue.

A large California concern, whose billboards and window displays are appearing in town, are the only concern who sterilizes their fruit, and all raisins are tested for sugar content, which run higher than the average fruit.

"Twenty Pay Life Policy?"

A true story of a Canada Life Policy issued over forty years ago.

At age 30 he secured a $5,000 Twenty Pay Life Policy.

At age 35 he received his first Dividend, which was added to the Policy

At age 50 he received notice that his Policy, with 20 years' Dividends, was fully paid for.

At age 70 he withdrew the cash value for his personal use. For years he had $5,000 protection, and the cash value, with dividends, was now about twice the amount he had paid in premiums.

Instead of taking the available cash in a lump sum, if he so desired, the Company would have given it to him in the form of a monthly income for life.

A Policy on your life will do much towards carrying out your intentions—whether you live or die.

Nothing can absolutely replace your life—but a policy will in some measure offset the financial loss which will come to those who now look to you for support

It may pay off the mortgage, supply food and clothing for your family, keep the children at school.

It may be all that is left of your life work—to keep you in comfort in your old age.

But—your Policy must be large enough.

The Twenty Payment Life

policy is selected by many for the following reasons.

Premiums cease in twenty years—therefore your policy will be fully paid for before you reach later life—when your earning power will have declined.

Cash values increase year by year, and after the third annual premium the policy cannot lapse as long as sufficient value exists.

Dividends are paid during the twenty years and as long as the policy remains in force thereafter.

After two years the policy is indisputable, and you may reside or travel in any part of the world, or engage in any occupation (except aviation) without affecting your insurance.

A twenty pay life policy will provide an amount in event of death equal to twenty or thirty times the annual premium, and produce an estate of $2,000, $5,000, $10,000, or more as arranged.

An Easy Savings Plan

These active progressive years of life in which you are earning the most money are the years in which premiums can be most easily met.

Twenty years is a convenient period and premiums spread over that length of time are moderate and easy to handle.

If You Are Insurable

—do not delay decision on this important matter—delays are dangerous.

BONUSING INDUSTRIES.

The announcement that the Ontario and Quebec Legislatures are adopting a common policy in regard to the bonusing of industries by municipalities removes any doubt of the value of the legislation along this line to the introduced with the Ontario Legislature.

The co-operation of the two Provinces remove the complaint that in adopting such a measure Ontario would be handicapping herself in race for new industries with her sister Province.

Now, however, every municipality in Ontario and Quebec will be on a similar footing in regard to new manufacturing concerns as nowhere in either Province will the bonusing of industries be permitted.

The next step will be the abolition of the present right of municipalities to grant exemption of taxes to industrial concerns.

For the present this privilege is not to be interfered with, but if there is a possibility of Quebec's willingness to co-operate in this regard as well as in the matter of bonusing, the end of the practice of exempting industries may not be long delayed.

Its coming will be in the public interest.

THE AMERICAN PLAN.

The suggestion that the American practice of handing in speeches to be printed in the official records without actually being delivered is one that commends itself as the debate on the Speech from the Throne drags along its weary way.

The leaders have made their contribution, and all that is really important has been said, yet the backbenchers continue to distribute their words relentlessly around the House.

From present indications the flow of oratory will not be checked for another week.

Much of what is being said is obviously for home consumption; it is for the benefit of the faithful constituents, and the speeches that are now being delivered are full of parochial matters of little or no interest to the majority of the members or of the public.

The American plan meets this situation exactly.

The speeches instead of being delivered are printed and put in the records, and the politician has his copies ready to mail to the folks back home as a proof of how well he is looking after their interests.

The system saves time, tempers and voices, and so far as the main object of the speech is concerned covers the ground as thoroughly as if the member actually got up in the House and delivered his message.

Certainly there is little to be said for the Canadian method, which allows members to occupy weary hours in dreary speeches that serve no useful purpose.

PETERBOROUGH'S HOCKEY TEAM.

Although they failed by the narrowest possible margin to win the championship after an uphill fight that won widespread admiration, the members of the Peterborough intermediate hockey team deserve well of their fellow-citizens for the manner in which they have advertised this city from one end of this Province to the other.

They have played clean hockey and have never failed to act as sportsmen and gentlemen.

They have accepted victory gracefully and taken defeat without a whimper, and the respect of every team they have played against and of the outside fans before whom they have performed has been theirs throughout the season.

A thoroughly home-brew team, practically all of whom learned their hockey in Peterborough, they have been a team to be proud of, and they should be paid the same honour as if the championship which slipped out of their hands in the dying moments of the final game had been won.

Peterborough sport lovers have to thank every member of the team for a winter of good sport, and for a most gallant fight for the Provincial honors.

When it is considered that owing to weather conditions they were deprived of a chance to play one of the finals on their own ice and had to meet their opponents at Niagara Falls first and then on neutral ice under conditions that favoured the rival team, there was as much glory for the vanquished as for the victors in this final series.

Congratulations, "Petes"!

FRENCH SCHOOLS IN ONTARIO.

We publish among our letters today an appeal for a more liberal attitude in Ontario toward the use and teaching of French in the schools of that Province largely or wholly attended by French pupils. It is the old trouble over Regulation No. 17; and it would appear at this distance as if the trouble came more from the enforcement of the Regulation than from anything inherent in its provisions.

So far as the use of French as the language of instruction goes, this has always seemed to us to be a matter for common-sense treatment. It is impossible to teach a child in a language he does not understand. Then it must increase the difficulties in the way of instructing a child to insist upon teaching him in a language which he only understands partially or with difficulty. And it is the simple truth that far too many of our children of all races and languages are privileged to enjoy an all too short period in school. We should surely try to teach them as much as possible in the time that arduous economic conditions permit them to attend.

Any notion that English-speaking Ontario is in danger of being submerged by the French language because pupils in the narrow and isolated French districts are allowed in the lower grades to "learn in French," is too ridiculous for consideration. One of the things they learn is to speak English. The fact is that the economic pressure on the French population in Ontario, and even in Quebec, to learn English is so tremendous that the danger is not that we shall all become French, but that the beautiful French speech will eventually disappear, as it has virtually done in Louisiana. And this would be a genuine loss to the culture, to the picturesqueness, to the traditions and history of this country.

The Ontario Government has from time to time made a number of concessions intended to meet the complaint that French pupils are unfairly treated. The new Premier, Mr. Ferguson, made a cordial statement recently during a visit to Quebec City which greatly heartened, not only the French people, but all intelligent friends of the Bonne Entente — that vitally necessary good understanding between the two great races which form most of the population of this country. That is, he promised to turn a fresh and friendly eye on the situation and see if all grievances could not be removed.

It will be earnestly hoped that he will display the courage and long-visioned statesmanship to carry out this policy. There should be no school question in this country anywhere. Nothing is more dangerous or divisive. The English-speaking educationalists in Ontario want French taught their pupils. Even the veteran James L. Hughes—a well-known Orangeman—stressed this point in a report last year. A knowledge of French is a test of scholarship anywhere, and it should be especially so in a bi-lingual nation like ours.

May we point out to Ontario that we have no parallel question in this Province? Yet no one will say that the English-speaking minority in Quebec is especially tame or submissive. Why then are we not fighting a Quebec "Regulation 17"? Because there has been no attempt to impose one on us. Our friends in Ontario might think this over when next they are tempted to talk about "French domination."—Montreal Star.

WHY THE CALIPH WAS BANISHED.

The abolition of the Mohammedan Caliphate by the Turkish National Assembly at Angora and the dramatic expulsion of the Caliph-Sultan from Constantinople, is a step which seems to be little understood by the outside world if we are to judge by the comments in the press of foreign capitals. The attention of these foreigners is quite naturally concentrated on the very considerable effect which this move must have on the foreign influence of Turkey. They point out that it must greatly weaken the interest which the Moslem communities in India, Egypt and North Africa generally take in Turkish fortunes, and so weaken the authority of Turkey in international councils.

An object lesson in this phase of the question is fresh in the international mind. When Turkey was at bay after the war, the European Powers had little fear of her—not yet sensing the possibilities of the Angora revival—but they did genuinely fear the resentment of the Mohammedans in India and North Africa if they dealt too harshly with the nation of the Caliph. They felt themselves confronted, not only by a shattered Ottoman Empire, but by a suspicious and sullen Moslem world. This was a very great help to Turkey. Indeed, not a little of the respite which enabled her to "come back" was due to this universal dread of arousing Islam to a "holy war." So, from the foreign policy standpoint, it seems inexplicable that the Turks should voluntarily and unnecessarily fling away this shining sword.

But, of course, there are other elements in the problem as seen from the hillsides of Angora. The new Turk clearly finds the ecclesiastical domination of the Caliphate to be a hindrance in the path of progress. He is thinking far more of his domestic comfort and his emancipation from the hampering customs and traditions of the past than he is of the authority of his Government in foreign affairs. He wants to modernize Turkey; but the whole religious organization of which the Caliphate is the apex, is against him. The ignorance, superstition and reactionary influence of the mullahs is always a tremendous force against advancement towards Western ideals. And it is precisely toward Western ideals that the new Turkey is moving.

So the Angora Assembly has deliberately stripped itself of the powerful support in the international field which the devotion to the Caliphate of millions of Mohammedans all over the East has long brought to the Turk, in order to get a freer hand in domestic reform. No more convincing proof of its sincerity could be given. We only get echoes from time to time of the fight for progress which is proceeding in that isolated Anatolian Capital. There was, for instance, the striking and courageous stride forward to monogamy. The world wondered and admired. It seemed too good to be true. Then we began to hear that it could not be carried out. The backward country districts were against it. The example of the Caliph, with his numberless wives and concubines, was against it. Doubtless the mullahs throughout the villages and hamlets, sympathetic with the desire of the peasants for many wives to work for them, asked whether these new reformers were more righteous than the head of the Church?

This is only one point. There would be many others. And now the Angora leaders have taken the bull by the horns and expelled the Caliph. They had rather get along without his political influence in India and Africa than suffer his cramping moral and material influence at home. It would seem as if the sympathy of the Western World should be heartily with these friends of progress. We may jockey with each other in our inevitable race to get the Caliphate as a feature in our own political armory; but we should have the honesty to recognize the pluck and the sincerity of the no longer "unspeakable Turk" in his splendid effort to lift his country out of the morass of an Asian mediaevalism.—Montreal Star.

FATE'S THUMBS DOWN ON NOSES UP

Germany may dodge the Allies' orders. This is the news from Germany. It has been the new from Germany for years. If the Germans keep on defying, we see nothing but disaster. The children will grow up with their noses pointed skyward. Then it might rain in their noses and that would be a terrible calamity.

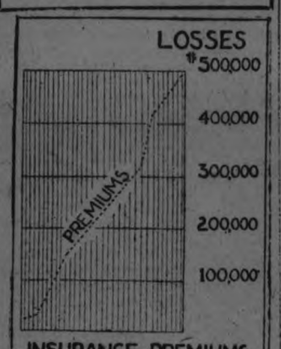
MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY



INSURANCE PREMIUMS RISE WITH THE LOSSES.

The cost of insurance increases with the risk. The greater the losses, the higher the premium all must pay.

"I am not so particular about locking my windows any more," remarked one woman. "We carry burglar insurance, you know, and I wouldn't lose anything, really, if we were robbed." This attitude of mind is not entirely feminine.

While it is true that the so-called 'crime wave" has been the largest single factor in the amazing increase in burglar insurance rates over the country—an increase that runs from ten to thirty per cent. in metropolitan centres — carelessness of property holders has also helped bring about higher premiums. People have become so used to insurance and the comfort it brings in time of loss, that they tend to forget that each loss is paid out of the pocket of every policy holder. The more losses, the higher the premium —how else could the companies stay in business?

Carelessness in the care of cash or jewelry, thus inviting theft, increases the cost of burglar insurance for all. Care in avoiding loss by theft, or by fire, not only prevents loss of material resources, but tends to reduce the cost of protection.

Floating Specks Before The Eyes Means Liver Trouble

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything seems to turn black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you can rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and clear away the accumulated mass of waste and poisonous matter from the system.

Mr .Chas. Ayland, Frankville, Ont., writes:—"I used to be awfully bothered with floating specks before my eyes, headaches and sickness to my stomach. I took just half a vial of your Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and ever since I have felt as well as I ever did. Now I always keep them on hand."

U.S. MILLS NEED CANADA'S WHEAT

Wall Street Journal Questions Effects of Increased Tariff — May Result In Raising Price of Bread.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(Canadian Press.)—The Wall Street Journal, in an editorial printed to-day, says that the United States' Agricultural interests who hope to gain by President Coolidge's recent increase in the wheat tariff, "may be grasping at a shadow and may receive no permanent benefit.'

"It is hard to figure out the advantage of laying an import duty on an export commodity," the paper continues, "and wheat is one of the large surplus crops depending upon export trade. There are times when there might be some small local advantage in the north-west, but on the balance the advantage would seem greatly offset by other considerations."

The Wall Street Journal points out that United States millers in order to maintain the quality of their product must have a certain proportion of hard wheat from Canada to mix with the softer United States grades, saying:

"Whatever is necessary the mills must obtain if they would keep up their trade, no matter whether the tariff is 30 cents or 42." The United States mills, the paper argues, cannot lose their export trade and must meet competition abroad with equal prices.

They must seek to recoup their export losses in the home market, the final result of which would be higher bread for the people of the United States."

BRITISH RURAL PROBLEM SOCIAL

LONDON, March 11.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Walter Smith, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of agriculture, addressing a conference to-day at Westminster in connection with the village clubs association said he always felt that those who left the village either for the purpose of entering the large industrial centres or emigrating to the dominions were very largely the type of persons that in the interest of British agriculture should remain in this country. No industry, he said, and least of all agriculture, could afford to lose a person born and bred in the country.

Sir Henry Rew, a prominent agriculturist who has served in many public capacities presided at the conference. He said he felt stronkly that the rural problem was not only economic, but to a considerable extent social. During the last two years 60,000 regular agricultural laborers lost their employment, he said. It was not claimed that the development of village life would stop the exodus from the land but it would be making the conditions of human existence more consonant with modern ideas and would be contribution to enable the villagers and agricultural laborers stay at home.

EXPRESS GIVES PROFIT TO C.P.R.

Contention of G. R. Geary Representing Toronto in Opposing Application For Increase In Express Rates.

OTTAWA, March 12.—(Canadian Press.) — From evidence produced Tuesday before the Board of Railway Commissioners in the hearing of the express traffic association's application for an increase in express rates, G. R. Geary, counsel for the City of Toronto contended that the Canadian Pacific Railway it was shown, he said, that the actual cost of express car operation was 38.81 cents per car mile while the actual income from the operation was 36.02 cents per car mile. Under cross-examination, E. E. Lloyd, assistant comptroller general of the Canadian Pacific Railway stated that certain features of traffic expenses not bearing directly upon the express business were charged to express in the auditing.

The division of the insurance accounts, station employees' wages, and insurance costs also affected express charges, it was stated.

By an analysis of the operating cost per mile, given by the C.P.R. as 38.82 cents Mr. Geary contended through evidence given that the actual cost of operating an express car was only 34.05 cents per car mile. The revenue being 30.02 cents according to the C.P.R. statement Mr. Geary claimed that the company was in reality making a profit. If the proper deductions had been made from the operating costs, he said it would be shown that the company was actually getting more than they asked for from the express branch.

The cost of the sale of passenger tickets and the expenses of procuring business for the passenger department could not be fairly borne by the express department in any way, contended Mr. Geary. It was also stated in the evidence that damages paid as result of injury to persons struck by trains was shared by the express department because the express car was considered part of the train which committed the injury.

Under examination of G. McGier representing British Columbia shippers, Mr. Lloyd said the company had no method of locating the cost of operation within the zones of certain rates. Operating expenses could only be ascertained, he said, on a basis of cost per car mile.

FRANCE SCORED ON EXCHANGE IN FRANC'S BATTLE

Nation Presenting United Front With Back to Financial Wall — Tide Appeared to Have Turned On Market Tuesday With Reports of Assistance From J. P. Morgan & Co.

CONFIDENCE REVIVED

PARIS, March 12.—France scored yesterday in what is becoming known throughout the country as "the battle of the franc." Sterling sold last night at 113.50 and the dollar at 26.50, showing a drop of 6.50 and 1.65 respectively from the high peak of 120 and 28.15 reached Monday night. The entire French nation is thoroughly aroused over the danger. The people have their back to the financial wall and are assuming a temper recalling the days of 1918, when France was fighting another battle with her very life at stake.

Beginning Monday morning the French through the National Bank, adopting the old axiom that an offensive is the best defense, launched a counter-attack on the Paris Bourse, and with the latest developments last evening the tone of the Bourse changed. The opinion is expressed that United States allies are coming to France's assistance in the battle she is waging in defense of her depreciated currency.

The French, though not shouting victory as yet, feel that the tide has turned. Bourse operators are convinced that negotiations are under way between the French Ministry and J. P. Morgan and Company of New York, whereby a sum larger than $50,000,000 mentioned in New York despatches is to be placed at the disposal of the Treasury. Negotiations, it is understood, were begun some weeks ago, before the crisis developed into its present acuteness. Although the Ministry refuses to confirm that an arrangement has been concluded, some of the keenest operators the Bourse are acting as if the matter was settled.

It had affected the tone of trading, which is developing an optimistic atmosphere, lacking since the present downward drive of the franc begin. When the Ministry of Finance was requested to confirm or deny the report of the Morgan transaction, the reply was: "This is no time to give publicity to such an accord, if it exists."

The past two days have been very active in exchange on the Paris Bourse. The Bank of France openly took charge of the operations. Confidence, which was badly shaken during the past four weeks, appears to be somewhat restored, but the French realize that they still have a hard fight ahead of them.

The Chamber's voting exemption of income tax on interest on national defense bonds by 425 to 135 has created a favorable impression and is expected to halt the sales of these bonds, which were assuming such a magnitude recently as to threaten the necessity of Bank of France resorting to inflation to meet the demands for reimbursements.

"RESOLVED: That inasmuch as we believe that the O.T.A. is far superior to 'Government Sale' and that sufficient time has not yet been given to demonstrate its growing efficiency in controlling the liquor traffic. We therefore deprecate the desire on the part of a few to put this province to the unnecessary expense of another referendum so soon after the decisive votes of recent years, but hope that the present act, strengthened and safeguarded, will receive the hearty support of the Government and may become increasingly effective in the regulation and suppression of the liquor traffic.

SOCIAL EVENTS IN MILLBROOK

Surprise Party and Other Entertainments Featured Week — Mr. and Mrs. Allan Mitchell Honored.

MILLBROOK, March 12.—A delightful surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Mitchell, Fallis Line, on Friday evening, when about forty-five of the friends and neighbors took them by storm and spent a social time before their removal to Millbrook to reside permanently.

Practically every family on the Line was represented and a jolly evening spent in community singing, social converse, games and dancing. Shortly after the various sleigh-loads had arrived, the following address was read, and Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, with the latter's sister, Miss Anderson, presented with a mantle clock, half a dozen sterling knives and forks, and a purse, respectively.

"It was with feelings of regret that we learned of your decision to leave our Line, and we have gathered here tonight in order to show you, in some small way, the esteem in which you are held by your neighbors and friends.

We have always found you good citizens, and kind, obliging neighbors, always ready to lend a helping hand to anyone in need. You will be missed by all, but it is pleasant to know that you are not going very far away.

We ask you to accept these gifts as tokens of our appreciation of the good deeds you have done while among us.

We wish you health and prosperity in your new home, and hope you may be spared to enjoy many years of happiness together."

This was signed by Austin Sutton and W. Fred Fallis.

Though taken entirely by surprise, Mr. Sutton made suitable reply on behalf of his wife, Miss Anderson, and himself, and everyone joined in singing, "For they are jolly, good fellows."

After a bountiful supper had been served, short addresses were made by Messrs. Stewart Fallis, H. A. Fallis, and A. J. Fallis, M.P.P.—the latter arriving from the city just in time to join in the happy event.

Much credit for the careful planning, and considerable amount of work involved in making the gathering the success which it was, is due to the unsparing efforts of Mr. Austin Sutton, who from the first was the moving spirt in the enjoyable affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell are moving this week to the house on Queen Street lately vacated by Mr. A. E. Rae, the latter moving to Peterboro.

Social Gathering

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dawson, 7th Line, Cavan, were host and hostesses for a pleasant social gathering on Friday evening, when guests to the number of about seventy-five gathered in their home and enjoyed games, contests and dancing until long past the midnight hour.

The Byam family orchestra furnished music for the round and square dances, the floor in the two large rooms cleared for this purpose being constantly filled with those preferring this form of entertainment.

A contest, "Guessing Advertisements," provided much interest and amusement, the first prize going to Hr. W. Wood, of Monaghan, and the consolation to Mr. W. Larmer.

Among those from Millbrook and vicinity who were present were: Mr. W. E. and Miss Thelma Ball, Miss Celia Hunter, Miss Florence Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam, Miss May Byam, Messrs. R. Fallis, Melville Ball, J. Thompson, Lloyd Byam and Aubrey Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. O. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Larmer, and Miss Florence Larmer were also among the guests.

SIX MONTHS

thought it would be advisable to change the act so that those guilty of selling liquor illegally would be sent to jail without the option of a fine. He said that there had not yet been sufficient time to test the O.T.A out properly, and gave as another reason for being against a referendum that the cost would be too great an expenditure. He also said that such an act might be unconstitutional and thereby subject to attack in the courts. He then moved the amendment to the amendment.

Sustain the O.T.A.

A. C. Lewis (Northeast Toronto), said the opposition was trying to make people believe that the act before the House proposed changes in the O.T.A. He declared there were more supporters of temperance on the government side than there was on the opposition side, but they had no desire to prevent a vote if a large proportion of the people of Ontario wanted one. In doing so they were not stultifying their temperance principles.

"This whole discussion started by the member for East Wellington (Mr. Raney) is being dragged in with a view to forcing the government to do what it does not want to do, put this question into the political arena, to be fought out there," said Mr. Lewis, who said he thought on a vote that the people would sustain the O.T.A.

Hon. W. E. Raney, the next speaker, said he would like any member in the House to explain how there was a sufficiency of demand nw for a vote on the liquor question. He declared that the Premier, because of his campaign utterances and his actions now, was betraying the people of Ontario. He quoted the Premier as saying during the election campaign that when there was a real demand for a vote that it would be given.

"I ask now, as I have asked before, and the question has been side-stepped, if the government thinks there is a real demand for a vote now?" continued Mr. Raney.

The Premier declared he had no desire to sidestep anything, but the question had nothing to do with the bill.

Bill Essential.

Mr. Raney pressed his question, and the Premier replied: "Let me answer the question by asking another: If there was a sufficient demand to convince even my honorable friend next fall, say, how could a vote be taken without this bill being passed?"

Mr. Raney said he would not reply but stated that if there was not a demand now then the government had no right to bring in the bill at this session. The Premier's pledge, he said, required him not to bring down such a bill until there had been a real demand.

Mr. Raney also argued that the bill was not constitutional. He contended that the framing of the questions to be submitted to the people was legislation and was therefore beyond the power of the government. Neither could the Legislature delegate by any act the power to the government to frame legislation. All legislation including the question on a fererendum he contended must be framed by legislation passed in the House.

Vote a Preliminary.

Mr. Nickle replying declared that an expression of opinion from the people on any question was not binding on a government. Having secured an expression of opinion the government then went ahead with its legislation which was submitted to the House in due course and according to parliamentary practice.

Peter Heenan (Lib. Kenora) said it was time the people had a vote on the question and that he would vote for the bill with the hope that in committee it would be amended to contain the questions proposed for the people to vote on, and also a definite date upon which the question would be submitted.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page, a charming country girl, falls in love with

Bert Traymore, a fascinating philanderer, whom a chance meeting brings into her quiet life.

Janet Mercer, Prudence's dearest friend, an older woman, plain but clever, is masseuse to the delicate child of

Mrs. Vansittart, a pleasure-loving woman-of-the-world, owner of Winston Towers, a beautiful summer home, which she fills with visitors.

Virginian Dale, Mrs. Vansittart's ward, is a blase beauty who counts Traymore among her many swains. She is deeply interested in

Peter Armstrong, a brilliant young inventor, clever, ambitious and reliable. He is already fond of little Prudence whom he has met once.

Traymore fails to keep an engagement with Prudence, and later the same evening, she hears him making love to Virginia. She cries herself to sleep. Virginia, in the meantime has come to realize that she really loves Peter, and she is resolved to capture his heart.

Virginia's beauty is preserved at the cost of much time and effort.

Traymore makes a lame excuse for breaking the tea date, but Prudence is too relieved to be skeptical. She is invited to a ball at Winston Towers.

At the ball at Winston Towers Prudence finds herself a wall-flower, neglected by Bert, who has pretended to love her—so she slips away into the darkness.

CHAPTER XVI

Another Prince Charming

Prudence ran down the drive that led away from Winston Towers, like one possessed.

Burning humiliation, at that moment, quite eclipsed her pain over Bert Traymore's defection. Hateful people! Hateful house!

Never again would she walk inside its portals. Its guests were vain and callous and self-centred, and just because her frock was badly made, and she didn't happen to be 'in their set,' they had ignored her!

Even her hostess had been rude.

Why, why had she been invited? Perhaps it was some scheme of Miss Virginia Dale's, to show her—Prudence Page—that the gay world had but little time for country bumpkins, who didn't know the ropes, and who were ignorant of the latest dance-steps, and the sort of airy persiflage that's graced by the name of 'conversation' at these functions!

Lombardy poplars edged the carriage-drive, standing stiffly in the moonlight, and a gentle breeze was fluttering the young amber leaves. It made an eerie sort of sighing . . . fitting accompaniment to her mood.

A point of light was coming up the drive, and Prudence slackened her mad run, crossing over to the grass so that her footsteps wouldn't make a sound.

To get away from the scene of her humiliation as quickly and as quietly as possible, was her one ambition.

She swerved at right angles, making for a privet hedge that had a gap in it, through which she could escape.

With swift feet she crossed the lawns, praying she might encounter no one. Oh, to be alone, alone!

Once through the privet hedge, the way was clearer. Prudence broke into a run. And then her foot caught in some trailing creepers, and with a little cry of pain she tripped and fell, the new gown tearing at the hem, and one bare arm with a great scratch upon it.

This was the last straw. Prudence wept in utter self-abandonment.

Oh, castles-in-the-air, forever vanished! lovely dreams, that bitter waking had made null and void!

"Say there! Hold on! Who's there?"

Prudence started at the sound of a man's gruff voice, jerking herself upright, frightened. Was he a tramp? A robber?

No! He couldn't be! Tramps, anyhow, wouldn't be in evening clothes, would they? And this man wore his dress-suit so easily and gracefully that—misery!—he must be one of 'them' . .

"What's happened? Are you hurt? I thought I heard someone cry out." He moved right up to her, then gave a startled exclamation: "Darned if it isn't the little girl I met down by the trout-pool!"

The trout-pool? Was this the man who had thrown Bert Traymore in the water? He had his back now to the moon, and so she couldn't see the outlines of his face.

He was! That voice, gruff and yet wonderfully attractive, with a kindly, honest ring about it . . . one couldn't hate the voice, although she disliked the man, big, burly giant that he was!

"I'm all right. I mean, I caught my foot in the creepers—" She turned her tear-blotted face away from the revealing moon, and tried to speak with ease, although something still caught in her throat, making speech difficult.

"Haven't sprained the foot, have you?" His voice was very kind and reassuring. "I used to be a Princeton player, and what I don't know about sprains and bruises isn't worth knowing."

"It—it doesn't hurt any more. I got a fright, that's all." She was hatefully conscious of the tears still on her cheeks, and with a quick, surreptitious movement, tried to wipe them off.

"Then that's all right. D'you know, I'm mighty glad I met you, little lady, because—"—here he said perfectly amazing thing—"because I've been busy fighting the blue devils, and I think heaven must have sent you along to me as 'second' . . ."

"'Second'? What is that?"

"Oh, backer-up. The fellow who gives encouragement. Honestly, I'm glad I met you, and hope you won't run away immediately, because I need your company."

He needed her company? She, who, herself, had just been plunged into a bottomless pit of misery!

It was too strange, too utterly absurd!

She hesitated, then in a low voice she said:

"I'm not too happy myself. But if there's anything I can do——"

Ignoring the first part of her remark, he answered, gratefully:

"Why, if you'll stand by, for a bit, and we can have a chat together, that would buck me up immensely."

Odd! Very odd!

Quite recently she had hated him—or thought she did—but now, now, there was something in his air that touched her, something in the queer sound of his voice, as though a lump was there . . .

"You're Peter Armstrong, aren't you?" she asked, hesitantly.

"Yes, that's my name. And you're Miss Prudence Page, right out of the pages of a story-book."

She gave a wan little smile that touched his heart. He'd seen the haunted misery of her eyes, the tear-stained cheeks, though he was too innately chivalrous to embarrass this poor child making any comment of that fact.

"I take it you've been at the ball up there?" He inclined his head towards the brightly-lit mansion.

"Yes; but I—I'm no good at social things." Her cheeks burned anew at the memory of that fiasco. "And so——"

"And so you slipped out for a breath of air'?'he supplemented quickly. "Well, others' misfortunes is my gain. You're here to help me chase away the blues, and I'm going to make the very most of the occasion, before some indignant partner comes and carries you away. See?"

Giving her no time to explain her lack of partners and her lack of 'drawing power,' he went on:

"It isn't midnight yet, and that pretty frock of yours is still a ball-gown, and not turned to rags, or I'd be tempted to think that you were Cinderella."

Prudence retorted, brokenly:

"I am a Cinderella, if you only knew! And so I ran away from the ball——"

He laughed outright.

"And the Ugly sisters were delighted, eh? You left them a clear field?" There was definite meaning behind the light-spoken words. "Well listen. I'm not vain enough to say that I'm Prince Charming—but I'm at your service, little Cinderella, and if I had a glass slipper in my pocket, believe me that I'd fit it on!"

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

NICK SAVES TIME

Down the road of Beanstalk Land went Nancy and Nick toward the red house where the giant boy lived.

They could still hear him crying, because, as he had also told them, he had to go to the dentist's with his mother at 10 o'clock.

"We'll fix it some way," Nick kept saying. "I don't blame him for crying. We'll fix it so he doesn't have to go."

When they reached the house the front door was shut, but they climbed through the key-hole without any trouble at all.

The clock on the mantel said exactly half-past 9.

At that minute Mrs. Giant came in and looked at the clock.

"My, my!" she exclaimed. "I didn't know it was so late! I shall have to be ready in 15 minutes to take Johnny to the dentist's, because it will take us 15 minutes more to get there. I'll go right up and get washed and combed and change my dress and put on my hat."

No sooner had she gone than Nick whispered, "I know what to do, Nancy. We'll turn the clock back. Come on! This brick mantel is easy to climb."

So up they went, not only because they were good climbers but because the magic shoes were a wonderful help as well.

The next thing was to open the big front door of the clock. This was not so easy, but where there is a will there is a way, and the glass door swung open at last.

Nick hopped up and grabbed the huge minute hand, and with all his might turned it back a whole hour.

Then they closed the clock again and hid behind a vase on the mantel. In a few minutes down came Johnny's mother.

"I'll have to call Johnny and wash his face all over again," she said. "I do wish he would behave and not be such a baby. He ought to know that if he wants any teeth when he gets old, he will have to have them kept in good order when he is lit—"

Suddenly she stopped for she happened to look at the clock again.

"Goodness alive!" she cried. "Is it only a quarter to 9? I must have seen wrong the last time. That's what it is to try to see without my glasses! Well, well, well! I have a whole hour, so I may as well take off my hat and sit down and sew until it's time to go."

So she got her sewing and was very busy for a while.

All at once the telephone bell rang and Mrs Giant answered it. "I just wanted to say that as you and Johnny are an hour late, I can't do anything for him today," said the dentist's voice. "You'll have to wait until next week."

"I declare," said Mrs. Giant. "It's too funny about that clock. I never knew it to be wrong before."

At that minute Johnny Giant came bursting in, crying harder than ever.

"Keep quiet, Johnny!" said his mother. "You don't have to go to the dentist's today."

"But I want to," roared Johnny. "Tommy Jumbo gave me a bit of candy and I have the toothache."

Nancy and Nick slipped down, and out of the house.

"I'll never try to help anybody again," declared Nick.

"I told you it was wrong," scolded Nancy. "But you wouldn't listen."

FORD'S BID ACCEPTED FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

End of Fight That Has Continued Two Years—Bill Adopted By Vote of 228 to 142.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—After a fight which lasted more than two years, the House of Representatives has passed a bill providing for the sale of the Government's $100,000,000 nitrate and power project at Muscle Shoals, Ala., to Henry Ford.

The vote was 228 to 142.

By the terms of the contract, which has yet to be approved by the Senate and the Secretary of War, Ford guarantees to keep one of the nitrate plants in condition for the manufacture of war materials for 100 years, but in the meantime to use the plant to make at least 40,000 tons of fixed nitrogen each year, from which there can be manufactured 2,000,000 tons of commercial fertilizer. This fertilizer would be sold to farmers at eight per cent. more than the cost of production, the profit to go to Ford.

How Other Cities Solve Problems

HAMILTON, March 12.—It has been estimated that $278,000 will be necessary to carry on the work of the police department this year, which is an increase of $26,600 over last year.

The salaries and equipment for ten new constables and for an addition to the present police station, are responsible for the increase in estimates.

No provision is made in the estimates for the much-talked-of increase in salary for the policemen. This question, it is understood, will be settled at the next meeting of the Commissioners, and if the Board decides to increase the men's wages the required amount will be added to the estimates.

It is the intention of the Chief to add another story to the modern portion of the police headquarters. The much-needed addition will house the detective department and the police photography and finger-print departments. It has been estimated that the new addition will cost in the neighborhood of $14,000.

A BLENDED TEA IS BETTER.

Tea from one garden, no matter, how fine it is, possesses certain desirable qualities but may lack others, because all characteristics are not developed under the same conditions. If the tea has a perfect flavor it may lack body; if it has body it is perhaps without the same perfection of flavor. To combine all desirable characteristics in one blend has been the work of the "SALADA" Experts for over a quarter of a century, and "SALADA" is the fruit of their labours. The flavour is more delicious than any unblended tea grown.

Your Health
By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

HOARSENESS

Hoarseness sometimes develops quickly after an ordinary type of the common cold, which frequently has as a part of its disturbance acute laryngitis.

We also are well acquainted with the type of hoarseness which one may acquire at a football game or at a political rally. If one knows just how to use his voice, he may be able to make a greater racket than his seat-mate and yet not become hoarse. Hoarseness is a misuse, rather than an overuse of one's voice. Acute laryngitis is the simple cause of this "game" hoarseness. The vocal cords may be said to slacken down and a deeper and huskier tone quality results. Continued forcing of the voice may result in complete loss of speech for a time.

In women or girls there is usually no marked lowering in the pitch or tones of the vocal cords. The condition which plays a more important part causes a complete aphonia or loss of voice after a slight attack of laryngitis. In connection with such loss of voice there is the condition known as "hysteric aphonia." Such a condition commonly precedes an ordinary attack of acute laryngitis.

Bear in mind that such a condition is not the result of purely psychic causes as a rule, and yet it bears on some psychic factors. The connection in such a case is brought about by a cerebral innervation (the will) and the result of the acute laryngitis. Sometimes this lost voice difficulty may persist and run into hysteria for a time.

In avoiding conditions which cause hoarseness be careful to protect the use of your vocal cords and rest them as much as possible. Chronic hoarseness or aphonia is due almost always to organic disease of the larynx or to some unnatural pressure causing partial paralysis by tumor or other causes.

Hoarseness demands careful treatment and the avoidance of disturbing conditions. If you value the use of your voice be careful of colds and laryngitis.

Spring Opening 1924

Barries' Limited cordially invite your attendance at their First Showing of New Spring Modes Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"What is New," is answered in the Comprehensive Showing of Suits, Wraps, Frocks, Skirts, Blouses and Lingerie

Suits—so varied, so adaptable. Suits for every age and type of woman.

There's the O'Rossen, nipped in waistline that gives the sauve slenderness that exalts the suit to the pinnacle of fashion.

The Paton variation—so pertly correct. In this type of suit there's the all important gardenia, the waist coat and hanky

Conservative—but distinctively smart, notwithstanding, are innumerable suits, for women who are all for inconspicuous good style, as the ideal in dress, knee length, medium and short coats.

Coats—Sport Coats cast chic shadows before; in "noisy" plaids and "woolley" fabrics.

Wraps—distinctive, exclusive, new! Presented in a varied collection of smartly accepted fabrics, and swagger silhouettes, featuring interesting sleeves and necklines, long, flat back and front effects; drapes in, clever godet and apron modes.

Frocks—which measure their chic by the "Rule of Three," slim, short, straight. "San Waistline" interpreting "belt-less" vogue—always straight, always slender. Others vary the picture, with the circular influence, beginning with the bell-sleeve the postilion cape, the circular scarfe, and quite frequently the circular skirt. Sleeves are temperamental, either in long, tight, or short in cap effects,

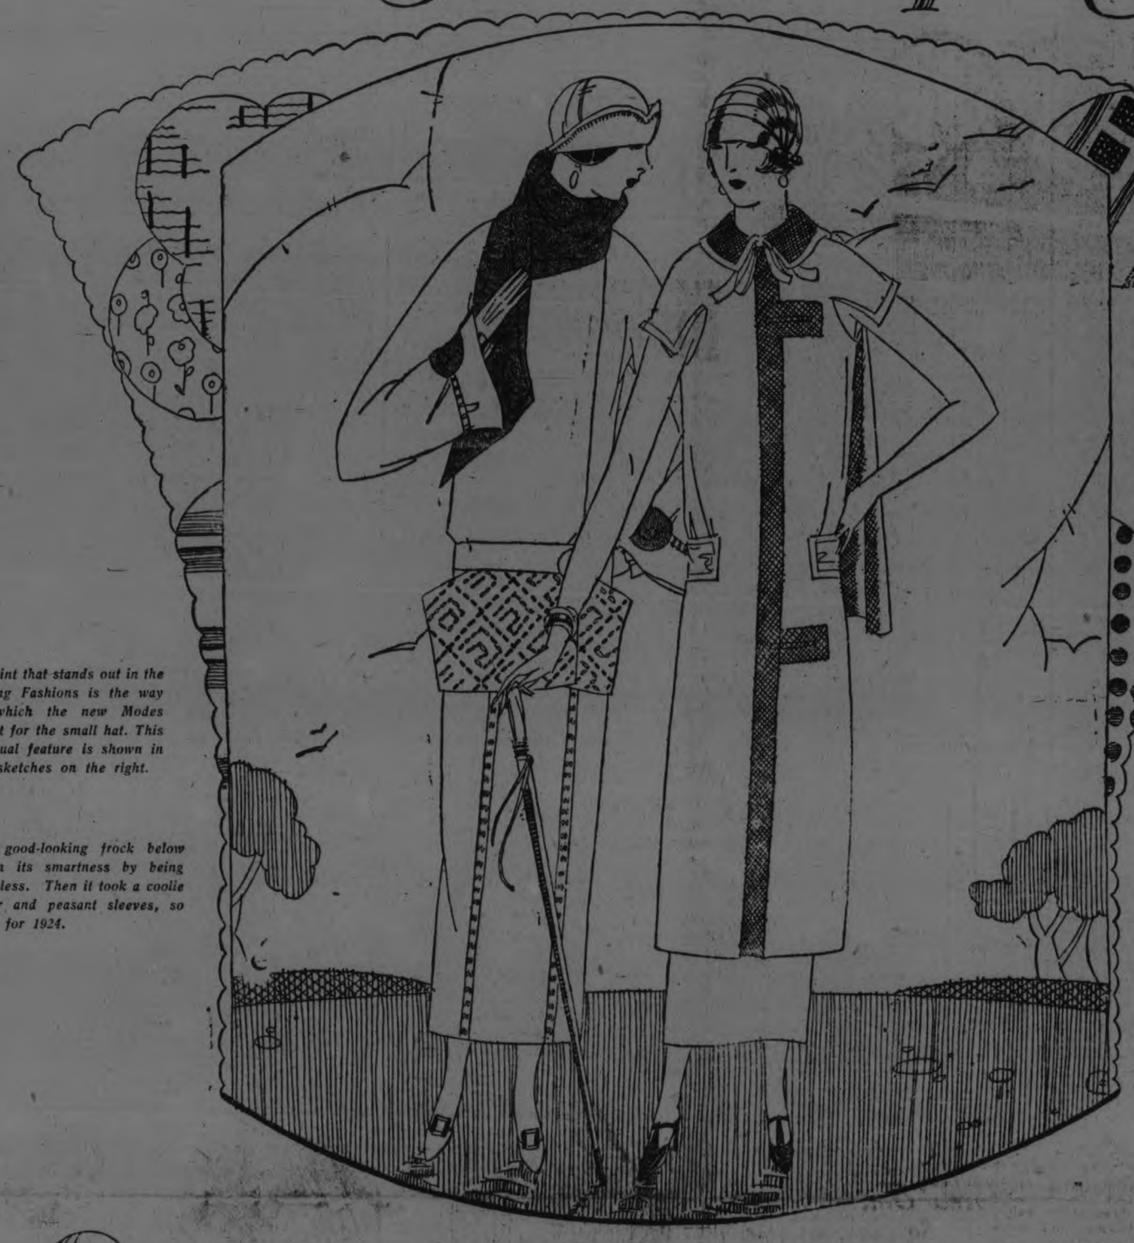
Spring Exposition



Gloves
That Say "Style"

Gloves are short for Spring, with both long and short-sleeved dresses. There are slip-ons and gauntlets with this new feature—that they are much more simple than usual But whatever they lack in decoration they make up for in smart colors, beige tones, greys and browns to match Spring's costume leaders.

Fabrics
At Their Best

What is new in Fabrics? Much. First there are woolens that by their suppleness will be easy to work with and make up into very smart-looking costumes. Then there are radiant and shimmering silks that help one anticipate very lovely frocks, blouses and skirts. Yes, there is encouragement here for the woman who sews.

The Wash Fabric
Section Is Athrong

with glorious Spring and Summer suggestions for the smartest costumes. Here Spring simply insists in coming to the fore beckoning to us with it's riot of beautiful color and new materials. There are "Beadora" Voiles, French and English Ratines, "Duro" Cloths and many more go to form a very important part in this Exposition.

Ready for First Games

Fashion, just full of pleasant thoughts for Spring playing has made some thoroughly delightful Sports Clothes this season. Knitted sweaters, suits and frocks speak youth in their color and lines. Oriental and Russian notes creep in to make them fascinating. Clever little hats and gay smocks, too, will make all outdoor pastimes doubly pleasant.

Let Spring Enter Your Home

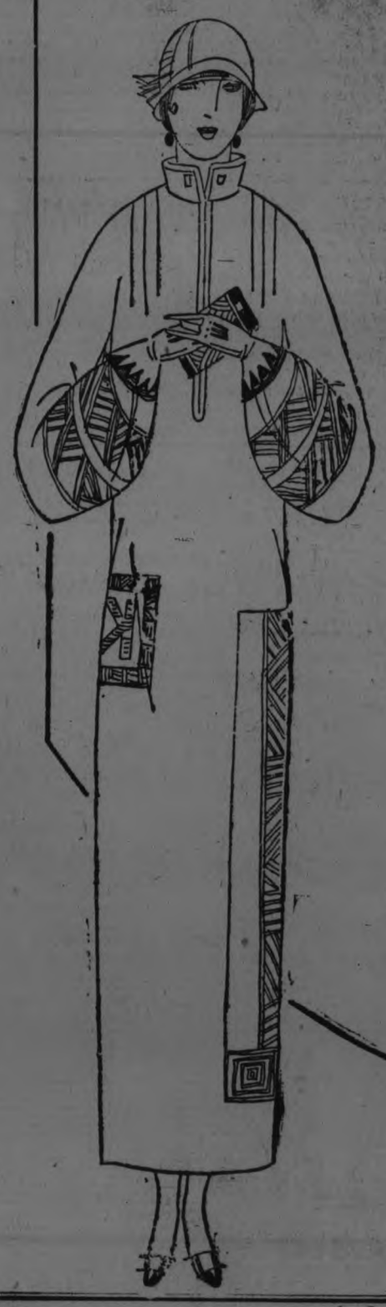
When every member of the family is getting new clothes should the Home be far behind? Never. For that is where your Spring-dressed friends will gather. Greet them with a new lamp, rug or chair, bright hangings or lovely china. Here are a host of pretty Home things that should join your household this Spring.

A point that stands out in the Spring Fashions is the way in which the new Modes shout for the small hat. This unusual feature is shown in the sketches on the right.

The good-looking frock below began its smartness by being waistless. Then it took a coolie collar and peasant sleeves, so right for 1924.



Thursday, Friday and Saturday
March 13th, 14th and 15th

A NEW SEASON, new fashions, new clothes—what fun! It is Spring, our store has taken on it's new raiment—bright airy decorations create a clean Spring-like atmosphere while sparkling new clothes and departments aglow with seasonable merchandise shout the joyous call that not only are styles smart, satisfying and different—but that prices are lower. Our Spring Exposition starts tomorrow and continues until the end of the week. Spring fashion ideas you gather here will reflect themselves in your new wardrobe, make it very smart and complete.

Spring Millinery! Its Difference Delights!

There has been gossip in the Spring about turbans in Hatland, cloches, tricorners, roll brim Hats and those that fit like skullcaps. There has been talk of their trimmings, too. Tinted feather have been mentioned with fancy pins, embroideries, gleaming satin bows and tiny taffeta roses. Women picture, half decide and then they wait awhile. But no one could resist for long the new hat urge when she was tempted with ideas like these. They take part in the Spring Exposition, to which you are invited. From Miss Sixteen to Madame more matronly there are Hats just to their likings. Gay, trim, dashing o dignified, but with charming newness and fashion trueness.

SUIT STORIES

are varied and interesting this Spring. There is a thrill for the person who dotes on tailored clothes, for the boyish, fitted costume in twill or covert has won fashion glory. There is comfort for the sportswoman in the thought of a jaunty Suit of a new supple woolen. And there is surprise in store for everyone concerning the newnesses in three-piece Suits—their three-quarter coats and other smart turns.

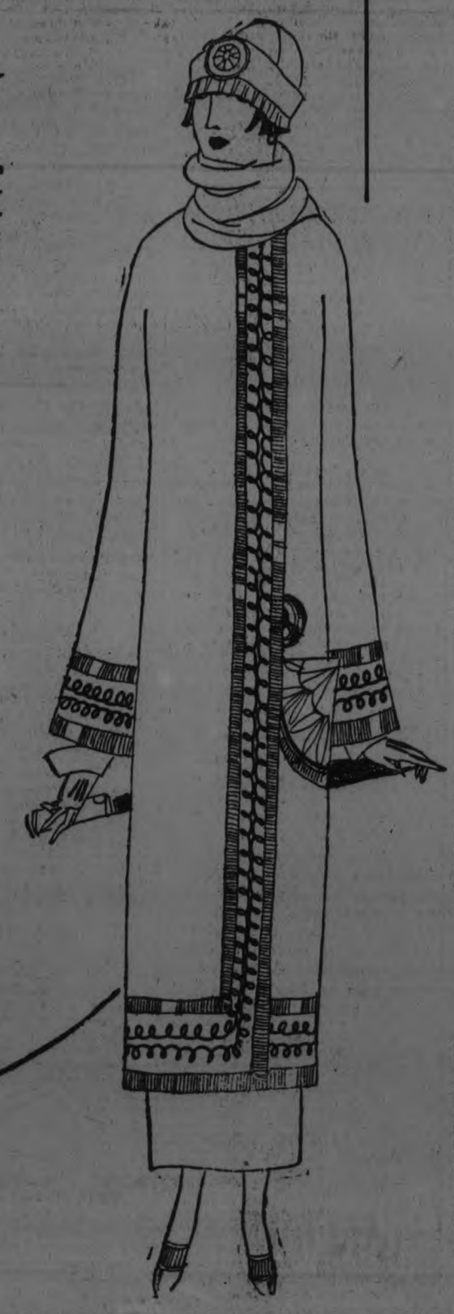
WRAP WAYS

are as numerous as the types to wear them. First is the Coat that goes to the knees, wears no belt and often has a scarf or high standing collar. Full length types, too, are good to look at with sleeve, collar and trimming points entirely new. Wrap fabrics range from topcoat woolens to the sleekest broadcloth, not forgetting charmeen and novelty stripes. These models will meet your taste.

FROCK FASHIONS

for spring! And the mode is told in a hundred new ways this season! For the business and pleasures of daytime are long straight Dresses with fullness below the knees, also apron tunic, capelet details and youthful middy types. And you must see the new leg o' mutton sleeve, the coolie collar and plaited bib effects. Shorter skirts are noticed too and buttons serve very cleverly as trimmings. These are fashion facts that will impress you on your first visit to the Exposition. They merely hint at the style excellence of this Frock collection, where you will find garments beyond your best expectations. There is real becomingness in these models that have used charmeen, flannel, flat crepe and glossy satins so interestingly.

Every woman will want at least one Frock of a formal nature for Spring, and Exposition Week is just the time to choose it. There is a rainbow of luscious colors in tulle and chiffon Frocks, to flatter fair and dark-haired women.



The figure to the left is wearing a very shining example of Spring smartness. Are you the type to wear this new capelet effect and do the long lines of a tunic become you?

Below is pictured one of the popular three-quarter coats. Its slim lines are flattering and its scarf collar, too. You will like it.

New Footwear
for the Spring Costume

The right footwear is essential to the success of the Spring Apparel. The gratifying feature in buying shoes now is that they are in time to give a full season's service. There are many styles to choose from whether you are looking for a street shoe, afternoon or dancing slipper sandals for yourself or Junior or a sport shoe. The newest suede shoes come in all Spring's loveliest shades of tan and greys. Buckles and strap styles vie with each other in smartness.

Sleeve Ways
Are Varied

To surprise you and please you Fashions have given unusual sleeves to many of her wraps. The bell shape from elbow to wrist will make many new coats seem newer. Something out of the ordinary always does that, haven't you found it true?

Hosiery
of New Complexions

Sheer Hose are fashion's first word for Spring. When they are as attractively colored as these in such shades as sunset, sahara, skyn and acorn there is no dispute as to their fitness for the smartest wardrobes.
Hose that match the shoes or contrast are equally smart.

Lingerie
Ready! Lovely!

It is time for replenishing your entire wardrobe if you will choose Lingerie from this just arrived for Spring, your costumes will give that intimate pleasure that comes with being perfectly groomed.

of Spring Millinery
Thursday, Friday and Saturday
March 13th, 14th and 15th

A comprehensive showing of new Spring styles that are authentic, being exact copies of the latest and most distinctive modes featured in Paris, London and New York. The tailored effect is prominent. It is a sequence to the mannish tailleur, so much in evidence. Wood browns and combinations of black and white predominate the color scheme, with a generous showing of greys and the more staple navy and black. Veils and draperies of laces give an added charm. While the cloche shape is again favored, the tendency of the brim is to take an upward turn that is chic. Individualism and moderate prices are the keynotes of this display.

WILDS THE EXPLORER FORGOT ARE REVEALED

By VISSER-HOOFT,
Explorer and Mountain Climber.

STOCKHOLM, March 12.—If unknown regions beckon you, if you would walk where a white man never walked, you have plenty of opportunity.

The greater part of the world has been mapped and equipped with tourist hotels, pays taxes, buys flivvers, but there still are regions to lure the explorer.

One of the most important of these regions is in central Asia, where the great mountain ranges, the Himalayas and the Kara-Korum, run parallel. The first is widely known. But the Kara-Korum, rival of the Himalayas, has been seldom visited.

Coolie Transports.

On the Kara-Korum ranges are the greatest glaciers on earth. The Chogori peak is 28,250 feet high, only 883 feet lower than Mount Evgrest.

Many great sections of the Kara-Korum mountains have never been visited by white men. Even the natives regard the mountains with superstitious fear and dare not venture up the icy slopes.

My wife and I have just returned after spending four months in the Kara-Korum mountains. We climbed to a height of 17,000 feet, climbed until intense cold and the rarity of the air forced us to turn back.

Travel was most difficult. Our horses and yaks had utmost difficulty in crossing the high mountain passes and the swiftly running streams. At the 15,000-foot elevation we had to leave our pack animals for they could climb no higher.

In the boulder-strewn valleys and on the glaciers it was often nearly impossible to find a suitable place to pitch our tents.

ASTHMA NEVER CAME BACK

Since Taking The Fruit Treatment In "Fruit-a-tives"

Read this letter from Mrs. J. M. Pennington of New Rockland, P.Q.

"In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered during the winter. I began having choking spells and would just gasp for breath and could not speak. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

In the spring of 1920, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and soon the choking spells became easier and I have not had one since May 7th, 1920. It is such a relief to be able to go to bed and have no thought of having to get up in the night for an hour or more as I did all that winter, but never have to now, all because I take a "Fruit-a-tives" tablet every night.

PETERBORO CLUB WON THE DEBATE

Subject Last Night Concerned the Dairy Industry

At a meeting of the U.F.Y.P.O. held in the Simcoe street hall last evening, the feature of the entertainment was a debate between Centreville and Peterborough. The last debate between these two clubs was protested, and the debate last evening gave the decision to the Peterboorough club. Two more debates will therefore take place before the winners of the silver debating cup for this year will be decided. Peterborough club debates with Indian River, the winner to meet Centreville in a final debate.

Last evening the resolution was: "Resolved, that it would have been in the best interests of the Dairy Industry in Ontario had the Dairy farmers of Ontario formed the Ontario Dairy Products, Limited, as advocated by Hon. Manning Doherty." The affirmative was taken by Centreville, represented by Mr. Douglas Deyell and Miss McConnachie. They described in an able manner the benefits of co-operation, especially as these have been worked out through the pooling system in the United States. They spoke freely and covered a wide range of argument, and in this way furnished those present with a most interesting view of the new development along co-operative lines. Mr. Deyell in his concluding speech of refutation, answered a number of points brought out by the negative in a manner which showed how closely he had been studying the subject.

The ground taken by the speakers for the negative, the Misses Rosanne Tully and Mae Muir of Peterborough, was that they were not opposed to true co-operative enterprises when worked out along sound lines. Their contention was that the company proposed by the Hon. Manning Doherty failed to recognize the difference in conditions in Canada and the United States, and that a number of these were unsound from a business standpoint. Both speakers for the negative marshalled their points effectively.

This was one of the best debates of the season and the young people taking part should all be congratulated on the able manner in which they handled so difficult a subject. The judges were Messrs. Tarivs of Centreville and J. E. Smith and W. G. Howden, of Peterborough.

While the debate was being judged, a short programme was rendered, consisting of a reading by Miss Jean Hamilton, an instrumental selection by Miss Beatrice McGregor, and a short talk by Mr. Bert Cowan on his trip to England, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed.

The service of refreshments brought the meeting to a close.

GAVE AN ADDRESS ON MISSION WORK

Speaker Has Visited All the Foreign Mission Stations.

In the Sunday school room of St. Paul's church last evening, under the auspices of the Fraser Auxiliary, an illustrated address on mission work in India was given by Mrs. E. A. Armstrong of Toronto. Mrs. Armstrong, who is the wife of a member of the staff of the Foreign Mission Board of the Presbyterian church, has just returned from a visit to the Missions of the west, and has visited as well all the Foreign Mission Stations. Her address, which was copiously illustrated with lantern views, had to do with the work of the missions in the district in India allotted to the Presbyterian church, a section of Central India holding a population of nearly six million people. The eight Stations maintained by the church were shown in views, also the schools for boys and girls, and a description was given of the work carried on by the Bible women also, who go about to the villagers during the dry season, in the months from October to March and pitch their tents outside the villages, to avoid the dirt and noise of the small places they visit.

Views of the different pagan temples of the peoples were shown, among them one of the Cow Temple, where the cow is worshipped in the same manner as the God of the Christians, and where the squalor, dirt and filth of the interior was compared to a dirty stable. No true follower of Mahomet will kill or injure a cow, and the animals are protected in every way possible. Various gods of stone were also shown.

The hardened expression on the face of the non-Christian, which gives way to a gentler look in the convert to Christianity, was mentioned, and the fact that women of thirty in India are considered to be as old as women of seventy-five or eighty years of age would be here. Many of the industries of India were shown and views were given of the means of transportation in that country, where camels and oxen are still in use, and where a common vehicle is the two-wheeled cart hitched to a pony, with a top resembling a gypsy's caravan. In one of these primitive vehicles, a sick woman who had been ministered to by Mrs. Armstrong was taken to hospital by her husband, the journey of seven miles occupying the best portion of three days, the mustard plaster placed on the woman's chest by the speaker, and rigged out by the help of her husband's turban, still remaining in place.

An audience of nearly a hundred and seventy people listened with interest to Mrs. Armstrong's address last evening. The president of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Adam Hall, occupied the chair.

HER CHILDREN HAD WHOOPING COUGH

This is one of the most dangerous diseases of children. It starts with fever and cough. The cough is at first short and sharp, but gradually increases in severity and occurs in sudden spasms, vomiting follows, and sometimes there is nose bleed; the child turns livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets, and suffocation seems emminent till relief is brought on by the "whoop."

Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phelgm and in this way ease the racking cough, and in a short time make is disappear.

Mrs. L. Ambrose, Sarnia, Ont., writes:—"My little ones were both sick with whooping cough. I read where Dr. Wood 's Norway Pine Syrup was good, and I only used two bottles and they were better. I had chronic bronchitis for three years and tried everything until, finally, I got 'Dr Wood's'. I would not be without this remedy."

Price 35c. a bottle; large family size 60c.; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Patton are visiting the Peterborough Association on Friday, and desire to meet with the boys in the evening.

A special feature of this movie show will be a little talk by Mr. Machado on his visit through the East, touching various Y.M.C.A. centres. This talk will be illustrated by slides.

THE DRURY GOVERNMENT LOAN ENQUIRY STARTS

TORONTO, March 11. Canadian Press. — The Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature started its investigation into the Drury government loans this morning. Chairman W. Finlayson, M.L.A., read a letter from G. R. Harris, mentioned prominently with buying in of bonds by the government. The letter stated that there had been considerable prominence given to his firm and declared that he had absolutely nothing to be ashamed of, and hoped the committee would call upon him to give evidence. C. A. Matthews, the assistant provincial treasurer, was the first witness called. Hon. Peter Smith, the former Treasurer, was in attendance.

HOUSE OF COMMONS HAD CONSIDERABLE HECKLING

LONDON, March 12 (Canadian Press). — William Leach, Britain's pacifist Under-Secretary of the Air Ministry, encountered considerable heckling when he interrupted the Air estimates in the House of Commons yesterday.

The 1924-1925 estimates amount to £19,392,000 and £14,511,000 net.

"International disarmament is our watchword," declared the Minister, "but it is not our purpose to render the country defenceless," he continued dramatically. "The Sermon on the Mount that way is barred to us. Nevertheless, our motto remains, 'No more war.' And the Government is seeking the goodwill of all people."

A SHELTER WARD LIKES NEW HOME

One Interesting Letter Read at Meeting of Society.

What was characterized by the president as a "Quaker meeting, when the spirit didn't move them' of the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society, took place yesterday afternoon in the board room of the Chamber of Commerce. "Everything must be running pretty smoothly" was the comment of Mr. B. F. Ackerman, in the chair, as the Board decided to adjourn after a brief session lasting about forty minutes. Members present were: J. Edgar, G. W. Powell, J. Abraham, W. Stocker, C. S. Cummer, and Mesdames Fanning, Welsh, Darcey Holmes, Devey, Hodgson, Kimberley and Miss G. Brooks.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, J. Edgar, and the report of the purchasing committee by Mrs. J. Fanning. The superintendent's report was given by Mr. G. W. Powell, who read a letter from a little twelve-year old boy just placed out, who seemed to be in a very contented frame of mind over his present circumstances. According to the short epistle, the small lad was with people whom he liked, 'and who like me." He also like the litte colt that "likes to run in the field with its mother," he liked his nice teacher, and the children in the school who liked him. Even the hills "that are nice for sleighriding" came in for a word of commendation. Mr. Powell remarked on the tone of the letter as showing a pleasant spirit existing between the child and his guardians. The superintendent also reported applications for children during the month; 9, children returned to parents (not wards); 4, wards placed out; 4.

Mr. Ackerman read a letter from Messrs. Hall and Hall, solicitors, recording a bequest to the society by the late Mrs. Mary G. Wood, of $500. The late Mrs. Wood having died on the 24th of last month, the bequest will not be payable to the society until February 24th, 1925.

Mr. Edgar gave the matron's report, showing 20 children in the shelter during the month, with 6 sent out and none received. No sickness.

Mr. Edgar, also reported the city's grant to the society of $1,000, and reference was made to the dilatory action of the County Council in not yet making an award. Mr. Stocker remarked: "you will always be imposed on, like the Mothers' Allowance Commissions," referring to a practice which he said was becoming apparent of residents of Quebec moving into Ontario to take advantage of Mothers' Allowance legislation, and to the habit of those benefiting by it of moving into the city, from the rural districts.

Accounts were passed, as follows: T. Gilour & Son 6.97 Mrs.; D. Rogers (shoe repairing) 50 cents; Adamson & Dobbin $2.25; Peterboro Utilities $10.50; R. Denne, $4.65 J. C. Turnbull Co., 30 cents; Elliot's store $1.50; Peterboro Examiner $9.01; R. Neill $6.05; Ward's grocery $13.90, C. W. Wiggin; 20 cents, Telephones $6.93, G. W. Powell $2.90; J. M. Heard (milk) $14.50. Total $79.16.

MEN INJURED AT FIRE ARE GETTIN GBETTER

TORONTO, March 12. Canadian Press. — Five men were taken to the hospital yesterday suffering from burns and other injuries sustained when oil tanks at the plant of the McColl Oil Company, Lambton Mills, exploded yesterday afternoon; they were reported this afternoon to be progressing favorably. Several others, slightly wounded by flying steel and glass, were allowed to go to their homes following medical attention.

MANY MEN ARE STILL TO BE ACCOUNTED FOR

CASTLE GATE, Utah, March 12 (Canadian Press).—Dead removed from Utah Fuel Company Mine No. 2, had reached 127 early to-day, leaving 46 men of 173 entombed by series of explosions Saturday unaccounted for. Hope for safety of any of them long since was abandoned however. Work of removing bodies was greatly hampered by unexpected obstructions and by water in workings as result of failure of pumps.

HAVE YOU AN ENEMY?

Speaking of enemies, don't have them. Don't fight. Don't get even. Ignore them. Life is too short for grudges and vengeance. Go on. Let the other fellow stew. You keep sweet. Nothing can punish a fellow worse. If a man doesn't like you keep away from him. It's a large roomy world. And, thank God, there is always another side of the street. —Frank Crane.

WILL TALK ON TARIFF.

OTTAWA, March 12.—(Canadian Press).—Much interest has been taken in political circles here by the announcement that W. B. (Continued from page one.)

while speaking there would be less talking. Why have 15 or 20 members of a City Council? Five would do less talking and more work. If we attempt to reduce the number of members of Parliament we will run into the British North American Act, but if the number of members in Quebec were decreased from 65 to 20, and those of the other members in proportion we would have better service and be better off. As long as it is good policy for a Court, Parliament, or Legislature to get more votes by spending money they will do it. A man must have a tough epidermis to run for office to-day, but thank God there are so many good men who are willing to do so.

Taxes Not An Evil.

A favourite saying is that death and taxes are inevitable, that taxes are a necessary evil, but they are not an evil any more than are the prices we pay for our food and clothing. Taxes are necessaries and are evils only when spent for useless purposes.

There are useless services, however, that may be gone without for a long time. The wise man who has a steady income will not spend beyond his means and so get into debt which he cannot discharge. The trouble is that the Government can increase its outlay and then come back to the people and have them make up the difference.

How to Retrench.

Dr. Brittain has plenty of suggestions for keeping down the tax rate. The cost of service to the public for one thing, he says, is too high. The civil service list could be reduced and the efficiency of those left on the pay-roll would be increased. The cost of material and supplies are too high. In most cities an immense amount of money could be saved from this source alone by a business-like system of purchasing such as is used by any large private concern. In some of these places each of the 15 or 18 departments are allowed to do their own buying.

Debt charges should be kept down. These are another source of high taxes, and the only way to control them is to avoid making debt.

The speaker said he would like to see a law passed making it an indictable offence to use the words "uncontrollable expenditure" in any public document because there is really nothing of the kind.

Another source of high taxes is inadequate public accounting. Peterborough, the speaker said, has an accounting system that is at least equal to the average, but all public accounting should be standardised, made uniform throughout the Province. British Columbia has done as much as any province in this direction.

There is a lack of systematic organisation in public service, a lack of co-operation, and a conflict of effort. The Water Commission, Hydro, and other departments all have a right to tear up the streets at the same time. All those departments should be co-ordinated.

The Dominion Parliament has more departments and more members than the United States. The city governments of the near future, Dr. Brittain believes, will consist of not more than five members. This will mean fewer committees and chairmen, but better service. The speaker has known places where the number of committees equalled the number of aldermen so as to make a chairmanship for each member. Some of the committees never met, but the purpose in view was achieved— each member had his name printed as a chairman of a committee.

Plucking the Goose.

A Canadian public man once said that the ideal system of taxation was to take the feathers from the goose so as to cause the least squeals from the victim. What the Research Institute is striving to work out is a system that will do less injury to industry upon which we are all depending for our bread and butter.

Dr. Brittain deplored the objection of some people to do nothing for posterity and spoke of the debt which we owe to the pioneers of Canada, whose hard work left us the valuable heritage which we enjoy to-day.

"It is up to us," concluded the speaker, "to leave this country a better place than we found it."

On motion of W. R. Morris, Dr. Brittain was tendered a hearty vote of thanks for his interesting address.

Business Session.

President J. J. Duffus submitted his annual report giving a resume of the work accomplished during the year. The report of Treasurer J. Wells Fraser showed satisfactory financial results.

The New Officers.

President—J. Wells Fraser.
Vice-President—G. A. Gillespie.
Treasurer—W. R. Morris.

By a change in the constitution, J. J. Duffus, the retiring president, who served three years in that position, is made an ex-officio member of the executive.

Other Speakers.

Brief addresses were made by representatives of the various organizations affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce. These speakers were President Wren of the Motor League and R. W. Connors of the Horticultural Society, Thomas Barrie, president of the Retail Merchants' Association, was kept away by illness, but sent a letter which was read by Secretary Leon Fraser.

The new members were formally introduced. The first of these was Reeve W. M. Fowlds, of Hastings, Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, who made a short address.

James Hamilton moved a vote of thanks to the retiring executive, and Mayor Turner did the same for the retiring president. Mr. Duffus was presented with a complete set of "The World's Book," in recognition of his energetic service on behalf of the organization.

Other speakers were J. J. Hartley, who spoke for co-operation, C. H. Pennefather, at one time president of the old Board of Trade, Alderman Richmond, of Lindsay, W. W. Lillicrap of Lakefield, Charles Moore, representing the Farmers' Club and Reeve Rye of North Monaghan.

The new president thanked the directors for the honor conferred upon him by his election as head of the organization.

Several musical selections were furnished by the quartette—Messrs. Brown, Crane, Carlyle and Park. Secretary Fraser, accompanied on the piano by Miss M. Bridge, reponded to a request for a solo.

President's Report.

As intimated in the notice for this 35th annual meeting or the fifth annual meeting of the re-organized Chamber, it is my intention to make this annual report as brief as possible, said Mr. J. J. Duffus, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce.

I will therefore not take up your time in reviewing the activities of the Chamber during the past year, which were contained in the pamphlet, and which I hope everyone has received. I would however suggest that a short period of this evening be set aside for the purpose of discussing the activities with the object of enlarging the work during the ensuing year.

Suffice it to say, that is is my firm belief that the Chamber of Commerce is here to stay, and it is up to each one of us individually and collectively to maintain it as an efficient and serviceable organization working in the interest of all in the city, county, province and Dominion.

The Chambers of Commerce throughout the Dominion are being re-organized more and more as organizations through which public opinion may be expressed, which may assist our legislators in enacting policies of benefit to the greatest number, and I have no hesitation in saying that the Chamber of Commerce in Canada will occupy a position in the public life of the Dominion such as they do in the older countries of the world.

In reviewing general conditions during the past year, I do not think that developments have been as favorable as was expected at the beginning of the year, yet, generally speaking, an improvement has been noted.

In some lines of business unsatisfactory conditions continued, in others practically normality was reached, while in a number encouraging advances were made. Even although our bountiful harvest has done much to rehabilitate the Canadian farmer, his purchasing power has been curtailed due to the continued high cost of production, general living expenses and decreased returns for farm products.

However, there has been a steadily increasing volume of trade, and there is much reason to look forward with optimism to 1924 as a year of still greater progress.

An encouraging feature is the output of our mines, the value being nearly 12 per cent. greater than that in the previous year 1922, reaching a total of 214 millions dollars in 1923 as compared with 184 millions in 1922.

Our exports and imports have also expanded substantially, exports showing an increase of 16½ per cent. in 1923, and imports showing an increase of 21 per cent., indicating a healthy buying power on the part of Canadian citizens.Our favorable trade balance for 1923 was approximately 93 millions.

We must, however, as Canadians, endeavor to do all in our power to create even a more favorable trade balance, which is only accomplished by decreasing our imports from other countries and increasing our exports. At the present time we are importing to Ontario approximately $100,000,000 of coal from the United States,which owing to the geographical position of our deposits of coal, at the extreme east and west of the Dominion a solution for the use of Canadian coal in Ontario has not been reached. I firmly believe, however, that if Conadian coal is demanded by the people of our province, and the necessary co-operation of coal miners and operators, railways and provincial government secured, it will not be long before our importations in this regard will be reduced considerably.

Contrary to the general belief there are immense deposits of iron ore throughout the Dominion, and particularly in Ontario, and yet we are annually importing approximately $138,000,000 of steel. Considerable capital will be required to develop these resources in the face of long experience and competition from our neighbours to the South, and it can hardly be expected that sufficient capital will be forthcoming for this development unless assisted temporarily by some means or other. This no doubt is in the minds of our governments in proposng to pay a bounty on the production of iron ore.

I believe also that our imports are increased considerably by the distribution of foreign magazines advertising foreign products, the Canadian industries being unable, except by paying exorbitant rates, to advertise therein, Failing any action by our governments to restrict to a certain extent the distribution of foreign magazines, it behooves us as Canadians to demand in our buying Canadians products as far as is reasonably possible.

Then again we notice the agitation in the Dominion to encourage as far as possible the manufacturing of our raw materials in Canada by the placing of an embargo on exportation. I refer particularly to the proposed embargo on the exportation of unmanufactured timber and pulpwood, and probably asbestos.

According to estimates it is claimed that after these materials are exported to other countries their values are increased three hundred per cent. by labor in processing.

I am, therefore, led to ask the question, would the proposed embargo on the exportation of some of our raw materials tend to increase the industrial development and corresponding progress of our country? Without suggesting that I am an economist, I believe it would.

All these points I believe should be of vital interest to every business man in Canada, and should be given serious consideration and action to the end that the prosperity of Canada is assured.

The immigration question is closely connected with the subjects I have mentioned, general prosperity in the Dominion permitting the assimilation of immigrants. It is reported that some 200,000 immigrants will enter Canada this year. There are vast agricultural lands in this country awaiting settlement, but the deelopment of our other resources, such as forests, fisheries and minerals, should proceed concurrently with the growth of the agricultural wealth of the Dominion. The emigration of a great number of young Canadians to the United States is a matter that gives us considerable concern, and it cannot be expected that Canadians will remain in Canada unless conditions warrant that the future success is assured.

It has been noted by all of us that this city has lost to the United States a considerable number of promising young Canadians, and I am sure it is your hope as well as mine that the development in the province and the Dominion during the next few years will be such as to encourage the return of some of our best citiens.

I have always maintained particularly since the great war, that the policy of economy should be practised by the people and the various governments in expenditures and capital investments. I think you will agree with me that although we may accuse the various governments of extravagance, yet it is my belief that we are mainly to blame. It is admitted that the greatest portion of debt was incurred during the great war of 1914 to 1918, but since that time our national debt has been increasing year by year, until we are now faced with a national debt per capita which would have frightened us in 1913. It is encouraging to note by the announcement from our Dominion Government that the budget in 1924 will be balanced. I maintain that if the people of Canada were to demand from the respectiv, governments only such expenditures that were absolutely necessary, we would notice within a very short tim, an encouraging change in our tax bills.

Reviewing conditions in Peterborough during the past year, I think you will agree that there has been a slight improvement over 1923. The percentage of unemployment at present, I believe, is back to pre-war level.

An encouraging aspect in the industrial development of the city is noted by the contemplation of expansion of activities at the Canadian General Electric Co., which has now been amalgamated with the General Electric Company of Schenectady, N.Y., and I am sure I am expressing your hope that nothing will stand in the way of assuring to this city a fair share of expansion which the General Electric Company is proposing in Canada.

We believe that the Peterborough plant has received every reasonable consideration by the people in previous years ,and it is believed that this consideration should be continued.

The action of our City Council in curtailing unnecessary expenditures is thoroughly appreciated, and it is our only regret that it has not been possible to maintain the tax rate which applied last year. Under the existing conditions, however, this would only have been possible by the increased assessments, which means the same taxes out of our pockets in the end.

Out of twenty-four cities in the Province I find that the per capita assessment of Peterborough is tenth from the top, with something over $1100 per capita, and twelfth from the top in the tax rate. It may be surprising to you, as it was to me, to learn that our general tax rate is affected over three mills by the exemptions of taxation granted to our industries, which is the highest of any city in the Province, with the exception of Sault Ste. Marie and Fort William. Our net debenture debt has increased approximately 100 per cent since 1913, and our population approximately 10 per cent.

Our per capita cost for education his increased approximately 137 per cent since 1913.

I bring out these points believing that we should be interested as citizens in our civic finances. I believe that in future it would be good policy if a systematic issuing of debenture bonds could be carried out to enable us to retire a uniform amount each year, and capital expenditures made in a systematic improvement in the city each year, without increasing the debenture debt.

Industrial expansion is much desired in any city, but the value of the tourist traffic is found in many instances to be more lucrative than industry.

Your Chamber, in co-operation with the Trent Waterway Dveelopment Association, has done considerable in developing the tourist traffic through Central Ontario, and it is our hope that 1924 will prove a banner year. This I am sure would be assured if a convenient automobile ferry service was established between Cobourg and Rochester, which is now being taken in hand by the Canadian National Railways and the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg Railway.

We should not cease our efforts, however, until this is secured.

In concluding my third term as President of this Chamber, I wish to express by gratitude to the members for electing me to the highest office which they can bestow upon one of their number. To my associates on the Executive Council and to the Chairmen and members of the various committee of the Chamber who gave unselfishly of their time and ability in the interests of your Chamber, and the City of Peterborough as a whole, I am greatly indebted.

I desire also to extend to the press for the cordial and liberal support always accorded the publicity of our activities.

On retiring from the Presidency it is my sincerest hope that I will be able at all times to serve with this your organization, which I believe should be maintained as the leading public organization in the City of Peterborough.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—I sent you a couple of weeks ago an interview with Bernard Shaw as it appeared in "The Reader's Digest." I added no word of mine to that interview, either approving or disapproving. "Good Sports," "Nuisances," were Bernard Shaw's words, not mine. I cannot understand anyone being so careless in his reading as to fail to see this.

ROBT. POGUE.

THE REFERENDUM.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir:

It is said that owing to the widespread universal insistent and persistent demand by people of every class and creed, in every part of the Province, for a referendum, that the Government, while not favoring it, (no, indeed), may graciously bow to this alleged universal demand and grant the request. I am so dense that I am unable to appreciate the universality of this demand. On the contrary, I think I can name at le million cats in the backyard finally succeeded in compromising the matter by saying, "Well, anyway, there is our cat and another one." So, perhaps, I can compromise this matter by admitting that, at least, Col. Currie and another member of the legislature believe that the time is now ripe to incur the expense of a referendum. And as our new Provincial treasurer has just assumed M cial treasurer has just assured us that we are extremely wealthy, they doubtless think that we have enough money to pay this expense, and will still have enough left for bread and cheese. I am not much of a politician, but I have been told that economy is only a plank to get in on. Anyway, what does this expense amount to? At a time when we

At a time when one of our legislators is capable of making a mistake of $12,000,000 in a little provincial financial estimate, why worry about a few hundred thousand? Why not push this through and charge the expense to capital? Let Peter Smith do it. We.., if Col. Currie succeeds, some fine morning soon our old friend Mr. Referendum will appear at our door and announce his intention to pay us a visit. It may well be that we did not invite Mr. R., but we will, of course, be too polite to even remember this trifling informality, but will give him a Peterborough welcome; all the more so as he is really a very nice old gentleman, and having visited us so often, we are well acquainted.

And besides all this, the results of his former visits have been agreeable to us.

There are two things that should be observed: first, that there should be no referendum until a reasonably large percentage of the electors desire it; and, second, that if a referendum is brought on, the question or questions should be fairly stated. Any departure on the part of the Government from either of these two things would clearly indicate dictation from an occupational group—a thing that the people should not tolerate.

The other day a body of Western clergymen gravely stated that they were very anxious to obtain "a sane temperance law," and the next minute they said that they favored Government control! I wonder what these clergymen would think if some of us laymen would tell them that we are very anxious to obtain a sane system of theology, and the next minute would tell them that we favored the writings of Bob Ingersoll!

We are told that the O.T.A. is not perfect. We reply that we do not support it because it is perfect, but because it is the very best law that our opponents will allow us to have, and despite its imperfections, has done a vast amount of good.

SUGAR-MAKING.

Sugar-making in the woods will soon be here again, and a great industry peculair to Canada will go forward with little notice from the recorders of events. It is very doubtful if this industry, which partakes also of the nature of a recreation for many, has yet received its due from art and literature. Anyway, here is a new poem on it, by Oliver Call, Professor of French in Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Que., in the heart of the sugar country. It appears in the February issue of Poetry, a Magazine of Verse (Chicago.)

The astronomical day begins at noon, the civil day at midnight.

THE SUGAR-MAKER.

Peasant in form and face old Philippe stood
Upon broad snowshoes in the softening snow
That spread its whiteness through the sugar-wood.
Above him cawed the first returning crow;
A blue haze danced upon the hill-top's rim,
Where early April wrought her magic spells;
And from tin buckets filling fast to brim,
The dropping sap rang out like sanctus bells.

And as old Philippe heard the echoes pealing
Among the maple trees and silver birch
That rose above him like the vaulted ceiling
And painted pillars of the village church,
He looked up toward the blue mysterious sky—
Then bowed as though the Host were passing by.

RULES ARE RULES

So Said Visiting Manager When Home Team Leader Pulled Humorous Technical Bone.

BY BILLY EVANS

If you were a big league umpire, and a manager gave you the name of a pitcher 200 miles away from the scene of action, what would you do?

The rules state that when a manager gives the umpire the name of a pitcher to start a game, said pitcher must pitch until one batter either has been retired or reaches first base in safety. Then the manager can shift if he so desires.

So that it won't be embarrassing no names will be mentioned, other than to say that the game was played in the American League. Now do your guessing.

The home manager had a left-hander and right-hander warming up prior to the game. He was undecided as to whom he would start. On the club up until three or four days prior to the game in question was a promising youngster who had seen considerable service in relief roles. He had been shipped to a club in the American Association for more experience.

In giving the name of the pitcher to the umpire, the home manager, undecided as to whether he would use a left-hander or right-hander, unthinkingly wrote in the name of the pitcher who had been shipped to the minors.

Not until a few minutes before game time did the home team manager discover his mistake. Hurriedly he tried to adjust matters, but the visiting manager, possessing a sense of humor, and desiring to make things temporarily unpleasant, insisted that the rules be lived up to, that the man announced to pitch do so until at least one man was retired or reached first.

The start of the game was delayed at least five minutes by what seemed a heated argument at the plate, which however was camouflage on the part of the visiting manager. Of course it was merely a slip of the tongue, but it produced a queer situation.

OLD STARS IN NEW SETTINGS

Coming Season Will Find Many Ball Tossers in New Uniforms.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The coming season will see many veteran ball players sporting around in new spangles. Sales, trades and releases have caused quite a few of the tossers to change their playing scenery. However, practically all of them will be connected with the same circuit.

The Boston Braves perhaps take the cake for new faces, in so far as the old-timers are concerned. For instance, the 1924 campaign will witness at least five chaps who have played on other National League clubs. They are Bancroft, the new manager; Tierney, Kelleher, Stengel, and Cunningham. Three of them formerly played with the Giants.

Philadelphia, the other chronic tailender in the parent wheel, boasts two in this class—Ford and Ray Powell, who were obtained from the Boston Braves. Brooklyn, Pittsburg and Chicago are standing pat, but Cincinnati has Carl Mays, New York Eddie Ainsmith and the Cardinals Al Sothoron. Mays was taken over by the Reds from the Yankees and is the only player in either league to go from one organization to the other. Ainsmith was a free agent, and Sothorn was gotten from the minors, though he is a former major league, having performed for the Browns and Cleveland.

In the American League, Bobby Veach, for many seasons a member of the Detroit Tigers, will be cavorting for the Red Sox, as will also Steve O'Neill, Bill Wambsganass, Burns, who has played with Detroit, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Boston, will be back in Cleveland again this campaign.

Oft-times a change of scenery does a player worlds of good. Whether or not any of the above mentioned fellows will be benefited by their new surroundings, of course cannot be told until the season gets under way. At any rate, fans around both major circuits shall have the opportunity of seeing their favorites wearing the uniforms of other clubs.

CANADIENS WON FROM SENATORS

In a Game Played Last Night in the Ottawa Arena the Montreal Team Increased Their Lead From 1 to 3.

OTTAWA, March 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Before a packed house, estimated at about eleven thousand people, the Montreal Canadiens last night defeated the Ottawa Senators by the score of four goals to two and won the National Hockey League championship and the right to defend the Stanley Cup against the Western challengers. Last night's victory gave Montreal a total of 5 goals to 2 on the round, as they won the first contest in Montreal on Saturday night by one goal to nothing.

For two period the play was lightning fast and excitement was intense. The Canadiens started out in a business-like way to add a goal to the one they carried into the struggle. Ottawa struck back and tied the game up, but Montreal made it tow and then three to one. Then the locals drove in another, but Montreal squelched hopes of the local supporters when the banged home another to make it safe.

The game was a disappointment for Ottawa supporters in many ways. At only one or two stages of the game did the Senators show the form they have displayed on previous occasions, both here and away from home this season. Against this, Ottawa met Montreal at their best. Never have the crimson shirted speed merchants shown to better advantage. From goal to wings there was not a weak spot and the six men flew through the entire sixty minutes without relief when penalties were imposed. There was not a flaw in the Montreal team.

It was Moren who sent the Ottawa hearts sinking with the first one. After 12 minutes and 20 seconds of play he drove a long one from the bleu line that eluded Benedict and Montreal were two up on the series. Dennenay put the locals back in the fight with a pretty tally. One minutes later Morenz's second was scored and one-half minute later Joliet made it 3 to 1. Dennenay again reached Ottawa hopes by driving a beauty past Venizina on a pass from George Boucher. Billy Boucher retaliated with the final counter in five minutes and forty seconds on a pass from Joliet.

The loss was a hard one to take, for Ottawa, after winning the League by a wide margin, were beated by the team which finished second.

SAYS THAT FRANCE IS SUFFERING.

Mme. Le Verrier Believes There Is Less Misery in Germany.

NEW YORK, March 12. — Mme. Charles Le Verrier, here from France to tell Americans what has been done with their money for France's orphans at the Birthplace of Lafayette, does not believe there is as much suffering in Germany as in France.

Asked yesterday regarding the appeals made to Americans for charity for Germany's children, Mme. Le Verrier said:

"I do not want to see any children suffer, not even the German children. But they are not suffering any more in Germany than in France and other countries. As a matter of fact, in the Ruhr, the French Army has organised canteens to help those who may be suffering.

"France to-day is poorer than Germany. Without being well up in European questions, it is easy to understand that a country devastated as France was is a heavier sufferer than the country whose industries have actually been made to thrive by war.

"Germany might have stopped $5,000,000,000 of capital from going out of that country, which would have helped to meet the situation over which they complain so bitterly; but Germany did not stop it from going; far from it."

LEFT TO RIGHT, HART, BALDWIN, FLORENCE.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 12.—Two college catchers and an experienced minor league pitching graduate featured the initial workout of the New York Giants here this week. Manager McGraw's trained observers were greatly impressed by the showing of Tom Hart, who came to the club from the St. Xavier College in Cincinnati, and Pal Florence, erstwhile Georgetown University star. Both Hart and Florence are catchers. Howard Baldwin, who was bought from the Newark club of the International League at an outlay of $25,00 in cash, also made a very favorable impression. The three players are pictured above as they appeared in uniform here for the first time.

Billy Evans Says

"He's yellow."

No expression is more abused in the sport world.

In all competitive sports the fellow who seems to quit under fire is branded as yellow.

In a great many cases the shoe fits the individual, but often athletes so branded do not deserve the appellation.

No greater disgrace could possibly befall any athlete than to be labelled yellow, a quitter. He soon becomes a marked man, more or less shunned by the rest of his profession.

Physical failure is readily forgiven, but lack of courage, never.

Recently it was announced that Al Reich would shortly meet Luis Firpo in a bout to be staged in South America. Reich is one of the mysteries of the prize ring.

Reich is a marvel of physical development. Measuring over 6 feet, weighing about 210, he is fast and clever and packs a punch in either hand. He looks the part of the champion, every inch.

Some years back Reich gave great promise, he was touted as one of the best bets in the crop of heavyweights flourishing at that time. Reich never arrived.

In the gymnasium a wonder, Reich seemed to lose all his stuff the moment his opponent began to punish him.

It wasn't long before the critics who had predicted big things for Reich in fistic circles withdrew their complimentary notices and said Reich should have been a diver instead of a fighter, so gracefully did he reach the floor.

Lack of courage, inability to absorb punishment and fight back no doubt kept Reich from reaching the championship class. Certainly he has every other requisite.

There are, however, some athletes generally regarded as yellow who anything but deserve such a reputation.

In the fight game much of the success of the man in the ring depends on the way he is handled by manager and seconds.

In baseball the diplomacy of the manager is constantly being put to the test in the handling of the different type athletes making up his club.

Often poor handling of some star athlete causes him to be branded as yellow when, as a matter of fact, the question of courage had nothing to do with his failure to deliver.

The sensitive, high-strung athlete is often the type to be branded as yellow simply because he failed to deliver under a manager who knew only one method, the constant driving of his men.

Rough tactics and tobasco language never gets results with the sensitive athlete. Such a system simply breaks his spirit. It causes him to be branded as yellow when he often has plenty of courage.

In a score of years in professional sport I have seen so many cases of this sort that I have a decided objection to the word yellow. With some people the fellow who fails in a pinch is always yellow. That's unfair.

In a majority of cases athletes branded as yellow, failures, become stars when placed under the direction of a manager who knew types and handled his men accordingly, salving the sensitive and driving the thick skinned.

SUSPEND FOR LIFE?

NEW YORK, March 11.— The New York State Athletic Commission today was requested by the Louisiana State Boxing Commission to suspend Frank Carbone, New York middleweight, "for the rest of his natural life," following Carbone's failure to fulfill a contract to meet an opponent in New Orleans last week.

This action was requested after the Louisiana Commission had suspended Carbone permanently. The New York Board, however, in the absence of more details concerning the offense, refused to concur.

Baseball Leaders At Moran Funeral

12 (Canadian Press). — The funeral of Patrick J. Moran, the manager of the Cincinnati League Baseball Club, was held yesterday in the Sacred Heart Church, with a solemn high mass requiem. Burial was in St. Bernard's Cemetery.

The bearers were Chief of Police Thomas J. Godley, Joseph F. Perault, Edward J. Breen, J. Raymond Dwyer, William F. Dunn, Thomas F. Norton, John F. Hayes, and W. N. Lane, all close friends of the baseball manager.

Among the notable baseball men present were President John A. Heydler of the National League, Daniel J. O'Neil of the Eastern League, Treasurer Louis Widrig of the Cincinnati Club, Thomas Connolly, American League umpire, Secretary Fred Mitchell of the Boston Braves, and Jack Slattery, Harvard coach.

Floral tributes were received from all the major league clubs and from many individuals in the baseball world.

DAVIS CUP RECORD.

NEW YORK, March 12 (Canadian Press.. — Cuba and Belgium yesterday entered the lists for 1924 competition for the Davis Cup, the emblem of international team tennis supremacy, increasing the number of challengers to 19 ,and establishing a new record for ehe world's court classic. The previous record of 17 challengers was met a year ago.

Ruth's prize bull finished second in the New York bench show..... "Aw them birds wouldn't pitch to him," explains the Babe.

BID FOR FIRPO WILLS BATTLE

Two Promoters Trying to Arrange Bout That Rickard Failed to Negotiate—Nothing Definite Reported.

NEW YORK, March 12 (Canadian Press). — Despite obstacles so far placed in the path of a heavyweight match in July between Harry Wills and Luis Angel Firpo, developments yesterday disclosed that at least two promoters still are seeking to sign the negro and Argentine.

Although Rhode Island promoters seeking the match were advised on Monday that his exhibition engagement now would preclude the match in July, James J. Johnston announced yesterday that, on behalf of the Cromwell Athletic Club, he had opened negotiations with Firpo and Wills.

Firpo, he said, had named terms calling for a guarantee and percentage, which would be laid before the club directors next week for action.

Johnston would not reveal the terms stipulated, but said they were made after Firpo rejected a previous offer.

The Cromwell A. C. held a lease on the Yankee Stadium last season, and, according to Johnston, will again have the use of the American League baseball park.

Despite Johnston's statements, however, William McCarney, Firpo's United States representative, asserted that no negotiations now were in progress between Johnston and the South American boxer, and reiterated his doubt that Luis would alter his programme in order to fight the negro.

Nevertheless Tex Rickard also renewed his bid for a Firpo-Wills bout, but struck an obstacle when Paddy Mullins, the negro's manager, rejected a guarantee of $150,000 and countered with a demand for 20 per cent. of the receipts.

Rickard previously had offered Wills $100,000 and Firpo $200,000 for the match.

COBB'S AMBITION TO LAND PENNANT

Goal Seems Quite a Distance Away Although Tygers Finished Second Last Year.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 12. — Fame is fleeting in baseball.

Not a single active ball player remains in the American League who was enlisted in the organisation when Tyrus Cobb made his debut.

Cobb came to the Amercan League in the fall of 1905. The coming season will be his twentieth in the big show.

Not once since 1906 has Cobb fallen below the .300 mark in batting. Several times he has bettered .400.

Cobb for several years has showed signs of slowing up, but at that he is still faster than a majority of the big league players.

The lively ball, according to Cobb, was his saviour, just at a time when his legs began to bother him.

"The lively ball," says Cobb, "took the premium off running and placed it all the stronger on hitting, and I always could hit."

Cobb figures that he is good for at least two years more at top speed, unless a serious injury should set him back.

Cobb's lone ambition in baseball is to win a pennant and a world series. A goal which still appears some distance away, despite the fact that his club finished second last year.

AMERICAN TENNIS TEAM MINUS ACES

Tilden and Johnston and Probably Richards Not Likely to Compete In Olympic Games.

NEW YORK, March 12 (Canadian Press). — The United States will be without the services of its two tennis "aces" in the 1924 Olympic competition as a result of William T. Tilden's withdrawal because of a ruling that the United States Olympic competitors cannot write for newspapers or syndicates while abroad.

William M. Johnston, former champion, who ranks next to Tilden in the national lists, previously had decided he would be unable to accept an invitation to join the Olympic team which the United States Lawn Tennis Association plans to send to France.

The anti-writing regulation may further hit the ranks of the tennis team candidates, it was pointed out, because Vincent Richards, Davis Cup player, and fourth national ranking star, also is said to have a 1924 contract for newspaper work.

Benny Leonard is pictured sparring with Jackie Coogan ....There are times when a really game champion doesn't mind taking a chance.

The experts have decided that the way to stop Ruth is to pitch high to him ....In this way you may stop him from getting more than four bases on any one hit.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND SEE EXHIBIT TO BE SHOWN IN PETERBORO NEXT

The cause of public helath in Canada has received a great impetus through an unusual exhibition attended by 5,000 women and 11,000 men which has been open for the past month in Toronto. Arranged through co-operation of the Federal, Provincial and Toronto Departments of Health by the Social Hygiene Council, this health exhibit consists of a series of wax models from Paris demonstrating with scientific accuracy the ravages of the social diseases, of posters, lantern slides, moving pictures and daily addresses in the hand- of experts, all dealing with existing social health or pointing the way to improved conditions for individuals and race alike. While the menace of disease as well as the penalties of ignorance or vice, were matters strongly emphasised by the things shown, the right ways of life, the part recreation plays in building health, the value of supervised playgrounds in all towns, big or little, the urgent necessity for community centres, for the active participation of the church in teaching social hygiene, and of intelligent handling of sex problems in every home, were all demonstrated in detail by one or other angle of this unique health exhibition.

The fundamentally national aspects of social hygiene as a science of community health were powerfully presented by Mayor Hiltz of Toronto, Dr. J. W. S. McCullough of the Ontario Provincial Board of Health, and Dr. C. J. O. Hastings, Medical Health Officer, Toronto, on the opening day of the exhibit in January. On this occasion one thousand invitations were issued to prominent citizens and organisations.

"Educate, educate, educate," said Dr. C. J. O. Hastings, "but don't sit down while you do it. Keep right on battling with things as they are, while hoping for better ones in the future. As to teaching sex hygiene to the young, don't go too fast. It's a dangerous problem. In my opinion there are few people, either men or women, fitted to cope with sex instruction of the young. But there is no limit to what you may do with the parents, and after all responsibility rests in the home. With the moral aspects of social hygiene, official health departments do not deal. That is between men and women and their God. But we are all vitally concerned to protect the innocent who suffer with the guilty from venereal diseases and to prevent such suffering if we can. Ill-conceived, ill-advised, mock modesty has borne lamentable, costly penalties, and bitter fruit in the past. Knowledge is the way to prevention. Let us all, men and women alike, equip ourselves with it and protect the child life of the country."

Both Dr. Hastings and Dr. J. W. S. McCullough paid a glowing tribute to the work and character of Dr. Gordon Bates, founder in Canada of the social hygiene movement, and paid similar tributes to Mrs. Pankhurst, now so powerful a collaborator. Throughout the first two weeks the exhibit was shown only to women over 16 years of age. It was open from 11 to 4.30 and from 7 to 9.30 daily, and all sessions were well attended, audiences presenting a clear-cut cross-section of society, women of leisure and their daughters, middle-class hardworking women, factory operatives, office girls, all being represented and all showing a deep interest. Similarly representative, democratic, interested and even more crowded gatherings of men testified to the general desire for authoritative information regarding social hygiene.

Daily addresses were in the hands of medical men and women, social service workers, magistrates, clergymen, hygienists, educationalists and prominent club officials. Ontario Health Officials had charge of the remarkable films which were shown daily during both periods of the exhibition, the films for men, the posters and models varying only in being changed to suit the differing audiences.

A large corps of assistants was organized in order that there might be well instructed guides for each day. Nurses from the city hospitals officiated during the showings for women while medical men, hospital internes and members of such organizations as the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Big Brothers, Y.M.C.A., or Knights of Columbus Clubs assisted in the various departments during the fortnight showing for men.

Speakers and their subjects will give some idea of the wide scope of education attempted: "The Meaning of Social Hygiene, Dr. Gordon Bates, General Secretary of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council; "Preparing the Child for Life,' Mrs. E. Pankhurst, staff speaker for the Social Hygiene Council; "The Woman Physician's Point of View," Dr. Edna Guest, Women's College Hospital; "An Educational Creed," Mrs. (trustee) Groves; "Relation of a Social Settlement to Community Life,"G. Tower Ferguson, St. Christopher's House; "Society and the Delinquent Woman," Dr. Lillian Langstaff, Medical attendant at the Municipal Jail Farm for Women; "Who is to Blame?" Dr. Margaret (Magistrate) Patterson; "The Church and Social Hygiene," Rev. Father Minehan, Rabbi Brickner and Rev. H. M. Pearson; "Personal Hygiene," Dr. George Porter, Physical Director, Toronto University; "Marriage and Syphilis," Dr. George W. Ross; "What Social Hygiene Means," Dr. E. E. King; "Some International and National Aspects of Social Hygiene," Professor J. G. Fitzgerald, Toronto University and the Connaught Laboratories; "The Need of Public Health Education," Dr. J. J. Middleton; "The Church as a Community Centre," Rev. Ronald MacLeod; "Books Boys Ought to Read," Prof. D. R. Keys, Toronto University; "What the Government is Doing," Dr. R. R. McClenahan, Provincial Board of Health; "The Attitude of Labor to Social Hygiene." Ernest Chapman, Physical Instructor,St. Andrew's College; "The School as a Community Centre," Hugh Kerr of the Board of Education.

Some rembarkable features of the Social Hygiene Exhibit were that about 100,000 pieces of literature were given away or sold to nearly 16,000 persons who attended it; that though admission was free, voluntary offerings from grateful men and women covered most of the expenses; that not only large employers of labor showed a deep interest in the purposes of the exhibition, but that a great number of workers, both men and women attended, and a great quantity of literature was sold to intelligent people of this type; that busy medical or business men gave freely or their time for the cause of social health, and it was proven by the satisfaction of all who planned this health demonstration that there is very definite need of some such exhibit as a permanent feature of community life in all centres of population.

It was shown, too, although no boys under 16 years of age were admitted that the elder boys of high school age, are eager for some such impersonal and authoritative information as they could acquire at this exhibit. Students swarmed to its sessions and bought a large amount of useful information. Leaders in boys' clubs were prominent attendants at the exhibition. Soldiers from Stanley baracks were paraded in strength to the showing but many of them returned individually afterwards in order to supplement their knowledge.

Several missionaries from China spent hours over the various exhibits and in buying literature in order that they might be in a position to strengthen the social hygiene movement in their districts when they returned to their work in the Orient.

A unique feature of the showing to women was the number of elderly women who attended and the amount of human interest material in the way of personal histories which they offered to the attendants. Though they, in most instances, were married women and mothers of families, their ignorance of many of the facts of life was profound and this ignorance has been productive of much tragedy in their own or other lives.

On closing in Toronto, the exhibit will move on to Hamilton, London, St. Catharines, Peterboro, Niagara and Windsor. In the meantime, the women's organizations in Toronto are suggesting that it be continued for some weeks for women before removal and Dr. Gordon Bates, the General Secretary of the Social Hygiene Council, is of the opinion that it may eventually become a permanent feature of health work throughout Ontario or the Dominion.

The above exhibition will be shown in Peterboro all next week.

Billy Evans Says

It wouldn't surprise me if the despised Boston Red Sox of the past four or five years were very much in evidence during the 1924 American League pennant race.

I don't figure the Red Sox to win a pennant, neither will Fohl's team finish in last place. It is a club with possibilities, liable to prove a stumbling block to several teams with decided pennant aspirations.

Pitching is of course the biggest problem that confronts Manager Lee Fohl. However, that is a problem that every American League manager faces with the possible exception of Miller Huggins.

One thing, the Boston Red Sox will be well managed. There is none of the grandstand stuff about Lee Fohl. He gets results in a quiet way that does not win much publicity for him as a manager.

Glance over the records of the major league teams that have been managed by Fohl and you will note that he always has his charges up in the race.

Fohl was very successful at Cleveland. When he departed at the close of the 1919 season he turned over a club that won a pennant and a world series the following year.

His St. Louis club of 1922 fell only one game shy of beating the New York Yankees for the championship in a heart-breaking finish.

Many managers who have not accomplished as much as Fohl are referred to as miracle men and wonder leaders.

Fohl works quietly, is content that the players receive the praise and glory that goes with a winner. All he seeks are results.

A veteran catcher means much to a club that has been floundering about as have the Red Sox for several years. The acquisition of Steve O'Neill supplies that want.

In doping out the American League situation for 1924 one cannot overlook the Boston Red Sox. Boston fans are sure to be won back to the fold by the efforts fo Bobby Quinn and Lee Fohl.

WOULD HAVE WON HERE, SAYS THE LINDSAY POST.

Peterboro did not land the bacon but came very close to it. They gave the Niagara Falls team the surprise of their lives. In fact the Petes should have won the round and they lost because of two reasons: First, they did not play their game in the first two periods at Niagara Falls, the Niagara team having the big advantage on their home artificial ice; second, the Petes should have played their last game on home ice. On home ice they no doubt would have run up a score.

THEATRES

"A WOMAN OF PARIS."

There have been good crowds at the Grand Opera House during the last two evenings for Charlie Chaplin's drama, "A Woman of Paris," which is the attraction again tonight and to-morrow night. The advertisements that record this picture as "something different" are quite truthful. One watching it gets the impression that Chaplin has thrown overboard in a surprising and strangely effective manner much of the treasured hokum of the silver sheet. The way in which he treats his characters is decidedly unique. If he is many decades in advance of his time, it is a refreshing outlook for the films of the future. There are few sub-titles, much of the story is left to the imagination, the dialogue is that of real life, and there is little or no adherence to time-honored methods, with the result that the picture is absorbing in its interest. It ends with a big interrogation mark, something that few audiences like, but the question is logical. Possibly the only marring feature is the fact that the actors, although each is supposed to be French, quite palpably converse in the most fluent of English at all times.

A quality of realism seldom, if ever, before attempted in the 'movie' world, is the keynote of the picture, a realism tempered by the temperament and nationality of the people in the cast. When Marie meets her former lover many years after a death of which she was ignorant spoiled their plans for an immediate marriage, they do not register extreme and harrowing emotion. On the contrary, Jean, who is now an impecunious painter of Paris, while she, the sudden heiress to a fortune, is a luxurious woman of the world, invites her into his studio and his mother gives her a cup of tea. Again, when Marie fiqally decides to marry Jean and gives up her rich and fickle-minded admirer, the latter, Pierre Revel, replies to her pronouncement, "You will never see me again," with the nonchalant "Well, 'phone me sometime," and makes a graceful exit. The next evening finds the lady 'phoning him as requested. But when Jean, tragic, white-faced, with a loaded revolver in his pocket, is flouted by the woman who feels that his mother has come between them, he does not prance about and rave. In the restaurant rotunda, he sends a bullet through his heart, and the whole bitter entanglement of his life, caught between love and parental interference, comes to a quiet end, with his mother, the pistol in her pocket with which she has gone out to kill Marie, weeping with the girl in the forlornness of the poor studio.

It is a powerful, gripping picture, possibly without a moral, but also without the often too - apparent mechanics of many pictures. Ideas and charcteristics are suggested rather than sharply-defined. There are undertones, subtly inferred, and a degree of dramatic swiftness, as in life, in the tragic death of Jean's father and the suicide of Jean.

An odd inclusion of small moments in life is made, with peculiar effectiveness. There is the scene showing Marie's masseuse giving her a treatment, while Fifi, dropping ashes into the saxaphone bell, tells her of the treachery of Paulette. There is the old mother of Jean preparing his late supper, while the haggard youth watches Marie's windows, and there is much wonderful raiment for the women. The final episode, when the two pass each other unwittingly on the road, is just as life, and not the movies, would stage it.

As the heroine, Marie St. Clair, Edna Purviance is splendid, and Adolphe Menjou as the imperturbable bachelor, is immense.

WEDNESDAY'S DAILY GRAND Z THE "DUMBELLS."

Back again with a brand-new show, entitled "Cheerio 2nd," the Dumbells this year are giving, it is claimed the best entertainment since they began five years ago. Their work has such an air of vitality and effervescence about it that it never seems to grow old. But they do not forget to add the zest of new material. This time it is in the form of important additions to the company, as well as new skits and new songs and comedy. John Hogan not only has ability in writing skits, but he proves himself an exhilarating and mirth-provoking comedian. Gordon Calder, both in make-up, in voice and in mannerisms gives a clever impersonation of a burlesque blonde. His humor is fresh and not forced, and his effects are secured without straining the humor into too broad farce.

Of course, there are the old favorites and Captain Plunkett is far too good a showman to let the book grow stale or the songs grow mechanical by repetition. There is a constant process of reviewing the scenario, and the polish he uses is the individual judgment of his own brain and the sound advice of one or two members of the company. The Dumbells, like wise-showmen, all keep their ears constantly to the ground and measure success by the little ripples of laughter and enjoyment that filter through the audience rather than by the boisterous applause of a small section that happens to be captivated by some especial hit.

Al. Plunkett's new songs are if anything better than ever. "Everybody Slips a Little," is a delightful comic song that will be whistled and hummed everywhere it is heard. Ross Hamilton (Marjorie) has new and magnificent gowns and the best singing numbers this brilliant female impersonator has ever sung.

The three farcal sketches of this new presentation are full of clean wholesome fun designed for sheer enjoyment and without any arriere pensee at the back of the author's mind. The old reliable support, Pat Rafferty, Morley Plunkett, Ben Allen, Jack Grace and Jim Foley are all there to add piqdancy to the entertainment and there is no cleverer skit than that of Jim Foley as the Chinaman.

The Dumbells will be seen at the Grand Theatre for two days, commencing March 14.

AT THE ROYAL

AMATEUR NICHT THURSDAY AT ROYAL.

A new array of local talent is rapidly being secured for Thursday night at the Royal. This is the second of the advertised amateur nights and if it is as successful as the first, the Royal will not have to worry about getting a crowd. The famous comedy feature, Potash and Perlmutter, and a classy quartette consisting of Ethel Vaughn, soprano, and three musicians, two violins and a harp, will also be on the same programme.

FAMOUS CHARACTERS BROUGHT TO SCREEN.

Abe Potash and Morris Perlmutter.

Without a doubt those names are more common throughout the entire world than those of any person living or dead. They are the brain creations of Montague Glass, the lawyer-author, and from the beginning of their appearance on the magazine page they have grown in popularity to such an extent that their fame is now international.

These famous cloak and suit partners started their careers as the central figures of a series of short stories which appeared in a prominent magazine. It was only a few months before their vogue had spread so rapidly that thousands upon thousands of persons bought the periodical solely for the purpose of reading what Abe and Morris had been doing.

From there it was but a step in the speaking stage, where for years the roles of the partners have been portrayed by Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr. It was one of the biggest money-makers in the history of the stage.

Now it has been made into a motion picture by Samuel Goldwyn under the direction of Clarence Badger and it will be the feature at the Royal Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Bernard and Carr play their original roles in the screen version, with Vera Gordon appearing as co-star. Other screen luminaries in this First National picture are Martha Mansfield, Hope Sutherland, Ben Lyon, De Sacia Mcoers, Lee Kohlmar, Eduard Durand and Jerry Devine.

FASHION MODELS APPEAR IN "POTASH AND PERLMUTTER"

The deep-seated ambition of every girl is to become a motion picture actress, but it is a difficult goal to achieve. However, twenty-four New York girls recently found themselves acting before the camera in an unexpected manner and without any effort on their part.

During the filming of "Potash and Perlmutter," Director Clarence Badger found himself confronted with the task of finding two dozen girls to play the parts of cloak and suit models. Hundreds of "extras" were inspected, but not one of them was fitted to portray the roles.

"Why not hire real models?" was the thought that suddenly popped into the director's mind. He got busy on the telephone and found the modistes graciously willing to "loan" their models long enough for Badger's purposes. And, in addition, they furnished the latest of advance styles for the models to wear.

AT THE CAPITOL

LAST CHANCE TO-NIGHT TO SCALE MT. EVEREST

To-night will hear the final film-story told by Major Yeats-Brown, D.F.C. of the daring attempt to climb Mount Everest by a group of British officers, at the Capitol Theatre. Major Yeats-Brown's thrilling story is accompanied by 4,200 ft. of film made by the expedition and gives an interesting insight into life in Tibet and the smaller countries lying about the base of the mountain. On the same bill is Wesley Barry in his comedy hit, 'The Country Kid.'

DOUBLE COMEDY BILL AT EVERY SHOW AT CAPITOL.

Starting tomorrow every show at the Capitol Theatre will contain two comedies, the management announces. Stan. Laure in, "Postage Due" and a Mermaid Comedy hit, "Flying Finance." Both are guaranteed gloom-chasers, and along with a Pathe Review and a long feature, a big show is coming to Capitol patrons.

WOMAN MASQUERADES AS MAN AT CAPITOL THEATRE.

"Ponjola," Sam E. Rork's First National picturization of Cynthia Stockley's masterpiece of South Africa life, will be the feature tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre.

A vivid photoplay drama of a story which ran serially in the Cosmopolitan magazine and later was for months one of the "six best sellers," "Ponjola" is a stirring story of action and romance staged in the Rhodesian gold fields.

While its title is taken from the native name for liquor, the play is in no way a preachment against intoxicants, but it tells a story nevertheless, in which "Ponjola," the soul destroying drink of that country, plays a prominent part.

The play centres about an English noblewoman, an innocent victim of scandal who goes into the gold fields to lose her identity. She masquerades as a man, and as such lives for months with the hardened characters of the veldt, fighting the curse of ponjola and fighting for the redemption of the man, who had previously saved her from self-destruction.

The plot moves quickly, passing from one thrilling incident to another. Involved in intrigue and in murder, the girl is willing to sacrifice herself for the man she loves—even to standing trial for a killing. Its theme is entirely different from anything ever shown on the screen before.

Interpreted by a truly all-star cast, including James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson, Tully Marshall, Ruth Clifford and Joseph Kilgour, "Ponjola" is considered one of the greatest pictures of the year.

STAN. BENNETT, "Dumbells," at the Grand, Friday and Saturday.

DECLARE YOUNG SHOULD REMAIN

G.W.V.A. Will Interview Police Commission---Ladies' Auxiliary Pass Resolution.

With the institution last night of a pleasing new ritual, the Great War Veterans' Association also inaugurated a new membership drive towards its objective of one thousand members. The meeting was in charge of President Dr. N. H. Sutton, and was well attended.

The details of the drive have not yet been completed, and their perfection is in the hands of the executive. Prizes will be offered to encourage recruiting.

The new ritual met with general approval, providing in pleasing manner for the remembrance of the mem of the overseas forces who died on service and guiding the deliberations of the comrades in their meetings.

A communication was received from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Association drawing attention to the dismissal of Constable Harry Young, on overseas man with a splendid record as a bomber in the 5th C.M.R. The resolution passed by the Ladies' Auxiliary: "This branch of the Ladies Auxiliary deeply regrets the action of the police commission taken in the dismissal of Constable Harry Young from the local force. The regular employment of men who served overseas is, we trust, one of the first considerations of employers, and this auxiliary urges the Board of Police Commissioners to withdraw the notice of dismissal served on Constable Young whose war service is well known and is too recent to be lightly set aside."

With the same views as those expressed in the Ladies' resolution, the G.W.V.A. appointed a committee to confer with the Police Commission. It consists of Messr. Winterbottom, Sutton and Whatley.

Church Parade

Considerable debate was held on the subject of the annual church parade of the organization, and vote on three questions resulted in the selection of St. Peter's Cathedral, the vote being made unanimous. George street Methodist and St. Luke's Anglican church were also named.

Rev. Father Costello, who was present in his capacity of chaplain of the organization, said he was honored by the selection of his church. He promised that Bishop O'Brien would preach the sermon for the parade.

The using of the G.W.V.A. hall lawn for bowling was proposed, and a committee will investigate the feasibility of the plan.

In regard to the erection of a war memorial in Peterborough, Comrade Winterbottom said the delay is now caused by the engagement of the architect, Sir Reginald Blondfield, in designing memorials in Europe. The end of April, he thought, should see progress made here.

The program concluded with an entertaining debate, in which Comrade Sutton and his team supported the affirmation that 'The G.W.V.A. become a political party" and the negative was taken by Comrade Whatley. The decision by Comrade Winterbottom favored the affirmative.

ONE-ARMED MAN GIVEN THREE WEEKS ON HILL

Ernest Chatten, charged with fraudulently obtaining lodgings, was this morning sentenced to three weeks in the common jail. A previous record produced showed that he had been arrested on charges of evading his board bill, vagrancy and riding on trains without paying his fare. He is crippled, and Detroit people had taken up a collection to procure him an artificial hand, which has not yet arrived.

Chattens mother, Chief Newhall told Magistrate Langley, had been divorced, and is making arrangements to take the boy when his father abandons all right to him. His mother lives in the west.

CASE AGAINST LOCAL DOCTOR IS DISMISSED

Dr. D. C. King Charged With B. O. T. A. Was Given Clean Sheet on Failure of Prosecution to Make Out a Case.

WHISKEY NEEDED

On admission by City Solicitor Joseph Wearing that he could not ask for a conviction on the strength of the evidence that had been presented for the prosecution, the case against Dr. De Courcy King, charged with breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, was dismissed without costs, after J. F. Strickland, counsel for Dr. King, had put his client in the witness box where he declared he believed the liquor he prescribed for Robert Wonton Armitage was necessary to his health.

Magistrate Langley presided.

Among the witnesses were Dr. J. B. Mann and Dr. D. W. Clark, and there were also present, but not called, Dr. T. W. H. Young, Dr. A. Y. McNair, and Dr. E. H. Wood.

Dr. Clark said Armitage called on him on 5th March and complained of a cold, for which he prescribed coryza tablets and hot lemonade. He personally would not prescribe whisky for a case like Armitage's, and as far as he could see there was no need for the man having liquor. In the case of a cold in the head, in Dr. Clark's opinion, just as good results are obtained by the use of hot lemonade as with whisky. He had a prejudice against whisky when not needed, but has no prejudice against its use when the patient shows a poisoned condition resulting from the cold.

Armitage said he got the prescription from Dr. King's office on 5th March, and was on his way to have it filled at a drug store when he was accosted by the police. He identified the script, which declared Armitage was suffering from cold and bronchitis. After visiting Dr. Clark, because Dr. King was out, Armitage saw a light in Dr. King's office, and called. In the office he told Dr. King he had a cold in his head and asked for a prescription.

'Dr. King said 'Yes, sit down.' I sat down and he asked whether I wanted the six ounces in town. I said 'Yes.' He asked me if I wanted whisky, and I said 'Yes.' I gave the doctor a two-dollar bill and he gave me one dollar back. He did not examine me or ask me any questions. I had no cough and I have never had bronchitis that I know of."

Mr. Strickland, cross-examining: "Were you out that night to get a drink or get medicine?"

Armitage: "I was out to get medicine."

No Trace Bronchitis.

Dr. J. B. Mann said he examined the last witness in the Police Station on 5th March after he had been to Dr. King's for the prescription, and found no traces of bronchitis. In Dr. Mann's opinion there was no need of his having liquor, although the use of liquor in treating colds with whisky is a matter for the individual decision of the practitioner. He himself does not prescribe liquor for colds, and in his opinion, in this case, whisky would not be the proper treatment.

While personally he did not place much reliance on whisky as a remedy for colds, Dr. Mann said he knows there is a school of physicians that believes in it.

Dr. King Called.

Dr. King said he was a qualified physician registered in the Ontario College of Physicians, and has practiced about 24 years. Armitage had been his patient over a year, he said, and on March 5 he prescribed six ounces of whiskey which in his opinion was necessary to the patient's health.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Wearing the witness said Armitage caughed in his office and expectorated, and that was one indication of bronchitis. From what the patient told him he considered the liquor necessary, and he knew Armitage was not a drinking man.

Mr. Wearing, remarking that he likes as well as anyone to win his cases, said in this instance he could not see the advantage of proceeding further, and could not ask for a conviction. The police were justified, he said, in bringing the charge on finding a man with apparently no trace of bronchitis carrying a script with "bronchitis" marked on it. The admissions of the physcians called that there are differences of opinion as to the efficacy of treating colds with liquor, and that one school believes in the treatment, and Dr. King's statement that he considered the liquor necessary in this case, left no case for the prosecution.

Magistrate Langley said if a bona fide medical man after examination considers a person is in need of liquor he is right in prescribing it.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

The regular monthly business and devotional meeting of the W.A. of St. John's church was held on Tuesday, March 11th. There was a fair attendance. The prayers and reading were offered by the Rev. Dr. Blagrave. The president, Mrs. A. W. Turner, welcomed two new members. After the usual business was finished Mrs. Arthur Amys contributed two solos. Miss Halliday gave a most interesting reading on the "Women of Japan."

Council meetings are at all times open to the public, and in view of the presentation to be made, to-night's will be especially interesting. The meeting opens at 7:30.

MYSTERY HOVERS AROUND PEOPLE.

Do Dogs Have the Ability to Consult Each Other When They Sniff Noses?

No one has ever been able to explain how lost dogs and cats can travel hundreds of miles over strange territory and get back home. The force that guides them is a baffling mystery.

Consider the collie dog owned by G. F. [illegible] Oregon. Last summer Brazier visited in Wolcott, Ind., and took the dog along, then returned home without it. The other day the collie, thin and worn out, crept up to the porch of his home in Oregon and barked feebly.

The distance covered by the dog is at least 2,000 miles.

What guided the dog to his destination? Do dogs have the ability to consult each other when they sniff noses, and inquire directions? Sounds ridiculous? Well, just try to figure out a more plausible explanation of how Brazier's collie made the 2,000-mile trip.

* * *

The mysterious sixth sense is peculiar to nearly all forms of animal life. Years ago, when rifles were short-range and weak compared with modern firearms, the grizzly bear seemed to sense the situation—and it was easy to get within sight of him. As rifles became more powerful and of longer range, Mr. Grizzly began to keep increasingly farther away. Now it requires great hunting skill to get within gun-range of him, except by accident.

How does he grizzly know except by a mysterious sixth sense? Certainly it has been impossible for the shot-and-killed bear to spread the word to others.

Similarly, fish in a lake get to "know" trolls and other lures, according to Indians, and have to be tempted with new baits.

* * *

Scientists claim that nearly all young babies can swim instinctively. As the baby grows older, the fear emotion develops—and soon fear blots out the ability to swim. Then the child has to be taught swimming lessons. Fear has eliminated an instinct inherited from animal ancestors.

The new-born baby will clutch a stick and hang by his fingers as easily and naturally as a monkey.

Being close to the animal state, the baby—and later the child—has considerable animal instinct. That's why children are such excellent and generally infallible judges of human nature. If babies instinctively like a man, place your bets on that man.

LEGITIMATE INDUSTRY WOULD BE MAINTAINED WAS ELECTION PLEDGE

W. D. Euler of Kitchener Reminded Government of Promises to Electors and Declared His Intention of Fulfilling His Pledge — Urged Caution During Depression and Expressed Attitude of Tariff For Revenue and Maintenance of Industries.

SHOULD ACT SLOWLY.

OTTAWA, March 13.—Another Liberal objection to drastic tariff change was heard in the House of Commons Wednesday. There should be no such change without careful inquiry, argued W. D. Euler, of North Waterloo, one of the Ontario industrial constituencies. Mr. Euler declared his belief in a tariff for revenue which would at the same time maintain legitimate industry he would not place any premium on inefficiency on the part of the Canadian manufacturer.

"I do believe," Mr. Euler went on, "in the maintenance of our industries because I believe they are necessary to the proper development of our country, and for that reason I could not favor any action that would prejudice the interests of the people whom I represent."

He could not believe that there was any intention on the part of the Government to take such action. In fact during the election it had been stated in his riding that no legitimate industry would be injured. There should be no drastic change in the tariff without careful inquiries. No finance minister had the time for such an inquiry and a permanent tariff commission might be worth trying out. That commission should not consist of manufacturers only but of unprejudiced persons. Parliament should not be bound to accept the views of that commission because Parliament must have the final word on taxation.

Implement's Price Increased

He did not see that there was any good to be gained by nibbling at the tariff. As to agricultural implements he would like to see the farmer purchase those implements as cheaply as possible, but he doubted whether, even if the tariff were entirely removed, the farmer would get his implements any cheaper. There had been a cut in these duties recently and since that time there had been an increase in the price of agricultural implements. He was not sure that what he was going to say would be approved by his honorable friends

Andrew McMaster (Liberal, Brome), interrupted to ask which group Mr. Euler referred to.

Mr. Euler replied that he meant his friends across the House, the Progressives but he was not sure in which group to include Mr. McMaster (Laughter).

Should Go Slowly

Mr. Eulor did not see why there should be discrimination against the manufacturers of agricultural implements. If there was anything in free trade, he did not see why it should not be applied all along the line. (Progressive cheers). The protection enjoyed by the agricultural implement industry was low, and it had no monopoly. He was not much concerned politically with this industry though there were a few small factories in his riding. He wished to point out, however, that a farmer could not follow the plough nor could a fisherman engage in his vocation without wearing boots and shoes and warm clothing. However, as to agricultural implements themselves he advised the Government to go slowly for, if no great good could come of a tariff change an industry might be annihilated by it. Caution was desirable in a time of depression and business uncertainty. The whole tariff structure, he agreed ought to be overhauled, but that should be accomplished through a permanent tariff commission That might not be the national policy, but it was a rational policy

Supported Revolt At Pistol's Point

MUNICH, Bavaria, March 13. At the continuance Wednesday of the trial of General Ludendorff, Adolph Hittler, and others, for complicity in the attempted revolution of last September, General von Heisser was the chief witness.

His testimony was similar to that previously given by General von Lossow, former commander of the Reichswehr, and Dr. von Kahr, former dictator. He flatly contradicted Hitler and Ludendorff concerning events in the beer cellar when the revolution was declared.

He said that he had frequently warned Hitler against forcible action. He said that he had been compelled at the point of a pistol to pretend to support the revolt.

20 VETERANS IN MINE DISASTER

Body of 128th Victim of Utah Mine Explosion Recovered, Leaving 45 Still Missing.

CASTLE GATE, Utah, March 13 (Canadian Press). — Small fires which hampered rescue crews in Mine Number 2, Utah Fuel Company yesterday were extinguished last night, and the grim task of searching for the bodies of the entombed miners was resumed.

The body of the 128th victim was recovered yesterday afternoon, leaving 45 to be accounted for.

Lower recesses of the mine are filled with water, with pumps damaged, but steps the being made to have them repaired.

Thirty-four bodies were taken to Helper and Price, Utah, for interment. Several also were shipped to other Utah points and to Nevada towns.

Funeral services for many of the miners who resided here were held yesterday.

Full military services will be accorded the twenty veterans of the World War who lost their lives in the disaster.

Because of fhte large number of funerals, only short services will be held at the graves for the victims, but a great public memorial service is planned for later.

AUSTRIA STILL UNDER LEAGUE

Desires Release From the Supervision of League of Nations Which Helped Balance the Budget — Is Rebuked.

GENEVA, March 13.— Austria was rebuked yesterday by the Council of the League of Nations. Having balanced their budget the Austrians want to free themselves from League control, but the Council after hearing Dr. Zimmerman's report, adopted a resolution that the Austrian Government entered into a solemn undertaking and that League control can be withdrawn only when the permanent equilibrium of the budget is established and the financial stability of Austria assured.

Austria wants theuse for public works without League supervision of 200,000,000 crowns remaining from the original loan. The Council spoke out unequivocally and said the request would be studied, but that the bondholders must be protected and the Vienna Government should understand that the loan should be employed only for purposes approved only for purposes approved by Dr. Zimmermann and under his direction.

Dr. Zimmerman, in a statement to the correspondents, said it would be a mistake to say that the success of the Austrian reconstruction had already been achieved. Energetic Austrian collaboration was still needed. Splendid progress has been made, but it was doubtful whether the present high taxation could be maintained. What was chiefly required was a decrease in expenditures.

PALACE DOESN'T ATTRACT MINER

"Jamie" Brown, Soon to Be Appointed Lord High Commissioner to Church of Scotland, Will Remain With "Her Grace" In Ayrshire Cottage.

LONDON, March 13.—By the appointment of Commoner James Brown as Lord High Commissioner to the High Church of Scotland, which is pending, a Socialist Labor Member of Parliament, formerly a miner, whose wife was a mill girl, will succeed to a post which for two and a half centuries has been proudly held by members of the Scottish nobility.

It is the duty of the Commissioner to act as the representative of the King during the general assembly of the Church of Scotland. The Commissioner has his official residence in famous Holyrood Palace and there for a few weeks each year he will keep royal state, holding levees and carrying out all the other functions of his office.

James Brown says he intends to abate nothing of the ancient dignities and ceremonies of office; his wife will be styled "Her Grace." But when the state functions are ended he will again become a plain, everyday man, known as "Jamie" Brown to his friends, and return with his wife to their miner's cottage of two rooms and kitchen in the small Ayrshire village where they lived together for thirty-five years.

SUGAR BOYCOTT COSTLY.

NEW YORK, March 13.—A drive by housewives to buy sugar, precipitated by Government estimates of an impending shortage, which was followed by a boycott, caused the American Sugar Refining Company to lose more than $1,500,000 last year in refining operations on sugar sold later for $200,000,000, Earl D. Babst, president of the company, announced last night.

RANEY LED IN EFFORT TO ALTER GOVERNMENT BILL FOR TAKING VOTE

Proposed Preamble Setting Forth Liberty League Petition As Reason For the Legislation—Suggested Suspension of Vote Until 20 Per Cent. of the People Petitioned For It — Liberals Pressed For Vote Before Midsummer.

Amendments Defeated.

TORONTO, March 13.—Opposition members in the Legislature maintained a vigorous opposition to the last clause of the act enabling the government to take a vote of Ontario electors on liquor questions when the bill went through committee yesterday. Every amendment proposed was defeated, although there were no formal votes taken. Several times during the discussion in committee Hon. W. E. Raney and the Prime Minister exchanged warm words. Mr. Raney moved several amendments.

Right at the start, Mr. Raney wanted to move a preamble into the bill. This preamble would have given as the reason for the legislation the presentation of a petition signed by 150,000 electors of Ontario asking for a referendum containing questions on government control of hard liquors and the saloon sale of beer. Mr. Raney contended that this petition presented over a year ago by the Liberty league was the cause of the present legislation for a vote and thought that it should be contained in the act.

Arrogates Virtues.

The amendment brought a warm reply from the Premier, who immediately gave it as his opinion that such an amendment was not in order.

"The honorable member (Mr. Raney) is attributing ulterior motives of others," said the Premier. "He has arrogated all the virtues of this House to himself. He says the genesis of the bill is the petition presented by the Liberty league, but he knows that is not true. He perverts the facts."

Mr. Raney—"Oh, be a sportsman. We have had enough hypocrisy."

The Premer—"The people got enough of your hypocrisy, and they put you last June into the obscurity from which you came four years before."

The Premier stated that he never knew of the existence of the petition until after the present legislation had been framed. He declared that Mr. Raney was prostituting the great ideals of moral reform for his own fanatical ideas. "This legislation," he said, "is the honest carrying out of the election pledges of the Conservative party."

Date of Referendum.

A. Belanger (Lib., Russell) then moved an amendment that the vote be taken before July 1. He explained that his date was only tentative and that he would agree to October 1 or any other stated time, but he made the amendment so that the House could set the date, as it had the constitutional right to do, and not leave a legislative matter to the government.

Hon. W. F. Nickle declined to accept the date, stating that it might precipitate a vote when the province was not willing to have one. Mr. Nickle expressed surprise that the Liberal party after taking such a pride in its stand on temperance should seek to rush a referendum.

Not a Dictator.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, rose to state that he was not the kind of leader who told his followers what they were to do. On the Conservative side he could easily understand that style of thought existed.

"There are far more Conservative members sweating blood over this question than there are in the opposition," he said. It would be better for this Legislature if the Premier allowed more freedom among his followers, and we have no intention of allowing the Tory frame of mind to dictate the position of this party." He said that he had not seen the amendment before it was moved by Mr. Belanger.

J. A. Pinard, (Lib., East Ottawa) said he would amend the act without having a vote of the people at all. He stated that he intended to bring down a bill so that the O.T.A.

Lords Approve Tax on Betting

LONDON, March 13. — The House of Lords yesterday by a vote of 57 to 15 carried a motion to the effect that the taxation of betting was desirable and practicable.

Lord Newton, the mover of the resolution, said that there was no harm in betting in moderation, and a system of licensing, coupled with taxation, would not increase but would diminish betting.

Lord Arnold, under-secretary for the Colonies, on behalf of the government, agreed that betting had become a great evil, but he disagreed with the idea that a taxation scheme would diminish it, because it would provide greater facilities for betting. It was not a business proposition, he said, to ask the government to set up a machine against strong moral opposition to obtain only about 3,500,000 pounds a year from the proposed taxes.

PROBE ORDERED OF IRISH ARMY

Minister of Industry Withdraws Resignation Upon Government's Action to Inquire Into Administration of the Department of Defence.

DUBLIN, March 13 (Canadian Press). — President Cosgrave yesterday read in the Dail Eireann a letter signed by General Tobin and Colonel Dalton, explaining that they sent their original letter to the Government demanding on behalf of the army a discussion of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, to call attention to the seriousness of the situation.

"We will consider our object achieved if in consequence of our action the army situation is righted," the letter said.

Statements were made in the Dail during the session which disclosed the fact that the Government had met the objections of Joseph McGrath, Minister of Industry and Commerce, who announced his resignation on Tuesday.

It was said the Government had decided to institute an inquiry into the administration of the army, whereupon Mr. McGrath withdrew his resignation.

In the course of the debate Richard Mulcahy, Minister of Defence, said the military situation was absolutely sound and that no further incidents had occurred.

President Cosgrave then explained the proposed committee of inquiry. He said Mr. McGrath was dissatisfied with the army administration, and declared he could not longer be responsible as a member of the executive council.

The Council, after careful consideration of the situation, had decided to appoint a committee of inquiry, with which Mr. McGrath expressed satisfaction.

Mr. Cosgrave said he hoped that this action would allay the existing restlessness in the country. He added that the committee of inquiry would be a private committee, and that its proceedings would not be made public.

For years he has been an intimate friend of Ramsay MacDonald the present labor premier. FREIGHTER WITH 25 MEN LOST IN ATLANTIC STORM

Hurricans That Swept the Eastern Coast Took Toll of Eight Lives in New York City—Path Strewn With Damaged Property and Sea Craft.

SIX RESCUED.

NEW YORK, March 13.—(Canadian Press). — The captain of the freighter Santiago and 24 of his men were believed last night to have been lost with their vessel in the snow-freighted hurricane which swept the Atlantic coast Tuesday night, taking eight lives in New York City alone.

After raging at 80 miles an hour along the eastern seaboard from Cape Hatteras, where the Santiago went down, to Eastport, Maine, the gale appeared last night to have spent its fury. Its path on land and sea was marked by scores of disabled craft, enormous property damage and a long list of dead and injured.

Brooklyn Tied Up.

Transportation, power distributing systems and lines of communication were most seriously crippled. The storm inflicted upon Brooklyn a complete tie-up of her rapid transit lines, stranding hundreds of thousands of commuters upon the island.

Ten men were reported rescued and 25 were missing from the Ward liner Santiago, news of whose sinking 60 miles south of Cape Hatteras was carried in a radio message intercepted by the Charleston, S. C., Navy yard station.

Lifeboat Picked Up.

How the Santiago sank was not told. The first message, signed by the captain of the Norwegian steamship Cissy, simply said:

"Picked up lifeboat containing six sailors, three firemen, one carpenter from the steamer Santiago, which sank 60 miles south of Hatterns. No other lifeboats seen. Proceeding to Baltimore."

Local officers of the Ward Line, which operated the ill-fated ship through a defunct subsidiary, the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship Company, listed the other 25 members of the crew as "probably missing," including the captain, J. S. Baldwin, from whom they had not heard since the disaster.

Cargo of Sugar.

The Santiago left Cienfuegos, Cuba, March 4, bound for New York with 32,000 bags of cargo for the American Sugar Refining Company. She was to have reached this port to-day. She was a 5,000-tonner, built in 1906, and valued with her cargo at approximately $1,500,000.

Ward Line executives declined to make public the names of the Santiago's crew. They hoped, they said, to account for the missing, although continuous effort through the Navy Department and commercial stations to establish further radio communication with the Cissy's commander proved futile.

The Cissy was expected to reach Baltimore this morning with the picked-up survivors and the story of the Santiago's sinking.

TUG SENT TO RESCUE.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 13. — (Canadian Press). — Tugs were despatched at top speed yesterday to the assistance of the French steamer Tours, ashore off Nuevitas, Cuba. The steamer was sending out wireless calls for help.

Radio messages received at New York reported the French steamer Tours on the rocks at Nuevitas on Tuesday. She was sending out S.O.S. signals, which were received in Florida and relayed to New York. The Tours was bound from Wilmington, North Carolina, March 6, for Nuevitas.

CITY COUNCIL SPENT A BUSY THREE HOURS IN SPECIAL SESSION

Re-arranged Band Grants After Hearing Deputation-- Forwarded Recommendation Regarding Constable Young--Heard Utilities Commission.

TAX RATE ADOPTED

Last night's special meeting of the City Council called primarily to adopt the tax rate struck by the Finance Committee resolved itself into a free-for-all discussion of subjects ranging from the leasing of signs in the Riverside Park to the evils of a low tariff, the whole proceedings being lightened by the presentation to Harry Adlam of a life-saving medal. What appeared to be a good gallery of spectators eventually resolved itself into three deputations which pressed several claims before the council. These included Colonel Frank Bradburn and G. H. Benson, who presented an ultimatum on behalf of the Rangers' Band; Robert Hicks, chairman of the Utilities Commission, and E. F. Mason, who reported a big saving in the erection of the sub-station, and requested $12,000 to carry on the construction of water mains; and S. Whatley, secretary of the G.W.V.A., who spoke on behalf of the retention in civic service of returned soldiers generally, and Constable Harry Young in particular.

The three hour session developed many heated debates and efforts of His Worship the Mayor to expedite business, were not appreciated by some of the council, who rescinded a resolution, which had been put and declared carried, and entered into a lengthy debate on the question of returned soldiers' privileges.

A last stand was made on the increased tax rate when Alderman Phelan, chairman of the Finance Committee, refused to move the adoption of his committee's report, saying that he did not favor the increase. On his demand for "yeas and nays" he was supported only by Ald. Maher.

Constable Young's Case.

In a letter of protest regarding the discharge of Constable Harry Young, the G.W.V.A. said: "As promises have been reiterated time and again that returned men should have the preference, when all other qualifications are equal, we are somewhat amazed to find that the police commissioners have set fit to discharge a man who has been on the force for the last six years, when there are others some years his junior in point of service, and who never saw war service.

"On the surface this looks to be a travesty of justice and an infringement of the rights of returned men to preferential treatment, as has been promised from time to time, and therefore we request that the city council use every effort in cases where reduction in municipal staffs are to be made that men with overseas service be the last to be retired. And we further request that the council use its efforts with the police commission to reconsider the dismissal of Constable Young, and failing that they be asked to furnish a statement why this man was discharged from the police force in preference to men who had not served overseas in the late war."

No Fine Feathers For Stenographers

WARSAW, March 13. — An edict against the wearing of silk stockings and other finery by women employees of the War Department, has just been issued by General Sikorski, Minister of War. Somehow the department gained the reputation of being a good marriage mart, most of the stenographers leaving to be married after a year's service. General Sikorski heard of it, reviewed the staff, and finding the women dressed in elaborate clothes, he issued an order that they wear dark, high-collared dresses, high shoes, and cotton or wool stockings.

CANADIANS NOW FACE THE FACTS

Premier Bracken of Manitoba Says the People's Eyes Are Open and They Are For the First Time Honest With Themselves —Conditions Hopeful.

WINNIPEG, March 13 (Canadian Press). — Conditions now were more hopeful than at any time in the past twenty years, Premier Bracken said yesterday in opening the two-day 'economic conference" which is attended by representatives of a large number of public, semi-public, social and service organisations in Manitoba.

This, he added, was not an ill-considered remark. It was based on the fact that the people had been travelling blindly, but now had their eyes open, and for the first time Canadians were being honest with themselves and facing facts as they were. Governments, business men, and individuals alike had been guilty of extravagance, says Mr. Bracken, and found themselves loaded with debt. At the same time the agricultural industry in the West was in the throes of readjustment. Time would mend the situation as it had in the past, but that often was a painful process, and it was the business of the conference to find out what could be done to assist in the readjustment. Co-operation in production and distribution were essential and more markets must be secured. PETROLEUM IN FISH?

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—According to Professor J. N. Macfarlane, of the University of Pennsylvania, the true source of the world's pertroleum lies in the numberless schools of fish that swim the ocean. The mossbunker, a small fish which exists in enormous schools, may be one of the principal sources of supply if the professor's theory is correct.

WOULD END LEPROSY

SUGGEST REFORMS IN FEDERAL HOUSE

Cut Out Long-Winded Debates and Get Down to Business.

OTTAWA, March 13.—(Canadian Press).—"We get through as much work in one week at the Dominion Trade Congress as the Federal Parliament does in six weeks," declared Tom Moore, president of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, in addressing a meeting of civic employees here last night. From an efficiency standpoint he suggested that instead of long-winded debates and speeches being allowed on the floor of the House, that they be confined from ten to twenty minutes. If this reform were brought about into actuality he believed that the members of the House could complete their work in two months instead of four, with a consequent saving of money to the country. Mr. Moore advised his audience to have joint councils of industrial and Whitney councils established in Government and civic departments. By their operation, he affirmed that the economy which the Federal Government sought to bring about, could be effected through increased efficiency, rather than by reducing staffs or wages.

LETTER FROM MISS MAUD ACKISON

The following letter from Miss Maud Ackison, St. Paul's Church missionary to Formosa and addressed to Rev. Robert Pogue, will be of interest to her many friends in Peterborough:

Dear Mr. Pogue,

Never before in my life have I passed through a day such as this has been. We have been having a good old-fashioned revival among the church people here. It is the first time I have ever had the experience, or been the instrument used of God to direct one; but we have had such a manifestation of the Holy Spirit's power in our midst that I hope none of us will ever forget. It was over and beyond anything I was expecting. I have been praying and hoping for this for months. I am sure the people of St. Paul's have had something to do with it, too. I wrote at Christmas asking for your prayers for this place, and so I at once thought of you as well as others who were praying with me.

The great sin from which we are suffering is lack of Sabbath keeping. The Christians never had the courage to close their shops or stop work on Sunday; and, of course, when they had no respect for the Sabbath it was easy to fall into other sins. I have coaxed, and found fault in no gentle terms for this, but all to none effect. Some weeks ago one of the elders took ill and had to go away to the hospital. Sunday we got word that he was not better, and he asked us, the preacher's family and myself, to pray for him.

Yesterday morning it was laid on me to call the Christians together for prayer meeting this morning. I went to almost every house where there were any Christians and gave them a personal invitation. I also asked them to read some passages of Scripture and to pray, to prepare their hearts for this morning. Yesterday afternoon the elder, though still ill, came home, so I wondered if the people would come. However, I prayed about it. By ten o'clock this morning, the hour set for service, a goodly number had gathered. We sang hymns for a few minutes until the others we expected arrived. Then I shut the church door and we opened the service. The power of the Spirit could be felt before the meeting began. The people were quiet and very sober. We first began to prepare our hearts by examining them, and confessing of our sins. I was led to speak in no light terms, straight out to them about their manner of life, using Scripture much more than my own words. Most of what I said was merely repeating and emphasizing verses I had read. I had planned for three seasons of prayer, with reading of Scripture in between. Before I came to the first, which was for confession of sins, most of the people were quietly weeping, and many of them stood up and prayed, confessing sins and asking for forgiveness. Then we read verses on prayer, what kind of prayer God heard; and again had a season of prayer for greater faith. Then we read James 5:14-15 and had prayer for the elder and others of the congregation who were ill, and I brought the meeting to a close. The preacher's wife asked to speak a few words, and asked if there was anyone who would like to tell what the meeting had done for them, and to speak out what changes they meant to make in their lives, and ask for the prayers of all. She said she had not done all she might and was going to do more. The deacon for whom we have been greatly exercised got up and could not manage to speak so we could understand, but later in talking to him he told me he had planned to revolutionize his manner of living. The preacher confessed to slackness in preaching to the heathen and preparing his sermons, and promised to do better in future; and two others promised to keep the Sabbath. After more prayer we brought the meeting to a close. It was over two hours long and everyone had forgotten dinner.

After the meeting the deacon proposed going to the elder's home this afternoon to pray with him. It is over two miles away. Nine of us went and again we had a wonderful meeting. Everything was very quiet, but the feeling ran deep. Each in turn told the elder of the morning meeting and what it meant to them, while he lay and wept.

God's spirit has certainly been with us this day, and all through prayer. Keep these people on your hearts even more especially now, because they have temptations to suffer that you in Canada know nothing about. But I know the efficacy of your prayers, so if you will continue to pray for them my heart will rest easy about them. I hope this is only a beginning and that other places will soon follow their example. Pray for strength to keep the promises they have made to God this day, and to enable them to make and keep further promises.

Yours sincerely,
MAUD ACKISON.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odour, smoke, or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% kerosene (coil oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Vigilance Committee Across the Otonabee.

A night prowler in Auburn continues to annoy the citizens, an East City resident told the Examiner today, and during the last week he has been going around the premises in that section at his own will. "People are afraid to tackle these men, on account of the frequent shooting scraps," this informant said. "The man is young, quick and active, wearing the usual peaked cap and turned-up collar. When he was accosted in one place he quietly said he did not want anything and walked out. The police were telephoned for, but with the noise they made they might as well have come in a band wagon. The prowler had disappeared."

According to this citizen, there is talk in East City of forming a vigilance committee.

Fat That Shows Soon Disappears

Prominent fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden, a hindrance to activity, a curb upon pleasure. You can take off the fat where it shows by taking after each meal and at bedtime, one Marmola Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription from which they take their name. Buy and try a box to-day. All druggists the world over sell them at one dollar for a box or you can order them direct from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. You can thus say good-bye to dieting, exercise and fat.

NUDE WILL REMAIN

DUBLIN, March 13.—All kinds of trouble was started here when Michael Sevier, painter, exhibited a nude painting in a Dublin art gallery. The proprietor of the gallery threatened to close the exhibition unless the picture was removed. It was finally agreed that the picture may stay until protest has been made by public or police.

LITTLE BUT LOUD

BUDAPEST, March 13.— Not much larger than a watch, a phonograph which can be slipped into the pocket and has space for 10 records, has been invented by a Hungarian. The sound produced by the machine is so amplified by placing it on a tumbler that the tiny instrument can be used for dancing.

AROUSES IRE OF NORTH MONAGHAN

Will Not Pay Bills For Indigent Patients.

The North Monaghan Council held its regular monthly meeting at the Court House on Monday, March 10, all the members being present. The Council resolved to become members of the Ontario Municipal Association.

A letter was read from Dr. T. N. Greer, dealing with smallpox cases in the township. The Clerk was instructed to reply again to Dr. Greer, and to state that the municipality does not intend to pay any indigent patients' bills by the doctor's order. The Municipal Council expressed itself as feeling that if others are going to run its affairs the Council would have no more use in existing than simply to act as a collecting agency. According to the contention of the Municipal Council, the only authorities who have the right to commit the municipality or payments of medical fees or for anything else connected therewith are the Reeve of the municipality and the Township Relief Officer, who is paid a salary for that purpose.

The question of the overdraft on road division No. 1 was then dealt with. The overdraft for this division on December 31st, 1923, was $666.93, the expenditures for this division in 1923 amounting to 602. Nothing definite was arrived at, and the question was left for further consideration.

The Clerk was instructed to write the Department of Public Highways regarding purchase of crushed stone for use by the township.

A resolution was passed reappointing the Road Commissioners for 1924, at the same scale of wages; Road Commissioners 30 cents an hour, men for shovelling 25 cents an hour, teams 50 cents an hour.

The following account were passed and ordered to be paid: Jordan Bros., $10; The Municipal World, $3.97; R. A. Dobbin, gravel, $21.75.

The meeting then adjourned to the call of the Reeve.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

Traffic Policemen For Thronged Links.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 12. — An innovation in golf will be introduced on the local municipal links this season if plans of John Tyla, the Recreation Commissioner, materializes. Mr. Tyla proposes to station traffic policemen at points of congestion.

Acting as patrol judges the officers will blow whistles to signal players to shoot after the courses have been cleared. This, it is hoped, will remedy the practice of playing through without regard to the customary wait or signal to pass from players in front.

OBITUARY

KING'S WHARF, March 12. — The death occurred with startling suddenness Saturday of Lorette Herlihey, beloved wife of Daniel Flynn, at the early age of 31 years. The deceased had been ailing, but was on the road to recovery and her death was unexpected by her host of friends and neighbors, so sudden that her parents and brothers were unable to reach her bedside until after she was dead, although only a few miles away. Deceased was a resident of this place until her marriage eight years ago, when she moved to Downeyville. She was a member of the Catholic Women's League and a devoted wife and mother. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, two little children, Verna and Joseph, her father and mother, six brothers, Joseph, Ambrose, Albert, Emmet of here, Austin of Rochester, N.Y., and Earle of Lindsay, two sisters, Margaret of Rochester, N.Y., and Viola of Lindsay.

The funeral was held Tuesday at 9 o'clock from the family residence, to St. Luke's church, Downeyville, where requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Galvin, who spoke on the lesson for every one of a sudden death. Father Galvin afterwards conducted the services at the grave. The funeral was one of the largest ever seen at Downeyville, and the pallbearers were five brothers, Joseph, Ambrose, Albert, Emmet and Austin and brother-in-law, Wm. Flynn, Jr. Our sympathy is extended to the bereaved family in their loss.

RANEY LED

would be amended so that 5 per cent. beer could be sold instead of 2½ per cent.

Amendment Lost.

Peter Heenan (Lab., Kenora) said he would support the motion to have a referendum before July 1, as he was convinced that the people wanted a vote quickly. The amendment, however, was lost.

The bill states that the Government may take a vote from time to time. Mr. Raney wanted this amended so that the government could only take one vote. He said that by the act the government could have a dozen votes on the question. This amendment was also lost.

Bargain with Nobody.

Mr. Raney returning to the fight, then tried an amendment whereby there could be no vote taken until 25 per cent. of the electors of the province had asked for it by petition. He was willing to bring the 25 per cent. down first to 20, and then to 15, if the government would accept the amendment. The government refused to accept any percentage, Mr. Nickle stating that the government would bargain with nobody. During an argument as to the cost of a vote the Premier stated that it would not cost as much as a general election as there would be fewer polls. Many polls would be doubled up.

Mr. Raney contended that this would lose votes in the rural parts where the dry forces were strongest.

The premier stated that it was a matter for the government.

"Oh, you don't want any suggestions at all!" said Mr. Sinclair. "You will run the whole thing. The House has nothing to say."

The Premier replied that this remark showed the Liberal leader to be in a nasty disposition.

To Last Ditch.

Mr. Raney also fought the last clause that the act be brought into effect on the day it received the royal assent. He wanted it as most other legislation to be effective 60 days after the house rose. It looked he said as if the government wanted the referendum taken immediately.

The government refused to make the suggested change.

The bill was reported without amendment.

Bonusing Industries.

Hon. W. F. Nickle introduced a bill whereby municipalities are prevented from bonusing industries except by fixed assessments, up to a period of ten years, not renewable.

The fixed assessment must be carried by a vote of two-thirds of the electors qualified to vote on money by-laws.

An amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Act by Hon. Mr. Nickle will establish a review board for appeals made against the decisions of the board itself.

The Attorney-General also introduced a bill enabling cities of a certain size to pay certain salaries to their crown attorneys.

Hon. Chas. McCrea introduced a bill confirming an agreement with the Federal government in the sale of Indian lands. Ontario gets half the sale price.

Recognition to Rissia Be Granted By Peking.

(By Ray Marshall, United Press Staff Correspondent)

PEKING, March 13.—The cabinet in special session yesterday, agreed to grant De Jure recognition to the government of Russia, providing Com. Karakham, head of the Russia delegation here accepts the Chinese interpretation of the agreement re-establishing diplomatic relations between the two nations.

It is understood that the agreement will be signed jointly as soon as Karakhan accepts the Chinese text of the document, the wording of which differs slightly from that of Russia. The treaty provides that Russia shall evacuate and renounce her extra territorial rights and recognise the Chinese sovereignty in Mongolia, etc.

SMOKE SHORT ONES.

LONDON, March 13.—Cigarets half the usual length are becoming popular here, especially among dancers, who are continually throwing away a half-finished smoke at the call of the band.

SNOW IS SINKING AND CROWS APPEAR

News of Warsaw and the District—Personals.

WARSAW, March 13.—The snow is sinking gradually and the land, which was so dry last fall, is getting the benefit.

Crows appeared on March 1st and have been fairly numerous since. Their homely "caw-caw" sounds spring-like. The little twigs on the trees do not look so swollen as they often do at this season.

Quite a number of hogs, cattle and calves are being shipped.

Union Services.

For the first time since the Union services were inaugurated, there was no storm. Quite a number of Methodists were in the Presbyterian church at the morning service. Rev. Atkinson took as his subject "Mary of Bethlehem", using the text "She hath done what she could". He spoke of the numbers of women of all denominations who attended the missionary week of prayer meetings. They were led, not by the great ones, but by the ordinary women. There is not enough prayer; there seems too much empty amusement. Recreation is necessary but much of the energy spent in light amusements might be better used in Chirstian work. The great work done by the home missionary society of the Presbyterian Church of Canada could not have been accomplished but by prayer, and work. He thought a great many of the methods used, even by churches, for obtaining money were hardy wise. He spoke of large amounts gotten in answer to prayer.

The Cotessloe Women's Missionary Society observed the week of prayer, and held a service in the Church Sunday evening. Rev. Mr. Atkinson addressed them.

The evening Union service in the Methodist Church was well attended. Rev. F. G. Weir took up the subject of "Back-sliding".

The Methodist W. M. S. held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday last.

In the report of the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Miller it was Mr. Gerald Crowe and not Mr. J. A. Crowe who made the presentation.

FOR 15 YEARS WAS TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. That was nine months ago, and I have not had a sign of it since. I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

B.B.B. is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

.. THE KID WAS CLEVER ..

LONDON, March 13.—Charged with begging in a London street, a young man with some stage experience was arrested here after he had aroused the pity of everyone who saw him.

He had "made-up" his face with theatrical grease paint to make it appear that he had been frozen. Business was fine until a smart bobby "got wise."

THURSDAY, MARCH 13, 1924.

THE O.T.A. CONTROVERSY.

In all the clatter and controversy over the Ontario Temperance Act and the desirability of submitting the question to the people by a referendum or a plebescite, or of not submitting it at all for the present, one issue should not be lost sight of.

The nature of the questions to be brought before the voters of the Province is one of the main factors in the situation.

They should be at once clear and comprehensive, worded so unequivocally and plainly that every man and woman in Ontario who is eligible to vote will know exactly for or against what he or she is voting.

There should be no trick questions, no ambiguity, no double meaning.

If the questions are such as to elicit the opinion of the people of the Province beyond all doubt, the coming vote will help to clear the air.

Just now that seems to be the point most vigorously to be insisted upon.

ST. VINCENT'S ORPHANAGE.

The annual appeal on behalf of the children of St. Vincent's Orphanage will be made on Saturday when shamrocks will be sold on the streets, the occasion giving the people of Peterborough an opportunity to aid a most worthy and deserving cause.

There is no need of dwelling upon the value to the community of such an institution as St. Vncent's Orphanage, which has given hundreds of children a new start in life and helped them to grow up to be useful citizens well equipped for life's battles and able to take care of themselves.

The work done along these lines by the Orphanage is too well known and too widely recognized to require any elaborate commendation in these columns.

The people of Peterborough have invariably when called upon showed their willingness to assist this splendid institution, and there is no reason to expect that this year's appeal will not be similarly received.

The Examiner merely calls attention to the fact that the collection will take place on Saturday, confidently leaving the issue to the good folks of Peterborough whose ears are never closed and whose purses are always open when the call goes out for help for a deserving cause.

WHY TAXES ARE HIGH.

The charge made by Dr. Brittain, Director of the Canadian Research Institute, at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce that Canada is suffering from too much government, cannot be successfuly gainsaid.

Probably no country in the world is encumbered with so much legislative and administrative machinery as is this Dominion.

Commencing at Ottawa, with more Ministers and departments in the Federal Government than are considered necessary to administer the national affairs of the United States with 110,000,000 people, we find the same situation running down our Legislatures and city, county and township government.

York County, for example, has a small parliament of Councillors—some forty-five members in all.

And, in addition to all these bodies, there are multitudinous commissions and special boards of all kinds, spending the money of the people with almost no co-ordination existing among the different spending bodies.

No wonder with so much machinery for spending money and so little system of control Canadians are suffering from a burden of taxation.

As Dr. Brittain put it the same principles that are applied to the conduct of private business are ignored in the management of public affairs.

LET THE INQUIRY GO ON.

Premier Ferguson has refused the request of Hon. Manning Doherty for a Royal Commission to investigate the charges of Hon. W. H. Price in connection with the purchase of duty-free bonds by Hon. Peter Smith, but the Public Accounts Committee will serve well enough to bring out the facts, says the U. F. O. organ, the Farmers' Sun. The committee is constituted for that purpose, and while politics will always influence its work, its powers in respect to the calling of witnesses and the taking of evidence are wide enough to ensure a thorough investigation. If there is any attempt to restrict the inquiry or guide it along certain lines of the Government's choosing the public will soon be aware of the fact and will be able to form its own conclusions.

In press interviews Hon. Mr. Smith has indicated the general line he will take when he appears before the committee to answer Mr. Price's statements. The former Treasurer defends the policy of buying in duty-free bonds, and declares that they were purchased wherever available at prices which did not exceed a maximum set by financial experts. It is doubtful if the policy, which was endorsed by the late Government, will be seriously criticized. Properly carried out it was sound business, for losses by the Province in succession duties due to trafficking in these bonds by big estates had become an important item. It is less easy to understand why, if it was necessary to secure the services of a company to buy up outstanding bonds, purchasing was not done on a commission basis instead of one which permitted the brokers to act as speculators and traders and take a generous margin of profit between seller and Government. This, perhaps, Mr. Smith will be able to explain when given an opportunity.

QUEBEC'S MOTOR TAX.

Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer of Quebec, has brought about a readjustment of the tax on motor cars that seems to meet the desired object of a levy that will bear equitably upon all those subject to it.

His plan calls for fixing motor registration fees on a basis of weight instead of horse power, which will mean that car owners will pay from $7 to $17 less than they have hitherto had to pay at the beginning of each year, exclusive of the charge for markers, which remains the same.

The revenue lost in this change will be derived from a tax of two cents per gallon to be collected on all gasoline purchased as motor fuel, excepting for use by farmers and fishermen in their respecuve occupations.

By this system the owner of a low-priced, lightweight car who has already saved $7.50 on his registration and who in a season of seven months only runs 2,000 to 3,000 miles, will pay from $4 to $6 gasoline tax spread over thirty weeks, and still will be money ahead.

The medium-priced, medium-weight car can make a mileage of 10,000 miles at a tax cost of $20, practically half of which has been saved on registration, while the owner of a heavy motor can use it up to 20,000 miles for $40 gasoline tax, against which is offset about $15 reduction on the annual fee.

These taxation figures are based on the very conservative estimate of ten miles to the gallon of fuel, and will be only half as high for cars which get twenty or more miles to the gallon.

It is expected that the gasoline tax will quickly be accepted as a matter of course, just as the amusement tax is, while in any event the paying of twenty-five to fifty cents a week will not awaken such resentment as to rob the car owner of the glow of satisfaction which he will derive.

THE SENATE HITS BACK.

Senator Dandurand's suggestion that the Commons go heal itself by ceasing its marathon speeches, thus saving the taxpayer thousands of dollars annually, will have national backing behind it, says the Ottawa Journal. The character, quality and quantity of our House of Commons debates are a stigma upon democracy. Compared with the discussions that take place at Westminster they reflect upon Canadian intelligence.

England recently had a political revolution. It fought a great electoral battle upon the fiscal issue, and for the first time in its history returned a Labor Government to power. Yet despite this, despite that the advent of a Labor Government involved possibility of fundamental changes in the social, political, economic and foreign policies of England, the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne occupied only three days. Mr. Baldwin, on the eve of defeat, yet justifying his course in pulling a great party down to destruction, took up less than an hour; Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, on the threshold of the Premiership, took an hour; Mr. Asquith less than three-quarters of an hour.

In our own House on Monday four speakers took up an entire day—Mr. Meighen and Mr. King consuming four hours between them. There was little that either said that hadn't been said a score of times before. There was much that they said that has been said ad nauseam during the past twenty years. Yet, in copious disregard of time, place or subject they wandered on through unending sentences and statistics, making intelligent press summary of their remarks a physical impossibility, and crowding Hansard with matter that nobody will ever read.

And the worst is yet to come. We have still before us a fortnight of dreary oratory, during which arguments will be worn threadbare, when speakers will have little end in view but cheap campaign material for their constituents, and when tens of thousands of dollars of the people's money will be blown into hot air. All this despite the fact that everybody will know days in advance precisely what the division list will look like when the House divides.

It is just this kind of thing that breeds public contempt for Parliament. The people come to look upon it as a "talking shop," as a place where efficiency is unknown, a place where those with the loudest voices and the greatest staying power ascend the greatest heights.

We have little hope of Senator Dandurand's suggested reform making much headway. Yet it does seem absurd that people who are able and sensible will sit day after day and night after night listening to their own voices, instead of trying to get somewhere with the public business.

COOLIDGE BOOSTS THE WHEAT TARIFF.

Day by day the Republican Convention for the choice of a Presidential candidate draws nearer, and the proximity of the date is already exerting its influence on American politics.

President Coolidge has within the last few days taken advantage of the power exercisable under the Ford-McCumber tariff and has increased by twelve cents the already high duty of 30 cents on the import of Canadian and other foreign wheat entering the United States for domestic consumption.

President Harding was elected to office on a high tariff platform. In his Presidential campaign he promised a protective tariff not only for the manufactures and industries of the larger cities, but also for the American wheat grower and farmer. That pledge has been implemented to a degree beyond the hope or expectation of the high tariff party, but still the wail goes up from the Northwest, the talk of agricultural bankruptcy still continues, and the tariff still mounts.

Meanwhile the price of most farm products is lower than it was before the Ford-McCumber tariff was enacted. How serious are conditions in the great wheat belt of the United States only the bankers and mortgage companies of that region fully appreciate. The harvest of 1923 was a poor one in the United States, the wheat of low grade and thousands of wheat-growers found themselves unable to meet their obligations to the banks. It is stated that the panic which followed has involved the failure of not less than one hundred banks in the Northwestern States between January 1 and February 15 of this year, and forced the Washington authorities to take action.

This remedy which the wheat growers of the Northwest suggest is two-fold. In the first place, they would do what they can by a high tariff to exclude Canadian or foreign wheat from entering the country for domestic consumption, and, secondly, they are conducting a campaign for the restriction of the area under cultivation, so that the exportable surplus will be as small as possible.

The United States has at present about 65,000,000 acres of wheat under cultivation and the Wheat Council seeks to cut this down to not more than 50,000,000, which they regard as sufficient acreage for the growth of all the wheat required to provide food and seed for the present population of the country. They realize that they have little or no control over the price obtainable for their exportable surplus, which is fixed at the world market at Liverpool, and this being so, they are doing their best to limit the importation and the growth of wheat to just sufficient to supply domestic needs. Hitherto the United States has been exporting about 200,000,000 bushels abroad. President Coolidge and the Republicans think that by having no grain to export the farmers will be able to obtain a higher price for the domestic product.—Montreal Star.

JOY OF HEALTH WOMAN'S RIGHT

Mrs. Evans Freed from Female Weakness by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"I had female weakness with pains in my back, and I could not stand on my feet for any length of time. I was working in a factory but had to quit as I was too much on my feet. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and I can hardly believe it myself that I am well. Oh, it is a grand thing to have your health! I feel well all the time and can go out like other women and not feel that awful torture. When I took your medicine first I thought it should cure after the first bottle, but I am glad my husband kept me at it. I have had nine bottles and now I am well."—Mrs. JENNY EVANS, 1604 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

If you are suffering from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or other forms of female weakness, you should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The reason is given in letters like these, and we have published thousands of them. You may expect that a medicine that has helped other women will help you. Try it.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 13. — Tuesday's sales of cattle just about took care of the fresh receipts for the day. The receipts were 1,299 and the sales 1,268. Receipts yesterday morning were 58 cars, 557 cattle, 236 calves, 2,138 hogs and 74 sheep and lambs.

There was a laxity in trading again and it was clearly a buyers' market. Any price changes were difficult to cite, and perhaps the best resume of the market would be dull on the decline. For a bunch of butcher's steers around 1,000 pounds each, the best bid was $6.40 a cwt., and these would have found a ready market last week at $6.75.

Choice cows were bought at 5-1-4c, and heifers from 6 1-2c up. For a load of unfinished steers, which should really go for feeders, $6.25 a cwt. was paid. The demand for feeders has been cut down owing to the high price now ruling for corn.

Two loads of extra choice steers were sold for export at $7.75 a cwt. A few handy weight butchers brought $7.00 a cwt., and about a load of cows at around $5.00 a cwt. were taken for shipment to Manchester. Good medium butchers sold at 6 cents and some common butchers at 5 cents. The pace of the market at noon promised a fair clean up of supplies yesterday at slight concessions.

Good calves went at 10 to 11 cents. This quality was a fair trade, but business was slow on the common. Medium grades and common skim milk calves sold from 6 to 7 1-2 cents a pound.

There were no lambs of consequence in, and the quotations were steady. Choice handyweight sheep are in demand, and sales were made at 8 1-2 cents a pound. For an odd light, choice lamb as high as 15 cents was paid, but heavy ewe lambs were not wanted above 13 cents a pound.

The packers lowered their bids on hogs yesterday morning to $7.25 a cwt. f.o.b., and $8.25 off cars. This appears to be purely tentative, and one dealer said he knew of as much as $7.75 a cwt. paid in the country. One packer's buyer admitted that he thought a price below $7.50 a cwt. f.o.b. would not be either in the interest of the farmer or of the trade.

STENOGRAPHER'S ERROR CAUSE OF EXCITEMENT

TORONTO, March 13.—"A stenographer's error," is Premier Ferguson's explanation to Controller Foster and City Solicitor Johnston of the clause in the Henry Highways Commission bill, which, as it reads, would debar the Controller, among others, from sitting in the City Council because he has been a member of the County Highways Commission. The Premier explains that there is no such intention.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Some weeks ago your paper carried a news item making certain statements re the settlement of the late Alexander Brown estate of Fraserville. Now, while the item was in a sense true, it did not give the whole truth, and since this publication has served to confirm certain statements made by one of the executors of the above mentioned will, and as these statements are still being circulated and are wholly unfair to Mrs. Moncrief, we wish to give to the press a paragraph copied verbatim from the order, authorized and issued by Judge Ward of Port Hope. The paragraph is as follows:

"And I further find and declare that the said Joseph Madill is entitled to be paid out of the said estate his account for wood and oats, amounting to $57.20, and the sum of $327.90 expended by him for a monument for the said deceased, and that the said Mrs. Annie Moncrief is entitled to be allowed the sum of $150.00 paid by her to the Coughlin Monument Company for a monument for said deceased, which last mentioned monument is to be taken over and disposed of by the said executors."

In justice and fairness to Mrs. Moncrief, let it be known that the above named Joseph Madill admitted in court that the last mentioned monument was erected as a result of his visit to the Coughlin Monumental Works. It was not ordered by Mrs. Moncrief, but was paid for by her in the same way as several other bills had been paid, as per agreement between her and the executors.

AMERICAN LOAN WILL REINFORCE LOWERED FRANC

J. P. Morgan & Company Heads Group of Bankers Whose Financial Assistance at Low Rate of Interest Will Be Used to Stabilize the French Exchange—Bank Representing Government.

FULLY SECURED.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Establishment of a banking credit of not less than $100,000,000 in favor of the Bank of France has been arranged by an American banking group headed by J. P. Morgan and Company, it was announced last night.

The loan is fully secured by gold held in the vaults of the Bank of France, which is acting for the French Government, and will be used to stabilize French exchange and for such other purposes as the French Government may determine.

While details of the loan were not made public, it is understood that it will not run for more than one year. In the event that the credit is not at maturity liquidated in other ways, gold in amount equal to the loan will be shipped to the Morgan firm in New York.

Interest Rate Low.

In view of the excellent security behind the loan, it is believed that the interest rate is relatively low and well below that of some of the recent foreign loans floated here in the form of bond issues.

The group is limited to bankers of New York and neighboring cities, applications to share in the loan largely exceeding the amount required by the French Government.

Bank's Statement.

In connection with this credit, the governor of the Bank of France has issued a statement which sets forth the following points:

1.—Complete measures are being taken to better the financial situation.

2.—The French Government is insisting that the Senate shall ratify the new tax measure, which means balancing the budget, and shall approve the policy of stopping new expenditure.

3.—Until the financial situation has been greatly bettered, the Government will undertake no new borrowings whatsover, except for funding existing floating indebtedness.

4.—After such improvement in the financial situation has been shown the Government will make no new loan, even for reconstruction in the liberated regions, without being assured that the budget will cover the service of such new loan.

5.—The Bank of France will continue to envisage and assist the situation.

British Analogy.

This is the first foreign government credit of its kind that has been arranged in this country. The only international banking operation of an analogous character was the famous credit to the British Government during the war in which British-owned American securities were pledged as collateral.

The Morgan firm is not expected to operate in the local foreign exchange market for the French Government, although it stands ready to assist in such operations, if requested. The Bank of France is known to have been supporting French exchange here in the last few days by purchasing francs through other international banking houses, notably Lazard Freres.

Members of the experts committee on reparations, which is expected to report the latter part of this week, have been advised of the loan and are understood to have given it their approval.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomachache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The troubles lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

MISSION BAND CONCERT WAS HELD AT ROSENEATH.

Children Put On Splendid Programme — Personal Mention.

ROSENEATH, March 13.—On Friday evening last the King's Workers Mission Band gave a concert in the Methodist Church, which was much appreciated by the many who turned out despite the bad condition of the roads, to encourage the children in their good work.

The leader of the band, Mrs. A. R. Walsh, assisted by Miss B. A. Clark, deserves much credit for the very fine programme put on by the children, which took many weeks of training.

The programme opened by a chorus, "Missionary Bells," followed by a prayer by Rev. A. R. Walsh, who acted as chairman in his usual splendid style. The next number was a solo by Miss Marguerite Brisbin, and as soon as she left the platform Mother Goose entered with her family of little mission workers. The next was a recitation by Miss Mabel Hogg, and then an exercise, "The Basket of Wishes," by seven of the older girls. Especially worthy of notice was the rendering of "Oh, for a Thousand Tongues to Sing," by Mr. John Lake, an Indian of Alderville Mission, in his native dialect. Then a dialogue, "The Palm Branch Friends." The next number was a chorus by all, 'Hark the Voice of Many Nations." The exercise, "A Missionary Dime," explained fully the many places these dimes are needed. The next was a solo by Miss Cora Linton, followed by the exercise, "Little Lights," which included most of the members of the band, who each carried a lighted candle. Then the chorus by the younger children, "Little Golden Sunbeams," proved that the little ones could sing. The "Mite Box Convention" was carried on in good form, with the President, Miss Mary Mouncey, in the chair. They explained how the mite boxes were often forgotten, lost, robbed or whatever the case might be. The next number was a recitation by Miss Thelma Thompson, 'The Measuring Rod," showing how each one would be measured according to their good deeds. Then a chorus by the older ones, "Toiling for Jesus." The Japanese Lullaby by Misses Evelyn Turner and Mildred Lapp was splendid, for although the girls are not Japanese they imitated the language very good. The last number was a pageant representing different heathen nations and their great need of missionaries.

We are pleased to report that Mr. Alex. Brown, who was hurt, is much improved.

A dose at bedtime of DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN Made them feel jolly again

Good Health in Happy Old Age

THE chief concern of elderly people is their health, and that is best assured by regular daily bowel movement. There is no truth, however, in the notion that because you are old you need a "strong physic." In fact, just because you are old a mild laxative is better for you. The trouble with purges and cathartics and physics is that they shock the system and weaken it and make the muscles of digestion flabby. Mr. John Muse, 128 Prince Edward St., St. John, N. B., says Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is the best medicine on earth and Mrs. George Luth, Pope, Man., who is in her 79th year, has found it easy to take, gentle in action and entirely satisfactory.

Does Not Gripe

You can be sure of satisfactory evacuations every day if you will take a spoonful of Laxative Syrup Pepsin at night when you retire. You will not need to take it very long as a few doses will soon encourage the bowels to act for themselves. The popularity of this wonderful family remedy has become so great that it is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Because of its mildness and freedom from griping it is especially ideal for the extremes of ages, for children and for elderly people.

Effective at Small Cost

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin at any drug store. The formula is on the package, and the cost less than a cent a dose. Take it when you feel heavy, sleep poorly, have headache or night cramps, for these are also symptoms of constipation. Give it to the children when they are restless, feverish or have a cold. Laxative Syrup Pepsin will keep you and your family free from constipation, a condition that lowers the vitality 25 per cent and raises the blood pressure 28 per cent. Freedom from constipation lessens the pain of kidney trouble, neuritis and rheumatism.

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Prudence Page, a charming country girl, falls in love with

Bert Traymore, a fascinating philanderer, whom a chance meeting brings into her quiet life.

Janet Mercer, Prudence's dearest friend, an older woman, plain but clever, is masseuse to the delicate child of

Mrs. Vansittart, a pleasure-loving woman-of-the-world, owner of Winston Towers, a beautiful summer home, which she fills with visitors.

Virginian Dale, Mrs. Vansittart's ward, is a blase beauty who counts Traymore among her many swains. She is deeply interested in

Peter Armstrong, a brilliant young inventor, clever, ambitious and reliable. He is already fond of little Prudence whom he has met once.

Traymore fails to keep an engagement with Prudence, and later the same evening, she hears him making love to Virginia. She cries herself to sleep. Virginia, in the meantime has come to realize that she really loves Peter, and she is resolved to capture his heart.

Virginia's beauty is preserved at the cost of much time and effort.

Traymore makes a lame excuse for breaking the tea date, but Prudence is too relieved to be skeptical. She is invited to a ball at Winston Towers.

At the ball at Winston Towers Prudence finds herself a wall-flower, neglected by Bert, who has pretended to love her—so she slips away into the darkness.

Peter, coming late to the ball, stops Prudence in her mad flight, assuring her that she can, if she will, chase away his "blues."

CHAPTER XVII.

Prudence Makes a Guess.

A certain warmth stole round the chilled heart of Miss Prudence Page.

From an unhappy little 'wall-flower' she suddenly found herself welcomed, and 'of count.'

The pain of Bert's defection eased its throbbing, as though this man's words and pleasure in her company were akin to healing balm.

Was he really the same creature who had been so gruff, so brusque, on the occasion of their last meeting?

Never for a moment had she imagined that he was capable either of teasing or of pretty speeches.

But he was 'fooling,' merely. Yes, of course he was. In the ballroom of Winston Towers she'd been neglected and ignored. This man was completing the process by treating her lightly, and no doubt inwardly was laughing at her!

She shivered, so that suddenly he said, in a determined manner:

"See here, I can't have you catching cold," and slipped out of his evening overcoat. "You must wear this." Before she could protest, he had wrapped it snugly around her shoulders.

"But—but what of you?" she faltered.

"I'm all right." He smiled rather wistfully at her in the moonlight. "Tough as nails. Besides, even if I weren't, who'd miss me if pneumonia carried me away? Not a living soul, child."

She did not seek to question that, nor make the statement a basis for flirtation. She only said, with a little quaver in her voice:

"I'm in the same boat, too."

"A lovely child like you?" He was still smiling, but incredulity had come to take the place of wistfulness. "Why, you haven't even started living yet! You don't know what you're speaking of."

"I do, indeed! I'm so unhappy that I—I don't feel as though I could really bear it——" And her lips trembled uncontrollably.

"Ah! that's youth talking. When you've lived a little longer, child, you'll understand we've got to go on bearing things, no matter how they hurt."

His voice was very gentle . . . quite different from the brusqueness of the other day. Indeed, Prudence could hardly think it was the same man talking.

"And no matter how one suffers, time is a great healer. But you're too young yet to realize the truth of that."

"You mean when I'm old and grey, and nothing matters, and all feeling for either pleasure or pain has gone forever? Oh, I'd sooner be dead!" cried the girl passionately. "I' dont want to live to be old. I don't wan——"

"See here, child; maybe you and I can help each other. Suppose we go over to that rustic bench and talk this out?

She hesitated, wondering about 'conventions.' He misunderstood.

"You want to go back to the ball, is that it?"

"Oh no, no!——" vehemently. (Anything rather than that!)

"Then don't be afraid of me, even if I have been fighting the blue devils all this evening. Misery need company, you know." And he smiled again, his teeth a strong flash of white.

She walked with him to the bench, which was set in a fine gauze of green, with daffodils about it that nodded ghostly heads in this pale light.

A little silence fell between them, and Prudence spoke, turning gravely towards her companion as he sat beside her.

"I don't see how men ever could be happy, when it's in their power to shape their own lives to their wishes. Men are the lucky ones!" Her young voice held on envy her listener could not fail to note.

"Not always."

"Oh, yes. Men can go out into the world, and lead the sort of life they choose, and win name and fame."

"For some women to trample on? Eh?" There was bitterness upon his face. "Don't you know that the end of a good many 'careers' and men's high hopes are brought about by women?"

Prudence stared, astonished at his vehemence, and at the passionate conviction of his voice.

"But you—you said—down by the trout-pool—that you weren't a lady's man——"

He went on, as though as he had not heard her:

"Suffering! A man's pain goes far deeper than a woman's, because he's got to hide it, got to play the game! And women are cruel——"

"Not so cruel as a man," defended Prudence quickly.

"That's all you know, you little ignoramus! Women are the cruellest creatures on God's earth. There isn't one of them I'd trust—not—one, and with good reason."

Prudence, to her own surprise, suddenly felt a wave of strange compassion seize her for this man.

"You talk as though you'd been terribly disillusioned." (Was there a bond of sympathy between them, after all?)

"Disillusioned?" He laughed bitterly, staring straight ahead of him with set face. And then, as though he'd quite forgotten the presence of the girl beside him, in that curiously attractive voice of his he softly recited lines that, to Prudence, seemed immeasurably beautiful, yet strangely tragic:

"For nothing on earth is sadder
Than the dream that cheated the grasp,
The flower that turned to the adder,
The fruit that changed to the asp;
When the day-spring in darkness closes,
As the sunset fades from the hills,
With the fragrance of perished roses,
With the music of parched-up rills."

A lump rose to her throat.

"How very lovely, and how very sad! Whoever wrote it must have suffered so!"

And then a great light dawned on her. This man beside her loved some unattainable woman . . . beautiful and cruel and elusive . . . there was one who answered that description . . . yes, of course, it was she, and none other! She had brought agony to Prudence, so why not to this man as well?

"You love Virginia Dale," said Prudence, a great pity and a great pain welling in her heart.

CHEATED DEATH HELPING OTHERS.

An Eminent Chicago Specialist Told She Was In the Last Stages of Tuberculosis.

PASADENA, Calif., March 13.—Dr. Josephine A. Jackson came to California with her death certificate, 20 years ago.

But the undertaker has never had a chance to sign it!

The secret by which she was able to cheat death she has elucidated in a book called "Outwitting Our Nerves."

An eminent Chicago specialist told her she was in the last stages of tuberculosis. He gave her only three days to live.

"Well, I'm going to California on the next train," she replied.

The specialist, of course, tried to dissuade her, saying she would die en route. To humor her dying whim, however, he finally consented to the trip.

Carried to Train.

But to avoid unpleasant complications, he filled out the death warrant. He handed it to Dr. Jackson's nurse just before the patient was carried on a stretcher through the station gates.

Today, the delicate little Iowa farmer girl who braved her neighbors' ridicule to go off to Chicago and become a "lady doctor," enjoys the best of health.

More than that, she has helped thousands get back on the road of physical fitness. Neurotics, from every walk of life have been cured at her sanitarium here.

Dr. Jackson's own experiences and her observations of hundreds of cases she has treated prompted her to write her book in which she upset a number of old opinions concerning our nerves.

"Nerves Curable."

"Doctors used to say nervous disorders were incurable," Dr. Jackson writes. "Time has proven them wrong.

"Psychotherapy, or treatment by the mental measures of psycho-analysis and re-education, is putting thousands of nervous wrecks back on their feet again.

MAKING MONEY MAKE MONLY

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Every man who mortgages his property has certain rights he cannot sign away, no matter what he agrees to do in order to get the loan which is secured by that mortgage.

"Once a mortgage, always a mortgage." Want uses little reason in running into debt, but the law refuses to let any one take advantage of you because of your need, even though you consent to it.

At present there is a right of redemption for every mortgage. The debt may be past due, but within a certain time fixed by the statute which governs the community in which you live—generally a year—you may get back title to your property by paying the debt with accrued costs and interest.

The need for ready cash might tempt you to mortgage what you have and agree to release the right of redemption, but the law says that it can't be done. Once the court has decided a transaction to be a mortgage, the parties to that transaction cannot, by adding a few words, agree that the right of redemption shall be given up.

LARGE SALE HELD AT KING'S WHARF

Stock of Implements, Live Stock and Poultry Was Disposed of.

KING'S WHARF, March 13. — One of the largest recent sales of live stock and farming implements was held here yesterday, when the effects of William Powers, who is leaving the neighbourhood shortly, were sold by auction.

A large stock of implements, live stock, and poultry was disposed of, at a total of between $2,600 and $2,700.

Everything was sold without reserve by the auctioneers, George and Ted Jackson of Port Perry, in the presence of a big crowd.

Excellent prices were realised.

Cows sold as high as $130.00 each, calves at $20.00, pigs from $40.00 to $60.00, horses from $140.00 to $160.00, and one set of team harness brought $95.00.

PETERBORO'S CENTENNIAL

A hundred years ago, a little band,
Of dauntless heroes, left their native land,
A dear, loved land, but yet too populous grown
To afford her many sons a spot, their own,
So they resolved, beyond Atlantic's foam,
In famed America to seek a home,
And on a gallant barque, with sails unfurled,
Set forth, adventureous, for the Western world.

Three weary months, they tossed upon the deep,
Full oft becalmed, by winds, and waves, asleep,
Or made the sport, of every adverse breeze,
That swept unfavoring, oer the surly seas,
Yet on, their course they kept, to westward due,
Till Port Hope blessed, at length, their longing view,
Then northward, where Rice Lake's blue waters lay,
An up Otonabee, pursued their way.

At length the long arduous voyage done,
Their destined goal, and future homesite won,
They moored their boats, upon a wooded shore,
Where, never, white man's foot, had trod before,
There kneeling down upon the virgin sod,
They offered praises to Almighty God,
Who safely led them by His guiding hand,
Through countless perils, to this glorious land.

The woodmans' axe, those settlers wielded well
And one by one the forest giants fell,
By strenuous toil sufficient space was cleared,
For the rude cabin homes, thereon upreared.
In course of time these to a Hamlet grew
Which hence it's name of proud importance drew
Of Peterboro, by undoubted claim
From Peter Robinson, founder of the same.

True, Peterboro of such present fame,
For many a day, was but an empty name,
A sea of billowy green, spread far and nigh,
Of deep primeval forest, met the eye;
And ever through the dim unbroken wood,
Otonabee, rolled down his untamed flood,
Into fair, Little Lake, whose glassy wave,
Then mirrored in it's depths, no marbled grave.

Hardships this little band endured, alone,
To early settlers, and their families known,
Bare flag-stoned hearths, where the great black logs blaze
Rivaled the tallow candles feeble rays,
Ungraded roads, of homely corduroy,
And dull yoked oxens tedious employ.
Horses, or carriages but seldom seen,
Clergy, physicians, few, and far between.

First all combined, to erect a sacred shrine
Fashioned of fitted logs, of hand hewn pine
Which nestled on the hill's well-timbered brow
Where stands St. John's imposing structure now,
Yet happily in that House, tho' rude uncouth,
God was adored, in Spirit, and in truth.
Thence might ascend, devotions, warm and true,
As from out Temples grand, and padded pew.

And next appeared that famous Market Hall
When Mayor Henthorn, gave free, to each, and all,
A feast intended to promote good cheer
Of roast beef, bread, and flagons of frothy beer.
For oven large the Market Square could boast,
Where Henry Cronn a fatted ox did roast
And some even now, with honest pride recall
How England's Prince, attended there the Ball.

With joy elate, soon Peterboro saw
The Court House stand, grim guardian of Law,
With prison cells, the destined, dire abode,
Of those who stray away from virtue's narrow road.
When Commerce came, with every busy train,
Prosperity began, her smiling reign,
Science, Art, Literature, progressive trade
Within her gates, their constant dwelling made.

O Time, what miracles, by thee are wrought,
Achievements, far exceeding human thought,
Let Fancy's eye, look back, one hundred years
And own what mighty change, since then appear,
For stead of Hamlet, primitive of mould,
A great and populous City we behold;
Whose towers, and turrets, upward to the skies,
In pomp and power, and stately splendor rise.

Colleges, hospitals, of far renown
And splendid schools, the neighboring hilltop crown
While myriad churches, and Cathedral domes,
Look down benison, on palatial homes
Gigantic factories, where industry plies
Her ceaseless toil, in every varied guise,
Cemented streets where surges traffic's tide
Where ply loud trolleys, and swift auto glide.

A bridge magnificent, the city's pride,
Spanning Otonabee, from side to side,
A work of beauty, fashioned to withstand,
The ravages of time's despoiling hand,
Beauteous Parks, bedecked life fairy bowers,
With shady trees, fountains and lovely flowers.
But time would fail een briefly to relate
One half the charms, which make our City great.

In every scene, unfailing we trace,
The perseverance of a noble race,
A race who prized honor, truth, justice, more,
Than gold and gear, and faith than earthly store
Who here first laid, the firm foundation stone
Of virtue, and built righteousness thereon.
Like them, may honor be our changeless creed,
That we may ever follow virtue's lead.

—(Mrs. A. F. Calder, 260 Armour Road, Peterboro, Ont.

For the Delicate Child

THE unhappy condition of the delicate, nervous child is invariably due to undernourishment. This does not necessarily mean insufficient food. It does mean that the food given is either deficient in body building essentials or it supplies them in such an indigestible form that they cannot be readily assimilated by the child's system.

"Ovaltine" is concentrated nourishment prepared in such a way that it can be assimilated quickly and without digestive effort. It is made from ripe barley malt, creamy milk, and fresh eggs. One cup of "Ovaltine" contains more nourishment than twelve cups of beef extract or seven cups of cocoa.

FINANCIAL VERDUN IS NEW CRISIS OF FRANCE

She Will Emerge Successful Because Country Is Fundamentally Sound—Senate Changes Many Clauses of Poincare's Financial Instruments.

PARIS, March 13. —As Premier Poincare is determined to make the adoption of his financial measures a question of confidence and the Senate Finance Committee is opposed to these measures it was believed last night there would be an open fight between the commission and Government when the measures were presented in the Senate to-day.

The Finance Committee, headed by M. Berenger, met yesterday and drafted a report which it will present to the Senate, greatly changing many of the 109 articles in the Premier's financial measure, as adopted by the Chamber of Deputies recently.

France's present crisis is referred to in the report as her "Financial Verdun," out of which the country will emerge safely, for she is "fundamentally sound, the Treasury only suffering temporary difficulties."

Make Germany Pay

"France, however," it says, "Must do three things—make Germany pay; arrange for payment of foreign debts and consolidate the floating debt."

Strong objection is shown by the committee to the Premier's demand for power to effect economies by decrees and it substitutes a plan for getting what it thinks will be better results by regular procedure. It calls the Premier's method unconstitutional.

Economies amounting to a billion francs are proposed in the committee's report, which provides also for four billion francs through added revenue. The receipts through this plan of M. Poincare, as adopted by the Chamber, by about 630,000,000 francs.

The committee also rejects the idea of abolishing the match monopoly.

Increase Estimates

The new measures decided upon, according to Senator Berenger, will yield 3,820,000,000 francs. The general budget will add 210,000,000 francs. The postal receipts will reduce by 100,000,000 francs the amount payable in government bonds on war profit taxes. This will be a total of 5,130,000,000 francs, and will increase by 530,000,000 francs the estimated receipts, in the bill passed by the chamber of deputies.

Senator Berenger points out that the budget situation is good. The expenditures for 1923 will show nearly 2,000,000,000 in excess of the revenue.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Eight Head of Cattle Dead From Strange Disease--Personals.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 13. — Eight head of valuable Holstein dairy cattle belonging to Albert Stephens, who resides about two miles from town, have died within the past two weeks from a disease which has so far puzzled four veterinary surgeons, one of them an inspector from the Live Stock Department at Ottawa. Five other cattle in the same herd are at present suffering from the same epidemic, and there is little hope of saving them.

The first of the herd to be taken down died a week ago last Thursday but little was thought of the matter at the time, and no veterinary was called. When others were taken in the same way the case was reported to the Department, both at Toronto and Ottawa, and Dr. Marriott, of the latter city, was sent to the Stephens farm by the Government. He was accompanied by Dr. A. J. Reid, of Belleville, and with Dr. G. A. Hay, of Campbellford, they made an examination of the herd. Dr. Marriott and the veterinaries who were with him state that the disease was new to them. The Government inspector, however, gave it as his opinion that the trouble was blood poisoning, due to feeding of sweet clover which Mr. Stephens was taking for a stock. The doctor, however, examined this clover and was unable to find anything wrong, as it had been well cured and saved.

One of the animals, a valuable cow, was so nearly dead that it was decided to slaughter it. The blood was tested, and this was so thin that it would not stain the doctor's hand. There was no blood in the animal's ear. The inspector took away with him the contents of the cow's stomach for analysis.

The afflicted animals show no signs of pain, and up to the time of death chew their cuds and eat as heartily as though nothing ailed them. Their udders and skin lose their normal pink hue. Shortly before death a large lump appears on some part of the body.

Mr. Stephens never gave his stock more than one feed of sweet clover a day, and stopped the supply altogether after the first death among his herd. A local veterinary suspected the drinking water was affected, but this came from a running stream that is used by all the cattle owners in the neighbourhood. To test the matter Mr. Stephens drew water from a well for his stock, but the trouble continued.

The carcasses were dragged to the woods and there burned. It will require at least ten days to complete the analysis of the contents of the stomach taken to Ottawa.

One of the dead animals was a high-priced pure-bred Holstein. Mr. Stephens' loss will be heavy, as he carried no insurance on his stock, and will receive no Government allowance for their loss as he would have if the animals had been condemned and slaughtered for tuberculosis. One of his neighbours who lost 11 pure-bred Shorthorns in this way after an official test was paid $90.00 for each animal.

Mr. Stephens is a son of W. M. Stephens, of Seymour East, salesman for the Trent Valley cheese factory, one of the best known breeders of Holstein cattle in the district.

Judging Pure Bred Cattle

A demonstration of the judging of pure bred Ayrshires was held Wednesday afternon at the farm of John Locke who owns one of the prize winning herds of that breed in Seymour West. There was a air attendance of breeders including those who own different types and a number of young men were especially interested in the proceedings.

Among those present were Walter H. Smith of Brighton, who succeeds H. Sirrett as district representative for Northumberland. In a brief address Mr. Smith said that perhaps the most important problem before the farmers of the county today is the improvement of their live stock and to aid them in this offered to do anything in his power. He invited the farmers to call upon him at any time they felt themselves in need of advice.

Alex. Hume, a leading owner of Ayrshires that have won prizes at the Toronto Exhibition and at local fairs year after year gave a report of the recent meting of the executive of the Ayrshire Breeders Association at Ottawa. A special committee has been appointed to select two car loads of Ayrshires to be sent for exhibition at the fall fairs in the western provinces. Some of these cattle will be selected without a doubt from herds in Seymour township. The demand for dairy cattle, Mr. Hume said, is increasing in the west and the breeders of Ontario should make a bid for this new market. If the farmers of the west object to the proposed exhibits as unfair competition with their own stock the car loads referred to may not be sent.

John Locke owner of the herd, every one of which is in the pink of condition, housed in a mdern barn, welcomed the visitors to his farm.

Several animals were led out, and their good points and defects, if any of the latter could be found, were pointed ut by Mr. Hume and William Stewart of Menie, the pioneer breeder of Ayrshires in the country. Both Messrs. Hume and Steward are veteran judges of this type of stock at the fall fairs.

Among those who took a prominent part in the discussion were Chas. Macoun and Deputy Reeve Nelson, the latter a Holstein fancier.

BURNBRAE PASTOR GOING TO ORILLIA

CAMPBELLFORD, March 13. — Rev. J. J. Black, pastor of the Presbyterian churches at Burnbrae and Rylstone, has received a unanimous call from the Presbyterian congregation of Orillia to become assistant pastor and director of educational work. When it was decided to secure an assistant Mr. Black was invited to preach, and he was the only minister heard. At a meeting of the congregation his selection was recommended by the session and supported by the members and adherents without dissent.

The Orillia church has over 1100 members and 2000 adherents, and it is well equipped in every way, but the work is too heavy for one pastor.

Mr. Black is considering the offer. He is a graduate of Queen's, and his first pastorate was the one which he holds to-day, and to which he was called when he completed his college course six years ago. He has since taken a special course in a theological institution in Chicago.

BEAM SYSTEM MAY CHANGE WIRELESS

Marconi Perfects System Whereby Waves Travel Direct From Station to Station--Broadcast To-night.

NEW YORK, March 13.—(United Press.)—Senator Marconi, father of the radio, who will supervise the giant trans-Atlantic broadcasting station from the Savoy hotel, London, has developed a new "beam" system, which may scrap the present type of wireless station, it was reported from London to-day.

It is possible that the new method may be tried in conjunction with the international broadcast to-night, when nine high-powered English radio stations will radiate a concert of American popular songs to the four corners of the earth.

The principal difference between Marconi's new system and the present broadcasting procedure is that the waves travel in a straight line from station to station along a single "beam" instead of being broadcast in all directions.

"I have already succeeded in "beaming" over a distance of 2,000 miles," Marconi said, according to London advices.

"The new method gives a rate of working far beyond anything yet achieved and a marked reduction in the cost of construction of the station with great economy in their utility."

When the "beam" system is entirely perfected, it will mean that messages may be sent to their intended destination without being tapped.

The Marconi company is making provision for its installation in their new station now being erected in South Africa.

Senator Marconi will preface the London broadcast to-night with a short address and thousands of American radio fans will adjust their head-pieces at 6 p.m. (American time) for the event. The concert by the Savoy Orphean Band will continue until 9.30 p.m. For the first half hour of the broadcast American radio stations will "stand silent." This will be the best time for radio set owners to listen in.

The world-wide interest in the broadcast is reflected in the fact that special receiving posts have been set up in Australia, China and other parts of the Far East.

The British stations "with wave lengths," which will link with the Savoy to-night are as follows:

London 2 LO, 365 meters, Newcastle-on-Tyne, 5 NO 400 meters, Manchester 2 ZY, 375 meters, Birmingham 5 IT, 475 meters, Bournesmouth, 6 BM 385 meters, Cardiff 5 WA, 353 meters, Glasgow 5 SG 420 meters, Aberdeen 2 BD 495 meters.

LONDON, March 13.—One ambition of Canon Hay Aitken, vice dean of Norwich Cathedral, is to beat John Wesley's record of preaching 27,000 sermons. The cannon is 82, and starting when he was 17, has delivered 22,000 sermons. He never writes his sermons.

BILINGUAL SCHOOL HAS ANOTHER SIDE

French-Canadian Member Says French Speaking People Want Their Children Taught English.

TORONTO, March 13 (Canadian Press). — "In the report of the committee struck at the British Imperial Conference to investigate the bilingual question throughout the whole Empire, we find that bilingual teaching within the Empire necessarily implies a knowledge of English but the mother tongue of the pupil is the most effective medium of instruction in the earlier stages of education," said A. Belanger, M.L.A., member for Russell, speaking last night before the recently formed Gladstone Liberal Club, which is composed largely of law students.

Mr. Belanger, who has had 25 years' experience as a teacher himself, is deeply interested in the bilingual problem in Ontario, and he discussed this question exhaustively in his address last evening.

As the French-speaking people are loyal to the British Crown, said Dr. Belanger, we want our children to be able to sing "God Save the King." Moreover, they will have to earn their living among people who speak English. Therefore, we want schools where our children will learn not only their mother tongue, but also be taught to speak English fluently.

GAS AND LYSOL USED TO END POOR HEALTH

TORONTO, March 13.— (Canadian Press).—William E. Whitehead was found dead in his home, Lee avenue, last night. Whitehead had turned on the gas, then swallowed a quantity of Lysol.

Poor health is assigned as cause of Whitehead's ending his life. Mrs. E. Sprunt, Hannaford Ave., a relative, called at the house, and on entering found the man dead. The room was filled with gas fumes. Whitehead was 35 years of ago. A wife and three children survive.

WOMEN WHO ARE WEARY

New Vitality Gained by Enriching the Blood.

There are many women who pass their days in a constant state of weariness. They have barely sufficient energy to enable them to perform their manifold duties. Often they have an aching head, a miserable pain in the back and limbs that feel as heavy as lead. The whole trouble is due to bloodlessness. This anaemia, or lack of good blood, causes not only pale faces and white lips; it is the root of many of the pains and miseries from which women suffer. It is said that anaemia causes nine-tenths of women's ailments. Lack of blood robs a woman of all her energy; she loses her breath when going upstairs, becomes despondent and irritable; and seems to lose interest in life.

No woman need suffer in this way. It is easy to obtain a supply of rich red blood by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The new blood created by these pills rapidly builds up the system; headaches and backaches disappear, energy returns and the joy of living is felt once more.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MONTREAL, March 13.—(Canadian Press). — Evidence for the Crown in the trial of Rev. Adelard Delorme, charged with the murder of his half-brother Raoul, in January, 1922, was completed this morning. It is expected that all the evidence will be recorded by the end of this week, and a verdict may therefore be forthcoming during the early part of next week.

Telephone operators of the East Exchange testified yesterday afternoon, Miss L. Cormier describing a series of calls between East 4879, a pay station located in January, 1922, on the premises of the North-Eastern Lunch Co. on St. Catherine Street East, and East 58, Father Delorme's house number. She declared that the calls came during the night of January 10-11, 1922, and not on the night of the murder, January 6-7, as the priest had told ex-Chief Detective Lenage, according to the latter's evidence. She said she occupied what was known as position No. 2 on the exchange switchboard, and could reach the East 58 switch. Sometime between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning of January 11, she said a call came from East 58. It was answered. She did not hear the conversation, but thought that someone was groaning or "lamenting." There was a second call some time afterwards, but the receiver was hung up on Father Delorme's telephone almost at once. There was a third call, this being from East 58, with a demand to know who had been telephoning.

Couldn't Give Number.

"I replied that it was from a pay station," said the witness, "but that I could not give him the number. The voice then said, 'I am Father Delorme and I do not wish to be disturbed.'"

She then referred him to the chief operator, Miss A. Duplessis, who was in charge that night.

Miss Adele Duplessis testified that she had received the complaint. The voice stated that Father Delorme was speaking, chanlain of L'Assistance Publique, and that he did not wish to be disturbed.

Miss Duplessis was positive that this occurred on the night of January 10-11, a Tuesday, as she was only in charge of the switchboards on Tuesday nights, relieving the regular head operator.

No Calls on the 6th.

Miss E. M. Cobban, another telephone operator, swore that during the night of January 6-7 there were no such calls or complaints by anyone calling himself Father Delorme.

Frank G. Webber, manager of the Bell Telephone Company in Montreal, stated in evidence that an investigation was made following the newspaper reports regarding the telephone calls. The enquiry was conducted by Miss Margaret E. Ellesby, chief operator of the East Exchange.

A local newspaperman told of 'friendly conversations' with Father Delorme, which later were reproduced in his newspaper as interviews and reports.

THEY LIKE FELIX

LONDON, March 13.—"Felix," a slow-moving old rat, is a pensioner at the Derby railway station here and is jealously protected by the station's staff. He will nibble his food, undisturbed, in full view of the throngs that pass in and out. It anyone tries to molest him, the stations employes are quite indignant. It is their boast that no dog or ferret dare touch Felix and that he is too wise to take poison.

VOLUNTARY PRISONER

PARIS, March 13.—In the women's prison of Saint-Lazare there is a nun, Sister Leonide, who entered the prison voluntarily 53 years ago and has remained there ever since, attending to the welfare of the prisoners.

LEGITIMATE INDUSTRY

tion of boots and shoes Mr. Euler discussed the subject of British competition. There were, he said ten or twelve factories of this class in his riding, and the average wages there were $23 a week. In England the average wage in this trade was $12 to $13 a week, and in addition the English manufacturer had an advantage by reason of the rate of exchange The general duty on boots and shoes was about thirty per cent. but under the British preference it was only about 17 1-2 per cent. He asked that in such cases, where there was a depreciation in the value of currency the price of goods imported should be figured at a fair valuation on a Canadian basis.

Speaking of the British preference, Mr. Euler said that the British Parliament legislated with the sole object of benefitting Britain. They could have no objection to Canada legislating for its own benefit. There was no sentiment in business. The principle of getting something for something was sound, and it did not make much difference to the Canadian manufacturer whether his business was ruined by British competition or United States competition.

Tariff For Revenue

"My position on the tariff is this," concluded Mr. Euler. "I favor such a tariff as will assist us in raising revenue and enable us to maintain our industries. I have a responsibility to my constituents which I feel very keenly. I intend to keep my pledge to them which is based on the declaration of tariff policy enunciated by the Minister of Finance (Right Hon. W. S. Fielding) when he emphasized the necessity for stability in the tariff. I commend that opinion to the Government."

The Prime Minister, he concluded, had promised in 1921 that there should be no interference with the tariff such as would injure industry. Mr. Euler said that he felt sure that pledge would be carried out.

Retaliate On U.S.

As to the increased American tariff on Canadian wheat, Mr. Euler observed that he sometimes thought retaliation in matters of trade was the only word "our American friends can understand and appreciate."

Mr. Eulers reference was to a statement the other day by Hon. G. P. Graham, Acting Premier, when questioned as to possible retaliation against the increased American tariff on Canadian wheat. Mr. Graham then remarked that he would not like to say that the Government had even been considering retaliation.

Mr. Euler added that he had not yet reached that stage of sanglity when he could turn the other cheek.

Protected Many Years

Mr. Euler was preceded by Alfred Speakman, Progressive member for Red Deer. Mr. Speakman questioned a view expressed in the earlier stages of the debate that unemployment in Great Britain was due to free trade. Nor did Mr. Speakman think the contention justifiable that it would be unfair to remove protection from industries which had enjoyed it for many years. If a farmer had been bonused for 15, 20 or 50 years and, at the end of that time could not make farming pay— Mr. Speakman argued—it was time he left the farm.

"It flows so nicely"

"Sifto Salt is very handy for seasoning cooking. It seasons food evenly, and daintily, too. I'd never go back to the old, uncertain, pinch-from-the-salt-jar method, with its rock-like lump of salt on damp days. Sifto Salt always flows so nicely, no matter how damp the weather.
And for the table I find Sifto Salt ideal—pure, sparkling-white, always free-running."

Sifto Salt is sold in dust-proof cartons with patent spout. 123

A WELCOME RELIEF

LONDON, March 13.—Sergeant Hatfield of the Royal Fusiliers thought he had swallowed his false teeth during a drill. He was taken to a hospital where the X-ray failed to disclose them. After returning to the barracks, the teeth dropped out of a gas mask Hatfield had been wearing during drill.

FAILED FIVE YEARS THEN FOUND SUCCESS

Dreco crowning achievements in Mr. Nichol's five-year search for health. Grand new remedy has literally made a new man of him, he says.

"During the past five years I have suffered from stomach and liver trouble," says Mr. James B. Nichol, of Marmora, Ont. "Although I tried all kinds of medicines, none of them did me any good and I despaired of ever recovering my health and strength when I heard of Dreco and decided to try it.

"Everything I ate fermented in my stomach and formed a gas that would come up in my chest, causing heartburn and a smothering feeling. My appetite was poor and I couldn't sleep at nights and would get up in the mornings all worn out. I had frequent dizzy spells and spots floated before my eyes, indicating that my liver was sluggish, and I was also chronically troubled with constipation.

"I was well on in my second bottle of Dreco before I noticed any change in my condition, and from then on my improvement has been rapid. I have finished my fourth bottle now and feel just great. I can eat anything that comes my way and never suffer for it afterwards. I have no more dizzy spells, sleep fine at nights and my bowels are regular every day.

"I am glad to recommend Dreco, for it has literally made a new man of me."

Dreco will make a new man of you, too, by putting your system in healthy working order. The dressmaker's influence on your personal appearance lies, not only in her skill to create a garment of modish lines, but also in her ability to adapt the current tendency in dress design to the individual requirements of your own figure. And she will tell you that your corset plays a most important part in the accomplishment of a pleasing appearance.

Whether your new clothing is being made by your dressmaker or is being purchased ready to wear, your first visit should be to the Corset Department.

Perhaps your dressmaker has already told you this

ALTHOUGH every woman endeavours to choose the styles best suited to her individual figure, and the materials most adaptable to the chosen styles, yet too often she overlooks what should be her first consideration in the desire for a perfect appearance — the selection of a proper corset. Dressmakers, whatever their skill and ingenuity, cannot hope to secure satisfactory results over a poor corset foundation. The corset is the base on which the gown is built. If the corset is not well fitted, not properly adapted to the figure on which it is worn, no woman can hope for the desired perfection in her personal appearance.

Among the many available models and styles there is a Nemo Corset that will meet your exact individual requirements, a corset that will not only give to your figure the straight line effect so much desired, but will provide the proper abdominal support so essential to your health and physical comfort. Francis, formerly of Peterboro, which took place at 3 oclock on Saturday afternoon, with service at the house, 444 Prince Albert avenue Westmount, before the cortege proceeded to the Mount Royal Crematorium for the final ritual. YOUR HEALTH

COST OF COLDS.

More time is lost in working hours through colds than by any other cause. Most people suffer from one cold during the year, and probably the average person is a victim two or three times.

But loss of time from colds is not all. Every time you contract a cold your bodily resistance is lowered and you are an easier prey for other diseases. The cost to the body is greatly increased, as bronchitis, pneumonia, in fact all respiratory diseases and many rheumatic infections add to the grand total that will mean loss of time through colds. Carelessness and neglect are often to blame for this. Parents can greatly aid in cutting this down and saving the children from attacks of infectious diseases later in life.

Infections of the middle ear, mastoiditis, tonsilitis and infections of a rheumatic nature cause serious time losses, which in 50 per cent of cases may be traced back to common colds.

The minute you feel tired and achey, while chilly sensations creep up your spine, accompanied by stuffiness in the nostrils, look out for a cold. Do something at once.

A good spray carefully used two or three times within 15 or 20 minutes will usually be effective. A fresh 10 per cent. solution of argyrol will be found effective. Take a hot bath as soon as possible. Get into bed for a good sweat. The chances are your cold will be checked.

The real preventive against a common cold is the habit of keeping your body in good condition. Guard carefully against sudden chills or long-continued exposure. Whether you are strong or weak you can become a victim of the common cold if you leave yourself open to attack.

Defend yourself and your children against sudden trafts, exposure to wet and cold, insufficient clothing and any severe nervous strain, which always lowers the bodily resistance.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE TWINS MEET A FIDDLER

"What's this thing?" said Nancy curiously.

Along came a fiddler on his way to the fair. A jolly fiddler was he; but oh, he was as big as a lighthouse, and his fiddle was as big as a boat.

He played as he went, and his big bow scraped the strings at a furious rate. The sun was hot and the road of Beanstalk Land was dusty, and the jolly fiddler got very thirsty.

"I'll just leave my good fiddle under a tree," he said, and hunt a spring of nice, clear water. Then I can eat my slice of bread and cheese and take a short nap. I'll play all the better for it when I reach the fair."

So he laid down his fiddle, and went off into the woods to hunt a spring, but no sooner had he gone than along came Nancy and Nick as happy as two little birds just out of a cage.

"What's this thing?" said Nancy, curiously, as she spied the fiddle.

The two of them walked all around it and finally crawled up on top and looked down the hole.

"I know," declared Nick. "It's a fiddle, and one of the Beanstalk Giants has left it here. With that he touched one of the strings. Zing! it went with a singing noise, but although it was only a little noise for a giant, it was a great big noise for Nancy and Nick.

"Let's play a tune!" cried Nancy. "You pull one string and I'll pull another and see if we can't make some music.

So they began, and although it wasn't much music there was a great deal of sound.

Suddenly the fiddler, who was at that minute taking a drink out of a leaf cup, held up his head and listened. What was that he heard? It sounded like a fiddle! His fiddle! Ha! Some rascal had come along and picked it up!

Without a word he rushed through the woods to the place where he had left his fiddle.

And what a sight met his astonished eyes—a little boy and girl, no bigger than his thumb, pulling away at the strings for dear life!

"Ho, ho, ho! Ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho!" he roared with merriment. "This is a funny world! When I go into the woods, the wood fairies come out. I steal their water and they steal my music. That's tit for tat, I call it."

With that he stooped to pick them up, but the Twins had seen him. Quick as a wink they jumped down the hole in the top of the fiddle to the dark place inside and hid.

"Now I've got you!" cried the jolly fiddler, picking up his big fiddle. "And you shall make my fortune. I shall give my fiddle a name. It shall be called "The Fiddling Fiddle From Fairyland," and I shall charge tuppence to get in and hear it. No one can see you if you stay where you are, and you can easily reach the strings. When you play, it will sound as though the fiddle were bewitched. And folk will flock from far and wide to pay me their money and I shall be rich!"

And so saying, away down the road went the fiddler, pulling his bow across the strings so merrily that the Twins inside were almost deafened.

But not a bit frightened! My, no! They loved an adventure.

A VISIT TO ST. VINCENT'S ORPHANAGE

Pancakes and Syrup and Hot Johnny Cake Waited While Little Men Gave a Display of Manners--Tag Day on Saturday.

Tag day for St. Vincent's Orphanage this year is on Saturday of this week. Although the little girls have gone away from the Orphanage to their own home down at Cobourg, there are plenty of little boys to be looked after in the local institution. There are thirty-four small men for the gentle sisters to take care of just now. Twenty-two of these go to school, and twelve stay at home all day. Six of them are very small creatures, and one, the youngest of the charges, is not yet two years old. The eldest child is nearly thirteen.

They are active little things, who skate and coast down the long hill on the grounds, during the winter months. Just now, their playtime is spent with marbles. Last night, they were on the point of sitting down to a supper that included pancakes and syrup and hot Johnny cake when a visitor arrived, but good manners form a large part of the training at the Orphanage, and every small man stood at attention to welcome the intruder. Tiny Joe, at the head of one of the long tables, with his hands all ready to say grace, kept them in the same position while he gazed with round eyes at the visitor, perhaps in an involuntary hint that the interrupter would make it snappy.

Russell, a little pale-faced towhead, whose crooked small leg trailed behind him last year, has had treatment that enables him to show off with pride a gait that has decreased to a limp. He recites an unintelligible little "piece" about 'two little hands" that is repeated by small Joey, an excited tiny creature who imitated his companion's queer little bow, a combination that begins with one little hand placed on a round tummy, another at the small of the back, and ends with a duck of the head. Louis, the dark-eyed little lad who used to tell all about the "Three Be-has," now tells you why he likes to be a boy, and "wouldn't be a girl, not for the best jack-knife in the world." Another small erect man, with an enticing wave to his bronze locks, recites a piece about "Boys' Rights," and they end up their impromptu little concert with an all-together chorus, an "Adorate" sung in Latin, in the plain chant. Three of these little lads belong to the chancel choir at the cathedral.

Upstairs the babies have a separate meal all by themselves in their little playroom. Here is Victor, looking exactly like a small mandarin with his eliminate hair bob and his tasty green and pink sweater. He shatters the ladylike illusion, however, when he complains bitterly over a postponed supper. He evidently regards the visitor as the cause of the delayed "porridge" for which he hankers, and refuses to ask the intruder to stay awhile. John, riding a hobby horse, grins cheerfully with his brown eyes and little red mouth. Frank plays with a coal-black elephant with a red ribbon about its plump neck, and James, placid and calm-eyed, with smooth, pink cheeks, sits in his high chair with folded hands, waking to animation in a cheerful farewell wave and "goodbye."

Upstairs, on the third floor, are the dormitories, with little white cots, tiny red chairs in the small boys' room, and clothes closets where each has a section of his own. In the wash room, neat racks hold individual small towels and wash-rags.

DISPUTE CONCERNING VATICAN NOT SETTLED

ROME, March 13.—(Special).—The story carried by a London newspaper declaring that the dispute between the Pope and the Italian Government is about to be settled is merely a repetition of a story current here during the first few months of the Fascisti regime. The United News stated that the solution outlined in the newspaper article was merely one of many suggested by disinterested parties at the time, and that neither the Government nor the Holy See considered the plan or really undertook to reach an agreement.

CITY COUNCIL SPENT A BUSY THREE HOURS

When the matter was opened for discussion in general business it was suggested to send the letter on to the police commission without any action by council. S. Whatley, representing the G.W.V.A., was quickly on his feet to protest this summary treatment, and despite efforts of Mayor Turner to rule him out of order since the time for hearing of deputations had passed, he placed the G.W.V.A. position fully before the council. The action of the council, he said, in simply forwarding the communication to the commission, would be abortive since the G. W.V.A. and other bodies have already memorialized the police commission. The G.W.V.A. did not expect the council to accept any responsibility for an order to the commission, but only to draw attention to the fact that it is a stated policy of the city bodies to give preference to returned soldiers.

Alderman McIntyre: "What was promised the boys who went overseas?"

Mayor Turner: "That doesn't enter into it."

Alderman McIntyre: "Oh, but it does. If the city made certain promises to the men it is up to us to see that the promises are kept."

Mayor Turner put a motion to refer the letter to the police commission, and with the east side of the council chamber engaged in heated discussion of the subject the motion was put through and declared carried. Alderman Maher was quickly on his feet to protest, and moved to rescind the motion and open the question for discussion. "As the Mayor is our representative on the commission and we have not passed on to the Mayor what we wish his actions to be, and as this just grievance has been brought to our attention, I think the council should have an opoprtunity to advise the Mayor of its wishes."

Alderman Stocker remarked that Constable Young was an efficient man and the council should take some action.

Alderman Crowe: "I don't know the man or the circumstances. I want to know all the facts and if there is any preference at all I want to give it to the returned soldier."

Alderman Turner supported Alderman Crowe but said it is not possible for the council to enter into a discussion of the question, but the attention of the council's representative on the commission could be drawn to the council's wishes.

Alderman Fife said the council, being ignorant of the circumstances, he thought the proper procedure was to refer it to the commission, and Alderman Meyers concurred, saying if the police commission failed to deal with the question satisfactorily then it could be taken up by the council.

Alderman Crowe, remarking that the Mayor was the representative of the people on the commission and might give some information on the subject, asked whether he knew if Constable Young was married..

Mayor Turner: "I do not."

Do you know whether he has a family?"

"I do not."

"Do you know anything about him?"

"I do not."

Alderman Crowe: "Then Newhall is the man responsible for laying him off."

Mayor Turner: "No. There was a resolution passed through the commission that these two men were to be discharged."

Alderman Maher: "Might we have the clerk read the minutes of that commission meeting?"

Mayor Turner: "No."

The debate became lost in individual discussion and on being called to order a resolution was passed asking the Board of Police Commissioners to reconsider the discharge of Constable Young and see whether the principle of giving returned soldiers preference can be carried out in this case. An amendment that the letter be referred to the police commission was voted down with only three supporters.

Alderman Stocker closed the topic with a statement that Constable Young was a married man with a family, had served six years on the local police force, had a good overseas record and was a freeholder in the city.

Band Grant Dispute.

Colonel Bradburn said he did not see how the Rangers Band could get along on the $400 granted it.

"Last year we spent $800 on the band. We have 37 instruments in the band, and we are not able to carry on with only $400."

Mayor Turner—"What would be the position if the Council withdrew the grant altogether or left it as it is? Would the band go out of commission?"

Colonel Bradburn could not make a statement. "If there is any band that you think is more worthy than Peterboro Rangers then give all the grant to it, and we will thank you for what you have done for us in the past," he said.

G. H. Benson, secretary of the band, said the organization cannot possibly get along. He objected to the Pipe Band being given $300 when there are only 10 members, against the 30 members in the Rangers Band. The feeling of the band is to give for the $400 a number of concerts in ratio to the number given last year for the $1,000.

Alderman Turner asked how the previous amounts had been expended, and Colonel Bradburn gave a rough summary.

Alderman Crowe asked if the men are paid for playing in the park.

Bandmaster Peryer said $846 was paid to the men for wages and $923 was paid to keep the band efficient.

Alderman Stocker: "After hearing the explanation that the Pipe Band has only ten members, I think we should take $100 from it and give $500 to the Rangers."

Aldermen Turner and Morrison proposed giving the entire grant of $1,000 to the Rangers Band.

Alderman Crowe: "I have always been a strong supporter of only one band. For a year it carried on very well, but then the bandmaster resigned because the bandsmen would not rehearse sufficiently to give the music he thought should be given. Last summer we did not get the music we should have had. We have the instruments, and Mr. Gliddon can give you a band of twenty men any time." Alderman Crowe moved that no grant be given to any band this year, but found no seconder.

Alderman Maher had also favored supporting one band, he said, but he thought the other two musical organizations should be supported. He suggested that the grant be $700 to the Rangers, $300 to the Symphony Orchestra and $200 to the Pipe Band. On a storm of protest against the increase of $200 in the total band grant that this involved, he revised it to $600, $200 and $200.

Alderman Jones pointed out that all of this had been decided in committee, and he thought it should stand. Since the matter had been re-opened, however, he seconded Alderman Stocker's motion, and a vote resulted in seven to three in favor of giving the Rangers $500, the Symphony Orchestra $300, and the Caledonian Pipe Band $200.

Utilities Want $12,000.

The Utilities Commission entered a written request for permission to be heard regarding an issue of debentures for $28,000 for proposed extensions and improvements in the Waterworks Department.

Robert Hicks, chairman of the Commission, reminded the Council that the present office of the Waterworks Department has been sold and it is necessary to find new quarters. It is proposed, he said, to build an office near the new sub-station on Aylmer Street. The land has already been paid for, but no debentures have been issued.

"We have gone exhaustively into the question of the cost of the sub-station," he reported, "and I believe we will have enough money left to complete the waterworks office. We have managed this by careful financing and management, and now we only require $12,000 to complete the water main." He explained that this water main is partly built but is not efficient until a tie-in is made which will complete a circuit of the city."

Mayor Turner asked whether it would be possible to pay the $12,000 out of current funds next year by doing away with discount on the consumers' bills.

Mr. Hicks did not approve of the raising of costs to the consumer. It is, however, a detail which he said would be worked out later.

E. F. Mason, a member of the Utilities Commission, said the proposed main will give a better service to the west side of the city and will form a circuit in the south that will give an adequate pressure of water even in face of an extraordinarily heavy demand in the centre.

Mayor Turner: It is indeed a pleasant surprise to have the chairman of the Utilities Commission come before us an dtell us that the Commission can amend its demand from $24,000 to $12,000 because of good management in its contracts and expenditures. He promised that the request of the Commission would be carried out.

Another application from the Utilities Commission asked authorisation to issue debentures for $25,460 to pay for extensions and improvements in the Waterworks for 1923.

Last Battle on Rate.

Alderman Phelan, chairman of the Finance Committee, who has throughout the committee's deliberations steadfastly opposed increase in the tax rate this year, made his last stand last night when called on to move the adoption of his committee's report setting 34.6 mills. He refused to sponsor the report on two counts—the one fixing the rate, and another authorising the payment of an account from R. R. Hall, K.C., for services rendered in the police investigation of last year.

The latter, he claimed, was an account illegally contracted by last year's Police Commission. He was supported by Alderman Maher.

Alderman McIntyre said he wanted the rate kept down, but could not see where the saving was to be effected.

Alderman Crowe proposed eliminating music from the grants to save $1,000; cutting the $9,000 appropriation for storm drains to $5,000, and other economies.

Alderman Stocker: The storm drain is an absolute necessity.

Alderman Maher said in the face of the storm drain project having been voted down by the people some years ago he suggested applying a percentage of reduction to all the spending departments to keep the tax rate down.

Alderman Fife: We are working for the present, but we are building for the future. If we fail to build the storm drains we are doing an injustice to future generations. If it is impossible to build storm drains at the 3 4mill rate, then let us raise the rate a mill.

Alderman Phelan called for yeas and nays on the adoption of the tax rate, and was supported in his "nay" by Alderman Maher. All others, including Mayor Turner, voted "yea."

R. R. Hall's Account.

After consideration and an appeal to the Municipal Act, the Council voted to eliminate the recommendation to pay the account from R. R. Hall for $300.00 covering the police investigation, an amendment by Aldermen McIntyre and Meyers to pay the account failing.

Alderman Phelan said he objected to the account on principle. He had not heard of the account until a few days ago although it was contracted over a year ago. He thought the Commission should approach the Council for permission to incur a debt of this nature.

City Solicitor Joseph Wearing, after an examination of the Act, said discretion in the paying of such accounts rests with the City Council.

Alderman Meyers, referring to the section which says the Council "may" act declared "That's another of the sections I call half-baked."

Subsidize Alberta Coal.

A petition forwarded from the city of London, in regard to Alberta coal, was referred to the Fuel Committee, without discussion, and only the Mayor's remark that its import was vicious.

The petition required the provincial government to pay an amount equal to $1 a ton on Alberta coal shipped into Ontario for the purpose of obtaining the coal at a reasonable rate.

Condemn Tariff Reduction.

It was resolved on motion of Alder men Turner and Fife, that the City Clerk be instructed to write to Right Honorable W. Mackenzie King, to Hon. James A. Robb, and to the local members of Parliament, calling their attention to the fact that depreciations in foreign currencies coupled with insufficient protection in existing conditions, threaten the life and existence of many industries, more especially the textile, shoe, iron and kindred industries.

"We would also respectfully call attention to the fact that during the past few years industrial conditions have been such that many large and important industries have been forced to close their doors, while others have been so badly crippled that they are now operating on short time or with reduced staff, and are threatened with total extinction, chiefly caused by depreciated foreign currencies, which enable industries of European countries to manufacture at low cost and to permit them to unfairly compete with Canadian made articles. This condition has resulted in much unemployment, and in many cases occasioned hardship, more especially in industrial centres, and this council would therefore urge that the government move very cautiously in making any further downward tariff revision, giving consideration to the fact that the further hampering of Canadian industries will lead to greater unemployment, and develop a situation that may prove very serious in the conclusions.

"On the contrary this council would urge that the tariff be readjusted so as to permit resuming operations at the earliest possible date."

Claims for Injuries

A Toronto law firm sent notice of a claim made by Miss O. E. Green for injuries received from a fall near the Y.W.C.A. on March 2.

Miss Green, it is said, suffered a broken wrist, and a claim is made for the doctor's account, one month's wages as nurse, and damages for permanent injuries.

A Division Court summons was received from Gordon and O'Brien in behalf of Betsy Gibson who sues the city for $120 for an accident on a street.

Alderman Maher, speaking to a notice of motion given by him to reopen the question of granting a license for a Chinese restaurant said he was glad to report an amicable arangement.

Miscellaneous Business

City Engineer R. H. Parsons, on behalf of the Engineering Institute invited the Mayor and City Council to attend a good roads lecture at the Chamber of Commerce to-night. A resolution of thanks was passed.

The chairman of the parks committee was authorized to draw up a by-law regarding the leasing of signs in Riverside Park. A bid from J. J. Turner and Sons, Ltd., offered $7.50 a sign space.

Replying to a question from Alderman McIntyre, Mayor Turner said progress is being made in connection with the sewage disposal plant, and it is hoped that plans will soon be perfected.

Aldermen Turner and Morrison moved that Smith street from Reid to Downie and a section of Downie street be graded this year to accommodate the heavy summer traffic. On suggestion of Mayor Turner the matter was referred to the Board of Works.

The Separate School asked $22,699.66 as its share of the taxes for 1924.

A resolution from the Trades and Labor Council supported the city council in its stand on the question of a license for a Chinese restaurant on George street.

The resolution from the Utilities Commission regretting the demand of the council for information regarding the milling companies in the city was referred to the Manufacturers' committee.

Notice was received from the city trust of a $21,000 block of debentures maturing on June 30, held by the Park trustees. These were issued in connection with outfall sewer construction, and no sinking fund was provided to retire them.

Alderman Morrison was given authority to purchase coal, oil, time books, car licenses and supplies for the Board of Works.

Sympathy With Alderman Fife

On motion of Aldermen McIntyre and Crowe a standing vote of condolence was passed and sympathy expressed with Alderman J. O. Fife in the recent bereavement through the death of his mother.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID

Passed a bylaw authorizing grants to three bands, and a second authorizing other grants to institutions in the city.

Passed a bylaw to provide for borrowing money to meet current ordinary expenditure of the city and for school purposes.

Passed a bylaw to fix the rates and authorize the levying of taxes, and adopting the tax roll made in 1923.

Suggested to the Police Commission that Constable Young's discharge be reconsidered.

Passed a resolution to be forwarded to G. N. Gordon, K. C. M.P., regarding the danger to industry of decreased tariff.

Witnessed the presentation of a medal for life saving to Harry Adlam, donated by G. N. Gordon, K. C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons.

MUSTACHE PREVAILS

LONDON, March 13—A face census, taken by the Daily Mail in London, reveals that the influence of the army still prevails and the majority of men sport mustaches. Smooth-shaven men rank second, and bearded men a poor third. The census notes that the old cavalry, or drooping mustache has almost disappeared.

GOT IT BOTH WAYS.

GREAT BRITAIN'S NAVY ESTIMATES FOR 1924-25

LONDON, March 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Great Britain's navy estimates for 1924-1925 as given out in a statement to-day by the First Lord of the Admiralty, Viscount Chelmsford, amount to £55,800,000, or a reduction of £2,200,000 as compared with estimates for the present year. This figure includes the cost entailed in starting five new cruisers and two new destroyers, the plans for which were announced in Parliament recently.

The total strength of the personnel will be 100,500 as against 99,500 in 1922, 1923, 1924. This is exclusive of the coast guard and marine, which policy will remain virtually unaltered.

HARRY ADLAM GIVEN LIFE SAVING MEDAL

Helped to Rescue Show Man Last July--Medal Donated by G. N. Gordon, Presented by Mayor Turner.

A pleasing ceremony took place at the special meeting of the City Council last night, when His Worship Mayor Turner presented a medal for life saving to Harry Adlam, a Peterborough boy. The medal was donated by G. N. Gordon, K. C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons.

In making the presentation, Mayor Turner referred to the kindness shown by Mr. Gordon in donating the medal, which is one of several presented by the member for West Peterborough, and expressed his pleasure in acting for the donor on this occasion. The fact of the boy's having been instrumental in helping to save one life should urge him to similar acts in future, and His Worship heartily complimented him on his heroic deed. The presentation was followed by hearty applause from the councillors and spectators.

Turning to the boy's father, Mayor Turner congratulated him on his son's prowess, and complimented him on the training the boy must have had.

Harry Adlam's exploit was performed on Sunday, July 29 last at Lake street swimming beach. Denis E. Kane, who officiated at one of the booths of Billie Clark's Exposition Shows, then at the exhibition grounds, went swimming in the afternoon. He first very carefully asked if there was a life-saver in attendance and on learning that there was he plunged boldly into the water. Seeing what he thought was a shallow place beyond the boom he started to walk out but lost his footing and cried for help.

Harry Adlam, 515 Bolivar street, reached from the boom and caught the drowning man by the hair, holding his head out of the water until Caretaker Thomas Raymond paddled around to the spot and took Kane into his canoe. Kane did not require the services of the doctor or the pulmotor. He said he was subject to cramp. His home was in Providence, Rhode Island.

Besides Harry Adlam and Thomas Raymond, there were four other helpers in the rescue—Asa Downer, 149 George street; H. Hatterley, 5 Brown street; F. Colbert, 271 Wescott street, and Bob Murphy.

Is There A Danger Of Imported Goods Capturing Your Domestic Market?

MANY Canadian manufacturers are disturbed at the growing competition of imported goods in the domestic market.

Those who do not trade mark their goods, and those who do trade mark their goods but who have neglected to cultivate the consumer, have particularly good reasons for feeling uneasy.

For example, we know of one Canadian manufacturer who is competing with goods from England, Scotland and Europe. He is placing his excellent line of goods on the domestic market without a mark or name of any kind on them. Even if Canadians preferred to give him their trade, they couldn't identify his goods. Is it any wonder that the competition of imports is worrying him?

We know of another manufacturer who makes a splendid line of unbranded goods—in many cases better than competitive lines imported from Britain, Central and Southern Europe and the Orient. But the imported lines have the prestige with the consumer, simply because the public has never been told of the excellent quality of the domestic line. In fact, we have heard of cases where the domestic line has been sold by clerks under the guise of imported, simply because it was easier to sell it that way. If that manufacturer isn't feeling uneasy, he should be.

We know of other Canadian manufacturers of worthy products, both trade marked and not trade marked, who are suffering unduly from a growing competition of imported goods, because they haven't nationally advertised their own lines to the consumer and therefore have not built up prestige for their products.

Tariff protection is essential, but even with an adequate tariff it would be impossible to prohibit imports of British, American, European and Oriental goods, particularly under conditions that are likely to prevail in the world for years to come.

The best protection that Canadian manufacturers can secure against the competition of imports is to gain and hold the goodwill of the Canadian consumer.

The consumer is the key.

The consumer decides your fate.

If the consumer favors imported goods, you lose.

If your domestic line is preferred, you win.

The quickest, surest, safest and most economical way to gain the goodwill of the consumer is to trade mark or brand your goods and nationally advertise them.

Spread the news all over Canada that you manufacture excellent products. Let everybody know about their good qualities. Show how perfectly your goods meet the requirements of Canadians. Build up prestige for your line. Show that you have faith enough in your product to advertise it and stand behind it. Cultivate the goodwill of the public and prove yourself worthy of their confidence and you will surely gain it, and with it a protection of the strongest and safest kind —the assurance of consumer demand and the continuance of trade.

We would like nothing better than a conference with any Canadian manufacturer who has to meet the competition of imported products. We have no magic to offer him, but we have a sound business proposition to lay before him, provided he makes a worthy product that can be marketed at a reasonable margin of profit.

Jimmy Murphy of Spalding Bros., Toronto was present. He addressed the delegates on the adoption of the No. 1 official ball for the season and this was passed.

At the afternoon session the schedule for the coming season was adopted and a few dates changed from the original dates by the secretary. Umpires for the season were chosen as follows: Frank J. Hallinan and Walter Thorne of Toronto, Cahrles Allan of Port Hope, H. Dell of Oshawa, J. Colling and Stanley Nurse of Belleville, C. Boundy of Cobourg and Geo. Sullivan of Kingston and their fees for the season were fixed at $7 a game plus 15 cents a mile one way railway mileage for expenses. At this stage the delegates adjourned to be shot by Skitch the Cobourg photographer. And it might be well just here to say that this is the first time the league executive ever risked facing the machine.

The following is the corrected schedule:

PETERBORO SENDS $235.69 FOR FUND

Contribution For Johnny Brackenborough Mostly By Local Fans Who Attended Game In Toronto.

Between periods at the Niagara Falls-Peterboro game at Toronto on Monday night a collection for the Brackenborough fund was taken up principally among the Peterboro fans as the Niagara and Toronto hockey enthusiasts had already contributed. The sum of $235.67 was realized which is being sent on to the committee by the Peterboro Club.

The Petes on Tuesday received a wire from G. N. Gordon M.P., congratulating them upon their fine showing and expressing regret at their loss of the round.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE MEETING

Strong Organization Should Be Formed Next Week—Peterboro Champion Teams Are Practically Intact For New Season—C. G. E. Meet Friday Night.

Canadian Generals, twice champions of intermediate baseball in Ontario, will hold forth on Friday night to consider plans for the coming season, and the city baseball moguls will gather next week for a look over the scenery. For the city organization, the all-important thing is a live executive. Last season the Peterborough Baseball Association undertook to promote baseball in the several O.B.A.A. divisions and very quickly found the job too big. As a result the several leagues had to find men from within their own ranks, who came to the rescue and the local championship races were completed. This work was thrown upon the shoulders of men who were operating teams and the best results were probably not attained. For the coming season these baseball leaders deserve something better. They are entitled to receive support in the form of a strong body of officers, whose duty it will be to do the executive work of the various leagues, one of the important features being the drafting of a constitution and enforcing it.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association will be held at Toronto on Saturday, April 5. W. J. Snyder, of Hamilton, will quite likely move up to the presidency, and J. J. Solomon of this city to first vice-president. Mark Dulmage is resigning as secretary.

The Toronto Amateur Baseball Association has returned to the fold of the Ontario Association, and the Peterborough league winners are promised much more opposition. Of interest to local Midget teams is the adoption of a pitching distance of 55 feet by the T.A.B.A. It is five feet in the right direction.

Canadian Generals, Lakeviews, Maple Leafs, Curlers and Rotary teams will be in the fight again. The first three clubs are practically intact. Several of the Curlers must make the jump to the Juvenile series, in consequence of which the 1923 champions may make the plunge, in a body.

MAYO STARRED IN GOAL FOR NIAGARA

Soo Greyhounds Were Too Much for the Intermediate Champions and Defeated Them 7 to 0.

TORONTO, March 13.— (Canadian Press.)—Once again history repeated itself last night, when Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, champions of the Senior N.O.H.A., encountered little difficulty in disposing of the Intermediate O. H. A. champions—this year Niagara Falls—in the opening game of the Ontario Allan Cup elimination series, the score of last night's sudden death affair being 7 to 0 for the Greyhounds, and had it not been for the stellar display of Mayo in the loser's goal, the winners' total would have attained double the figures. It was a case of a good Intermediate team meeting a good Senior team, and there was a clean-cut margin in superiority of the Hounds over the Intermediate winners.

Although ony the most enthusiastic Niagara supporters conceded their team a chance, the game was witnessed by about 4,000 spectators, a large number of whom came to get a line on the Northerners, who now meet the Hamilton Tigers in a two game series ,total goals to count, on Saturday and Tuesday nights. The Greyhounds have always had many supporters about Toronto, and several weeks ago they were heralded as the team that would probably represent the east in the final series. They may, but they will have to show more than they did last night to eliminate the Bengals. The stiff body-checking they encountered told on the Hounds, and they were relieved frequently. Towards the end of the game the winners showed some snappy work on the attack, and pretty two and three men combinations produced some counters.

Niagara Falls did well, and were not disgraced. Last year's Stratford Indians were a stronger team than this season's Intermediate champions, yet they were eliminated by the McNamara crew. The losers of last night's game were weak on the forward line. If they had shown as much strength on the line as they did on the defence, the Intermediates would have made a much better showing. Mayo in goal, was as good as any goalie that has shown here this year.

McTIGUE MUST PUT UP $25,000

Guarantee Demanded of Newark Club's President Before Saturday By the International League.

NEW YORK, March 13. — Michael McTighe, president of the Newark Baseball Club, must post $25,000 by next Saturday noon as a guarantee that he will operate and fulfill all obligations of the club or the franchise will be revoked by the International League and will revert back to its former owners, William Ashton and Bernard Moan of Baltimore. This was the ultimatum issued yesterday by the club owners of the International League in a special session here. McTighe said after the meeting that he would post the guarantee.

In the event McTighe fails to make good his guarantee the league magnates were assured by Moan and Ashton that they would take back the franchise and operate the club during the 1924 season.

Following the meeting, Edward Gray of Newark, and Howard F. McConnell, mayor of Montclair, N.J., announced that they had notified the International League Officials they stood ready to make a cash offer of $60,000 for the Newark franchise, prior to the transfer of the club to its present ownership, McConnell's name was mentioned in connection with negotiations for the property.

The team that wins the Big Ten basketball championship will have to beat Purdue. That's the situation at present. Purdue is setting the pace in the Western Conference and bids well to stay in front until the last goal is caged, according to the experts.

Purdue is winning because of an excellent combination of fine individual talent and smooth team play

In Spradling, Purdue has the leading point maker in the Big Ten, and one of the flashiest forwards to be found anywhere. Robbins is a skilled guard and Captain Gullion is an inspiring team leader.

In Sheets, a 17-year-old high school product, Purdue boasts one of the freaks of the game. Sheets has enormously big hands and can palm a basketball in either of them simultaneously, just as a baseball player would hold of couple of baseballs.

Chicago appears to be the only team with a chance to bother Purdue in the drive down the stretch.

PETES SCORED 70 GOALS TO O.H.A. OPPONENTS' 25 IN SEASON'S 12 GAMES

Ranger Led the Marksmen With Most Goals But Was Outpointed By Parker and Collins, Whose Counters and Assists Left Them Tied—Fraction of Two Goals a Game Scored on Dwyer Illustrates His Consistent Work in Nets.

The Petes, despite the tough breaks that nosed them out of the Ontario championship after the best chance in eighteen years, have had a great season, and every fan thinks as much of them as if they had brought home the silverware.

Altogether, including exhibition games, the blue shirts played sixteen games this season and were victorious in thirteen contests. Out of twelve O.H.A. fixtures they won ten, their only losses being to Belleville and Niagara Falls, away from home in both cases. Three out of four exhibition games saw the Petes on top.

The great work of Dwyer throughout the season and the close checking of the whole team is indicated by the fact that the opposition in the twelve O.H.A. games were held to a total of 25 goals, an average of a fraction better than two markers per game.

Here is the record:

The Examiner throughout the season has kept a record of the goals scored, and an analysis of them now shows that, following the Pacific Coast system, the fairest method possible, which gives as much credit for a pass from which a goal was scored as for a counter itself, Frank Collins and Harold Parker tied for the leadership on the season's play, Parker getting two more goals than Collins, while the latter evened up with ten assists, as against eight. Ranger was the leading marksman, finding the nets 21 times, but his low assist record kept him down and he was only one up on the season on Rose. Burgess led in assists, the right wing player giving twelve passes on which goals were registered.

Here is the record, including both exhibition and O.H.A. games.

NORTH BAY MAYOR LEADS HOCKEY FANS

NORTH BAY, March 13. — North Bay Trappers are not going to lack for supporters when they face O.H.A. Junior Champions at Toronto next Monday Night. Arrangements are practically complete for a special train from Toronto after the game and nearly two hundred Northern Ontario fans are expected to be on hand to root for their champions.

Because practically every member of the Town Council expects to be in Toronto rooting for the team, next Monday night's meeting of the Town Council has been postponed, and the Council Chamber will be used for announcing the game, play by play, for the fans who cannot get away. Mayor McDonald will head the delegation of rooters.

CALGARY TEAM PRESS CLAIM

Both the Western Hockey Winners United In the Demand For Play-off With Canadiens.

CALGARY, Alta., March 13.—If the East persist in their stand that only one western team compete against the National Hockey League champions in the Stanley Cup finals there is quite a chance that there will be no world's series at all, stated Frank Patrick, president of the Pacific Coast League last night.

He further said both the Vancouver and Calgary teams are purchasing transportation to Winnipeg only and will disband in that city following Saturday's game unless satisfactiry arrangements are completed whereby both western teams go east.

The western viewpoint backed up by public opinion, demands that Calgary, as champions of the prairie loop and Vancouver, as title-holders in the coast circuit are entitled to a chance in Stanley Cup finals, under conditions that existed in Vancouver a year ago when Ottawa wiped out the Maroons and then beat Edmonton.

Frank Calder, president of the N.H.L. is being censured over the disruption which exists in the arrangements at present and because of his laxity in anticipating the proper move.

Frank Patrick claims that the two western leagues have agreed to stand by each other and that he will regret very much should the 1923-24 world's series fall through.

DUNSFORD HELD HOCKEY TOURNEY

Bobcaygeon Won Baker Cup and Fountain Pens--Defeated Dunsford By 2-1 in Overtime.

DUNSFORD, March 12. — On March 5, 6 and 7 Dunsford held a hockey tournament.

On Wednesday nigth a double-header was played, Lindsay juniors and Bobcaygeon juniors, Bobcaygeon winning by a score of 4 to 2.

Also Bobcaygeon intermediates and Fenelon Falls intermediates clashed in a good game, the score being 6-2 in favour of Bobcaygeon. Bobcaygeon didn't put up the usual game as it appeared to the spectators that they were hanging back for Friday night to do their best to carry away with them the Baker cup. Scotty Robinson handled the bell to the satisfaction of all.

The second night of the tournament was played by Lindsay and Dunsford. Both teams put up a good game. Lindsay found it a hard proposition getting the puck by Scotty. Dunsford won the game by the score of 7-2. Line-up:

Dunsford—Goal, Scotty Robinson; defence, Breins and W. Thurston; wings, Bissette and Wetherup; centre, Hutton. Subs, Brown and Mulligan.

Lindsay — Goal, Hargrove; defence, Workman and C. Huston; wings, Max Board and Babcock; centre, R. Growden. Sub, Pearson.

Goal scorers — Thurston 1, Bissette 3, Hutton 3, Workman 1, Pearson 1.

The final game was played on Friday night, Bobcaygeon winning after playing ten minutes overtime, the score being 2-1.

Scotty Robinson turned in a wonderful game in the nets for Dunsford. His wonderful skill in the nets and Bissette and Wetherup on the wings, saved Dunsford from a greater defeat. W. Thurston and B. Breins made a very heavy defence, while Hutton in centre did some wonderful back-checking.

Bobcaygeon goaler played a great game, stopping a large number of heavy shots. Clarence Reed and McCourt made a stone wall defence. Bobcaygeon's forwards deserve equal praise, putting forth their best for the Baker Cup.

After the game the Baker Cup and individual fountain pens were presented to the Bobcaygeon players. The presentation was made by Mr. Chris. Laplain.

A large number stayed to enjoy the refreshments and dance given in the old school.

Line-ups were:

Bobcaygeon — Goal, Wright; defence, Reed and McCourt; wings, D. Kelso and L. Kelso; centre, Johnston. Subs, Braine and C. Read.

Dunsford—Goal, Scotty Robinson; defence, Breins and W. Thurston; wings, Bissette and Wetherup; centre, Hutton. Subs, Brown and Mulligan.

Gaol scorers—D. Kelso 2, Wetherup 1.

OWEN SOUND WERE THE BETTER TEAM

LONDON, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press). — Speed and finish of the much advertised Owen Sound Juniors was the main factor in the 7 to 2 rout of the Kitchener youngsters last night in the first Junior O.H.A. final games.

But the team that has veen favoured all season to win the championship was forced to travel at a heartbreaking pace the entire sixty minutes to put over the decisive victory.

The Kitchener players, with one exception, playing their first season in the O.H.A., made it very interesting for their opponents, and had they had more punch or finish around the Owen Sound net, they would have left the ice at the conclusion of the game with a goal margin against them much smaller.

Though outskated in every position the Kitchener boys gamely battled the Sounders at every point, and gave as fine an exhibition of checking as has been seen in a junior game this season, and now that they are "wised-up" to Owen Sound's system of defensive and offensive playing, should put up a great argument in the return game on the Toronto Arena ice on Friday night.

St. Bartolmews won the inter-hospital cup by defeating King's College by 14 to 6, at Richmond.

Cardiff City and Manchester City put into the field the identical teams that played a draw on Saturday. The weather was fine and fifty thousand spectators witnessed the game. Sound defensive work in the first fifteen minutes prevented either goal from being threatened. Then Manchester monopolized the attack and missed several good chances to score. At the interval there was no score.

At resumption, Cardiff improved and Len Davies was in a fine position to score with the Manchester goalie, Mitchell, yards out of his goal. His shot struck the upright. After twelve minutes extra time the Manchester team made a swift rush and Meredith centered to Browell, who shot well out of Farquharson's reach. The official receipts were £3,920.

MR. GORDON WILL NOT SECOND BILL

Explains His Position in Regard to the Church Union Measure.

OTTAWA, March 13.—(Special).—In a statement this morning G. N. Gordon, Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, said:

"The press report stating that I would second the introduction of the Church Union Bill is incorrect. A delegation met me Tuesday evening and asked me to do so, but I pointed out that the Speaker and Deputy Speaker, under the recognized Parliamentary practice and custom in England and Canada, were precluded from participating in matters that were contentious except by actual vote, or where something related to the constituency represented by the Speaker or Deputy Speaker. I explained this to the delegation, and confirmed this opinion by conferring with the Speaker."

ANNA Q. NILSSON SEEN AS MAN IN "PONJOLA"

Several motion picture producers discussing "Pojola," Cynthia Stockley's famous story, after it had been announced that Sam E. Rork had purchased the story for the films, declared that the picture could never be made because no actress in films could successfully make up as a man.

But it turned out that they were all wrong. There was an actress that could make up as a man and pass as such. This was Anna Q. Nilsson, who plays the leading femine part in "Ponjola", the First National picture which comes today, Friday and Saturday to the Capitol Theatre.

In this First National picture Miss Nilsson enacts the part of a girl who masquerades as a man and lives for months among the "hemen" of the African veldt.

In order to play the role Miss Nilsson had her hair closely cropped and underwent special treatment at the hand of an expert masseuse to obtain a form apparently masculine. In men's clothes the illusion is perfect and one watching that part of the picture in which she is "a man," will forget almost entirely that the character of "Desmond" is being portrayed by Miss Nilsson.

One of the producers who said "it can't be done," has been a friend of Miss Nilsson's for years. He changed his mind after production had begun on the picture when one day Anna, in man's clothes, walked into a Hollywood restaurant where he was eating. He failed to recognize the famous actress, asking a friend at his table who the new boy actor was.

TWO COMEDIES AT CAPITOL TODAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Two big comedies will be shown at the Capitol Theatre with every program, commencing today. Stan Laurel in his latest success "Postage Due" and a Mermaid comedy, "Flying Finance" the two lined up for the last three days of this week.

BEN ALLEN, of the "Dumbells," at the Grand Friday and Saturday.

AT THE GRAND

"THE DUMBELLS."

With a brand-new show, full of spirit, humor and melody, The Dumbells are back once more. Their present production is called "Cheerio 2nd," and it is a fine tonic for anybody with a grouch and a spirited entertainment for all who enjoy hearty laughter and wholesome fun.

The veteran members of the organization are all present. Ross Hamilton (the inimitable Marjorie), more gorgeous than ever in a series of magnificent gowns and more alluringly feminine in impersonations that challenge any on the stage today, sings new songs and contributes some of the most successful numbers of the show.

Al Plunkett, he of the disarming, irresistible smile, is back with his winning personality and his own individual method of singing songs that everybody wants to hum. Of his new numbers, "Everybody Slips a Little," is one that you will hear whistled by everybody after the show.

Gordon Calder, a new comer, makes a lovely blonde of the burlesque type, and contributes effective female impersonations and humor that gets easily across the footlights.

The new skits, from the pen of John Hogan, are delightful, alike in their fresh-unstrained comedy and their swift action. Hogan proves himself a tower of strength to the comedy section of the company, and both he and Pat Rafferty keep the audience in roars of laughter all the time they are on the stage.

Stan Bennett has new aspects of his Archibald Vere de Vere creation, and his portrait of the English Johnnie aristocrat is one that never fails to send the audience rocking with laughter.

The blackface element is ably represented by Ben Allen and Jack Grace, and Captain Plunkett's jazz orchestra gives an evening's entertainment all by itself, including trios by the Plunketts that bring down the house.

Taken all in all, "Cheerio 2nd" will be found as good an entertainment as the theatre has to toffer today, and the best The Dumbells have ever given since they began five years ago.

The Dumbells will be seen at the Grand Theatre for two days, March 14.

AT THE REGENT

DUSTIN FARNUM IS BOOKED AT REGENT IN"KENTUCK MM IN "KENTUCKY DAYS."

Dustin Farnum's latest picture, "Kentucky Days," is booked for a three-day engagement at the Regent Theatre, beginning today. It is a vivid, vibrating story of frontier life in '49 that has its inception in the romantic south of that period. The colorful combination of Dixie chivalry and the determination of the fortune hunters in the California gold rush exudes a spirit of adventure that would add force to any motion picture.

The story is that of a man whose wife, believing him dead, accepts the attention of his ruthless cousin. Buckner, played by Farnum, believes her faithless. He kills his cousin in a duel and then compels his wife to undergo the hardships of the gold trail as a means of punishment. Their reconciliation is worked out after a series of highly dramatic episodes that are really spell binding. In the cast with Farnum are Margaret Fielding, Bruce Gordon and William P. DeVaull.

AT THE ROYAL

SAMUEL GOLDWYN, PRODUCER "POTASH AND PERLMUTTER", HAD METEORIC CAREER.

Leader in Motion Picture Industry Held Screen Rights of Famous Montague Glass Story for Many Years to Produce it Properly.

One of the most meteoric careers in the history of filmdom has been that of Samuel Goldwyn, the producer of "Potash and Perlmutter," a First National picture which is coming to the Royal Theatre today.

A pioneer in the industry, Mr. Goldwyn has been numbered among the leaders in every respect. He began his connections with a large company, where he rose rapidly until he became one of the figure-heads. Then, seeking for "other worlds to conquer," he organized his own company, which rapidly assumed a position in the front ranks.

Mr. Goldwyn set about to make "bigger and better" pictures, and he gave evidence of his genius by enlisting the aid of the foremost writers of the day, realizing that the need of the industry was finer stories.

During that period he purchased the motion picture rights of "Potash and Perlmutter" from Montague Glass, the famous humorist. Nearly two hundred of these stories had appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, and were, without a doubt, the most popular which had ever appeared in print. They had also appeared in book form and had played on the stage for many years.

Realizing the great value of the screen rights, Mr. Goldwyn patiently waited for a propitious time to film the story. He wanted the best cast and director he could procure; he did not intend to take any chances.

Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr had been playing the roles on the stage for years. Mr. Goldwyn determined that they were the actors he wanted. The third was Vera Gordon, who achieved instant fame for her characterization of the mother in "Humoresque." Finally the producer came to a decision as to who should direct it, and he signd up Clarence Badger for the important position.

Mr. Goldwyn then resigned from the company and started a producing unit, where he would be the sole person in authority. He gathered the company together and started work. The result is that "Potash and Perlmutter" is the outstanding success of the year, and has won the praise "The Perfect Picture," from hundreds of persons.

In it Mr. Goldwyn has achieved the goal he set for himself many years before—that of producing pictures perfect in every respect.

Mr. Goldwyn's second production is "The Eternal City," which will also be released by First National. It is an adaptation of Hall Caine's novel, and was made in Rome under the direction of George Fitzmaurice, with an all-star cast, including Montague Love, Barbara La Marr, Lionel Barrymore, Bert Lytell and Richard Bennett.

AMATEUR NIGHT TONIGHT AT ROYAL.

Tonight the Royal presents a new list of local talent. Several amateur musicians will make their bow to Peterboro audiences, and if the evening performance is as successful as last Thursday patrons have a treat in store for them.

MUSICAL QUARTETTE AT ROYAL TONIGHT.

Ethel Vaugh and her three serenaders is the feature vaudeville at the Royal tonight. This act is direct from the Keith circuit, and the Royal management is lucky to secure their services, which was made possible by the act jumping from Detroit to Buffalo, they deciding to play Peterboro to break the jump.

TO REBUILD THE RINK.

KINGSTON, March 13—(Special)—Although no official announcement has been made as yet, it was learned this morning that the Athletic Board of Control of Queen's University will build a new skating and hockey arena to replace the Jock Harty Arena, destroyed by fire two weeks ago, and that tenders will be called for at once. It will be built on the property next to the George Richardson stadium, where the college football games are played, and it is understood there will be artificial ice. The new rink will have the same ice surface as the old, but the seating capacity will not be as large.

FRANCE GETTING BUSY WITH A SHOW OF FORCE

LONDON, March 13. — (United Press).—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphs a report that the French Minister of Marine is considering the necessity of concentrating all available French naval units in the Mediterranean.

The report follows the opening of manoeuvres in the Mediterranean by the combined Atlantic and Mediterranean squadrons of the British Navy. It is significant that London despatches have recently reported that England might make her Mediterranean squadron her strongest sea unit.

The British manoeuvres have aroused critical comment in both France and Italy, where certain elements have seen the manoeuvres as a British gesture of naval strength.

Canadian Stock Exchange and Mines | New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

TO-DAY'S QUOTATIONS AND OPINION AND REVIEWS OF THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 13.—(United Press).—Stocks were stimulated in the early dealings by a further rebound in francs, which sold at 4.46½ cents, a recovery of a cent from last week's low, responding to the announcement of a $100,000,000 credit arranged by the Morgan Syndicate for the Bank of France.

Fractional gains were scored by Studebaker, Baldwin, Steel and American Can., while General Electric spurted two points to 214.

Trading in the carrier list was practically suspended in the first hour, pending the outcome of the Southern Railway directors' dividend action to-day, but the industrials displayed marked strength on light dealings.

High-priced issues were inspired by General Electric's example, Fisher Body reaching a new 1924 high at 14, and Dupont a new high on the move at 133. The buying of Dupont followed an accumulation of General Motors for the account of the Morgan interests.

From a business standpoint news could hardly be better. Steel shipments are running close to a high record. Copper consumption is almost up to the high reached during the war, and new high records are being made in automobile production, while the building trade report increasingly heavy operations.

Inventories of the many large industrial corporations are at a low ebb, in many cases being well below normal for this time of the year, and there is an entire absence of inflation.

DUBLIN, March 13. — (United News).—President Cosgrave has announced that a cabinet committee will begin an immediate inquiry into the revolution in the army which led to outbreaks of the mutiny in the various camps.

It is authoratively stated that owing to the fact that the rival factions exist in the army, drastic changes are contemplated in certain high commands. The situation was quiet throughout the country on Wednesday.

THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS MEETING OPENED QUIET

TORONTO, March 13.—(Canadian Press). — While opening the meeting of the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature was not productive of anything of a startling nature, the members of the Legislature who are supporters of the Government are united in opinion this morning that much essential ground work was covered. The evidence of Deputy Provincial Treasurer Mathews relative to the insurance of treasury bills by the Department and the activities of Douglas K. Ridout and Thomas M. Roadhouse in this connection is, it is claimed by those interested, the disclosures pending.

THE GREGORY REPORTS WILL BE TABLED TO-DAY

TORONTO, March 13. Canadian Press. — The long awaited report of the Gregory Investigation Commission, that since April, 1923, has been engaged in the probing of Hydro-Electric Commission, and the development in the province will be tabled in the Legislature this afternoon. Premier Ferguson will file with the Clerk of the House a "dummy" copy of the report owing to the fact that the voluminous nature of the actual findings of the commission would necessitate the use of a motor truck to bring them into the chamber.

AN EMPLOYMENT LEADER THREATENED THE MAYOR

WINDSOR, March 13.—(Canadian Press).—Resenting being threatened and cursed by the leader of an employment delegation Mayor Frank Mitchell forcibly ejected a man from his office yesterday afternoon. With fist pushed into his face and backed by unparliamentary language, the Mayor was requested to reconsider the decision to close the Howard Avenue Mission Church, which has been used as a barracks to shelter the unemployed. In less time than it takes to tell the Mayor had thrown the man into the corridor as far as the door of the city engineer's office.

MACDONALD ANXIOUS TO MAKE ENGLAND PROSPER.

LONDON, March 13.—(Canadian Press Cable).—"I suppose British Empire was one of fabrics which in some people's opinion would be first to fall asunder on the advent of the Labor Government," declared Premier Ramsay MacDonald at an annual meeting of the Empire Parliamentary Association. "The real fact is," he continued, "we are anxious to make this country so big and influential in the best sense of terms that Great Britain will feel proud of being associated with us." Premier MacDonald urged that only by constant personal contact could the various government of the Empire maintain harmony.

HYDRO AND BECK VINDICATED BY GREGORY REPORT SAYS PREMIER IN SUMMARY OF TWO BULKY VOLUMES

Commission Appointed By the Drury Government Finds Excess Cost of Eleven Millions In Chippawa Development Due to Rush Schedule Resulting From Inadequate Construction Plant at the Outset—No Dishonesty Nor Glaring Inefficiency In Administration of Hydro Affairs—Suggests "Unscrambling" of Central Ontario System.

INQUIRY COST HALF MILLION.

TORONTO, March 14.—(Canadian Press). — Government and U.F.O. leaders in the Legislature agreed Thursday afternoon that the report of the Gregory Commission's investigation of Hydro matters vindicated public ownership of Ontario's electrical development. The Premier took over an hour to give a comprehensive summary of the report which was tabled in several huge volumes. He commented on some portions of it and told the House that the investigating commission had cost the Province over half a million dollars. In the latter part of his address he maintained that the commission had been appointed by the Drury Government to injure public ownership, but that it had been vindicated "even at the hands of its enemies."

Hon. Manning Doherty claimed that the commission had been appointed in the first place to save public ownership from its enemies, and that it had.

"The death knell of public ownership would have been wrung if this commission had not been appointed" said Mr. Doherty. "This report is a safeguard for public ownership in this province for all time."

Chippawa Excess Cost

The most critical feature of the report on Hydro matters is the declaration that the Chippawa development cost eleven millions more than it should have. The rush schedule for completion of the work is blamed by the commission for the excess cost of eleven millions. The report finds no dishonesty nor no glaring inefficiency. It says the Chippawa is a monument to the engineers and praises most of those who had to do with its construction.

The report says that in some matters wastefulness, extravagances and mismanagement were shown but these were to be expected on such a huge undertaking. The remainder of the charges inquired into were found to be 'ghost stories' and proved to be baseless. The commission found that the Ontario Electric Power Commission was justified in constructing the development itself rather than letting the work by contract. The work itself is described as a "magnificent piece of engineering" and an "asset of inestimable value to Ontario."

The commission finds that the construction should have been carried on by a separate construction department, directly responsible to the commission and not under the engineers of the commission. The report says the early estimates of the cost were not well founded. The 1919 estimate of $27,000,000 was exceeded by $37,000,000. The excess was caused according to report by the following items: changes of design, $7,196 wage increase and inefficiency, $13,000,000, higher price of materials, $3,700,000 ;higher price of equipment $2,500,000; higher price of plant, $3,700,000,000; overhead $5,580,000 strikes, fires, higher cost of right of way and other items, $4,078,000. The unjustifiable increase of $11,000,000 was charged directly to rush schedule.

Plant Was Inadequate

"The primary charge of the excess cost was the failure of the commission to get more construction plant on the work after it knew that the shovels were giving only about one third of the work anticipated in the estimates. Having allowed the construction procedure to lag until late in 1920 we believe the commission had no alternative course if the plant was to be put in operation by the end of 1921 but to rush the work at the abnormal course it did. Had advice been taken earlier it would have been foreseen that the construction plant would have to be increased The commission waited too long with the result that the costs were pyramided to a very great extent and the rush schedule would not have been necessary had the construction work been under a proper management. The commission should have engaged a manager of construction of high qualifications and wide experience who under the commission would have organized a construction department subject to the commission. Such a manager would have had more equipment on the job in the earlier years of construction thus obviating the tremendous rush in the latter part of the construction period."

Information Withheld

Regarding relations between the power commission and the government the report states: "When the first construction estimates were submitted and throughout the whole period of the construction information as to the cost of the work which should have been laid before the government, was withheld and there was a notable lack of frankness on the part of the commission. This led to misunderstanding and mistrust which ought never to have existed." The report states the cost of the full development of 550,000 horse power will be $82,483,914. The cost per horse power will be $12.55 which is $1.80 more than it would have been if the $11,000,000 had been saved.

The report says that the power commission overspent the appropriations made by the Legislature and diverted funds which it had not authority to use for the purpose and that many steps were taken not recorded in the minutes of the commission.

Can Reform Methods

Among other findings of the commission are: that the principle of public ownership of water powers and development by the people is fundamentally sound; that the engineering departments serving efficiently that the methods of accounting are adequate; that the things to which we take exception are nearly all matters of administration and that methods can be reformed and wrong methods righted; that the power commission has frequently exceeded its legal powers; that the government should have fuller information; regarding the operations of the power commission;that the power commission made a mistake in entering the radial railway field; that the central Ontario system should be unscrambled; that the powers of the government to guarantee bonds of the power commission are too wide; that there should be regular conferences between the commision and the municipalities that the members of the power commission should be highly qualified men; that the value to Ontario of the power developments under the control and management of the power commission is inestimable.

Financial Summary

The inquiry commission submitted a table in which it gives the assets of the Ontario Hydro Electric system at $162,152,470 made up of capital assets as follows: plant buildings and equipment $148,942,289; mortgage on Walkerton quarry, $260,000; sinking funds deposited $1,484,663 and current and working assets making up the remainder of the total. The liabilities are principal

"Beck Has Rendered A Notable Service"

Speaking of Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission the report says: "The chairman of the commission has been regarded as in effect as the commission itself and his forceful personality played a great part in settling or unsettling the relations between the government and the commission; he was arbitrary and inconsiderate and allowed nothing to stand in his way. These circumstances should not blind any one to the fact that he has rendered great and notable service to Ontario. When there was unceasing and persistent obstruction from powerful interest his fighting qualities stood him in good stead and helped him to overcome all opposition. From the beginning he has kept the commission free from the paralyzing influences of officialdom."

REICHSTAG ENDS FOR ELECTIONS

First Dissolution Since Germany Became a Republic Was Tranquil — Communists Faced Jail.

BERLIN, March 14.— For the fifth time in Germany's history, and the first since the nation became a republic, the Reichstag was dissolved Thursday, as calmly and quietly as it came into existence nearly four years ago.

Chancelor Marx read the decree of President Ebert, which brought an end to the life of the German Parliament.

There was only a ripple of excitement, on the side of the Left, where sat seventeen Communist members, several of whom realized that perhaps they would spend the night in jail. They are accused of various political offences, and detectives have been shadowing them since dissolution became imminent weeks ago. Up to the present they have been immune from arrest because afforded protection by law as long as they were active Reichstag deputies.

Under the provisions of the constitution, Chancellor Marx's cabinet continues to function, as do also the Foreign Relations committee, the Reichstag Supervising committee, and other necessary government commissions, until after the general elections. These must be held within sixty days, when the new Reichstag will assemble an delect a new government.

BRITAIN'S LARGEST SHIP TAKEN IN QUEBEC DOCK

LONDON, March 14.—(Canadian Press).—Replying to a question asked in the House of Commons yesterday, Charles Ammon, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, said Great Britain's latest large warship could be docked in two existing docks in British territory outside the United Kingdom, namely, Quebec and St. John, N.B. Two other suitable docks, he said, were being constructed, one at Esquimalt, B.C., and the other at Durban, South Africa. Mr. Ammon added that the former German floating dock which had been allocated to Malta, when lengthened, would be capable of accommodating the largest of Britain's fighting ships.

WOULD IMPROVE "PUBS."

LONDON, March 13.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The house of lords to-day gave second reading by a vote of 66 to 22 to the bill designed to improve the amenities of public houses. The bill provides that public houses complying with certain conditions shall enjoy special privileges and exemptions.

The Earl of De La Warr, speaking for the government said the government considered the bill totally unadequate and unworkable and could not support it.

League Council Silent on Point of Recourse to Arms

International Jurists Uphold In Report the Authority of the League to Use Its Machinery For Peaceful Settlement of Disputes — Italian Occupation of Corfu Illustrated Question Not Categorically Answered.

GENEVA, March 14.—The authority of the League of Nations to bring its machinery to bear for the peaceful settlement of international disputes was upheld Thursday in a report of the special committee of international jurists which was accepted by the Council of the League.

But the particular question whether resorting to force as a means of obtaining satisfaction violates the covenant of the League of Nations was not categorically answered by the jurists. Because of this the delegates of Uruguay and Sweden expressed dissatisfaction. This question, like four others submitted to the jurists, was the outgrowth of the Italian occupation of the Island of Corfu during the conflict between Italy and Greece, and the subsequent crisis in the League, when the Italians questioned the competency of the Council of the League to intervene under the terms of the covenant.

Signor Salandra, Italy, made today what practically was a plea that the report of the jurists be not changed. He declared there were important political reasons why the answers of the jurists should be accepted as reported.

The general opinion was expressed last night in Geneva that a categorical affirmative answer that coercive measures which are not intended as acts of war are inconsistent with the covenant would have so wounded Italian pride that it might have caused Italy to leave the League of Nations. The jurists, however, unequalifiedly decided that the Council of the League has the right to decide immediately whether coercive measures should be maintained or withdrawn.

On all other questions the jurists decisively upheld the prestige of the League; and even Signor Guani, Uruguay, who disliked the views of the jurists on the question of the use of force, expressed the opinion that, as a whole, they presented interpretations of the covenant which would permit the Council in the future to settle all differences between members of the League, thus guaranteeing world peace.

LIBERAL THREATENS TO BOLT PARTY IF TARIFF ON IMPLEMENTS IS CUT

W. G. Raymond, of Brantford, Third Supporter of the Government to Declare Opposition to Tariff Changes — Recalls Premier King's Election Pledge That No Legitimate Industry Would Suffer — W. G. Good (Progressive) Presents Reductionist Case.

RURAL CONDITIONS BAD.

OTTAWA, March 14.—(Canadian Press).—W. G. Raymond, Liberal member for Brantford, in the House Thursday declared himself firmly opposed to any reduction in the tariff on agricultural implements. The present duty had reached an irreducible minimum and—Mr. Raymond added—"I wish to say, and I hope I make it plain enough, that no personal or party reasons will cause me to swerve from that determination."

Mr. Raymond is the third Liberal who, during the debate on the Address, has expressed his opposition to rumored tariff changes. He described Brantford as the home of agricultural implement manufactures in Canada, and emphasized that hints in the Speech from the Throne had had the effect of paralyzing business, discouraging capital and throwing many places into a turmoil of apprehensions as to what might come down in the Budget.

Will Blame Pilot.

He pictured the government as a ship of state sailing between the Scylla of high protection on the one hand and the Charybdis of free trade on the other. It seemed to him that the pilot was taking his ship too near Charybdis, the 'ree trade whirlpool; and here Mr. Raymond offered these words of warning: "It is the pilot I am going to blame, and I say that if the government have on board a false or a wrong pilot, if they are taking advice from a man who really does not know the coast they are on, they they had better drop him and get rid of them, and strike for the open water if they want to be safe."

W. C. Good, Progressive, of Brant, followed. His constituency adjoins that of Mr. Raymond. He stressed the difficulties of the farmer, remarking that he himself had a farm which he could not let, although with in 2½ miles of the "home market" of Brantford.

Brantford agricultural implements were sold throughout the world, commented Mr. Good, yet evidently there was fear of competition at home. At the same time Mr. Good took the ground that there should not be discrimination against any particular industry or locality.

Brantford's Protests.

Mr. Raymond plunged without preliminaries into the discussion of the tariff on agricultural implements.

When the reference to this matter appeared in the speech from the throne, the city council, the chamber of commerce, and the trades and labor councils of Brantford had passed resolutions expressing the hope that no further reduction would be made in these duties. The Governor-General had been entertained in "the humble home" of one of the ploughmakers of Brantford, and Mr. Raymond felt sure that he would not desire to return that courtesy in a manner to injure that city. The premier had pledged himself to the people of Brantford during the election that no legitimate industry should suffer. (Conservative cheers.)

He would not condemn the prime minister unheard, but the people of Brantford would not forget his promise.

"He will," came from the Conservative benches.

Mr. Raymond went on to say that he would not take it for granted that the government would introduce legislation that would endanger the prosperity of Brantford.

Nautical Metaphor.

Mr. Raymond compared the government to a ship of state navigating between the Scylla of high protection and the Charybdis of free trade, and expressed the view that the ship was going a little too near to Charybdis. If the pilot of the ship did not know the coast on which he was navigating it would be better to remove him and get a pilot who would steer away from the whirlpool of Charybdis into the open water. He added that he made this remark in a spirit of the utmost friendliness. If however the leading ship in a convoy got into a whirlpool, he did not know that it was necessary for every little ship in the convoy to follow her to destruction. (Laughter.)

He was bound to his constituency by ties of grateful affection which would make him feel that he had been guilty of an indescribable wrong if he did not exercise care for the interests of Brantford.

Fielding's Declaration.

Regarding the question of a general reduction in duties, he had not forgotten Mr. Fielding's declaration in last session on tariff stability. It was well known that tariff stability would be more satisfactory to the business interests of this country. It was well known that the slight reference in the speech from the throne had already had the effect of paralyzing business, discouraging capital and throwing many other places into turmoil besides Brantford, in fear as to what might come from the tariff.

Why had this reference been put in the speech from the throne? He did not know. It had been stated

SERVANTS TAKE HOTEL IN HAND WAGES STOPPED

Popular Winter Resort In Charge of Unpaid Employees--Domestics Live In Clover After Receiver Appointed—Lessee Demanded Guarantee.

STAFF COMFORTABLE.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The under-pastry cook toyed with a lapel on his dinner jacket, touched a match to his perfecto, pushed his chair back a little and turned to the scullery maid's helper:

"You're looking lovely tonight, my dear."

The scullery maid's helper flashed her lily white teeth in a smile and blushed appropriately. It was her first appearance at a big social function. She leaned a little toward the under pastry cook:

"You mustn't say such things to me, Wilfred."

Superbly Appointed.

The gardener and his wife, at the other end of the superbly appointed table, strewn with rose petals, smiled paternally. The second chef coughed and rose from the table:

"Really a nice dinner. In fact, I could almost say I couldn't do any better myself."

As the dinner party left the table and entered the main ballroom they were met by a formidable array of dignitaries, their stiff white shirt fronts gleaming in the light. They were all there—chefs, second chefs, third chefs, cooks, assorted, bellboys, chambermaids, manicurists, barbers—everyone of any importance.

All of which is to say that the magnificent million dollar Carasaljo Hotel at Lakehurst, N.J., has been taken over entirely by the servants, pending the receipt of their salaries. The hotel closed on Monday.

Accomodated 1,500.

The hotel, one of the most expensive in the popular Winter resort, ordinarily accommodates 1,600 guests. Just at present it is accommodating about 100 servants, but guests none the less.

They have the run of the entire place. Meals are served in their rooms, the ballrooms are at their disposal, smoking rooms, lounging rooms, billiard rooms, are theirs—until they get their money.

The head chef said yesterday:

"If we don't get paid we stay. Oui! But it is vaire, vaire comfortable here. We like it voire much. The bills, they are charged to the hotel. The rules of the house, there are none. C'est tres agreeable."

State troopers sent down to prevent possible vandalism by the servants found there was no idea of such a thing.

The Reason.

It all came about because:

Albert Glass was the last lessee of the hotel. Running decidedly short of money he filed a petition in bankruptcy in the Federal Court in Newark last month. Albert G. Gallagher was appointed receiver. Glass offered to continue the wages of the help if Gallagher could guarantee that he would be repaid. This the receiver could not do.

The wages stopped. And so did the servants. They cannot be put out, and no one knows when their wages are forthcoming.

The Government has ordered the portraits of King George and Queen Elizabeth of Greece removed from all the public offices.

COURT REVISITS DELORME HOUSE

For Purpose of Elucidating to Jury Evidence Bearing on Premise — Crown Completes Case--Priest In Tears.

MONTREAL, March 14.—(Canadian Press).—Spectators in court at the Delorme murder trial here Thursday afternoon were completely deceived when they believed that the hearing was over for the day when formal adjournment was made. Ten minutes later a string of taxi-cabs transported Mr. Justic Martineau, the jury, Abbe Delorme and his guards, counsel for both sides, court officials and newspapermen to the former Delorme home at 190 St. Hubert street. The object of the move was to make clear to the jury all evidence given in regard to the house and garage at St. Hubert street. There was nothing of the crowds and disturbance noticeable at the first visit to the premises made on the first week of the trial.

Accused in Tears.

The other feature of the afternoon hearing was the emotion of Father Delorme who during the present trial has maintained an almost stocial demeanor. While his own disposition given before Coroner McMahon in February, 1922, was being read and when that passage was reached in which he told how detectives had informed him of Raoul Delorme being found murdered near Snowdon Junction, he suddenly gave vent to his feelings. His chin quivered, a few sobs could not be repressed and the tears rolled down his checks. A little later he dried his eyes and glasses with a black-bordered handkerchief.

The evidence for the Crown is now completed and the defence was ready to commence its case this morning. Alban Germain,K.C.,counsel for the defence stated that there are not many witnesses and that in all probability all the evidence will be in by Saturday.

Deposition Admitted.

In allowing the deposition of Father Delorme made before the Coroner's Court to be read to the jury, Mr. Justice Martineau said: "I regret to have to differ from the judgment of Chief Justice Sir Francois Lemieux (who presided at the Delorme trial last summer), but in my humble opinion this evidence is quite legal and admissible.

The last witness for the Crown was Edmond McMahon, police reporter of a local paper who produced a newspaper clipping of his paper of January 17, 1922, entitled "Father Delorme Talks of Rumors in Murder Case." The article had been read over sentence by sentence to Father Delorme after publication and the witness stated the priest had told him its contents were correct in every sense. In the article the Abbe was quoted as saying that he had got his revolver from his (the Abbe's) father.

THE WEATHER.

Last night was quite sharp, the thermometer going down to within 5 degrees of zero. The snow is gradually disappearing in the city, but there has been little thawing as yet in the country. Farther south, at Cobourg, and along the lake front, the snow has almost entirely gone. Another ten days ought to make a decided change here.—W.P.

RADIO EFFORT LAST EVENING PROVED A DUD

Fans on This Side of the Atlantic Listened in Vain--Marconi Speech Cabled.

SILENT CO-OPERATION

NEW YORK, March 14. (United Press.)— Britain and America are but step-brothers, as far as radio relations go, judging from the disappointing results accompanying the ambitious linking of nine English radio stations, which simultaneously broadcasted music and a talk by Marconi, to the four winds last night

Radio fans throughout America waited in vain for the strains of the American popular songs played by the Orphean band at the Savoy Hotel in London. Richmond Temple, the American representative of the International experiment, built a grand stand around his receiving set in the Ambassador Hotel here, and waited in anticipation.

The instrument did not even sizzle for his guests. Temple was finally compelled to send for a cable of Marconi's address to furnish consolatory entertainment for the assemblage.

In spite of the "silent co-operation" of the American stations, only a few persons in New York reported receiving the programme anyway clearly.

WGY Station at Schnectady, during the latter part of the broadcast, attempted to pick up the British music and re-broadcast it, but the atmosphere was a failure.

WJZ, operated by the Radio Corporation of America, reported at 10.45 that it had heard nothing of the London concert although the operators had listened from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. the hours designated.

The British radio interests had planned to circle the world, setting up receiving stations in Australia, and other parts of the Far East. By the use of telephone wires every broadcasting station in Great Britain was linked together in a super-system of 12 kilowatts.

MILLION DOLLARS IS ORDUNA'S BOND

Royal Mail Steamer Will Sail on Regular Trip Tomorrow.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(Canadian Press).—Attorneys for the Royal Mail Steam Packet Line yesterday afternoon furnished a $1,000,000 bond for the Orduna, and the ship will sail on its regular voyage to Southampton, Cherbourg and Hamburg on Saturday. The bond was fixed by Judge A. N. Hand in the District Court.

Under the law the vessel could have been held in bond of twice its value. The Orduna, when new, was valued at $3,000,000. Its present value is estimated at $1,500,000. United States Attorney Hayword, however, consented to the $1,000,000 figure as reasonable.

ESCAPED.

Proudly the national prohibition officers announce that in 1923 they arrested 64,523 people charged with violating the liquor laws.

How many violators escaped arrest? They certainly number into the millions. A national referendum is the only way to learn whether the prohibition amendment is government by majority or by minority.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION IS BECOMING PROBLEM IN TOWN OF HASTINGS

Teachers Carry On Under Difficulties -- A Meeting Was Held Last Evening in the Town Hall.

DR. W. J. KARR SPOKE

(By a Staff Reporter)

HASTINGS, March 14.—In this village the school question has become acute. The building in which the members of the rising generation receive instruction is out of date and overcrowded. The playground does not comply with the regulations. There are only two teachers and the average attendance is over 100. It should, however be said at the out set that the two teachers who carry on under such handicaps have always managed to keep the school at the head of the best of the schools of the county and to pass as many candidates at the yearly entrance examination as any of them. T. W. Chaplin the principal, who is a Campbellford boy holds the position of President of the Teachers' Association.

Hastings' school board realize that something must be done. There are three ways out of the difficulty. The village must erect a new building, one that will measure up to the requirements of the Department. A consolidated school may be established by taking in four of the adjoining rural sections.

The need of an institution for the teaching of pupils who have passed the entrance examination is realized. At present 12 pupils from Hastings go by train to the Campbellford High School which they do not reach until 10 a.m. arriving home at 7.30 in the evening. Ten go by stage every day to Norwood, a ride of six miles. There are at least 35 pupils in the village and in the district which would be included in a consolidatel school who are obliged to go to the neighboring towns referred to for their secondary education.

The law says that no municipality with a population if less than 1000 can have a high school. Hastings could circumvent this difficulty by forming a high school district; taking in enough of the surrounding country to bring the population up to the number required. It is, however a consolidated school for which the village seems to be most in favor, the four rural school sections to be included being the Dutch Line and Fleming schools in Percy township and the Fyfe and Thistlewaite schools in Asphodel.

Meeting Last Night

A public meeting was held in the town hall last night to discuss the question of a consolidated school, the chief speaker being Dr. W. J. Karr, wh, is chief organizer of rural schools for Ontario. C. R. Fowlds chairman of the Hastings school board presided and on calling the meeting to order he said, he regretted the fact that more ratepayers from the country had not turned out.

There were among the audience persons who had never heard an address on consolidated schools and others who have been listening to them for the past 10 years. The latter will agree that the case was never presented more clearly than by Dr. Karr last night. He wrote his figures on the blackboard so that either to read or understand it was not even necessary to be able to run.

No Coercion.

Dr. Karr said it was not his purpose to urge the adoption of a consolidated school, and the Minister of Education is of the same mind. To set up such a school is entirely a voluntary matter on the part of those interested. Personally, however, he is in favour of such schools. For one thing consolidation equalizes the educational advantages, giving the boys and girls in the country the same chance as those in the towns and cities. The former can obtain a high school education without the necessity of leaving home.

Hastings, he said, needs a new school and must put up a more adequate building ,whether consolidation is adopted or not, but if it is the village will get a better school.

Estimated Cost.

The total equalized assessment of the four rural sections which it is proposed to include in the consolidation is $484,000; while the equalized assessment of Hastings is $115,000. The village, however, has more than half the entire number of pupils. A five room building is needed, four rooms for Public school and one for continuation classes.

The estimated cost of such a building is $30,000. The Department will pay 40 per cent. or $12,000 of this cost, leaving a balance of $18,000 for the ratepayers to make up. Thirty year debentures at six per cent. would mean a yearly charge of $1,306.

As Hastings has more than half the pupils, a special agreement would have to be made with regard to the division of the cost and Dr. Karr figured on the assumption that the village would pay half the expenditure on the building.

This would mean a debenture charge of $653 a year, or an addition to the tax rate of six mills. For the ratepayer in the rural sections the increase in the rate would be one and three-quarters mills.

The Maintenance.

If a principal were paid $1500 and each of four assistants $1000 a year, the government would make a grant of $1360 for salaries. An additional grant of $100 on the salary of each teacher in a consolidated school is also allowed by the Department.

Four vehicles at an additional cost of $3.50 a day each for 200 days of the year would be sufficient to transport to and from the school all the pupils who resided at a greater distance than one mile. Of the $2800 required yearly for transportation the government grant would be $1050.

The county councils of Peterboro and Northumberland would be required to make a minimum grant of $450 to a consolidated school. The grant now made to the four sections interested, $2200, in all, would still be available.

This would make a net yearly outlay of $3000 for maintenance. Of this Hastings would pay $1500, and the four rural sections the balance. Hastings' tax rate for school purposes would be 19 mills and that of the rural sections 5 3-4 mills. The school rate in Hastings at present is 13 mills.

If it is decided to put in an assembly hall, a piano, or lantern for the showing of moving pictures, the government will pay for these up to a total of $1000. Special grants are made, too, for technical and agricultural departments.

"Perhaps," said the speaker," with a consolidated school you would have a greater expense but this would be outweighed by the advantages. You would have a graded school and more regular attendance. In the rural schools of Ontario the average attendance is 60 per cent, while in the consolidated schools it is 90 per cent. You would have a high school which your children could attend without leaving home. Whenever consolidated schools have been established at least 75 per cent. of the ratepayers and 90 per cent of the pupils are satisfied."

The Discussion.

In reply to a question from Reeve Fowlds, Dr. Karr explained the steps necessary to secure a consolidated school. Meetings should be held in each section interested to discuss the question, and when it is thoroughly understood another meeting could be held and a vote taken. There are at present 30 consolidated schools in Ontario. The grants to a consolidated school are more liberal than to the continuation. When a section becomes part of a consolidated school the assets of that section are disposed of and the proceeds applied to the reduction of the debenture rate.

Rev. Father Bretherton challenged the claim of the speaker that the rural schools were inferior to those in the village, asserting that the entrance examination results proved the contrary. In the country the teachers do not have as large classes and have more opportunity to give their pupils individual attention. Father Bretherton said that as a supporter of the separate school in the village, he had nothing to say; his children were attending the rural schools. He is in favor of consolidation, but believes that the people in the country would vote it down. The transportation problem will be hard to overcome, as the roads in the district at certain seasons are almost impassable.

There were a number of ladies in the audience, and several of these asked a number of questions. Mrs. Walter M. Fowlds, a former teacher, spoke on behalf of the rural schools. Good as they are to-day, they would be vastly better under consolidation. Mrs. Fowlds suggested vigorous measures. In one room in the Hastings school there are 66 pupils, and she would like to see a fine of $100 a day imposed on the School Board until they remedied these conditions. No teacher can do justice to the pupils when the class is so large, and she would like to see some of the fathers try it.

Reeve Fowlds said that 30 or 40 pupils from this district are attending High School in Norwood and Campbellford, and that they are kept out late.

Chairman Fowlds, speaking on the transportation problem, said that this winter the pupils going to Norwood were unable to make the trip only three days, and that the road between the two towns is one of the worst winter highways in the district.

Those in the audience who were opposed to consolidation made much of the difficulties of transportation, but they were answered by the statement that the rural mail carriers, driving over the same roads, seldom missed a trip.

Meetings will be held in the four school sections interested to get the sentiments of the ratepayers, after which it is proposed to hold a general meeting of all the boards to draw up an agreement which can be submitted to a vote.

The members of the Hastings School Board who face this problem are: Charles R. Fowlds (chairman), Harold B. Wilson (secretary), H. Dodd, J. Stewart and W. A. Baker.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH WAS JURY'S REPLY

Death of Four Railwaymen Investigated at Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, March 14. — (Canadain Press.)—A verdict of accidental death, due largely to extraordinary conditions of the weather, was returned at 12.30 this morning by a jury investigating the deaths of four railway men in the Canadian National Railways train wreck at Mallorytown, near here, February 27th.

'I didn't get any signals,' was the statement of Albert Boyce, engineer on train number twenty that collided with freight train number 490, to Dr. E. S. Bissell, of Mallorytown, shortly before he had been released from the engine and who later succumbed to his injuries. This was brought out in the evidence at the inquest.

GIFT OF SILVER FROM NEIGHBORS

Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Dawson Presented With Cabinet of Old Colony Silver By Bailieboro Friends.

BAILIEBORO, March 12. — On Tuesday evening a very large crowd of the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Dawson, met at their home for the purpose of presenting them with a cabinet of Old Colony silverware, containing over 50 pieces.

At nine o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson were called into the parlor, and Mr. Fred Waterman read the address, while Messrs. Reg. Perrin, Ross Moncrief, and William Bradshaw, brought a table into the room bearing the silverware, and presented the gifts.

Mr. Dawson then spoke briefly, thanking his friends for the gifts, and stating how lonely he would feel leaving his many friends.

After the crowd sang "For he's a Jolly Good fellow, Mr. Waterman gave a brief address, followed by short addresses by William Bradshaw and Reeve Anderson.

After the presentation the remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards, and dancing. Messrs Stewart, Moncrief, and Wood supplied the music with violin, piano and traps.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

Mr. Dawson and family are moving to Peterboro directly, while Mr. Anderson is moving to the farm that Mr. Dawson is leaving.

Personal Mention.

The dance held in the town hall here on Friday evening, under the auspices of the boys of Bailieboro, was one of the most successful dances of the season, Stewart's orchestra supplied the music for dancing.

Mr. Hary Porter is spending a few weeks vacation with his parents here.

Mr. Ronald Isbister returned to Detroit on Sunday after spending a week the guest of his parents.

The young people of Fraserville Methodist church intend putting on a play in their church on Monday evening next.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

CAMPBELLFORD, March 4.—J. S. Battisby conducted a successful auction sale for George J. Gillespie, near Indian River, on Wednesday, when before-the-war prices were realized for the stock. The cattle offered for sale were grade Holsteins. Dairy cows brought as high as $110 each, 2-year-olds were sold for $108, and yearlings for $70. This is a marked advance over the prices of recent years and is taken as an indication of a boom in the dairy business. There was a large crowd at the sale, including a number from Peterboro, and bidding was brisk.

Victim of Coal Gas.

The family of Councillor W. J. Abernethy had a narrow escape from asphyzation by coal gas from a stove a door in which had accidentally been left open. All of the five memmbers of the household weer sufferers from the fumes but Mrs. Abernethy was in the most serious condition of any of them. She is able to be around again and all the others have fully recovered.

CANADIAN CONSTITUTION WAS SAVED BY PAGE BOY

OTTAWA, March 14.—(Canadian Press.)— Canadian constitution was saved by a page boy in the House of Commons last evening. When the debate on the address came to an end with unexpected suddenness, the presiding officer waited to be preceded by the sergeant-at-arms or his deputy, bearing the mace. He looked in vain for the bearer of the symbol of authority. There was an awful pause, and then a 15 year old page boy stepped into the breach. The House was convulsed by the humor of the situation ,and even Deputy Speaker Gordon could scarcely repress a smile as the heroic page boy marched out of the chamber, mace on his shoulder and a broad grin on his face.

Require School Tax of Railway

TORONNTO, March 13.—In sending back the report of the private bills committee the Legislature yesterday afternoon did a very unusual thing. The committee in its report approved of a bill confirming an agreement between the city of Ottawa and the Ottawa Street Railway Company in which the latter in getting a thirty year extension on its franchise is exempted from school taxation.

"The government cannot accept such a bill from the committee," said the Premier. "For years we have gone on the principle that there can be no exemption from school taxation. I believe that by this exemption the schools of Ottawa lose about $70,000 a year. I therefore move that this bill be sent back to the committee with the instructions to strike out the clause exempting the street railway company from school taxation."

The motion carried without opposition.

BALFOUR URGED SINGAPORE BASE

Rejection of Naval Project Would Be Disastrous, He Said — Protection For Australia and New Zealand.

LONDON, March 13.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — In the House of Lords to-day Lord Balfour asked for information with regard to the Singapore naval base scheme and he moved for the production of papers relating to the matter. He contended that if the government decided against the project it would be a disastrous mistake which would have an echo throughout the empire and the consequences could scarcely be contemplated.

Lord Balfour stressed the reliance of Australia and New Zealand on Great Britain's preparedness to exert every ounce of strength to protect them, and he spoke of the uselessness of the fleet in certain untoward contingencies, however improbable these might be, without an adequate base. He declared that he could not imagine any worse economy than one that rendered the fleet inefficacious in the greatest oceans of the world and in connecting with the existence of the most important parts of the empire.

Lord Balfour emphasized the defensive nature of the scheme, which was a safeguard in titme of peace. He termed it a fantastic notion that a base 3,000 miles from Yokohama could be a menace to their Japanese friends.

Viscount Chelmsford, first lord of the Admiralty, announced that the government hoped to make a statement as to its policy with regard to the Singapore naval base on Tuesday next.

TEWFIK PASHA, MINISTER, HAS BEEN ASSASSINATED

LONDON, March 14.— (United Press.)—Tewfik Pasha, Minister of the Interior of Mesopotamia, has been assassinated, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Constantinople, quoting a message from Angora.

RODNEY'S PENSION MAY BE PAID SOON

LONDON, March 14.—(Canadian Prtss).—The British Treasury's proposal to pay Lord Rodney a lump sum of £42,000, and thus end the perpetual pension of £2,000 a year, which has been running since the first Lord Rodney was voted the pension by Parliament in 1782 for his great services as an Admiral, was the subject of enquiries in the House of Commons yesterday. Somebody wanted to know whether the Treasury was making as good a bargain in Lord Rodney's case as was made in cases of a similar nature in the past.

Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, replied: "Yes, with the exception of a single case in 1801."

The questioner demanded that the House should be given an opportunity of debating the matter.

To this the Chancellor agreed, "provided the members are clever enough to find the opportunity."

In the present congested state of affairs this is taken to mean that nothing more may be said on the matter.

RATHER OLD-FASHIONED.

He was in the office the other day; just happened to be in the city to do some business. Some buying had to be done in connection with his business, so he was attending to it, says the London Advertiser.

He learned his trade, an old-fashioned thing, no doubt, but he learned it well. It took a few years to become a first-class mechanic, but he did it.

Then he went to work, not in a very big shop, but a very good little shop where every bit of work was well done. It was in the mechanical line, where they did all classes of things and repaired cars. It was known that a car repaired there would be well looked after because the men knew their business.

That was six or seven years ago. The young man stayed right there, and saved money, not a great deal at a time but some all the time. His chance came when the proprietor decided to retire from the business. The young mechanic, and he is just 34 now, had enough to make a payment down, and the bank in the town had sufficient confidence to see him through. Today it is his business, because he had sense enough to learn a good trade well, pick out a place and stay there.

And yet the average young man today thinks it's rather old-fashioned to learn a trade.

HAVE HAD THEIR SHARE.

Alfred Speakman, Progressive member for Red Deer, declared in the House of Commons the other day in reference to protection for industries that if a farmer had been bonused for 15, 20 or 40 years and at the end of that time could not make farming pay, it was time he left the farm.

Mr. Speakman chooses to ignore the fact that no industry in this country has received so much assistance from Governments, both Federal and Provincial, as has agriculture.

No other industry has been so fostered or encouraged.

Millions of dollars have been expended upon the developing of agriculture, in the maintenance of experimental farms, in the education of farmers in better methods, in providing a corps of experts for the guidance of those engaged in farming.

Every Government at Ottawa has been generous in its treatment of agriculture, and if Canadian farmers have failed to make their occupation profitable the fault cannot be charged to neglect or niggardly treatment on the part of the Federal administration, while Provincial Legislatures have been equally as generous in their attitude towards farmers.

These facts apparently were forgotten by the member for Red Deer in his indictment of the manufacturers.

NEXT WEEK'S EXHIBIT.

Through the enterprise of the local Social Hygiene Council, of which Dr. N. H. Sutton is President, Peterborough citizens are to have an opportunity next week of seeing an unusual kind of health exhibit, prepared through the co-operation of the Federal and Provincial Departments of Health.

The exhibit should be visited by every adult in Peterborough, not in the hope of being entertained, but in order that benefit may be obtained from the very clear warnings and convincing demonstrations it contains.

By means of posters, wax models, lantern slides, remarkable films, literature and lectures, the demonstration will emphasize the menace of disease and the penalties of ignorance or vice, and will offer knowledge of the right way to live, of the part recreation plays in building character and health, of the value of supervised playgrounds for the children of all communities, of the urgency of an active participation by the church in spreading the gospel of social hygiene and of the intelligent handling of sex problems in every home.

The exhibit when shown in Toronto was attended by nearly 18,000 people, and the attendance at Ottawa was proportionately large.

Public health has ceased to be merely the concern of the doctors, nurses and health officials.

It is of vital interest to every citizen and parent, and for that reason the Social Hygiene exhibit should be visited by large numbers of citizens at the Public Library next week.

Attendance cannot fail to be of definite educative value in solving private and public health problems.

WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITIES.

The Border Cities Star calls attention to a young man in Windsor who formerly had a longing for a white collar job but who is now learning to lay bricks in a builders' school, and besides working all day with trovel and mortar is studying construction costs and learning how to estimate.

This youth is on the right path, and his example is commended to Peterborough boys who are endeavouring to decide upon their life occupation.

There is going to be a lot of building in the next few years, and, as the Star puts it, there will be a demand for all-round mechanics, and the boys who know how to do some of the planning in the building business and can hustle their share of bricks into place as well are going to be particularly valuable.

As a matter of fact, brick-laying is getting to be a lost art in Peterborough.

It has been years, the Examiner is informed, since there has been a youngster who served his time in the trade here.

In several other trades there is the same situation, and meanwhile boys are training for white collar positions, only to find the field crowded and the remuneration none too lavish when they finally strike out into the world.

Wonderful opportunities are being neglected when the building trades are ignored by youngsters seeking a life vocation.

THE NATIONAL RAILWAY.

Sir Henry Thornton made it clear to the Canadian Club of Montreal in his interesting address yesterday that he is not the kind of pessimist who of two evils chooses both. He spoke in a most optimistic vein of the future of the country upon whose progress and development depends the prosperity of the property he ably and efficiently manages. As the exponent of the operating end of the National Railway his scope was circumscribed, since the equally important phase of policy belongs to the politicians, and upon this latter aspect Sir Henry is compelled to silence save in general terms. That is, perhaps, a regrettable limitation, since it is easy to conceive of economies possible under a management free from the trammels inevitably associated with public ownership, but Sir Henry is enforced to be dumb upon matters of policy. He has made substantial headway towards daylight by co-ordinating separate disjointed lines, paring down expenses, and infusing a fine spirit of loyalty in his army of employees. He rests his claim for patronage upon service, a fair position to which no exception can be taken, and if the service be not efficient the fault will not be his.

The C.N.R. produced an operating surplus of upwards of twenty million dollars last year, and Sir Henry holds the hope that the surplus will reach thirty millions this year. He promises, too, a considerable reduction in capital outlay. The prospect of betterment, of darkening the shade of Canada's white elephant, can, however, only be realized if the railway is permitted to maintain rates according to cost of service. There are demands from many quarters for reduced rates, from the Maritime Provinces, from the Prairie Provinces, and from British Columbia, and the constant danger is that political pressure may become strong enough to compel compliance with these demands. But, if so, we fear the pleasant picture Sir Henry paints will no longer be presentable. He, of course, can continue efficient operation of a losing proposition, if his sense of propriety and self-respect does not intervene, but the growing hope of the Canadian people of a not remote end of railway deficits will then be crushed. Sir Henry has made good. He has shown what administrative ability can do in the way of giving satisfactory service under fair competition, and if the politicians will permit him to operate the railway at reasonable rates he will produce a still better balance sheet than that of 1923. Will they do so?—Montreal Star.

THE OIL SCANDAL.

It has become dangerous in Washington for an official to say "Good Morning" to a man who is known to be acquainted with another man who has had dealings with an oil magnate. It is no longer remotely necessary to prove corruption. It is not even necessary to establish the payment of oil-stained money for legitimate services. It is only necessary to show that civilities have passed between a man in responsible position or aspiring to responsible position and some one in the periphery of the oil scandal.

There is no charge of corruption against McAdoo. He is simply a member of a law firm which was employed by Doheny to assist operations in Mexico. But this will likely prove quite sufficient to eliminate him from the race for the Democratic nomination. He took "oil money" and that kills him as a candidate. Especially does it kill him as the leader of a campaign against too close relations with "oil."

Even the name of President Coolidge has been brought into the mess. It was at first sought to drag him in because he was invited to attend the meetings of the Harding Cabinet which transferred the control of the naval oil reserves from the impotent hands of Secretary of the Navy Denby to the suspected hands of Secretary of the Interior Fall. But this rope broke. It was too tenuous. He quite possibly knew nothing about the transfer, and quite certainly did not suspect its significance. The next fling of the lariat was because his private secretary, Mr. Slemp, had been a guest of Publisher McLean at Palm Beach at the same time that ex-Secretary Fall was there. But this got nowhere. Not even Slemp was implicated.

Now, however, Senator Walsh has thought it worth while to read into the record two telegrams—one about the commission that governs the city of Washington and the other purely social—which he sent to Publisher McLean after Mr. McLean had admitted that he "lied like a gentleman" to protect his friend, Fall. There is absolutely nothing "oily" about them. They are just what they seem. They are especially innocuous when it is remembered that Mr. McLean is not charged with any connection with the oil scandals. He is an exceedingly rich young man, who has no need to dabble in oil. But he has been a personal friend of Fall, as he was a close associate of Harding and his official family. He seems simply to have been drawn into the lime-light by his good-hearted interest in unworthy people. So a telegram on quite another subject to him from the President does not seem to spatter the White House very badly with oil.

The tremendous turmoil over the oil revelations remind us how free our American neighbors have been from serious scandal in their Federal affairs. One must think back a long way to remember another "scandal" campaign. No one—least of all the leaders of American opinion—will minimize the seriousness of the Teapot Dome and kindred exposures. That a man with so little appreciation of his responsibilities as ex-Secretary Fall should attain to such high position is a shocking thing, but it is perhaps equally shocking that gambling in oil should pay such shocking profits as to warrant the lavish outlays, legitimate and otherwise, which have been revealed. There is surely here public wealth that ought never to be allowed to fall into the hands of the individual.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Don't forget the tag day on behalf of St. Vincent's Orphanage tomorrow. It is a most worthy cause and should be strongly supported.

One thing that already has been made clear in the bond inquiry in the Legislature is the folly of issuing tax-free bonds.

Whether the oratory of Canada is getting better or getting worse is beside the point. What Canada needs is less of it, says the Ottawa Journal.

With the O.T.A. plebescite bill through its second reading all Mr. Ferguson has to do now is to gauge public opinion.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 13.—Very small market today, and anything with quality quickly absorbed at steady prices. A few stale left over common cattle were hard to clear out at easy prices.

Export business is quiet over the week end, but the outlook is good for an active export demand next week. There will be three boats available, two of these scheduled to sail from Halifax.

The near approach of the Jewish Easter has brought the usual stimulus to the cow trade, choice fat cows being in demand for the Kosher meat trade. One special fat cow, over 1,800 pounds, was sold by the U.F.O. at $7.00 and a couple more at $6.00. The general run of fat butcher cows, choice, steady from $4.50 to $5.00.

A few spring lambs are coming in, selling at $14.00 to $15.00 each.

Export cattle are quoted steady at around $7.50 to $7.75 for heavy steers, and store slightly firmer at $7 to $7.50.

Choice butcher, steady to strong at $6.60 to $7.50, and a few extra choice at $7.25. Baby beeves steady, $8 to $8.50. Medium butcher, $5.75 to $6.25. Common $4.25 to $4.75.

Good fat butchers cows, steady from $4.50 to $5.

Bulls steady, $4.25 to $4.75.

Calves steady, at $9 to $19.

Lambs steady, 13c to 14c.

Hogs steady, $7.50 f.o.b.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 13.—(Canadian Press).—Wheat today fell to the lowest prices since August last, but rallied somewhat when word came that two million bushels of Canadian wheat had been bought for shipment to Europe. Abandonment of belief in a shortage of domestic supplies east of the Rockies was a leading bearish factor. Wheat closed unsettled 1-2 to 7-8c net lower; May $1.06 and July $1.06 5-8. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8c off; oats varying from 3-8c decline to 1-4c advance, and provisions 2c to 20c down.

DOMINION NAVAL ASSISTANCE IS BRITAIN'S WISH

Policy of Encouraging Co-operation By Dominions Is Endorsed By MacDonald Government — Motherland Bearing the Heavy Burden of Protection.

FUELLING DEPOTS.

LONDON, March 14 (Canadian Press). — Great Britain's policy of encouraging the Dominion navies, and of carrying out worldwide fuelling plans, despite the uncertainty of the Singapore base project, the increase of the naval personnel, and the construction of five cruisers and two destroyers, as had been previously announced, are points in the 1924-1925 naval estimates, presented to Parliament yesterday, which have attracted the most attention.

The estimates provide for an expenditure of £55,800,000, a reduction of £2,200,000 as compared with the estimates for 1923-1924.

In all points the estimates conform to the Washington Treaty is being explained that the capital ships to be scrapped under the treaty terms are in the hands of the ship-breakers, with the exception of one, which is not fit for further war service and will be used for experiments before final destruction.

Although no explanation is forthcoming regarding which British destroyers are to be replaced by the two new ones provided for in the estimates, it is realised that such ships are continually wearing out, and an announcement is expected soon as to what active ships are to be scrapped.

Singapore Not Mentioned.

As for the Singapore base, which is an all important issue in navy circles, large estimates for its construction are not mentioned, but funds for fuelling purposes will continue to be available, while there is believed to be a possibility of a supplementary estimate for the whole project if the Labour Government does not announce its abandonment.

Dominion naval co-operation is not a new policy, but the Admidalty's hearty endorsement of the principle if looked upon as another intimation to the overseas Empire units that the British Isles is bearing a very heavy burden in the protection of communications and trade routes throughout the world.

Mediterranean Fleet.

For the first time the Admiralty announces the complete strength of the Mediterranean Fleet, which, it says, will be gradually brought to eight battleships, two light cruiser squadrons, four destroyers, flotillas two depot ships, two aircraft carriers, one repair ship, one submarine flotilla, and one submarine depot ship. The Atlantic Fleet will be similarly reduced.

Mention of two "patrol submarines" introduces a new term in naval phraseology. The use for which the ships are intended is not given.

Another item is the transfer of the East Indies Squadron from Bombay to Trincomali, Ceylon, which is nearer the direct route to Australia, and, not under the Indian Government's administration.

The Admiralty statement, dealing with Dominion co-operation, says:

Naval defence of the Empire must depend ultimately on the active support of public opinion throughout the Empire and the only system of naval defence which can meet with general approval is one in which each Dominion possesses naval forces of its own. The Admiralty heartily endorse this principle, and will do all in their power to assist the development of sea-going Dominion navies."

FRANC SHORTS RUSH TO COVER

Speculators Caught By Recovery Boost Price With Buying Orders — Morgan Firm Is Praised

NEW YORK, March 14.—Speculators in French francs, trapped by the unexpectedly large credit placed at the disposal of the Bank of France by United States banks through J. P. Morgan and Company, rushed to protect themselves yesterday, boosting the rate more than 30 points to above 4 1- 2cetns, more than a cent over the recent record low level established last Saturday. Opening with an overnight gain of 15 points, the price of a franc rose swiftly to 4.46, around which level it hovered until late in the day, when it was pushed as high as 4.55 cents.

The spectacular recovery in the French currency was accelerated by apparently authentic reports that the $100,000,000 loan to the Bank of France would bring acceptance by obth France and Germany of the Dawes Commission's report.

All danger of a panic, it was considered, had been averted and the battle of France to protect its currency definitely won with the aid of what was described as bankers, "almost unlimited" banking credit here.

Hundreds of congratulatory messages poured into the Morgan firm to-day, praising the loan as a measure of first importance and one likely to bring about economic stability in Europe. While only a few large banks had been invited to participate in the credit, scores of applications were received from bankers in all sections for a share in the loan.

One of the greatest benefits likely to accrue to France from the loan, it was suggested by international bankers, will be to place French finance and business squarely behind the government in its effort to balance the budget and enact tax reforms. French business interests, it was pointed out, would be reluctant to see gold leave the country, which would automatically hurt their potential credit.

LIBERAL THREATENS

that there were political reasons why this particular industry should be sacrificed for the good of a certain section of the country. He would call attention to the utterances of the Progressive leader that the basis of national unity was equal justice (Progressive cheers.) Those who were cheering must mean that they would never destroy one industry to benefit another. (Conservative cheers and counter Progressive cheers.)

Doubts Free Traders.

Mr. Raymond doubted if the farmer party really believed in free trade as a principle. Its leader had said elsewhere that the basis of national unity was equal justic for all. Did he believe in one part of the country being free trade while the rest was under bonds of protection? Did the Progressives want the duty removed from implements, while they forbade the workers of the country from eating oleomargarine? Their campaign against oleomargarine they had justified by declaring their love for the cow in fervent terms which would do justice to a devout Hindu in his worship of Buddha.

Resist Further Cut.

Mr. Raymond asked if the Progressives supported free trade for all or merely in implements. He thought they probably paid out more in the long run in taxes on tobacco than on implements. At all events equal justice for all could not be reconciled to the strangling of one industry for the benefit of another. Implement makers in Canada were working at a loss and any further reduction in the duty would mean the extinction of the industry.

Mr. Raymond believed there were other members of the House who thought as he did about it, adding "we shall resist any further cut to the extent of our power."

This constant cry for tariff reduction in order that the farmer might improve his condition had its basis in a false point of view. Over in the United States there were 600,000 deserted farms, but no one would suggest that this was due to the tariff.

Must be Compromise.

The question was one of treating industries fairly. Equal justice for all should be the end to be reached. It would not be equal justice to destroy one industry so that another might be benefitted. Over in the United States, the Civil War had been fought in order to decide whether or not a number of states within the Union had a right to determine their own course and follow it no matter whether the Union ceased to exist or not. In Canada to-day we are confronted with a problem of economic self-determination. If the Confederation was to be saved there must be give and take; there must be compromise between the opposing sections. Parties must put national unity above selfish interests.

Progressives' Arguments.

W. C. Good (Progressive, Brant), said that Mr. Raymond had informed the House that the agricultural implements made in Brantford were sold throughout the world. Yet these were the machines which were evidently afraid of competition in the home market. The previous speaker had made a plea for national unity and compromise between the various sections of the country. But he had also stated that he stood four square for the interests of Brantford. How could these statements be reconcicled?

Progressives had been frequently charged with being sectional. He could not see how any charge of that kind could be laid at their doors, which could not more properly be laid at the door of Mr. Raymond. (Progressive cheers.)

Agricultural Decline.

Dealing with the local situation around Brantford, Mr. Good said he had never known agricultural conditions to be as bad in that county as they had been in the last few years. Eight hundred acres of land had gone out of cultivation in that district last year, and a good deal of it was still out of cultivation. This spring he had had part of his own farm thrown back on his hands, and for three months he had not been able to get anybody to take it over. Yet this land was well supplied with buildings, and was within 2½ miles, on the concrete highway, of this well known home market of Brantford. The condition of affairs was extraordinary. Perhaps the tariff had not much to do with it. Nevertheless this condition existed in close proximity to the much praised home market.

Reduction on Necessaries.

However, continued Mr. Good, he was prepared to endorse what Mr. Raymond had said in regard to discrimination against any particular industry or locality. In any readjustment of duty it would be wise to mitigate the sharpness of the blow. He believed that he spoke for those in his own group when he said that what they wanted was a general reduction on the necessaries of life. (Progressive cheers.)

"How far should it go?" asked Herbert Marler (Liberal, Montreal.)

Mr. Good replied that what the Progressives wanted was a general reduction, not speci ' privileges nor a sop to the farmers. As to how far the general reduction should go he was not prepared to say.

DAWES' REPORT NEARLY READY

Experts Are Determined to Keep Details Secret, Giving First Glance to Reparations Commission —Text Before Committee

PARIS, March 14.—The experts who on behalf of the Reparations Commission have been investigating Germany's economic and financial situation, have got far enough along with the draft of thier report to the Commission to discuss it in full committee. The text of the report as it now stands was to be brought up to-day at a full session of the members of the two committee of experts.

Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, head of the first committee, is understood to have written an accompanying letter for the report which will set forth the main principles of the experts' findings.

Some of the annexes to the report also are nearly ready to be turned over to the printer. The statute regarding the proposed German gold bank of issues, which is the most important feature of the report, is practically complete, the last obstacle, dealing with the objection of the Germans to shipping their gold reserves out of the country, having been overcome.

The experts yesterday appeared to be more determined than ever to keep the details of the report secret, desiring to give the Reparation Commission the first glance at them.

YOU CANNOT JUDGE BY APPEARANCE.

It is impossible to tell the quality of tea by the appearance of the leaf. A rough, coarse, unevenly rolled tea may taste much better in the cup than a closely rolled, well tipped tea that LOOKS much finer. The only way to be sure of getting tea of reliable quality is to buy a tea like "SALADA," whose goodness and purity are guaranteed.

HYDRO AND BECK

The Premier referred to what he termed the omnibus clause of the instructions issued to the commission which gave the freedom to investigate any hydro matter. "My ingenious little friend the former Attorney General (Mr. Raney) put that in the instructions as a real carpet sweeper while the original thought was that only the Chippawa was to be investigated. The late government handed to this commission the formation of their policy on public ownership. They put it in the hands of its enemies so they could dictate what was to be done. This government amended those instructions and will accept no recommendations nor are any offered from the commission as to the policy to be adopted.

Mr. Doherty—Don't play politics with the report now than.

Mr. Raney—He can't help it.

Hydro Defeated Drury

The Premier retaliated that the attitude of the late government towards Hydro was responsible for their defeat. He said that Premier Drury was not a public ownership man and that Hon. D. Carmichael representative of the Drury government on the Hydro commission had shirked his duty on that commission to save his government.

Mr. Carmichael declared this was untrue and that he had frequently defended the commission in the House.

The Premier stated that Sir Adam Beck had been so successful that now even his enemies had to vindicate him and he though the report the greatest tribute ever paid to a public man in this country. The report was further a condemnation of the Drury government.

Doherty's Defense

Mr. Doherty said the report was a matter of congratulation to Sir Adam Beck and to his engineers. It was also a compliment to the late government in choosing the commission it had. He defended the commission against the charge that they were not public ownership men stating that there were many men of large personal investments who gave good service to this country. It was a report of men who had done their duty and the most authentic report on hydro electric matters ever printed in the English language. He said that there were engineers willing to pay up to $2,000 for a copy of the report.
